Local Resident Sentenced For Two Rape Cases

An Oakland area resident was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court recently to six years for two charges of second-degree rape involving minors. Nicholas Richard Kerr's sentences will run concurrently.

Judge Jim Sherbin also recommended that Kerr, 18, be evaluated for placement and treatment at the Patuxent Institution. He will be a registered child sex offender upon his release.

He pleaded guilty in the two cases in June, and the judge ordered that a presentence investigation report be completed prior to sentencing.

In October, officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation responded to a complaint that Kerr had sexual relations with a 13-year-old. During the investigation, information was also obtained about a prior incident involving a 12-year-old during the spring of 2004.

After the victims and witnesses gave statements, Kerr was charged, and he admitted to the two events. The victims reported that Kerr had threatened them with harm if they told, according to the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court news, Andrew James Oliver, 21, Norwich, N.Y., was sentenced to three years in the Division of Corrections for possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

The sentence was suspended, except for six months, which he will serve in the Garrett County Jail. A fine of $1,000 was also imposed, as well as a fine of $500 for possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Oliver was arrested by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force last August after his motor home was stopped for a traffic violation along I-68. After a drug-detection dog gave a positive alert for the presence of CDS, the motor home was searched and more than four pounds

ON EVERY HOME, A LITTLE RAIN MUST FALL – A very welcome rain came to the mountaintop this morning, after weeks and weeks of dry days. The weather has been spectacular of late, but the water table is suffering. So the windy storm that passed by today was a happy event for most. To be truthful, this spider web is actually covered in dew, not rain, showing that the little creatures of the world do have ways of capturing water even when it doesn't fall from the sky. The relatively small storm system is to move out by this evening, and the area is expected to have a return of days bright and clear, and nights of autumn chill. Photo by John McEwen.

Trucker Killed As Runaway Rig Hits Backbone Mountain

A Texas tractor-trailer driver was killed Friday evening when he rode his out-of-control rig into the base of Backbone Mountain just across the Potomac River from Bloomington. Maryland State Police troopers investigating the 7:07 p.m. accident indicated the truck may have been overloaded, in which case it should not have been using Md. Rt. 135 as a travel route.

Charles Onnomoi Kizitos, 31, of Richardson, Texas, who was working as an operator for Swift Transportation, was killed upon impact. He was hauling a load of wood pallets bound for a Home Depot location.

Eyewitnesses who had earlier seen the tractor-trailer east of Bloomington reportedly told investigators that the rig was traveling at a high rate of speed even before it began its descent down the mountain. Tfc. Steve LeMay said that he could not be certain that the brakes on the 2005 Kenworth tractor, which was pulling a Wabash trailer, had failed, evidently catching fire from Kizitos's efforts to slow down while descending the steep grade.

Swanton residents Pat and Ron Bowers were traveling east on Rt. 135 at the time of the mishap. "My husband noticed the truck first as we were making the turn to cross the river," recalled Mrs. Bowers, who was driving at the time. "He saw the truck at the next bridge up from the river crossing, as it was coming downhill across the bridge over the railroad tracks.

"He said to me, 'There's a runaway truck coming, keep going, keep going,'"

SHA Officials To Gather Input On Consolidated Transportation Plan

Maryland Department of Transportation and State Highway Administration officials will meet with local elected representatives as they conduct their annual "Tour" meeting starting at 10 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 7. The session, which is open to the public, will take place in the county courthouse in the meeting room of the Garrett County commissioners.

The yearly meetings feature a presentation by the state leaders that outlines the DOT's draft of its six-year Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP), which outlines the agency's capital expenditures for Fiscal Years 2006 through 2012. In January 2006 the final CTP report will be submitted to the Maryland General Assembly for its consideration.

Copies of the draft CTP plan will be distributed to all those in attendance at the meeting, and citizens' comments will be welcomed at the meeting, which will focus on road construction and improvement projects currently under way or proposed for Garrett County. Public input will be considered for incorporation into the final CTP report.

Garrett County officials have compiled a list of their own priorities that they will pitch at the meeting. These are:

•Continue working with SHA to finalize design and engineering of the Oakland bypass, and eventually undertake construction of the proposed roadway.

•Encourage continued progress on the U.S. 219 North project for the North/South Appalachian Corridor, including selection of an alignment for the project.

•Continue evaluating the existing U.S. Rt. 219 Corridor, and continue to emphasize planning for improvements to the existing corridor throughout the entire county – including the Accident bypass.

•Confirm that the U.S. Rt. 219 bridge over the Youghiogheny River south of Red House is still scheduled for replacement and realignment in Fiscal Year 2008.

•Procure a status update on the project to install a sidewalk between Southern High School and the town of Mtn. Lake Park.

•Request improvements to intersection of Md. Rt. 495 and New Germany Road in the form of a perpendicular intersection.

•Request a traffic warning device at the intersection of Md. Rt. 495 and Spring Lick Road, where sight distance is a concern.

Written Comment Period Extended Through Oct. 13

More than 100 residents of Garrett County and points well beyond were on hand for a 3-hour public comment meeting hosted by the Maryland Public Service Commission (PSC) at Southern High School last Thursday evening, Sept. 22. The session was designed to garner public input on an application to the PSC by Annapolis-based Synergics Energy Services to place 17 wind turbines, each reaching a total height of over 400 feet, atop Backbone Mountain at its proposed Roth Rock Wind Facility.

The meeting was opened by Judge David L. Moore, an administrative judge and PSC hearing examiner for over 20 years, who told the assembly that input from the session would be added to the official record and taken into consideration as he made his recommendation to the five-member PSC board of commissioners, which has final say on whether or not to grant Synergics' application.

Moore also stated that the public comment period, initially slated to close with the meeting, has been extended through Thursday, Oct. 13, for persons who wish to mail their comments to the PSC (contact information appears at the end of this article). Although Moore did not spell out the specifics behind the extension decision beyond saying that "incomplete information published in the local paper" necessitated the extension, the following day PSC spokesperson Beverly Gill said that such extensions are not unusual, and that "the applicant is responsible for submitting the public notices of upcoming hearings." In this case, Gill said the notice authored by Synergics incorrectly stated that "the state has completed its review" of the company's application.

A series of evidentiary meetings featuring expert testimony the same day, and earlier in the week in Oakland and downstate, brought the evidence-gathering phase of the PSC's examination process to a close. Both sides – Synergics and those trying to stop the project – will have one more opportunity to make their points when they submit summary briefs on Wednesday, Nov. 2, and rebutt each others' briefs the following Wednesday, Nov. 9. The case file on Synergics' application will close that day, and the PSC's decision could come shortly thereafter.

Thirty-six citizens went to the podium at Southern High Thursday to publicly share their views with Judge Moore. The overwhelming majority (32) said they were opposed to the Synergics proposal, and two of those speakers read letters authored by persons unable to attend the meeting – also in opposition.

Two pieces of information shared during the hearing by citizen commenters underscored the controversies surrounding the overall issue, as two studies have been undertaken at the federal level to examine the issues generated by wind farms.

Washington, D.C., resident Robin Shane, who said she owns a Kempton area farm that belonged to her granparents, noted that her employer, the National Academy of Sciences, had – at the behest of the U.S. Congress – just convened a 14-member panel of experts to conduct a scientific study of the effects of wind power facilities on the environment. This study will use information gleaned from an examination of wind plants currently standing or proposed for the mid-Atlantic region. The pre-publication report of the committee is due out in December of next year, according to Shane, who asked that the PSC deny Synergics' current application until that report is finalized. The current status of the report is available on the Internet at www.nationalacademies.org. Visitors to the site will need to click on "Current Projects," and enter "wind" in the search box.

Similarly, Gaithersburg resident and project opponent Elizabeth Olingsky noted that the U.S. Government Accounting Office released a report the previous week that asks for more federal oversight in the regulation of wind plants. The GAO study postulates that local officials don't have the expertise to evaluate the potential conse-quenses that could result from the placement of a large-turbine wind facility in their jurisdictions. That re-port is available at www. gao.gov/cgi-bin/getrpt?GAO-05-906.

Many of the other speakers who expressed their opposition to the Synergics' proposal identified their affiliation with (or admiration for) the Friends of Backbone Mountain. Jon Boone, that group's leader, did not speak at the evening session, as he has been delivering his own testimony to the PSC on a regular basis as a registered intervener attempting to derail the pro-

Commissioners Receive Exhibit Hall Progress Report From Architects

Despite the unpredictability of the price of construction materials and their availability, architects working on the Garrett County exhibit hall recommended this week that the commissioners proceed with the project. The facility is slated to be built off Rt. 219, south of Deep Creek Lake in Thayerville.

Peter Folen, manager of architecture for the Eads Group, and Tom Columbus, assistant manager of architecture, gave county officials a progress report on the project on Tuesday.

The architects showed preliminary designs for a 43,653-square-foot hall with amenities, based, in part, on suggestions from the county and property constraints. For the hall itself, their plans call for a 100-foot by 300-foot space without columns for exhibitions and trade shows.

"To put this into perspective, it's about the size of a football field," Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted about the space.

Overhead beams would be equipped to allow portable panels to be installed when needed to divide the hall into smaller sections for more intimate events such as wedding receptions.

Added along one of the longer sides and one end of the hall would be a kitchen, rest rooms, janitorial closets, storage spaces, loading dock, offices, and a canopied entrance. The other end of the hall could have a "wet area." Farm animals or boats could enter, be exhibited, and washed there, thanks to drains in the floor.

To break up the hall's boxy look on the outside and make it less industrial appearing, features such as windows with gabled roofs along the other long side and stone work would be added. Colors schemes still need to be determined. The roof would be metal, and landscaping would also be incorporated into the 600-space parking lot.

The architects also suggested that the hall be heated with a geothermal heat recovery ventilation system, which relies on the natural stable warmth stored in the earth.

"It doesn't depend on OPEC," Folen noted about the system.

In April, Columbus estimated the exhibit hall project would cost $125 per square foot. He said that at this point his best guess is it would cost about $138 per square foot, or $6.05 million. The previous estimate had to be adjusted because of the availability of and dramatic increase in the cost of materials, in particular steel and metal, and other factors.

"And now we have to rebuild Louisiana," he added, suggesting that the prices could rise even more because of the destruction left by hurricanes Katrina and Rita in the Gulf Coast states.

Because of this and increased fuel prices, manufacturers cannot give contractors firm quotes on the price of materials, the architects said. They noted, however, that they talked to contractors working on the firm's other projects on a daily basis and were constantly monitoring the cost and availability of materials.

"It's not all gloom and doom," stressed Columbus. "We might be surprised." Contractors may have products stockpiles and be eager to bid on projects during winter, their slow season, the architects indicated.

"We're recommending, regardless of what is happening or what we think will happen, to go ahead and bid [out the project]," Columbus told the commissioners.

He and Folen suggested, however, that some features could be bid-alternate items to lower the cost of the pro-

STEELERS HALL OF FAMER SPEAKS AT OUTSPOKIN' DINNER – Pittsburgh Steelers Hall of Famer Mel Blount keynoted the seventh annual OutSpokin' for Kids Dinner and Silent Auction at Frostburg State University's Lane Center recently. Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president and CEO Charlie Ross, seated above, served as master of ceremonies. Blount spoke about his own humble beginnings on a Georgia farm, noting the importance of childhood experience as a factor in the development of adult character. "You don't have to let a difficult beginning stop you," he told members of the Salem choir, who had come to perform. To the adults, on the other hand, the message was clear: These kids need everyone's help, whether through personal ministry or financial support, according to a spokesperson. OutSpokin' raises daily operating funds each year for the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, which provides home, family, and special education services to children who have been abused, neglected, and/or abandoned. This year's dinner also served to launch into the community Salem's capital campaign to build a new facility for the Salem School, which serves both Salem residents and Garrett County day students referred by the Board of Education. Capital Campaign Committee chair Gary Ruddell announced the opening of the campaign, for which funds stand currently at $1.7 million of the $2.2 million goal. Ruddell noted a series of upcoming events and appearances in support of the campaign, including a Salem natural foods booth at the Springs Folk Festival and a float in the Autumn Glory parade and at FSU's homecoming. A warehouse sale at Total Biz Fulfillment, Grantsville, on Nov. 5 from 8 a.m. to noon will benefit the new Salem School. Salem is located off Lower New Germany Road in Garrett County.

Friendsville Man Sentenced For Trespassing

A Friendsville man was sentenced to 45 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to a trespassing charge during a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding with Judge Ralph Burnett presiding.

Brandon Shane Baumgardner, 27, was arrested in July by Maryland State Police troopers after he entered a Friendsville woman's home and refused to leave. Extremely intoxicated at the time of the incident, Baumgardner passed out in the residence prior to the arrival of police.

Judge Burnett handed down a 90-day sentence, half of which was suspended, and placed Baumgardner on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of fourth-degree burglary and disturbing the peace were not prosecuted.

In other District Court news, a Pennsylvania man was handed a two-day jail term after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and driving while under the influence (DUI).

Curtis K. Efaw, 40, Amity, received a 60-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $755, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service, while two additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Efaw was the driver of a car that state troopers stopped in March on Garrett Highway near Cove Road. His DWI arrest led to a search that found drugs and paraphernalia in the vehicle. His passenger, Ronald K. Efaw, 37, Washington, Pa., was not prosecuted on charges of possession of cocaine, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia.

Oliver Creel Frum, 22, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $200, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. Frum was the driver of a vehicle stopped by state troopers in March along Friendsville Road, and the odor of burnt marijuana led to a search that uncovered the drug. His passenger, Tyler Hayes Fetty, 23, also of Morgantown, was not prosecuted on marijuana and paraphernalia possession charges.

Randy Lee Miner, 41, Accident, pleaded guilty to second-degree assault and was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $100, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. The charge stemmed from his July arrest by state troopers following an altercation he had with another Accident man.

Miner was also deemed "not guilty" of a domestic-related second-degree charge when his alleged victim refused to take the stand to testify against him. A separate July incident led to his arrest on that charge by state troopers.

Glenn Leroy Trimmer, 50, Rawlings, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was fined $200. The charge was filed by state police troopers during a traffic stop on New Germany Road, where Trimmer voluntarily handed over a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe.

Michael Wayne Wilburn Jr., 21, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to violating an ex parte order and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), along with a 30-day suspended sentence, six months of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of fourth-degree burglary was not

Motorcyclist Flown To WV After Accident

The driver of a 1999 Harley Davidson motorcycle was transported via Trooper 5 to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., following a single-vehicle crash on Broadford Road near the intersection of Maryland Highway Tuesday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Gregory Alan Dawson, 32, Oakland, was northbound on Broadford Road when he apparently lost control and struck several mailboxes. The motorcycle overturned, skidded across the road, and struck another mailbox.

Also responding to the 11:05 p.m. accident were Deer Park firefighters and Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

The accident is currently under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office accident reconstruction officer.

Swanton Couple Injured In Sky Valley Accident

A single-vehicle accident in the Sky Valley area sent a Pennsylvania couple to the hospital last Wednesday, Sept. 21, according to information furnished this week by the Maryland State Police.

Robert and Elizabeth Spinnenweber, both 82-year-old residents of Bethel Park, were traveling on Sky Valley Road near Bittinger Road when the 2:55 p.m. mishap occurred. Police said that Robert Spinnenweber pulled his vehicle over to the shoulder in an attempt to make room for a second vehicle that was passing him on a double yellow line. Spinnenweber's 2001 Oldsmobile Intrigue struck a utility pole on the side of the roadway, and he and his wife both sustained minor injuries.

The impact froze the door on the passenger side of the vehicle, and Elizabeth Spinnenweber had to be extracted by Deer Park volunteer firefighters using a Hurst tool. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded, and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the Spinnenwebers to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

State police are continuing to investigate the accident, the McHenry barrack duty sergeant reported this morning.

Man Arrested After Fleeing Accident Scene

An Oakland man who fled the scene of a single-vehicle accident last Thursday night was arrested, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Justin David Dillsworth, 18, lost control of his 1988 Ford Ranger at the intersection of Smith Drive and Broadford Road. His vehicle struck a telephone pole, which was broken in half, police said.

Dillsworth was located and charged with driving an uninsured vehicle, driving an unregistered vehicle, and fleeing the scene of a property damage accident.

Assisting on the scene were Deer Park firefighters and Southern Rescue Squad.

In a separate accident, Phyllis Raye Williams was charged with failure to yield the right of way after she pulled her vehicle into the path of another at the intersection of Weber Road and SHA Drive Monday morning, police said. The second vehicle was operated by Ronald Longacre of Oakland.

One patient was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to Garrett County Emergency Management.

W.Va. Man Faces Several Illegal Hunting Charges

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man employed as caretaker of a residence along Paradise Heights Road was charged with multiple hunting violations after a Friday morning incident near the home, according to Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP).

George Allen Van Meter, 36, was apprehended by police officers checking on a report of shots fired in the area around 8 a.m.

Officers arrived on the scene and found a recently killed eight-point buck in the wooded area near the house. Police allege that Van Meter shot the deer from a first floor window of the dwelling and then hid the rifle under a bed on the second floor. The owners of the property where not present at the time.

NRP officers seized the deer, rifle and ammunition as evidence, and charged Van Meter with hunting deer during closed season, hunting on private lands without written permission, and hunting within a safety zone. The maximum potential penalty for each offense is a $1,500 fine.

Truck Observed Weaving, Driver Charged With DUI

A Deer Park man was arrested for drunk driving after his vehicle was observed weaving and crossing the center of the roadway early this morning, according to Garrett County sheriffs deputies.

John Edward Sweitzer Jr., 35, failed field sobriety tests. He was charged with driving while impaired, driving under the influence, driving on a revoked license, and failure to drive right of center.

He is currently in the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

The traffic stop occurred on Main Street in Deer Park at 1:35 a.m.

Hope is Most Needed...

Positive change is among the results of nearly every tragedy, and this will surely be the case with the double dose of major hurricanes that recently ripped and tore through the Gulf Coast states. It is hoped that one of those changes is or will be a renewed awareness of the problem of poverty in the United States.

It was at least partially because of poverty that so many people in the affected areas were unable to flee the hurricane, and that we now have a couple hundred thousand citizens who literally have no home to go back to. For many there was no job there for them before the storms, and these folks simply do not have the personal resources needed to be able to return and rebuild. So the massive government bailout, coupled with tremendous assistance from private contributors and volunteers, was needed in order to try to help these victims.

However, the bailout should not be just the handing out of $2,000 credit cards, food, clothing, and eventually housing. Far more importantly for the long term, it should also include a full frontal attack on poverty. Handouts are often a necessary, short-term fix, but should not be the long-term approach.

While it may sound like a broken record, the two major keys to breaking free from the bonds of poverty are education and employment. Our government, at all levels, seems to be trying to provide these two most valuable tools to the masses. Just ask any school teacher about how much is being demanded of our education system these days. And, ironically, the job market is going to boom along the Gulf Coast over the next many months as cleaning up and reconstruction get under way.

But more work needs to be done inside the nation's ghettos, on a personal, one-on-one level, to help the impoverished gain the encouragement, self-esteem, and determination that are also needed to get that education and/or that job. Generation after generation of poverty within a family breeds continued poverty in the next generation. The first major step one in such a situation must take in order to break that cycle is being able to realize and experience hope. Not only is helping these people find hope the right thing to do, but also, we as a nation cannot financially afford to just allow large pockets of poverty to continue to flourish.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

My family started a petition to get a homeless shelter started in Garrett County. We believe that we need somewhere for homeless people to stay, especially in the winter. It would also be for victims who lose their homes to fire. We also believe that people need a place where they won't be questioned or turned away.

If there is anyone who is willing to help or even to sign the petition, please call 301-334-2089 and ask for Reva or Martha.

To the Editor:

The members of the Oak Hill 4-H Club would like to thank you for your newspaper's coverage of the events at the Garrett County Fair and the Maryland State Fair this year. We really appreciate the special section that you put together especially for the Garrett County Fair. We know that is was a lot of hard work and expense for your newspaper. But we really appreciate your support of the 4-H youth in our county. We think everyone enjoyed the special section, and it will be nice for the 4-H members to include in their project records.

We know that lots of people at your newspaper worked hard on this special section. We would like to thank all of them, but we would especially like to thank Lisa, Marla, and Brenda in your Grantsville office. We know that they worked very hard on covering all of the county and state fair events.

Thank you again for your support of the fair and the 4-H kids.

Sincerely,
Ashley Rodeheaver

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Del. George Edwards requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Delegate Edwards:

According to the Bay Restoration Fund (Senate Bill 320) signed by Governor Robert Ehrlich in May 2004, we as Garrett County residents were not given our constitutional right to vote on the added tax assessed on us at that time.

As we understand our Constitution, we are still a democracy and the people are to have the right to a vote before being imposed with unfair taxes by our government, such as the "flush tax!" In Garrett County only about ⅓ of the land drains into the Chesapeake Bay by way of the Potomac and Savage rivers. Are we fully responsible for the problem?

We understand that the Chesapeake Bay is a unique part of Maryland, and from what we have been told, is in need of restoration. What we do not understand, or agree with, is a yearly tax being assessed without a vote by those citizens who are being forced to pay the tax!

We would ask that at the January 2006 General Assembly a referendum be brought before our judicial system to establish a ballot (for the people, by the people) to have our constitutional right to vote. The referendum should explain clearly to all citizens why we should all be responsible for something we are not directly responsible for creating!

Sincerely,
Annabelle Perando

To the Editor:

There are two plays being staged at Our Town Theatre this week that should be seen by as many area teens as can pack into the place. Jane Avery, our local theatre gem, has written two shows geared toward teenagers that tackle some of the roughest issues kids face today.

One show, titled Bullies, delivers a head-on blow to the vast problem of bullying, exploring both those who are bullied and those who commit the abuse. Any kid who has ever been bullied, or who has been accused of it, will benefit from this show which features their own peers in the roles.

The second show, The Goodbye Kids, was written by Jane after she interviewed 27 kids who had dropped out of high school. The play is a series of monologues focused on the many and varied reasons why kids give up before graduating.

Both shows are shorter than an hour long. They are really funny in parts, and they are certainly engaging. Please send your kids. If you are a kid from middle school on up, ask your parents to take you. The shows start at 7, and you will be out the door not much later than 8. They are free.

The remaining schedule is as follows: The Goodbye Kids is scheduled for tonight, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m. Bullies will be given on Friday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m. For reservations or information, call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

It should be noted that The Goodbye Kids has some rough language, but no worse than what the kids hear all the time anyway. And yes, my own kid is one of the players. And honestly I probably wouldn't have gone to the show if he hadn't been. But now that I have seen one of the plays, I know how beneficial it would be for our local kids to come to the theatre and watch these short, funny, tragic, enlightening plays. So show up, okay?

To the Editor:

I have a problem with Bill Thomas and his letter demeaning Christians. Last week he wrote about Bush supporters being extremist who are out of it and suggested we must be "Christian Taliban" or "NRA gun huggers." To this we say, "How dare he?" It is a great insult to equate anything Christian with the Taliban or to suggest just because a person supports the president that he is a gun hugger or affiliated with any NRA-type organization. It is one thing to suggest that the president is not doing well, but to suggest that those of us who support him are like the Taliban is demeaning and completely unacceptable to all Christians.

As a staunch supporter of the president and the Republican Party, I suggest that others who support the president and the Republican Party take people like Mr. Thomas to task. He is trying to portray everything as negative, yet offers no solution except to encourage political divisiveness and insult a whole group of people who call themselves Christians. Well, Mr. Thomas, I am a Christian, a Republican, and a Bush supporter, and I support the right to own a gun. If this makes me a bad person, I suppose that you would include many of my fellow Christians as such. What would Jesus do? We do not believe that he would be humored by you calling any Christian a "Christian Taliban." After all, he is Christ. What if we said Thomas Taliban just because your beliefs differ from ours and many Republicans? So, if you want to debate the issues, do it with taste and not with cheap, CNN-type insults.

If you want to debate the issues and the president's record, do it, but actually say something and give an argument based on facts to back your suggestions. As for your cheap insults, as Christians we shall forgive and forget. But as Republicans, and not just in name only, we will continue to fight for the future of America and will do so as Republicans who believe America is a nation of hope.

Editor's note: The writer of this letter requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Maryland Public Service Commission:

I'm writing to amend comments that I made at the recent public hearing held at Southern High School.

First, I'd like to correct an error regarding the number of bats killed by wind turbines in the central Appalachians. Instead of relying on my memory I should have directly quoted text from the summer 2004 issue of Bats, published by Bat Conservation International (BCI), a non-profit organization dedicated to public education, research, and conservation. "With many thousands of new turbines being planned nationally, the risk of serious, cumulative impacts cannot be ignored. The reality was driven home late last summer when weekly surveys beneath 44 giant turbines at West Virginia's Mountaineer Project discovered an estimated 2,092 bats of seven species had been killed. However, since no surveys were conducted during the first half of the peak mortality period in August and since unknown bats were removed by scavengers between the seven-day search intervals, the total number of bat fatalities could easily approach 4,000."

Why should we be concerned about bat mortality? Bats are the most important predators of nocturnal insects, feeding on pest species that cost American farmers and foresters billions of dollars a year, and those that transmit disease to humans. At present over 50% of bat species in North America are considered endangered, threatened, or proposed for inclusion on conservation lists. Though BCI wants to work with the wind industry to find a solution, they have been refused access to local wind facilities to continue their research.

Second, I'd like to clarify my comments regarding the home-size wind energy appliances described in the August 2005 issue of National Geographic. My point is that bigger is not always better. Each and every one of us needs to take personal responsibility to conserve energy and to switch to alternative energy systems as much as possible. Instead of subsidizing big corporations to construct huge wind factories along our ridgelines, our government should be providing significant tax relief and incentives to homeowners and businesses to conserve energy and to install wind energy appliances, solar panels, and geothermal systems on both existing and new structures whenever practical.

We need to be innovative as we look for solutions to the energy crisis, but cautious that our solutions don't sacrifice our natural heritage in the process. Please deny Synergic's proposal for a wind plant on Backbone Mountain.

of marijuana was found, the state's attorney noted.

Oliver had appeared in Circuit Court in July when he entered a plea of not guilty, but proceeded on a statement of facts as to what evidence that state would produce at trial. Judge Sherbin found Oliver guilty of all charges. A presentence investigation report had been completed prior to his sentencing date.

In an unrelated case from last week, a Circuit Court jury found Donald Guy Duckworth, 58, of Swanton not guilty of theft. He had been accused of stealing a mobile home, which was valued at more than $500.

•Suggest studies of the intersection of U.S. Rt. 219 and Mayhew Inn Road, which has a high accident rate.

•Seek an upgrade to the intersection of U.S. Rt. 219 and U.S. Rt. 40, where the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park will necessitate improvements.

•Request signage for the new Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad facility along Md. Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park.

•Request signage for U.S. Rt. 219 at crosswalks located near Deep Creek Lake at Uno Restaurant and the Trading Post giving notice to motorists that traffic must yield to pedestrians.

•Evaluate the potential need for a traffic signal at the intersection of U.S. Rt. 219 and Pysell Road in McHenry.

Bowers said. "He also told me to get over to the right as far as I could. The trucker was doing a great job of keeping the truck on his side of the road — you could almost see him wrestling with the wheel.

"Smoke was rolling from the sides and underneath the truck, probably from his brakes. We knew he wasn't going to survive the impact. A Jeep following close on our tail made it through the turn just in time; I don't think another vehicle would have made it before he hit."

A NewPage paper mill employee, Christopher Paitsel of Keyser, W.Va., was the first person on the accident scene and extinguished the fire.

Bloomington and Potomac volunteer firefighters, Tri-Towns EMS, the Allegany County Hazmat Team, MSP helicopter Trooper 5, and personnel from the Highway Administration responded to the crash scene.

Kizitos may have chosen his route in order to avoid the Finzel weigh station along Interstate 68, according to Tfc. LeMay. "We don't know his ultimate destination, but there's no reason he should have been there."

Draws Crowd

ject; however, many of the speakers echoed themes he has been sounding for the past several years.

As has been done time and time again in various meetings, letters to the editor, and advertisements, those opposed to the project came at it on a variety of fronts, including potential impacts to birds and bats, the doubts some people have about the economic and electricity-generating efficacy of wind plants, perceived drops in property values, and noise issues.

The theme most commonly sounded at the meeting by project opponents involved what they view as monumental changes Synergics (and by extension, any other proposed wind facilities) would bring to the pastoral character of Backbone Mountain, Pleasant Valley, and the surrounding region's natural scenery. It was also evident that this line of reasoning is one of the most emotional arguments against the proposal, as several speakers all but choked up as they were delivering their remarks.

Katherine Dubansky, who operates an organic farm and a cross-country ski trail outfitter service in Pleasant Valley, said that her family moved to the area because of the natural setting. "My children love the woods, and we love the Amish country. My daughter cried when I told her that these huge windmills might go up on the ridge, and if we have to look up and see windmills from our home we may move."

Dubansky's threat to leave the county was seconded by several other speakers, including attorney Stephan Moylan. "I moved to Pleasant Valley for the view, which has value to me and my family, and value to anyone who would buy my home I don't plan to sell, but if windmills go up.... We certainly would not have purchased our home if there were 420-foot wind turbines above it. People move here because it's beautiful, they buy or build houses here because it's beautiful," Moylan remarked.

Retired McHenry resident George Falter, himself a transplant (as all but a handful of speakers were) took a different view. "I was initially against wind turbines in Garrett County, but the more I looked at the facts I began to change my mind," noting that he visited the Meyersdale, Pa., wind facility to make his own personal observations of the noise levels, "and was surprised how quiet they were; they made the same amount of noise as my refrigerator, although it was a different type of noise.

"The impact of wind turbines located next to the Mettiki coal mine is dubious at best, and sprawl in the form of million dollar mansions marching along the county's ridgelines is more damaging than turbines," Falter added.

Among the speakers who said they were attracted to the county in order to have second homes were Anne Arundel resident David Garcia, who owns property along Kempton Road. "I purchased a 100-acre farm here to invest in the local economy, and for its peace and quiet," Garcia said. "For over 100 years people all over the mid-Atlantic have chosen Garrett County for its natural beauty. Wind power is about tax credits, is inefficient and unreliable, will decrease property values and lessen property tax revenue, and cause irreparable damage to the environment. Its cost-benefit ratio leaves me seeing only a cost for the citizens of Garrett County, and benefits only for the wind company's shareholders."

A speaker who supported the project was Pleasant Valley farmer John Roth, who farms land along Garrett Highway near Red House while owning an additional 23 acres of unused land atop Backbone Mountain, a parcel that Synergics is considering for placement of several turbines.

"I've lived here all my life, and my family goes back a long way," Roth said. "I would like the wind turbines; they make less noise than motorcycles going up and down Rt. 219 by my house, and I think traffic on the highway kills more animals and birds than turbines would. I also don't think anyone should be telling me what I can or can't place on my property."

Eric Tribbey, a department director at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, read several letters of opposition into the record, one from land developer Troy Gnegy, who owns several tracts of land in the Pleasant Valley area.

Tribbey, who moved to Garrett County as an adult and who resides in Pleasant Valley, also stated on his own behalf, "I believe well-intentioned decisions were made without considering the ripple effect. Now we have neighbor pitted against neighbor, and I will consider suing my neighbors who disturb my life."

Dr. William Pope, who said he opposed the project on several grounds and asked that Synergics' application be denied so that additional scientific studies of potential risks (especially to the mourning warbler, which is listed on the state endangered list and is know to nest and breed on a portion of the proposed Synergics site) can be carried out.

Pope, the final speaker of the night, also touched on a highly sensitive topic raised by remarks made earlier in the evening. "This issue involves property rights, and has divided Garrett County residents," he said. "What you do impacts your neighbors. We all do appreciate the PSC serving as a referee when both sides can get carried away."

Last Thursday morning, prior to the SHS session, two DNR biologists, Dr. Gwen Brewer and Dan Feller, and a biologist contracted by DNR, Dr. Mark Southerland, delivered sworn testimony during an evidentiary hearing at the Garrett County Health Department. The three said that based on their professional opinions each opposed the Synergics' application as it currently stands, citing a need for more specific information from the wind company on the specific siting of specific turbines.

Also, when asked by Judge Moore if, based on their personal evaluation, they felt the application should be denied, each said yes, citing potential avian and plant impacts to birds, and the potential of impacts to the county's heritage.

"Our official position still is that this project needs major modifications," PPRP director Paul Dunbar said earlier this week. "We've been requesting limitations as we've been receiving information about this project, and we still believe we need a firm identification of exclusion areas for it to proceed. We've requested several more studies that are still forthcoming."

Persons who would like to add their own comments to the case file record by the Oct. 13 deadline may do so by writing to the Maryland Public Service Commission, 6 South Paul St., Baltimore, MD 21202. All correspondence must reference "PSC Case 9008/Synergics Energy."

ject and give the commissioners "flexibility" with its cost. Items such as paving and landscaping could be completed at a later date.

Director Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development, said his goal is to bid the construction phase of the project out by mid-January or February and to break ground in the spring. Folen said it would take a full year to complete the project, given its complexity.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said the commissioners and architects discussed the exhibit hall further following the progress report and decided to proceed with the project. If needed, the size of the hall will be reduced to save money. The officials opted to do this rather than cut back on some of the aesthetically pleasing aspects of the exterior. They wanted to maintain the quality of the building's appearance, Pagenhardt said.

In addition to the county, the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development and the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) have allocated funds for the project. The ARC alone has pledged $1 million.

Also in June, Wilburn was arrested by state troopers on charges of second-degree assault and carrying a gun with intent to injure. Those charges, which stemmed from a domestic altercation at the alleged victim's residence, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

His February arrest by sheriff's deputies came after a traffic stop in Oakland, when a canine alert led to the discovery of the suspected contraband.

Monique Thomas, 22, Crellin, was handed stet rulings on charges of felony theft and trespassing in a case stemming from her June arrest by sheriff's deputies for allegedly taking items from a former residence of hers. An additional charge of first-degree burglary was not prosecuted.

A charge of second-degree assault faced by Byron Ray Payne Jr., 30, Morgantown, was placed on the stet docket. The charge stemmed from a domestic altercation at his Swanton residence, where sheriff's deputies made the arrest.

In Loving Memory of Rose Wilhelm
Jan. 26, 1919 - Sept. 30, 2000
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you did not go alone.
A part of us went with you
The day God took you home.
To your grave we travel.
The flowers are place with care.
But no one knows the heartache
As we turn and leave you there.
No farewells were spoken.
No time to say goodbye.
You were gone before we knew it.
And only God knows why.

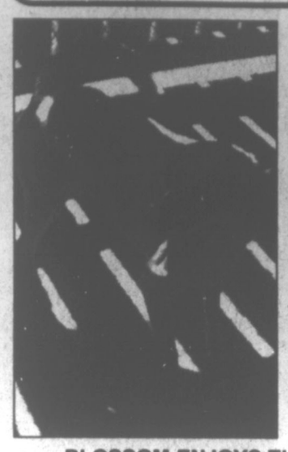
Adorable Adoptables



BLOSSOM ENJOYS THE SUNSHINE – Blossom, above left, is a 1 1/2-year-old female mix who was given up by her owner because he just couldn't care for her anymore. "She is already spayed and up to date on shots," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "She is not real big and is a real sweetheart." Also looking to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter is a "very happy" male yellow Lab mix, above right, who was picked up in Pleasant Valley as a stray, and a very vocal but friendly female grey/white tuxedo feline. Also available are a female longhaired white cat that was picked up along Glendale Road and a few kittens. The collie mix and terrier mix featured in last week's paper were adopted. But the shelter is almost full to capacity with dogs, most of them strays. "I would like to keep stressing the importance of having a dog license and ID on your dog, so they we can call you if it is brought into the shelter. And please spay or neuter your pets," said the spokesperson. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Mayberry Deputy To Perform During Oktoberfest Event

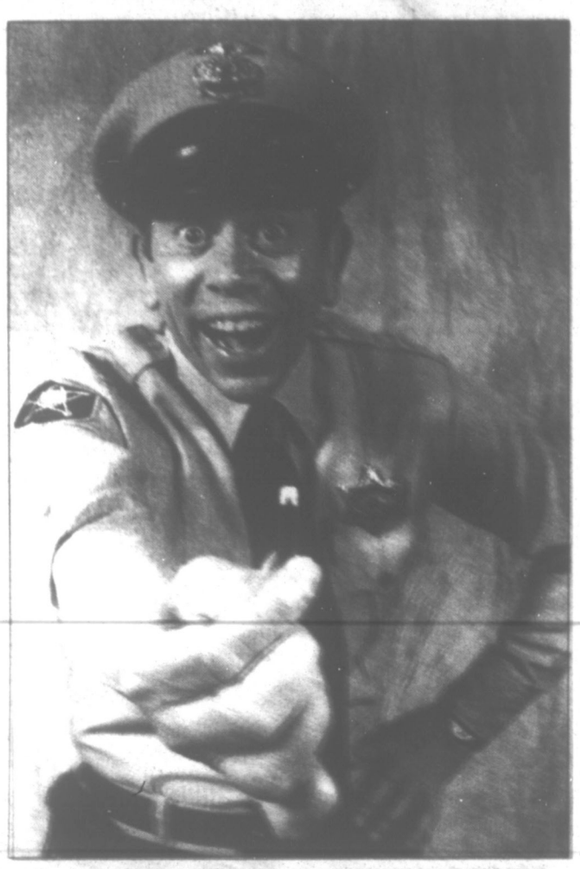
David Browning will perform during the Oktoberfest celebration on Thursday, Oct. 13, at the Oakland fire hall. He will portray the Mayberry Deputy, a role created by Emmy award winning actor Don Knotts on The Andy Griffith Show.

Browning is a full-time accomplished, improvisational actor, speaker, and host. "He uses costume, gesture, facial expression, and audience participation to provide an atmosphere of good will and clean fun," said a spokesperson. "He provides a bit of Americana which is worth preserving and celebrating."

Browning has performed more than 5,000 performances in 35 states and Canada to more than 5 million people.

His experience consists of freelance voice and acting, theatre, directing, and management and tourism development. He has directed and or performed in 150 theatrical productions.

"We live in a world where people are searching for their own Mayberry," he said. "I value this character for what it gives to people today...a laugh, a lift, and memories."



DAVID BROWNING AS MAYBERRY DEPUTY

Browning will be in the Firemen's Parade on Thursday, Oct. 13. He will also perform at the fire hall during the Oktoberfest band intermission. On Friday, he will "patrol" the streets of Oakland.

FSU Theatre To Open 05-06 Season With Annie Get Your Gun

Frostburg State University Theatre will open its 2005-2006 season with the Irving Berlin musical Annie Get Your Gun, with performances on Oct. 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. and matinees on Oct. 8 and 15 at 2 p.m.

First produced in 1946 with Ethel Merman in the title role, Annie Get Your Gun has been revived on Broadway several times.

"Although there are many reasons for the continuing popularity of this show, Irving Berlin's enduring score, which is packed with audience favorites, is the most significant," said an FSU theatre spokesperson. Songs of the show include "There's No Business Like Show Business," "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," "They Say It's Wonderful," "Anything You Can Do (I Can Do Better)," "I Got The Sun in the Morning," and "Doin' What Comes Natur'lly."

Season Discount Flex Cards are available for purchase until Oct. 15. (For $30, buyers receive four main stage tickets, which constitutes a $10 savings, the spokesperson said.) Cardholders can spread tickets throughout the main stage season, or use any number of tickets for one show.

Individual ticket prices are $5 for students and $10 for non-students. Persons may call 301-687-7462 to order season tickets.

Garrett Coll. To Present Faville's Recent Works

The Art Gallery of Garrett College will present an exhibition of recent work of regional ceramic artist Patrick Faville. The exhibit will be on display from Oct. 1 through 28, with an opening reception set for Saturday evening, Oct. 1, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is welcome.

Patrick Faville has taught ceramic art and other art courses at several colleges and universities in the region, and is currently a member of the art faculty at Allegany College of Maryland. He also runs the Continuing Education clay program at ACM. His work in the ceramic arts has been prolific with a variety of forms, both decorative and functional, and firing processes ranging from primitive pit firing, raku, oxidation, and high-fire reduction in a gas or wood kiln.

The body of recent ceramic work presented in this exhibit was begun more than a year ago in August of 2004, after taking a hiatus from ceramic work for a couple of years to write, record, and produce a few albums with his band Sadhu.

"When I look at this body of work I see a pretty shocking transformation," Faville said of his work this past year. "Back in December I lost my mother to cancer, and then I proceeded to have a heart attack. The work pre-heart attack was big, sculptural, aggressive, technically challenging, and .... I guess macho is what I'm trying to say. The work post-heart attack is quieter, more subtle, and surprisingly more functional."

"The change in his work goes beyond elements of shape and form, and also involves changes in his aesthetic direction," said Garrett College art professor Ron Skidmore about Faville.

"I've been drawn not so much to Japanese tea ceremony ware but the 16th and 17th century rural Korean pottery that influenced the Japanese tea aesthetic," Faville said. "There is a simple and quiet beauty to that work that I find mesmerizing."

His exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, one may call the Art Department at 301-387-3024.

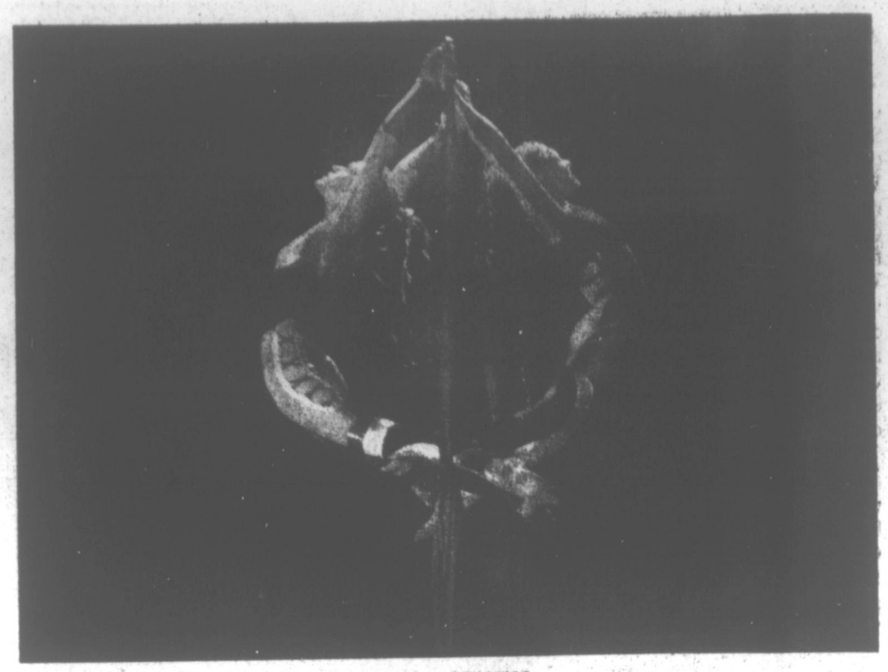
FSU To Present Circus Nexus For Family Weekend

The Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series and University Programming Council will present Circus Nexus on Saturday, Oct. 1, at 8 p.m. in the Cordts Center main area. This performance is part of FSU's Family Weekend and is sponsored in part by Century 21 Potomac West – Tom Kurek.

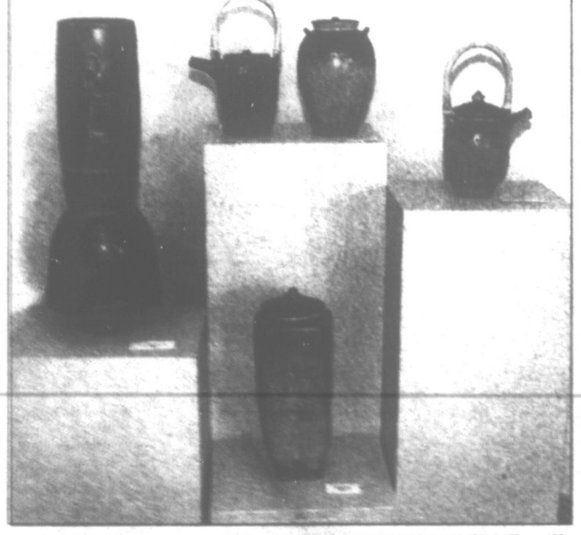
Choreographer Christopher Fleming and producer, writer, and designer Keith Arsenault have created a new circus by combining circus artists from the United States, China, Russia, and Hungary with world-class dancers and acrobats. Original choreography, design, music, and performers are integrated into a "seamless" presentation, noted an FSU spokesperson.

"Circus Nexus, not just a children's circus, presents astounding artistry, dance, comedy, music, and décor combined into a 'don't miss' event of the season," he said. "This carefully coordinated and highly physical production will amaze and charm audiences."

To purchase tickets or obtain more information, one may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.



CIRCUS NEXUS



RECENT CERAMIC WORK BY PAT FAVILLE will be on display at the Art Gallery of Garrett College from Oct. 1 through 28. An opening reception is slated for Saturday, Oct. 1, from 7 until 9 p.m. See story for details.

Simon Pearce is again providing the prize for the People's Choice Award winning quilt. Fern Wroten of Simon Pearce is pictured at right as she presents the gift to Martha McGettigan of the Heritage Quilters. The quilt, which will be on display both days, will be sold at the show. For information about entering quilts in the show, or for any other show information, persons may call 301-387-4959.

Southern Band Starts Season With Two Wins

The Southern Garrett High School Marching Band has engaged in the annual field competition season, and has participated in two shows so far. In both competitions, the band has taken first place in Group I and has won several specialty awards.

Southern's band took part in Preston County (W.Va.) High School's Music in the Mountains show last week. The group scored 69.75 to win the Group I trophy, and also brought hone the awards for Best Drum Major, Best Percussion, and Best Color Guard.

Last weekend the Southern band traveled to Northern High School in Accident for the annual Northern Garrett Band Spectacular. Nine bands competed in this show, with two in Group I (plus Northern Garrett Marching Band, which was in Group I in exhibition only, as it was the host band.)

Southern took first with a score of 74.45. Northern, in exhibition, scored 72.70, and Westmar scored a 68.90. The overall winner of the competition was the Williamsport "Blue" Band with a score of 77.20.

Specialty awards won by Southern were those for Best Drum Major, Best Percussion, and Best Color Guard.

"Our students are starting to find their stride," said Richard Clever, director of the band. "They really did a nice job last Saturday. Everyone in the unit is finding ways to contribute. Our color guard is working hard, our musicians are getting better with the music and drill with each practice and performance, expectations are high, and the work ethic is good. The staff and I are very pleased with all the members of our band."

The next competition for Southern will be the ninth annual Preview of Champions at Allegany High School, to be held in Greenway Stadium in Cumberland on Oct. 1, beginning at 4:50 p.m.

Animal Crackers Cast Announced

Our Town Theatre has announced that a cast has been chosen to perform the musical comedy Animal Crackers. The play, written by George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind, with music and lyrics by Bert Kalmar and Harry Rudy, is based on an old Marx Brothers movie.

The cast members are as follows: Captain Spaulding (Groucho), Dave Callis; Ravelli (Chico), Lynne Elmlinger; the Professor (Harpo), Andrew Hill; Jamison (Zeppo), Evan Thayer; Roscoe W. Chandler, Matt Eary; Mrs. Rittenhouse, Tiddle Wheeler; Mrs. Whitehead, Erin Peacock; Arabelle, Christie Hamilton; Grace Whitehead, Rose Jackson; John Parker, Joshua Elmlinger; Hives, Dave Wheeler; everyone else, Donna Miller.

Performance dates will be Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1, 2, 3, and 4.

"This show will sell out fast and reservations should be made early," a theatre spokesperson said.

The admission fee is $5 for the Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday performances, and $8 for Friday and Saturday shows.

This play is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French Inc. Our Town Theatre is funded in part by the Maryland Arts Council, the Garrett County Arts Council, and the Knotts Foundation.

Huskies Maul Turkeyfoot In 77-14 Runaway Victory

The Huskies hit the ground running against their Turkeyfoot visitors Friday night at Northern High School, and didn't stop until they had recorded a stunning 77-14 win for their third straight triumph in as many outings. NHS will need all the momentum it can muster, as tomorrow night the Huskies square off against the Allegany Campers, who will also bring a 3-0 mark to the NHS field.

"Everything was going our way," Husky coach Phil Carr commented after the Turkeyfoot win. "I thought we really came out of the gates full-throttle and took care of business. They presented us with some early opportunities, and we took advantage of them. All week our coaches stressed to the guys that they needed to come out hard and put the game away early."

Putting it away early is just what the Huskies did, by scoring a school record 50 points in the first quarter alone, and another program record of 77 points for the entire contest.

"Everything we did worked," stated Carr. "It probably couldn't happen like that again in 100 years." To put that observation into perspective, the Huskies scored an average of one point every 14.4 seconds in the first quarter, a pace that would have racked up 200 points by game's end.

NHS lit up the scoreboard within the first minute of the game when junior Husky defensive end Brock Glotfelty tracked down Turkeyfoot's quarterback in the end zone for a 2-point safety at the 11:05 mark. It was a rather inauspicious beginning to the torrent that was to follow.

Northern began opening the floodgates just 40 seconds later when, after starting off in great field position following a Ram free kick, senior Husky halfback Tyler Warn scored on a four-yard run to put the hosts up 8-0.

Warn then turned in a fine defensive play by recovering a fumble, and capped that effort by scoring his second TD of the night on a 21-yard run with 7:09 left in the opening stanza.

Junior fullback Corey Carr busted across the goal line exactly two minutes later to give NHS a 23-0 lead, and senior halfback Mitch Fost scored on a four-yard run with 3:26 to play.

Turkeyfoot got on the board on the ensuing kickoff when Craig McClintock rumbled 96 yards for a touchdown; however, Northern struck back less than a minute later when Carr rumbled 20 yards for a score.

With 57 seconds to play in the half, Warn reeled off an 18-yard touchdown run, and just nine ticks of the clock later sophomore halfback Andy Ganoe got Northern's second-string into the act when he scored on a 27-yard run.

Ganoe's tally capped a shocking first quarter that ended with the Huskies holding a 50-6 lead. NHS had turned over its entire backfield to its sophomore class of reservists prior to the stanza's end, as Ganoe and Blair Silbaugh took over at the halfback positions, Matt Mason assumed fullback duties, and Garrett Gulledge took the reins at quarterback.

NHS's "Grave Digger" defense hoisted its second spadeful just 16 seconds into the second quarter when Warn, playing at cornerback, picked off a Turkeyfoot pass attempt and scampered 81 yards for a touchdown. Ganoe added a four-yard rushing TD with 5:13 remaining in the half to put the hosts up by a 64-14 margin.

Gulledge kept the ball on a third-quarter option play to score from 13 yards out at the 4:40 mark.

Turkeyfoot got its second touchdown midway through the fourth stanza when Josh Valdes scored on a 14-yard run.

The Huskies' Silbaugh capped the night's scoring by reeling off a 43-yard touchdown run with 2:03 to play.

For the night, Northern's backfield recorded a stunning 10-plus-yard-per-carry average, amassing 430 yards on 42 carries. Silbaugh rushed 14 times for 162 yards, and Warn gained 101 yards with just seven carries.

The Huskies had a 450-71 yard advantage in total offense, and garnered 17 first downs while holding the Rams to 8. Senior kicker Corey Yoder got his foot into the game in a big way by making seven successful extra-point kicks and kicking off 12 times.

On defense, Carr and Ganoe shared the NHS lead with seven tackles each, and junior guard Jason Doerr netted a pair of sacks. In addition to Warn's touchdown-scoring interception return, the defense set up three scores after fumble recoveries by Silbaugh, Warn and junior tackle Nick Ferrell.

"Our second unit guys were able to get some valuable playing experience," Coach Carr stated. "They did a real nice job on both sides of the football. One problem area was that our kickoff coverage unit, which had a great game last week at Berkeley Springs, gave up the long touchdown return and was consistently letting Turkeyfoot's offense start off on our side of their 30-yard line. We do need to correct that problem.

"Overall I felt defensively we played very physical and offensively we were pretty much mistake-free all night. It was a great way to start out in our home debut."

Tomorrow night's battle with Allegany is certainly the biggest test the Huskies have had yet this short season, and could turn out to be their toughest outing of the year. The Campers will be looking to score a big win after taking a 19-13 squeaker over Beall last week.

The Huskies have a score to settle with the powerhouse from the east, as they lost to the Campers twice last year in games they could have won. Alco took a 39-12 battle of undefeateds in the squads' first meeting, a victory practically handed over by virtue of five NHS fumbles that were subsequently converted into Allegany touchdowns. In the opening round of the region playoffs, Northern put together a near-flawless performance only to lose 18-13, as All-Area standout Donavin Vinson burned the Huskies for two big touchdowns.

"Vinson is the best player in the area," said Carr. "We know we're not going to stop him, we're just aiming to slow him down." Vinson (6-2, 200) is already on his way to a superb senior season at wide receiver and kick returner.

Allegany's strong suit may be its 6-6 defense, which is anchored by senior left side linebacker Bryan Hansel (6-2, 200) and junior right side LB Tyler Wharton (6-0, 190). "We have to get our blockers on those two, or we won't be moving the ball too much," Carr

HUSKIES GO RABID IN 63-POINT WIN – It was one for the record books at Northern High Friday night, as the Huskies set two school scoring records in a 77-14 victory over Turkeyfoot. NHS scored the most points it ever has in a game, and a 50-point first quarter was the most the program has seen in one quarter. The score was made even more lopsided by a hustling Husky defense that held the Rams to 71 yards total offense, recovered three fumbles, and turned in a safety and an interception return for a touchdown. Shown above clamping down on a Ram runner are senior defensive secondary members Mitch Fost (#32) and Nick Payne (#89). Pictured below is sophomore halfback Andy Ganoe (#1), who accounted for two of the Huskies ten rushing touchdowns, with classmate Blair Silbaugh trailing. Northern goes up against powerhouse Allegany tomorrow night in Accident as the Huskies attempt to atone for their two losses to the Campers last year. Photos by John McEwen.

Rams Need Just One Half To Crush Wildcats, 46-0

After being manhandled the previous week by the Beall Mountaineers, the Southern High varsity Rams turned things completely around last Friday night and did the manhandling, recording their first win of the season by rolling over the visiting Wildcats of Westmar High, 46-0.

The Ram offensive unit – or more accurately, units, as Coach Fred Gregg substituted freely throughout much of the contest – amassed 412 yards, with 314 of those being on the ground.

Meanwhile, Southern defensive personnel limited the 0-3 Wildcats to a total of just 94 yards and no points.

All of the Rams' points were recorded in the first half, giving Coach Gregg and staff an opportunity to provide valuable playing experience to a number of underclassmen.

Scoring two touchdowns apiece, one each in the first and second quarters, were Ram running backs Bret DeWitt and Nick Gregg.

DeWitt put the first points on the board with a seven-yard touchdown run, and then ran successfully for the two-point conversion, giving the Rams an 8-0 lead at the 8:34 mark of the first quarter.

Just 4½ mihutes later, Gregg reached paydirt on a 14-yard carry to put the Rams on top 14-0, as the run for the conversion was no good.

Scoring on the Rams' next possession was Jeremy Gregory, who broke free for a 68-yard touchdown run. Quarterback Andrew VanBogelen ran for the two extra points, putting Southern on top 22-0 with 1:51 to play in the first quarter.

Just seven seconds into the second quarter, VanBogelen scored a touchdown on a six-yard carry, and Gregg ran for the conversion to make it 30-0.

Gregg scored his second six-pointer of the evening with 6:28 remaining in the first half, breaking through the Wildcat secondary on a 26-yard carry. VanBogelen followed with a two-point conversion pass to Anthony Schrock to give the Rams a commanding 38-0 lead.

The final points of the game were recorded less than a minute later, as the Wildcats fumbled the ball away on their ensuring possession. DeWitt capped the short drive with a 20-yard carry for a touchdown, and Jason Ashby ran for the extra two points.

The Rams likely could have scored yet again in the waning minutes of the first half, but Gregg graciously had VanBogelen take a knee inside the Wildcats' 10-yard line and allow the clock to expire.

Breaking the 100-yard barrier in rushing was Southern's Gregory, who finished with 104 yards on just six carries. DeWitt added 76 yards on just four carries, and Gregg picked up 44 yards on four attempts.

VanBogelen had a good night throwing the ball, connecting on four of five attempts for 98 yards.

Ashby had an interception.

Gaining all but four of the Wildcats' rushing yards was Justin Keller, who recorded 51 yards on a dozen carries.

The win improved the Rams' record to 1-2.

"We went into this game believing we had what it took to win, but after such a dismal performance against Beall the previous week we really weren't sure how we would do," Coach Gregg said. "But we had a good week of practice, we were honest with our kids about their efforts against Beall, and they really took it to heart and responded well.

"It is our intent to improve every week, regardless of whom we play," he said, "and after taking a few steps backward, we feel like we re-established a positive progression."

Another positive for the Rams was the return of Adam VanBogelen to action, a player whom Gregg had intended to start at quarterback this season, but was unable to play until this past week because of a broken foot sustained at the end of the last school year.

"Adam finally got medical clearance to play just last Thursday," Gregg said. "It was good to be able to let him take some snaps and get his feet wet."

However, Gregg noted said that Adam's older brother Andrew is still the starting quarterback, with Adam and Jason Ashby remaining in backup roles.

Gregg said that his team is in good health overall as it prepares for its next opponent, the once-beaten Mountain Lions of Tucker High School, who will travel to Oakland this Friday evening.

Fortunately for the Rams, the Lions (4-1) run a wide-open offense similar to that of Westmar. Unfortunately for the Rams, the Lions are a faster and much bigger team physically than the Wildcats.

Tucker uses primarily the pro-I formation, but likes to spread things out, and will not hesitate to put the ball into the air.

They are led offensively by their junior quarterback Cody Pifer (6-0, 170), senior running back Derek Stemple (6-1, 180), senior receiver Anthony Wilt (5-7, 145), and a pair of enormous tackles in senior Brandon Carr (6-5, 310) and sophomore Justin Shaffer (6-4, 310).

"Pifer is a very good quarterback, not to mention the best runner they have on offense," Gregg said. "Stemple is also very good at carrying the ball, and certainly their two big tackles are the classic bookends of their offensive line."

Defensively, the Lions run mostly with a 5-3 formation, but will occasionally go to a 4-4 and move their tackles in front of the offensive guards, something else that the Rams saw against Westmar last week. The leader on Tucker's defensive unit is junior middle linebacker Mark Burns (6-4, 180).

"This team has very good speed, and of course, they are considerably bigger than we are," Gregg said, "which can be pretty intimidating. But we continually remind our players that with good technique and solid fundamentals, superior size can be negated."

Friday's kickoff at the Southern athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

Two Inducted Into Southern Football Hall

A former standout player and a local physician were inducted into the Southern Garrett High School Football Hall of Fame during a pre-game ceremony last Friday evening at the Southern athletic field.

Dave McLaughlin, a Garrett County deputy who played for the Rams in 1981-84, and Dr. Dan Miller, who has served as the team physician for over 20 years, were named the 2005 honorees.

McLaughlin played slot and defensive back for the Rams, and was among the leaders on back-to-back teams that posted 9-2 records and made it to the state Class A semi-final game. He received All-Highland Football Conference honors in both his junior and senior seasons, and in his senior year was also named an All-Potomac Valley Conference member and an All-Area defensive back.

McLaughlin also excelled in basketball and baseball, and continued his academic and baseball career at both Garrett Community College and Davis and Elkins College.

He has served for the past eight years as a coach for the Oakland Youth Football League.

In his professional life as a deputy, he is assigned to the Narcotics Taskforce as a drug detection canine handler, having made over 175 arrests working with his dog Tara. The two have won regional and national awards competing against some of the nation's top drug detection teams.

Dr. Miller has been associated with the Ram football program since 1982, the year he began his medical practice in Oakland, and since that time has missed fewer than 10 games, both home and away. He has also provided over 200 physicals free of charge to student athletes for a variety of high school sports programs, equating to over $100,000 in donations to the families of SHS athletes.

A native of Waynesboro, Pa., Miller holds an undergraduate degree from Wheaton College and a medical degree from the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He has been involved with the Oakland Little League and Mountaintop Youth Soccer League as an officer and coach for many years.

Miller was named the Southern Garrett Athletic Association's Citizen of the Year in 1993 and the Elks' Outstanding Citizen in 1995. He is the father of six children, and he and his wife, the former Sherry Evans, reside at Deep Creek Lake.

School principal and SGHSF Hall of Fame coach Tom Woods made presentations to the two inductees just prior to the Southern-Westmar game.

SGHSF HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES — Inducted last Friday evening into the Southern Garrett High School Football Hall of Fame were former player Dave McLaughlin and team physician for over 20 years, Dr. Dan Miller. Jayvee Huskies Nipped By Beall In 16-14 Defeat

The Northern High School junior varsity football squad was edged by visiting Beall Monday night, despite a two-touchdown rally by the Huskies in the final quarter.

Beall opened the scoring in the second stanza with a six-yard touchdown run by Jared Stakem, and followed with Steve Whetstone's 38-yard rushing TD just prior to the half.

The Huskies finally broke into the end zone in the fourth quarter, when Josh Duckworth plowed in from one yard out; however, NHS's two-point conversion run failed, and that would come back to haunt the hosts.

Very late in the game, Northern's Eric Espada corralled a 45-yard touchdown pass from Duckworth. NHS added two points on a successful conversion pass from Duckworth to Kyle Gillum, making the score 16-14.

Beall then recovered Northern's onside kick and was able to run out the clock.

Northern (2-2) will host Allegany in a 7 p.m. match-up Monday at NHS.

stated. Vinson roams the secondary at free safety, and has the speed to get to either sideline in a hurry.

The only weak spot on the defense may be in the form of a little slowness afoot along the defensive front; however, the Campers average nearly 250 pounds per lineman, a bit more than the 215-pound average on the Huskies' side of the ball. As usual, the size discrepancy puts the onus on the Huskies' quickness, which could play a bigger role than ever in such a big game.

Alco's main weapon on offense is Vinson, of course, who moves around quite a bit in attempts to line up one-on-one coverage. The multi-faceted threat even took a snap at quarterback last week against Beall. Allegany's other offensive weapons are Wharton at halfback, junior fullback Jeff Link (5-11, 195), and senior quarterback Logan Reiter (6-0, 180), who has showed poise, throwing accuracy, and good mobility in his first year as a starter.

"We're ready to see what we're made of, and this will be the game to show it," said Carr. "It would be great to have our fans overflowing our stands and sideline to cheer us on at home."

Kickoff is slated for 7 p.m. tomorrow night at NHS.

Punt, Pass, Kick Competitors Put On Pigskin Show

The Oakland Youth Football League hosted the local round of the nationwide NFL Pepsi Punt, Pass, and Kick Competition recently on the Southern High School gridiron, where 62 boys and girls ages 8-15 participated across four age divisions.

Individual scores were determined by a tally of each competitor's punt, pass, and kick, and the NFL and Pepsi awarded certificates to each first-, second-, and third-place finisher. The first-place winners earned the right to compete in the sectional competition slated for Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Carroll County YMCA in Westminster.

The first-place winners in each age division were as follows: 8-9 boys, Shane Ratliff; 8-9 girls, Faith Tichnell; 10-11 boys, Kurt Gangler; 12-13 boys, Jeremy Sharpless; 12-13 girls, April Sisler; 14-15 boys: Kyle Gillum; and 14-15 girls, Marcella Martinez.

The second- and third-place winners in their respective age groups were as follows: 8-9 boys, Joshua Adams, second place, and Aaron Sisler, third place; 10-11 boys, Patrick Sines second place, and Andrew Britner, third place; 12-13 boys, Steven Elsey, second place, and Charles Sliger, third place; 12-13 girls, Tara Marple, second place; and 14-15 boys, Arthur Eichorn, second place, and Jonathan Feaster, third place.

The Oakland Youth Football also awarded its own trophies in age groups for the longest punt, longest pass, and longest kick.

That list of winners is as follows (all measurements are in feet and inches).

In 8-9 boys: Travis Newton, longest punt at 51-3; Trevon Jones, longest pass at 57-1; and Shane Ratliff, longest kick at 56-1. 8-9 girls: Faith Tichnell with a 20-7 punt, 31-5 pass, and 28-10 kick.

In 10-11 boys: Derek Getson with a 72-9 punt; and Kurt Gangler with an 80-8 pass and a 69-8 kick.

In 14-15 girls: Marcella Martinez with a 54-10 punt, a 45-5 pass, and a 23-4 kick.

Northern Girls Fall To Cats, But Then Whip Sentinels

It was a .500 week for the Northern High School girls' varsity soccer team, as the Huskies fell to host Westmar last Thursday, 4-1, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash, but then rebounded Tuesday evening to record a 4-3 victory over visiting Fort Hill in another WMIL contest.

The results left Coach John Milbourne's squad with an overall record of 2-5 and a 1-4 mark in WMIL matches.

In last Thursday's match at Lonaconing, Molly Cheshire put the Wildcats on top for good with a goal off a direct kick from just outside the penalty box 5½ minutes into the match.

Maria Fitzgerald made it 2-0 with another unassisted goal at the 2:24 mark of the first half.

The Huskies seized the momentum in the opening minutes of the second half, and Sarah Voelkel cut the Wildcats' lead in half with a goal off an assist by Brittany Stein at the 24:18 mark.

But Westmar's victory was sealed by Danielle McGinnis, who scored off an assist by Fitzgerald with 14 minutes remaining, and Katie Sloan followed with an unassisted insurance goal at the 4:38 mark.

Westmar finished with an 18-15 edge in shots on goal, and led in corner kicks, 5-3. Northern keeper Kasie Fratz recorded 11 saves, while Rae Michelle Fazenbaker earned 10 for the Wildcats.

"We made some critical errors on the defending end of the field," Coach Milbourne said, "but I was still pleased with our team's overall performance."

The win improved the Wildcats' overall record to 3-3 and evened their WMIL mark at 2-2.

The junior varsity match was a scoreless tie, with the jayvee Wildcats out-shooting the Huskies, 11-3.

Tuesday's seesaw contest with Fort Hill was finally decided by a goal scored by Northern's Shayla Rodeheaver with just 8:33 left in the match.

The Huskies took a 1-0 lead when Erin Brenneman scored off an assist by Sarah Voelkel at the 29:20 mark of the first half.

The Sentinels responded with a goal four minutes later when Crystal Zinn scored off a pass from Cassie Donahue.

Fort Hill took a 2-1 lead when Kelsey Parker hit a goal off a feed by Katie Heavner with 14:20 remaining in the first half.

The Huskies tied the score again with about five minutes to play in the half when Voelkel scored off a cross from Brittany Stein, and the score remained 2-2 until the second half.

The Huskies regained the lead when Brenneman hit her second goal of the night, this time unassisted, at the 31:15 mark of the second half.

But Fort Hill rallied once again and knotted the score at 3-3 with a goal by Zinn off an assist by Brittany Brown with 15:55 left in the match.

Rodeheaver's winning goal was scored during four back-to-back corner kicks awarded to the Huskies, as she lifted the ball over the Sentinel keeper's outstretched hands.

The Huskies finished with an 18-12 advantage in shots on goal, and led in corner kicks, 6-1. Fratz and Fort Hill keeper Rebecca Zajdel each had eight saves.

Coach Milbourne gave credit to Bethani Gillum and Amy Shaffer for their outstanding defensive play, particularly in the second half.

"The WMIL league is highly competitive, and every match is a battle. I'm pleased with how our girls are beginning to respond by winning balls in the midfield and increasing their attacking pressure," Milbourne said. "We're also reducing the number of mistakes and increasing our scoring opportunities."

The Northern junior varsity was victorious in the preliminary match, recording a 5-0 shutout over the Westmar jayvees. Amber Kling scored twice, while Kara Savage, Amanda Brenneman, and Susan Thatcher each recorded one goal.

The Northern varsity will play again this Saturday at home against Frankfort. The kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Southern Girls Drop A Pair By 3-0 Scores

STOPPING A SHOT in the above photo is Southern High School girls' varsity goalkeeper Jessica Petrella, who recorded nine stops for the match played Tuesday evening. The Rams were shut out by a 3-0 margin. Also in the photo is Petrella's teammate Amanda VanBogelen (#8). Southern will play again this evening at Frankfort. Photo by John McEwen.

Continuing to struggle this week were the members of the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team, as the Rams were shutout in a pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches. Coach Susan Clark's squad fell to visiting Beall last Thursday evening, 3-0, and then dropped another 3-0 match to Westmar Tuesday evening, also in Oakland.

The losses dropped the Rams' overall record to 3-4 and their WMIL mark to 2-3.

The 4-1 Mountaineers of Beall took the lead for good at the 14:11 mark of the first half of last Thursday's match, as Shonna Frazee put the ball into the net off a pass from Kirstin Stevenson.

Tasha Wilhelm put the visitors on top 2-0 with 3:07 remaining in the half with a goal off another feed by Stevenson.

Nine minutes into the second half, Stevenson recorded her own goal, unassisted, and the rest of the match was scoreless defense.

The Rams were out-shot by a lopsided 15-3 margin and trailed in corner kicks, 5-2.

Getting a dozen saves in goal for the Rams was Jessica Petrella. Jenna Delaney turned away all three of the Rams' attempts.

The evening was not a total loss for Ram fans, as the SHS junior varsity recorded a 3-0 victory in the preliminary match. Scoring two of the goals, both unassisted, was Morgan Anderson, while Krista Hollingsworth earned the third off an assist by Kayla Petrella.

A goal by Brittany Preston off a corner kick by Molly Cheshire with 18:05 left in the first half gave Westmar the lead for good over the Rams Tuesday night.

Mariah Fitzgerald followed with two more goals for the Wildcats in the second half, hitting one unassisted at the 24:00 mark, and scoring again with 7:35 to play off a pass from Cheshire.

The Rams were out-shot by their visitors by a 12-5 margin, and trailed in corner kicks, 5-3. Petrella recorded nine saves for the Rams, and the Westmar keeper finished with five.

The win improved Westmar's record to 4-3 (3-2 WMIL).

The SHS jayvees were also topped in the preliminary match, 3-2.

The Ram varsity is scheduled to travel to Frankfort this evening for a 6 p.m. match. Both the varsity and jayvee teams will play at Allegany next Monday (5:30 and 7 p.m.), and at Bishop Walsh next Wednesday (3 and 4:30 p.m.).

"JUST FOLLOWING THE BOUNCING BALL" is what famed choral conductor Mitch Miller used to say, and it may come to mind while looking at these photos taken last night by John McEwen during a boys' varsity soccer match between the Southern and Beall high schools. Above, Southern's Matt Burton chests the ball, and below, Ram Sean McCreery appears to be doing a balancing act. The Rams played well against the powerful Mountaineers, but lost the match, 2-0. No other details of the contest were received this morning.

Southern Boys Play Well, But Defeated Thrice

It was another tough week on the soccer field for the Southern High boys' team, as the Rams recorded three more defeats; however, the squad played well in all three of those matches, falling to undefeated Northern by a single goal, 2-1, on Saturday at the Cove (see other story), getting nipped 1-0 by host Bishop Walsh on Monday, and falling to powerful Beall last night by just a 2-0 margin.

The Rams are now 1-7 overall and 0-4 in Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches.

Scoring the lone goal in the Rams' match at Bishop Walsh on Monday was Velimir Milosavljevic off an assist by Andrew Diamond with 13:48 to play in the first half.

Ram keeper Mike Edwards was credited with stopping 10 of the Spartans' 19 shots, while Cameron Sell finished with 11 saves for the Spartans.

BW (6-4) had a 3-2 edge in corner kicks.

No details of last night's match with Beall were received this morning.

The Rams' next match will be next Tuesday at home against Fort Hill, with the junior varsity contest kicking off at 5:30 and the varsity at 7 p.m.

Huskies Remain Unbeaten By Edging Rams And Sentinels

The boys' varsity soccer team of Northern High School remained undefeated overall and in Western Maryland Interscholastic League play this week; however, the Huskies' most recent victory was not recorded as easily as some area soccer fans thought it would be.

Coach Tom Ables' squad hosted upset-minded Southern last Thursday, and the match was like so many other clashes between the two Garrett County rivals in that team records did not mean much. The Rams came into the contest with an overall record of 1-4 and a winless WMIL mark of 0-2, while the Huskies were not only sporting a 5-0 record, but had also recorded lopsided victories over some of the area's strongest teams. The end result of the match was a close, 2-1 victory for Northern.

"It was a typical match between the two schools," said Coach Ables. "The Rams played with a lot of enthusiasm and kept the score close."

The statistics were not close, as the Huskies finished with a 21-4 advantage in shots on goal and an 8-1 lead in corner kicks. But the Ram defense, led by goalkeeper Mike Kozier, turned away all but two of the Huskies' attempts. Kozier was credited with all but one of those stops, finishing with 18 saves.

Thirty-nine minutes of the 40-minute first half went scoreless, but Northern's Justin Beitzel gave the Huskies the lead for good with just a minute to play before intermission when he scored off an assist by Chris Speicher.

All of the Huskies' scoring for the night would be done in a span of less than two minutes, as Derek Cutter hit an unassisted goal just 40 seconds into the second half, putting the home team up 2-0.

It was scoreless defense until the 7:14 mark of the match when Southern's Ethan Chorpenning scored off a feed by James Naylor to cut the Huskies' lead in half. But that would be the final goal of the evening.

Husky keeper Eric Wood had one save.

The Huskies will not play again until next Tuesday when they will host Bishop Walsh. They will entertain Allegany next Thursday. Match times for both evenings will be 6 p.m. (jayvee) and 7:30 (varsity).

The Rams dropped a close match to Bishop Walsh on Monday and fell to Beall last night (see separate story).

Southern High School's cross country teams, the Runnin' Rams, participated in a pair of invitational meets during the past week, running in the Mountaintop Combo hosted by Preston High in Kingwood on Saturday, and then hosting their own four-team meet at their Broadford Park course Tuesday.

The Rams were one of 22 teams in the Preston race, and finished overall in 11th place, with the boys' and girls' scores added together. As individual teams, the SHS girls finished seventh and the boys placed 11th.

The top female finisher for the Rams was Sarah Cosner, who placed 32nd with a time of 23 minutes, 10 seconds. Her sister Jennifer was the 41st finisher, recording a time of 23:48.

Other SHS girls and their finishes were: Melinda Smith, 45th, 24:07; Courtney DiSimone, 55th, 24:27; Elizabeth Thayer, 72nd, 25:39; Leah Warnick, 78th, 26:06; and Rachel Skipper, 80th, 26:10.

As a team, the Southern girls finished with 199 points. Eleanor Roosevelt High School won the girls' race with 30 points, followed by Preston, 59; North Marion, 105; University, 146; Berkeley Springs, 152; Hedgesville, 178; and Southern and Fairmont Senior, each with 199.

Leading the Southern boys were Derek Upperman and Michael McConnell, who placed 49th and 50th, respectively, with times of 19:20 and 19:24. Other Rams and their finishing times were: Tim Preston, 80th, 20:34; Ben Warnick, 95th, 21:25; Joe Bever, 105th, 21:51; Andrew Sauder, 11th, 22:18; and Patrick Sisler, 113th, 22:29.

The Southern boys finished with 293 team points. Winning the boys' race was Eleanor Roosevelt with 50 points. Also placing ahead of Southern were: Preston, 83 points; North Marion, 104; University, 109; Fairmont Senior, 111; Clear Spring, 126; Wheeling Park, 190; Tucker County, 226; Hedgesville, 254; and Musselman, 255.

In Tuesday's four-team meet hosted by the Rams, the Southern girls finished second with 33 points. Preston won the race with 22 points, while Allegany and Beall both had incomplete scores.

Sarah Cosner was again the leader of the SHS girls, placing fourth with a time of 22:48. Other Ram finishes were: Melinda Smith, 7th, 23:50; Jennifer Cosner, 8th, 24:06; Courtney DiSimone, 11th, 24:17; Elizabeth Thayer, 12th, 24:29; and Rachel Skipper, Leah Warnick, and Tricia Kestner, placing 14th through 16th, respectively. Katy Lucas, Demora Smith, Sandy Browning, and Kelly Taylor were 19th, 20th, 21st, and 24th, respectively.

Allegany's Lauryn MacFawn continues to dominate area races, as she crossed the finish line first, more than a full minute ahead of the next finisher. Her time was 20:50. Amber Riley and Ari Kas-prawicz were second and third with times of 21:59 and 22:42.

Mike McConnell and Derek Upperman were the fastest runners for the Southern boys, finishing 9th and 10th, respectively, with times of 19:14 and 19:27. Other Ram finishers were: Ben Warnick, 25th; Tim Preston, 27th; Joe Bever, 32nd; Andrew Sauder, 40th; and Patrick Sisler, 42nd.

Winning the boys' race was Scott Bonnette of Beall with a time of 17:37. His teammates, James Carney and Matt DeRosa, were second and third, with times of 18:11 and 18:22.

As a team the Rams finished with 80 points. Beall won with 18 points, Preston was second with 58, and Allegany was fourth with 83.

The Runnin' Rams, coached by Steve Cosner (girls) and Jamie Beeman (boys), will compete in the Don Stoner Invitational at Smithsburg High School this Saturday, host Keyser at Broadford Park next Monday (4:15 p.m.), and vie in the Area Meet next Thursday.

Lakers Continue Hot Streak With Wins Over Cecil, Essex

The Garrett College volleyball team is on a roll, having overcome a slow start to down the last seven opponents it has faced (three in regular matches, four in the Butler Tournament). The Lakers won matches this week over Cecil and Essex, taking both outings 3-1 after losing the first game of each.

GC lost its opening game to Cecil Saturday, 30-25, before roaring back to take three straight 30-24, 33-31 and 30-21.

Freshman Julia Bosley had 26 digs and five kills, sophomore Tabitha Beitzel had 11 points, and freshman Dani Glotfelty had 11 assists.

The Lakers fell in game one Tuesday night against Essex, 31-29, then came back to win the next three by scores of 30-11, 30-24, 30-28.

Nazelrod paced the winners with three aces, Bosley had two, and sophomore Lyndsi Butler had one ace and 20 digs. Bosley tallied 13 digs, Beitzel nine, and Miller eight. Husky Netters Take First Wins Over Beall, Westmar

The Northern High School volleyball team turned the corner this week to pick up its first two wins of the campaign in convincing fashion. The Huskies downed Beall in a 3-0 sweep before netting a 3-1 victory over Westmar. Both matches were played on the NHS court.

The Huskies rolled up game scores of 25-16, 25-13, and 25-9 in trouncing the Mounties last Thursday, Sept 22.

NHS was paced by junior Jackie Rodeheaver's 11 points, seven attacks, and two kills, while senior Jessica Fratz recorded six points, five attacks, and two kills.

The Mounties' Tahmya Troutman had six points and three assists.

Northern's junior varsity squad turned in a sweep of its own in a 2-0 win. Sophomore Devyn Bender led the Husky charge with 11 points, and classmate Nicole Opel netted nine points, two attacks, and one kill.

On Tuesday night the Huskies opened with 25-14, 25-21 wins over the Wildcats before stumbling in a 25-17 third-game loss. NHS roared back to take game four, and the match, by a wide 25-15 margin.

Fratz led all scorers with 18 points, and Rodeheaver recorded 11 points, 11 attacks, and three kills. Senior Angie Umbel tallied eight attacks and eight points, and freshman Tanya Devine contributed five attacks and a kill.

Northern's JV unit netted a two-game sweep, 25-23 and 25-13. Opel had 10 attacks, four points, and three kills, and sophomore Hanna Winter contributed six points and one attack.

NHS (2-3) is slated to visit Bishop Walsh tonight before hosting Meyersdale Monday in 6 p.m. jayvee and 7 p.m. varsity matches. The Huskies travel to Beall the following evening.

Rams Downed By Fort Hill In Three Straight

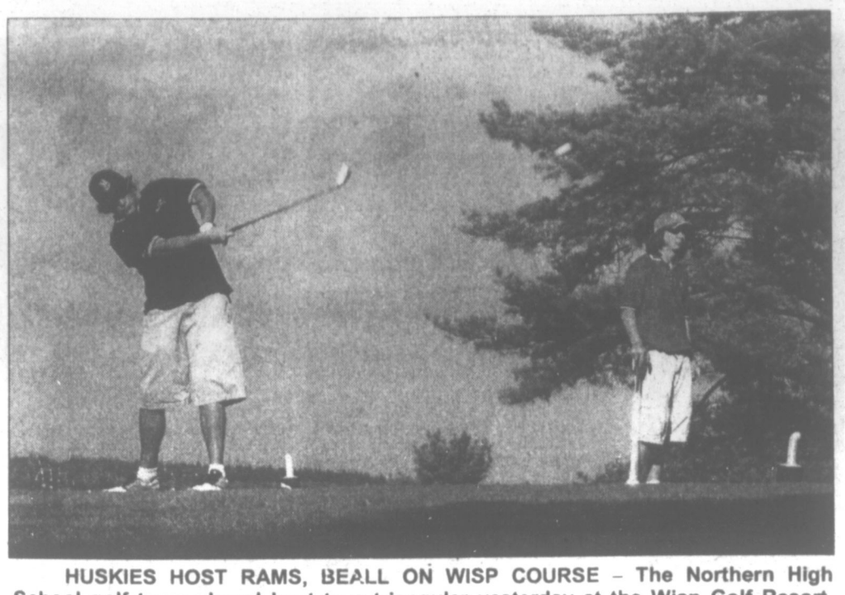
Fort Hill got the best of a battle of volleyball's unbeatens Tuesday night when the host Sentinels swept the Southern High squad in three straight games. FH improved to 5-0 with the 25-19, 25-15, 25-18 sweep, while SHS fell to 4-1.

Ram junior Sarah Stephens led Southern with eight points, eight kills, and six digs. Senior Randi Bennett had 10 kills and five points, and junior Natalie Rohrbaugh had 10 assists.

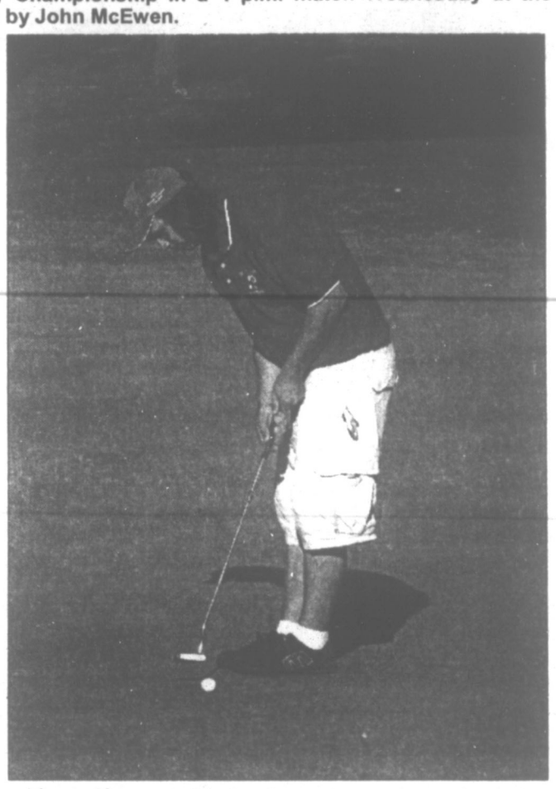
The Sentinels' Lindsay Holliday had eight points, eight kills and eight digs. Lauren Moose finished with 21 assists and nine digs.

The Rams took the junior varsity match in a 2-0 sweep. Melody Stolbom had 10 points, two aces, and a kill, and Emily Lipscomb had nine points and two aces.

Southern hosts Beall tonight at 6 p.m. before traveling to Frederick for the Thomas Johnson High Tournament on Saturday, where they will square off against some of the top teams across a wide region. The Rams return home to host Bishop Walsh Monday, and Preston Wednesday, both of which are 6 p.m. contests.



HUSKIES HOST RAMS, BEALL ON WISP COURSE – The Northern High School golf team played host to a triangular yesterday at the Wisp Golf Resort, where Southern took the match with a 190 tally paced by low medalist Joe Albert's 42, while Beall came in second with a 203, and NHS finished third at 207 with Neil Kamp leading the Huskies with a 49. Northern's David Vagnetti is pictured above to the left launching a drive, with Albert awaiting his turn. Albert is shown below as he prepares to sink a putt. The Huskies (6-19-1) are slated to host Bishop Walsh Monday at the Wisp, then Northern and Southern (21-4) go head-to-head in the season-ending Garrett County Championship in a 4 p.m. match Wednesday at the Oakland Golf Club. Photos by John McEwen.



Ram Duffers Sending Fike To State Tourney In October

Southern High School junior Seth Fike's fine performance during the recent Region Tournament left him the lone Garrett County golfer to make the cut for next month's Maryland State Golf Tournament.

Fike's 79 was one under the 80 cutoff, as he helped pace the Rams to an eighth-place tie in region play Tuesday at the Black Rock Country Club in Hagerstown. Senior Ivan Stutzman carded an 86, and Joe Albert turned in an 87 as the Rams recorded a 344 team score.

Northern finished 20th with a team score of 391, as Zak Brosnihan turned in a team-low 94.

Southern's Fike will play in the state match at College Park on Oct. 24-26.

Prior to the region tourney, SHS turned in a 173 to best Beall and Keyser at the Oakland Golf Club on Thursday, Sept. 22. Sophomore Derick DeWitt earned low medalist honors with a 41, as the Rams finished seven strokes ahead of runner-up Beall's 180. Keyser brought up the rear with a 213.

Yesterday Southern took a triangular match at the Wisp, recording a 190 to finish ahead of Beall's 203 and host Northern's 207. The Rams' Albert turned in the lowest score of the day with a 42, one ahead of Fike's 43. Neil Kamp paced the Huskies with a 49, and teammate Zak Brosnihan carded a 50.

At this point SHS holds a 21-4 season mark, with the season finale coming up Wednesday when the Rams host Northern in the Garrett County Championship. The match tees off at 4 p.m. at the Oakland Golf Club.

Brenda's Body Shop Launches Think Pink Effort

In commemoration of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month (October), symbolized by the well-known pink ribbon, Brenda's Body Shop has launched a campaign with the theme of "Think Pink." The purpose of the commemoration is to show support and heighten breast cancer awareness locally as well as raise money for breast cancer research and local charity Cindy's Fund.

"With the number of women and girls who attend classes at Brenda's Body Shop, we were inspired to create some events and ideas to support breast cancer awareness," said Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop. "Each year our students choose a local charity to help, and to coincide with this year's Think Pink campaign, we have chosen Cindy's Fund."

Cindy's Fund is a local charity founded in memory of Cindy Kutchman, a registered nurse who cared for cancer patients and helped establish early cancer screening in Garrett County. Cindy became a cancer patient herself at an early age.

"During all that time, while she waged a ferocious battle against a remorseless disease, she remained a shining example of courage, hope, and compassion for others," Brosnihan said. "Cindy well knew that the best way to defeat cancer is to detect it early. After her death, Cindy's Fund was founded to do just that. Cindy's Fund has already been successful in helping to save lives in our community through its support of cancer screening programs in Garrett County. These programs have brought screening directly to more than 800 uninsured persons and discovered more than 30 cancers. Those affected now have a much better chance of survival with a much better quality of life."

The students at Brosnihan's shop will be raising money by selling Think Pink merchandise, including T-shirts, sweatshirts, wristbands, and scarves.

BRENDA'S KIDS BOOSTING BREAST CANCER AWARENESS – October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month and Brenda's Body Shop in Oakland is celebrating the designation with its own "Think Pink" effort. Students of the shop will be selling pink merchandise, including T-shirts, sweatshirts, wristbands, and hand-knitted and crocheted scarves, with the proceeds going to Cindy's Fund. The students will be focused on the awareness theme throughout the Autumn Glory Festival as well, and will carry signs in the two parades of the festival with the names of persons who died from the disease or who have beaten it. See story. In the front row, from left, are Kaya Rinker, Katharine Drennan, and Julie Keefer. In the second row, same order, are Rachel Kleppinger, Kenya Rinker, Jena Janoske, and Kristen Kope. Back row: Morgan Brosnihan, Jessica Warnick, Anna Keefer, Brenda Brosnihan, and Stephanie Shreve.

Pink hand-knitted or crocheted scarves, donated by local women, will also be sold.

"We have a couple hundred scarves in all shades of pink and every imaginable style," Brosnihan said. "Several of the ladies in my aerobic classes made scarves, I made scarves, and my mother, Bonnie Snyder, made dozens of them, too."

The Think Pink merchandise is available to the pubic by calling or stopping by Brenda's Body Shop.

"We will be wearing our Think Pink apparel in the Autumn Glory parades," she added. "We hope our unit serves as a reminder of the importance of supporting all types of cancer research. Our parade participants will be holding signs to honor the names of cancer victims and survivors."

She said the color-coded ribbons that symbolize the different cancers will be used for each individual sign, and that persons are invited to contact Brenda's Body Shop if they would like to have a sign made to honor a loved one. The proceeds from the signs will also be donated to Cindy's Fund. There is no set amount for the signs, and the donation will be at the discretion of the giver. The deadline to order a sign is Oct. 12.

Other events at Brenda's Body Shop include Think Pink Week, during which $1 will be donated for every student or aerobic member who wears pink to classes the week of Oct. 17-23. A Think Pink master class will be offered on Sunday, Oct. 23, at 3 p.m., at the outdoor stage of the Oakland train station. (A rain location will be announced at a later date.) This special workout will be for people of all ages and abilities.

"We'll be wearing our pink, dancing to empowering music, and celebrating life," said Brosnihan. "Lisa Malone, renowned jazzercise instructor, will team up with me to lead a workout that is fun, energetic, and entertaining."

The donation for the workout is $5.

Wood-Burning Stoves Regain Popularity As Gas Prices Rise

by Caroline Zaayer
Capital News Service

Marylanders who burn wood as a secondary way to heat their homes are planning to burn a little more this winter to offset high natural gas and fuel costs.

Natural gas prices in the South Atlantic region, which includes Maryland, are projected to rise 45 percent, from $730 per household last winter to $1,060 this winter, said Neil Gamson, an economist with the Energy Information Administration. The national average price for a gallon of residential heating oil is expected to jump nearly 36 percent, from $1.54 in 2004 to $2.09 for 2005.

Meanwhile, the price for a cord of firewood, which is a stack equaling 128 cubic feet, has gone up 5 to 10 percent to about $150, said A.J. Bierman of King Mulch Garden Center in Essex.

His firewood sales are up about a third from last year, and he said people are ordering wood as emergency backup in case of fuel shortages, higher prices, or another storm like Hurricane Katrina, which damaged shipping and refineries in the Gulf of Mexico and caused oil prices to jump dramatically.

So far, sales of firewood at Stone Cellar Nursery in Mount Airy are the same as last year, said owner Ethan Langrill, but as the weather gets colder, he expects them to pick up.

After Sept. 11, 2001, Langrill saw sales jump because consumers were worried gas prices would rise.

According to the Census Bureau's 2004 estimate, nearly 24,000 households in Maryland use wood as their primary heating fuel. That number, which equals 1.1 percent of housing units in the state, is down slightly from 2002, when 1.3 percent of homes used wood as a primary fuel.

There are also those who use wood or other forms of alternative energy such as pellet stoves as a backup heating source to natural gas or oil furnaces.

"Those who use wood are going to try to use it more as a primary source and less as a secondary," said Guy Hinebaugh, an assistant art gallery director who lives near Oakland. "Everyone's trying to do something."

Hinebaugh plans to use more wood this year to conserve the full, 500-gallon fuel oil tank he also uses to heat his home. By cutting some of his own wood and buying the rest, he expects to burn three or four cords this winter at a cost of around $300. He figures that is about a third of what he would spend using fuel oil.

He has also taken other steps to conserve energy this winter, such as buying insulated curtains.

Owners of huge, million-dollar homes might not care about heating costs, Hinebaugh said, but "little people like me care."

There's been a substantial increase in the number of people choosing natural wood burners, said Ralph Baumgardner, owner of Baumgardner's HearthFires & DeckAttires in Westminster.

"Price stability seems to be OK this year," Baumgardner said. "That's good news for the consumer."

Both Bierman and Langrill suggest buying firewood early.

"Smarter buyers are getting the wood now," Bierman said, because his supply might be gone by Thanksgiving.

The older and drier wood is sold first, Langrill said, so early buyers get the better wood. Plus, "it's nicer to stack it in warm weather."

Workshops Slated To Help Students With Finances

The Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) will hold free Asset Builders workshops on Wednesdays Oct. 5, 12, and 19 at the Maryland Browning Center in Oakland from 6 until 7 p.m. The program assists students with their financial plans to prepare them for life after high school.

For qualifying students who participate in the program, GCCAC can also provide up to $1,000 toward college or trade expenses, such as tuition, room and board, books, or a new computer. For every $1 students place in their own saving accounts at a bank of their choice, GCCAC will set aside $2 toward those expenses.

Community Action may also be able to assist juniors and seniors with expenses associated with opening their own businesses.

The assistance is offered on a first-come, first-served basis for the first 30 qualifying students.

For more information or to sign up for the workshops, parents and students are asked to call Cindy Lynch at 301-334-9431, ext. 108, by Oct. 3.

Blamble Obtains Status In National Merit Program

Eric Blamble, a senior at Southern High School, has been named as a Commended Student in the 2006 National Merit Scholarship Program, according to Tom Woods, principal.

About 34,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being recognized for their exceptional academic promise. Although they will not continue in the 2006 competition for Merit Scholarship awards, Commended Students placed among the top 5 percent of more than 1 million students who entered the 2006 competition by taking the 2004 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT).

Eric is the son of Terry and Nancy Blamble, Oakland.

For students to become eligible to enter the National Merit Scholarship Competition they must take the PSAT during their junior year of high school. The PSAT will be administered this year at Southern on Oct. 12. Students can register for the test at the Southern High Guidance Office. The fee for juniors to take that exam this year is $11.

Bark 'n Bites Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

The September meeting of your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board featured discussion of the topics listed below.

NATURAL RESOURCES CAREERS CONFERENCE

The Natural Resources Careers Conference (NRCC), a weeklong conference held in July at the Hickory Environmental Education Center, was declared a success by those members attending. There were 32 high school students from all counties in Maryland who attended. Plans are being made to continue the program in 2006. Steve Resh of the Forest Technology Department at Allegany College of Maryland has agreed to continue as director, and Kevin Dodge of the Natural Resources Division at Garrett College has volunteered to assist. It was suggested that a follow-up of NRCC students be conducted in five years to discover if the students had entered conservation work or education.

SCHOOL ARBORETA PROGRAM

Several Forestry Board members met with school maintenance personnel to make sure the planted trees are not damaged during grass mowing. It was agreed that such personnel will be notified each time there are plantings established.

GYPSY MOTHS HAVE ARRIVED!

Three Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) officials reported that significant numbers of moth egg masses have been located along the ridges of Backbone and Meadow mountains. There will be a need to spray the emerging larvae next spring to decrease tree defoliation and public nuisance. There is a program available that would allow the MDA and the county to share the costs of spraying if the county agrees to assist.

Landowners are asked to inspect their woods for the buff-colored, thumb-size egg masses and report infestations to the Western Region MDA office at 301-777-3601.

GOVERNOR'S VISIT TO GARRETT COUNTY

Four Forestry Board members attended a reception welcoming Governor Robert Ehrlich to Swallow Falls State Park recently. Each agreed that the governor made positive remarks concerning the cooperation of his departments in dealing with environmental concerns and increasing timber production on state forest lands.

COUNTY NETS NEARLY $1 MILLION FROM STATE LAND USES

During his visit, the governor presented the Garrett County commissioners with a check for $956,863. This money represents 25 percent of the receipts garnered from the use of state forests and parks over several years. Board members noted that a large part of that county check came from timber sale receipts generated by logging conducted by well-trained loggers cutting under the direction of well-trained state foresters. These professionals adhere to a management plan which stipulates that cutting not exceed growth on nearly 85,000 acres of state forest land. Such managed logging contributes to the private logging industry, as well as increasing county coffers. The logging and sawmill industry contributes to the overall economic health of the county. So when a logging truck or lumber truck goes by, give them a wave of support for making a positive contribution to the county's economy.

ENVIROTHON TRAINING

A training session for the 2006 Envirothon is set for 9 a.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 4, at the Hickory Environmental Education Center. Members thought it would be a good time to distribute NRCC material to increase attendance in future years, and they would also like to meet with Lynn Bell, director of secondary education for Garrett County's public schools, to encourage her cooperation.

MFA ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Maryland Forests Association is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4-5, at the Rocky Gap Conference Center, where the 2006 Centennial of Maryland Forestry will be observed. Because the Forestry Board State Association will have a booth, the county members decided not to have a separate booth.

2006 CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE

A Centennial of Maryland Forestry patch is available for Boy and Girl Scouts to earn. It was suggested that the 4-H program be included in this program and that a $1 charge be made to defray expenses. The recommendations will be passed on to the Centennial Committee.

FOREST LANDOWNER QUESTIONNAIRE

The Allegany County Forest Conservancy Board has developed a questionnaire for the Garrett County members to review. The purpose of the questionnaire is to discover if there is interest to develop a workshop about forest land taxes and estate planning. If enough interest exists, workshops could be planned for each county.

WOODLAND OWNERS ASSOCIATION FORMING

An association is being formed in Frederick County by those who attended the Frederick County Cooperative Extension's Forestry Short Course. A discussion ensued about forming a state association, and our members will discuss this proposal at their next meeting.

FIRE CAUTION REMINDER

Warning – the woods are dry and fall here, so forest users are urged to be careful with fire!

OCTOBER MEETING SLATED

The next meeting of the Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board is slated for 9 a.m. on Monday, Oct. 10, at the Mt. Nebo office. The public is invited.

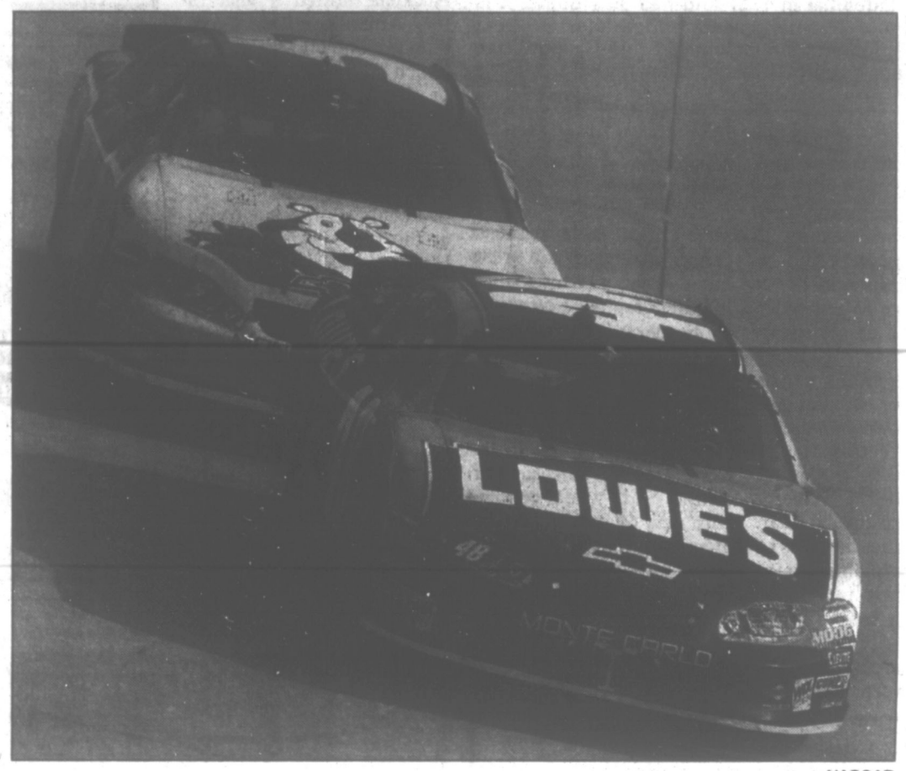
DOVER REVIEW



NASCAR

Jimmie Johnson leads Hendrick Motorsports teammate Kyle Busch in the closing laps of Sunday's MBNA RacePoints 400. Johnson won the race, the second in the Chase.

Johnson wins at Dover

Hendrick driver holds off teammate to grab victory

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Dover, Del.

With the lead in the Chase for the Nextel Cup championship hanging in the balance, Jimmie Johnson sat in an ideal position in the closing laps of Sunday's MBNA RacePoints 400 with Kyle Busch locked on his rear bumper.

But Johnson's rookie teammate had other ideas after a race caution set up a two-lap dash to the finish.

Despite being pushed to the limit, Johnson managed to eke out a .08 second victory over the 20-year-old Busch and vault into the lead in the Chase for the Cup.

Busch, who closed in on Johnson twice during the final two-lap sprint, said he was never operating under a team directive after he was forced to settle for second.

"As far as team orders or anything, there was none of that," said Busch, who became the youngest winner in Cup history with his victory at California three weeks ago. "It was go out and get it. I know he's a Chase factor, but it doesn't much matter to me. I'm trying to race as hard as I can to win."

Johnson, the runner-up in the title battle the past two seasons, said he was confident Busch wouldn't resort to tactics seen the previous week at Loudon, N.H., by drivers who used their front bumper to nudge fellow drivers.

"That's all you can ask for, just enough room to race," said Johnson, who jumped from sixth to the lead in the Chase standings. "You know, everybody gets aggressive at times."

"But I felt comfortable leading the race, knowing my teammate was back there. If it was somebody else, I don't think I would have had the same comfort."

Rusty Wallace, who finished third, climbed to second in the Chase, seven points behind Johnson. The veteran driver said he needed more green-flag laps in the closing stages.

"Those guys beat me on the restarts," Wallace said. "I was spinning the tires."

"And second gear in my transmission was really killing me today. When I'd go to third gear there was just too much of a spread, and those guys would pull away from me."

Mark Martin edged pole sitter Ryan Newman for fourth. Elliott Sadler, Jeremy Mayfield, Kyle Petty, Carl Edwards and Casey Mears rounded out the top 10.

Tony Stewart, the leader in the Chase entering Sunday's event, was a nonfactor in an event extended to 404 laps following a caution on Lap 398.

Stewart, who struggled to stay on the lead lap throughout the afternoon, dropped to fifth in the standings, 23 points behind Johnson.

"Nobody saw this coming for sure," said Stewart, whose 18th-place run was his first finish outside the top 10 in the past 13 events. "I don't know why it was so bad."

"We've got to just go back to what we've been doing. We'll be fine. We'll get caught up."

DOVER NOTEBOOK

Roush drivers sputter in second Chase race

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Dover, Del.

Two races into NASCAR's 10-race Chase for the Nextel Cup, three of Roush Racing's five drivers appear on the brink of elimination.

For the second consecutive week, defending Cup champion Kurt Busch finished outside the top 20 and remains 10th in the standings, 170 points behind new Chase leader Jimmie Johnson.

BUSCH

Despite leading a race-high 192 laps, Busch, who finished 23rd, was hurt by untimely pit strategy and a punctured tire in the closing moments of the MBNA RacePoints 400.

Matt Kenseth ran in the top five much of the afternoon until a tire blew under green on Lap 216.

Kenseth managed to climb back to 10th with 50 laps remaining, just 17 laps before his Roush Ford slammed into the Turn 1 wall.

"Eight races is a lot of racing to do," said Kenseth, who finished 35th and fell to ninth in the Chase, 124 points behind Johnson.

Teammate Carl Edwards climbed one position to eighth in the standings after soldiering a poor-handling car to a ninth-place finish.

A replacement named?

Rusty Wallace may have inadvertently announced who will replace him in the No. 2 Dodge next season when he said "this is the last hurrah for me in this car before I turn it over to Kurt [Busch]."

WALLACE

Busch, who is set to leave Roush Racing and move to Penske Racing South in 2007, might make the transition next season instead.

"I know those lawyers are still fighting around, trying to get him out of that deal [with Roush]," Wallace said. "I was with him last week golfing and he wants to drive the [No. 2] car. They'll work it out. I'm pretty confident something will happen."

NASCAR president issues warning

Helton says NASCAR won't tolerate incidents of retaliation on track

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Dover, Del.

One week after a series of retaliation incidents at Loudon, N.H., NASCAR President Mike Helton fulfilled a promise to address the issue in the drivers meeting at Dover.

"Those of you who have been around for a while understand the way NASCAR approaches the attitude of the sport when it comes to you in relationship with each other," Helton said. "But if that attitude starts going in a direction where it is conflicting with the orderly conduct of the events, then we get involved.

"And if we see things continue in the direction that we've seen the last two or three weeks, then we will continue to ramp up our reaction to be more severe than even the last one we issued out Monday [Sept. 19]."

Helton defended the penalties issued last week, which were viewed as relatively light. NASCAR Vice President Jim Hunter had hinted at New Hampshire that a suspension might be forthcoming.

"I don't think Jim's comments were specific as to what had already happened [at Loudon] as much as it was an expression of NASCAR's desire going forward," Helton said.

After holding drivers for two to five laps for similar retaliatory incidents at Bristol and Richmond, Helton said NASCAR increased the punishment by disallowing Kasey Kahne and Robby Gordon's teams to make repairs to their battered cars.

"We parked them for the day. And on top of that, the penalties they received [on Sept. 19] were far more severe than what we had done in the past."

Michael Waltrip said he phoned Gordon last week in an effort to settle their dispute, which erupted after Waltrip's Chevrolet turned Gordon's No. 7 into the backstretch wall at New Hampshire.

"The bottom line is I did not mean to crash him," said Waltrip, who offered to loan Gordon a car from his Michael Waltrip Racing-owned team. "And he obviously felt like I did. He was really, really mad, as you might expect.

"Once I gave him a day or two to cool off, I just wanted to call him and say, 'Look, I know I did wreck you. My intent was not to crash you, and I'm sorry it happened.' "

Gordon briefly acknowledged the exchange.

"I had a conversation with Michael," Gordon said. "We talked to each other. It's all good, and on to the next weekend."

Gordon, an independent car owner, appeared relieved that NASCAR's $35,000 fine and 50-point penalty against him were not more severe.

"Suspensions would definitely get everybody's attention," Gordon said. "But it might just put us out of business."

Helton said one of his responsibilities is maintaining the fine line between entertaining fans and maintaining sanity, on and off the track, between competitors.

"I think we deal with balance every day," Helton said. "This is a sport, and anybody that follows it needs to remember that it is a sport, and it's emotionally charged, just like any other. And it's pretty aggressively charged."

Helton is confident the tantrums at New Hampshire won't overshadow this year's Chase for the Nextel Cup.

"I think the first race of the Chase sets the tone for the balance of the season, from a competition element and competitiveness on the race track.

"And that's going to be the lasting force the rest of this season. It won't be Robby Gordon and Michael Waltrip. It's going to be more of Tony Stewart and Ryan Newman."

Newman gets past wrecks to win 4th in row, tie record

Ryan Newman led 193 laps to easily win Saturday's crash-filled Busch Series Dover 200. It was Newman's fourth consecutive victory in NASCAR's junior circuit.

"It feels good to win four straight," said Newman, who tied a mark established by Sam Ard in 1983. "To get to Victory Lane at Dover is special for me because I enjoy the racetrack."

Clint Bowyer finished second, ahead of Jason Leffler, Reed Sorenson and Greg Biffle.

Busch Series points leader Martin Truex Jr., who finished 12th, saw his championship lead shrink to 26 over Bowyer after he got a cut tire with four laps remaining while running second.

The winner averaged 115.644 mph in a race slowed three times by 21 laps run under caution.

Maryland On Pace To Have $1.7 Billion In Extra Funds

Maryland Comptroller William Donald Schaefer announced this week that lawmakers are on pace to have an extra $1.7 billion when planning the state's 2007 fiscal year budget, according to the latest revenue estimates.

"All the information we have points to continued growth for the state's economy," said Comptroller Schaefer. "We should be encouraged by the estimates, but plan responsibly for the future, giving back money to some very important programs while being cautious not to over-extend ourselves."

The Comptroller's suggested programs to solidify include:

Restoring $7 million in healthcare funding for pregnant legal immigrant mothers and their children;

Restoring $42 million for nursing home funding for low-income elderly;

Restoring $31.7 million to state employee prescription costs; and Providing cost of living allowances (COLA) for state employees.

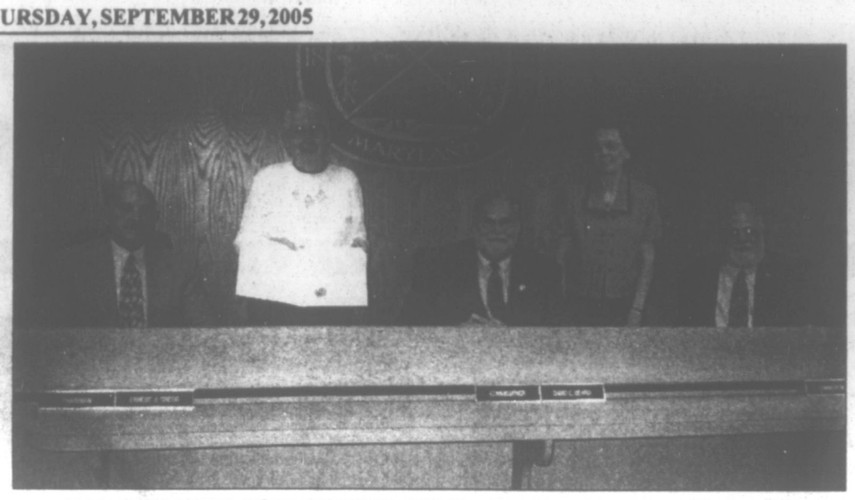
The more than $1.717 billion in possible surplus stems from $603 million in FY 2005 revenue not yet designated for spending in FY 2006, as well as $503 million in surplus revenue over FY 2006 and $611 million in FY 2007, as forecast in estimates released Sept. 15 from the Comptroller's Bureau of Revenue Estimates.

Fiscal year 2006 revenues, according to the estimates, are expected to grow 5.0 percent, a rate significantly less than the growth seen over FY 2005 (13.2 percent). In FY 2007, revenue is expected to grow 4.4 percent.

State law requires the governor to appropriate all surplus funds that exceed $10 million into the Revenue Stabilization Account, also known as the "Rainy Day" fund. The fund was created in 1986 to supplement state revenues during rough or uncertain economic times.

"Fiscal year 2005 was a great year for the state's economy, and in some cases we saw unprecedented growth," said Schaefer. "As I've said all along, though, we have to plan responsibly. A surplus today can easily turn into a deficit tomorrow. Restoring some of the budgetary cuts most in need, now, is smart and will save the state money in the long run."

The current revenue estimates are based on analysis from before Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, but it is expected that Maryland's economy will suffer only minor effects from the storms overall. High gasoline and heating fuel prices are among the indirect risks to the state's continued growth; however, lower than previously anticipated mortgage rates are expected to boost several revenue sources.



DAR OBSERVES CONSTITUTION WEEK – The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) marked Constitution Week recently as the Garrett County commissioners signed a proclamation recognizing the 218th anniversary of the adoption of the U.S. Constitution. Forty years ago the national DAR society originated the idea of devoting an entire week to the Constitution by extending the period beyond Sept. 17, and the U.S. Congress eventually approved the concept by designating an annual Constitution Week. A new law requires that all schools receiving federal funds conduct lessons about the Constitution during the observance. The U.S. Constitution is the oldest constitution still active in the world. It was created in Philadelphia in 1787 and has 39 signers. It is made up of a preamble, seven articles, and 27 amendments added later over the years. Shown seated, from the left, are county commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday, and standing are Yough Glades chapter registrar Martha Kahl and regent Dorothy Cathell.

Persons wishing to attend may make a reservation by calling 304-463-4068.

Realtor Institute Class Slated At Garrett College

The 400 series of the Graduate Realtor Institute (GRI) will be offered over five Fridays, beginning Oct. 7 and ending Nov. 4, at Garrett College. The classes will meet from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and may be taken as the full five-session series or as individual sessions for real estate continuing education. The prerequisite for taking the complete series is completion of GRI's 100, 200, and 300 series.

The course is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Realtors in cooperation with western Maryland's community colleges and local real estate boards and associations.

Pre-registration is required, and the registration deadline is Friday, Sept. 30. For additional information, or to register, persons may call the Continuing Education Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069.

October Cited As Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Garrett County Memorial Hospital reminds residents that October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

October 2005 marks the 21st year of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Since the program began in 1985, mammography rates have more than doubled for women age 50 and older (from 25 percent in 1987 to 69 percent in 1998), and breast cancer deaths have declined by 1.6 percent between 1989 and 1995.

"This is exciting progress, but there are still women who do not take advantage of early detection at all and others who do not get screening mammograms and clinical breast exams at regular intervals," said a hospital spokesperson.

Women age 65 and older are less likely to get mammograms than younger women (55 percent versus 65 percent for women age 40 – 49), even though breast cancer risk increases with age.

Women below poverty level are less likely than women at higher incomes to have had a mammogram within the past two years (44 percent versus 65 percent, respectively).

Mammography use increased between 1989 and 1997 for all groups except American Indians and Alaska Natives.

Early detection is the most critical issue in breast cancer diagnosis and treatment. That is why regular mammography screenings are imperative for women over 40. A mammogram can find cancer when it is most treatable, often one to three years before a woman can feel a lump with the recommended breast self-exam. And, when coupled with new treatment options, mammography screenings can significantly improve the chances of survival. And although breast cancer is 100 times more common in women, men can also develop breast cancer and should perform routine breast self-exams.

"If all women age 40 and older took advantage of early detection methods – mammography plus clinical breast exam – breast cancer death rates would drop much further, up to 30 percent," said Kearstin Hinebaugh, spokesperson for GCMH. "The key to mammography screening is that it be done routinely – once is not enough."

For more information on the services offered at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, persons may contact the hospital at 301-533-4000.

Co-star maintains 'Law' on screen and off

By Jay Bobbin

Fred Dalton Thompson

Q: I see a Senator Fred Thompson in the news, and he looks like the Fred Thompson on the TV show "Law & Order." Is he the same person? –J. Higa, Carson, Calif.

A: Indeed he is. Known professionally as Fred Dalton Thompson as an actor, he was an attorney (and one who participated in the early-1970s Watergate hearings) before he entered show business with roles in movies such as "No Way Out," "The Hunt for Red October" and "Die Hard 2." He then stepped fully into the political arena with his 1994 election to the U.S. Senate, representing his home state of Tennessee. Thompson remained on Capitol Hill until he decided not to run for re-election in 2002, thus paving his way to accept the "Law & Order" role of District Attorney Arthur Branch.

Q: We watched the series "Greatest American," and we got down to the final five. My sister and I voted for Benjamin Franklin, then we missed the final show. Who won? –Sherry Hyde, Lorain, Ohio.

A: Ronald Reagan ultimately was declared "Greatest American" on the Matt Lauer-hosted series that Discovery Channel ran through the month of June. Abraham Lincoln came in a close second; Franklin was fifth.

Q: Some time back, Jan-Michael Vincent and Ernest Borgnine starred in an action series called "Airwolf." Is there a blip on the radar screen that it will be out on DVD? –Ric Olsen, Bellevue, Neb.

A: Actually, more than a blip, since it should be showing up solidly on your radar screen now. Universal Studios Home Video released a boxed set of the first season of the show, about a super-helicopter and its pilots, at the end of May.

Q: Recently, I was watching Paula Deen's wedding on Food Network. Can you find out the name of the wedding song? I just love it. –Susan Lee, Glen Ellyn, Ill.

A: It's titled "Here," and it's by country artist Meghan Shanley, a former Miss Virginia. Incidentally, you can catch Deen's movie debut opposite Orlando Bloom and Kirsten Dunst in the soon-to-be-released "Elizabethtown," written and directed by Cameron Crowe ("Jerry Maguire").

Chromium Is Involved In Metabolism

Chromium is a mineral that the body uses in very small amounts. However, it improves the action of naturally occurring insulin and is also directly involved in the metabolism (breakdown) of carbohydrates, fat, and protein in the body. Chromium can be found in whole grain products, meat, some fruits and vegetables, and spices. Some examples are whole wheat bread, turkey, broccoli, and garlic. While chromium deficiency is rare, consuming a diet high im simple sugars can decrease chromium levels in the body by increasing the amount of chromium that is eliminated in the urine. Infection, stressful states, pregnancy, and lactation, can also increase chromium losses.

The National Academy of Sciences established an Adequate Intake (AI) of 35 mcg per day for men aged 19-50 and 25 mcg per day for women (non-pregnant or breast feeding) aged 19-50. To date, studies evaluating the efficacy of chromium supplements in improving diabetes and high cholesterol have been inconclusive. Further studies evaluating the effect of chromium supplementation on diabetes and high cholesterol are underway.

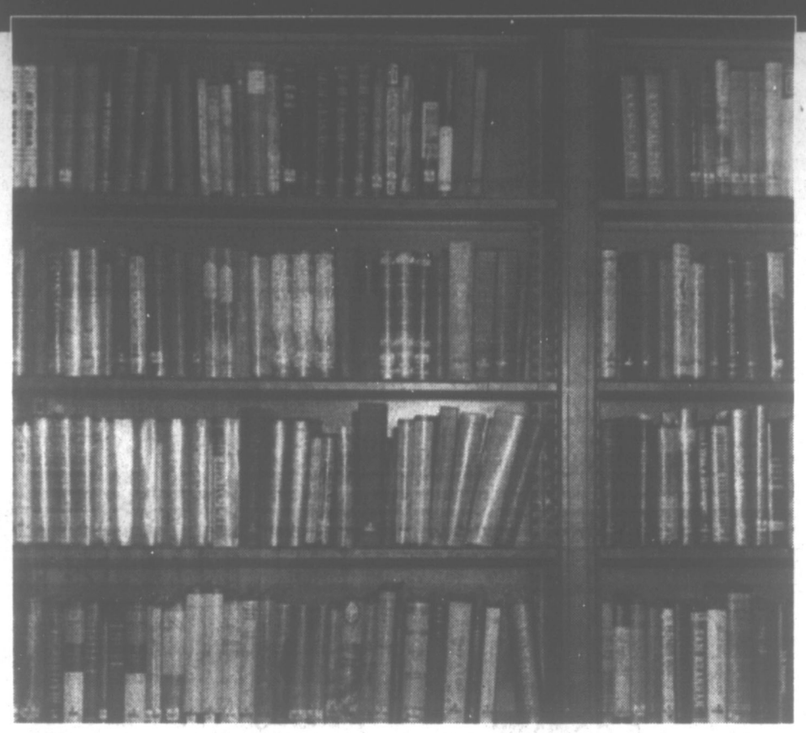
Books Are Noble



The library is a wonderful and unique place. Step inside and enjoy the quiet surroundings. Choose a book to dispel your loneliness, lift your spirits, banish your worries, and transport yourself into another time and place.

Books literally have the power to change your life. Read about history, science, psychology and many other subjects that can stimulate your intellect and arouse your curiosity. Read about fashion, home repair, art, or cooking and be inspired by the creations of mankind. Escape into a good novel or mystery. Without the power of books, our knowledge of the world is limited.

One immortal book offers beauty, hope and inspiration — more than any other. It is the story of both what has been and what will be…a book of promises fulfilled and fulfillment yet to come. In Job 12:13 we read, "To God belong wisdom and power; counsel and understanding are his."

This is God's Word, the Bible. Read this book and be inspired!

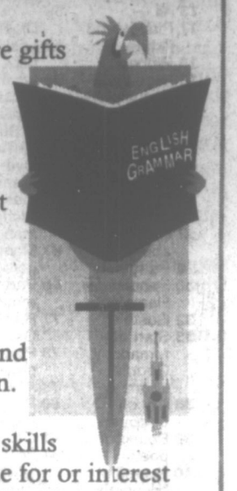
STRENGTH



Our talents and strengths are gifts from God which we then give back to God by developing them and using them in a constructive manner to help others. Most of us enjoy exercising our strengths, and thus we are doubly blessed that we can profit by doing something that comes naturally to us and in which we find satisfaction. Rather than spending time and effort trying to develop skills that we have no real aptitude for or interest in, we are probably better off trying to work with our God-given strengths. If you are naturally a nurturing, giving person, try to incorporate these strengths into your life and work, for instance, by taking on the role of care-giver. If you are naturally curious and inquisitive, you might develop your talents for research or teaching. We all have unique strengths which we bring to life. Develop yours, and you will find that not only will your life be more satisfying, but perhaps more importantly, you will naturally benefit those around you.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• A case of poetic justice: A man in Argentina, furious with his wife, pushed her out the window of their eighth-floor apartment. She became tangled in power cables, though, so he reached out and tried to free her. Though the woman managed to grab a balcony railing and pull herself to safety, her husband plummeted to his death.

• The human brain is 60 percent fat.

• In May 1944, the London newspaper the "Daily Telegraph" published a crossword that got quite a bit of unexpected scrutiny. It seems that five of the answers — Utah, Omaha, overlord, mulberry and Neptune — were actually classified code words used to designate beaches that had been selected as landing sites in the upcoming D-Day invasion. The United Kingdom's Department of Military Intelligence feared that someone was using the crossword to pass secret messages to the Germans, but after an investigation the incident was ruled a coincidence.

• Famed opera tenor Luciano Pavarotti was a schoolteacher until the age of 22, at which point he started selling insurance. He didn't begin his singing career until he was 25.

• Max Lerner, a political columnist for the New York Post, once offered the following advice to journalists — but it also applies to life in general, I believe. "When you choose the lesser of two evils, always remember that it is still an evil."

• The word "liqueur" is derived from the Latin word meaning "melt" or "dissolve."

• Emily, Anne and Charlotte Brontë — authors all — were quite a famous sorority of literary sisters. Their first work was a joint collection of poetry, published under the names Ellis, Currer and Acton Bell. Unfortunately, it wasn't what one might consider to be a commercial success: It sold all of two copies.

He was acquitted, and the book became a popular success.

No Quick Fix for Fleas

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: In response to a South Carolina reader's question about fleas in the house — I have the answer. We dealt with fleas a couple years ago when we bought a home that was infested with millions, if not more.

Call or go to Lazy Creek Pet Food Center in Lexington, S.C. (across from WalMart). Ask for Bradley. If he isn't there, ask one of the people there about "Flea Stoppers" — you sprinkle it everywhere on the floors and cracks of furniture, especially where the animal has lain. I wouldn't put it in the bed, though. The store staff can tell you exactly how to do it.

You have to break the flea cycle. Vacuum daily for 10 days. We didn't throw the bag away daily, because the vacuum picked up the Flea Stopper stuff and so any fleas inside the bag would ingest it. We have had dogs for years, and nothing works like this product.

Then you need to treat the pet with a flea dip and treat your yard, use a product specifically for fleas. You must go through all these steps to break the cycle. There is no easy or quick way. It took us almost six weeks. We even fumigated our home. It was so bad, we tore the old carpet out (we were going to anyway) and there were still fleas hatching everywhere. — Janis M., South Carolina

DEAR JANIS: Thank you for the advice! I hope all my readers dealing with nagging flea problems will have some relief thanks to your personal experience. Fleas can be a really tough pest to eradicate!

State Rejects Defibrillator Requirement

by Kim Hart
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Nicole Bohrer just purchased a life-saving device that she hopes she will never have to use in the nursing home she runs in Frederick. Two weeks earlier, Wanda Lapp registered one to use in her assisted living facility in Garrett County.

They are two of only three residential health facilities in the state that are registered owners of Automated External Defibrillators, or AEDs, which are portable lunchbox-sized machines that shock a patient's heart back to a normal rhythm during a heart attack. This week, Maryland health officials decided not to require all 240 nursing homes and 1,500 assisted living facilities licensed by the state to keep an AED on site. Others, though, say these places are where the devices are needed most.

"It seems peculiar that schools and shopping malls would have these before nursing homes, where under one roof we have more members of the frail population that could benefit from them," said Bohrer, who manages Frederick's Citizens Care and Rehabilitation Center, a nursing home with 170 beds. "It just makes sense to have one."

In 1999, Maryland created a voluntary program through which any facility – from government buildings to private businesses – could own and operate an AED as long as it is registered and certified with the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services. Currently 526 facilities at 1,084 locations are registered with the state, according to Lisa Myers, who directs the program. Only three of those sites are residential health care facilities.

During the past legislative session, a bill to require all assisted living facilities with more than nine beds and nursing homes to keep an AED on site passed unanimously in the House of Delegates, but failed in the Senate, which asked for further review by the state health department. Wendy Kronmiller, acting director of the state Office of Health Care Quality, gave the department's answer at a hearing on Tuesday before the Senate Finance Committee, rejecting the proposal on the grounds that AEDs are not effective for all patient populations and too expensive for some facilities to afford.

"We're not saying that they're not good things to have, but right now we're not in a place to require them," Kronmiller said. Instead, she suggested implementing regulations that would require all facilities to disclose whether or not an AED is on site to use as a marketing tool to attract patients.

Sheila Mackertich of the Health Facilities Association of Maryland, which represents 135 nursing homes and 20 assisted living programs, said many facilities are planning to purchase AEDs regardless of the state policy. "As long as consumers are aware of what their options are – that's what's important to us," she said.

AEDs can stop a heart attack that is caused by cardiac arrhythmia – or irregular heartbeat – which accounts for about half of all attacks, according to Ron Berger, a professor at The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. Successful resuscitation of a heart-attack victim quickly declines after the first few minutes, so an AED is useful when paramedics can't get there in time.

Delegate Robert A. Costa, R-Anne Arundel, who sponsored the legislation, said he plans to introduce it again in the upcoming session. "Any tool or resource that the state can do to save lives has got to be implemented," he said, adding that several AED manufacturers agreed to provide group discounts on the devices to help offset the cost.

But Kronmiller questioned the real effectiveness of AEDs, pointing to a study released by the Maryland Institute of Medical Systems Services that tracked the location of heart attacks in the state over a two-year period. According to the report, the majority of attacks occur at home, and an AED in a skilled nursing facility would likely be used only once every six months.

Looking at the same report, Michaeline Fedder of the American Heart Association pointed out that an AED at a race course would be used once every two years, while one at a school would be used every 333 years.

"In these places it's more likely to happen on a regular basis," Fedder said. "This is a relatively easy way to save a life."

AEDs, which cost between $800 and $4,000 each, are appearing at more and more public places where large groups of people gather, like airports, stadiums, and office buildings. Commercial airplanes are required by federal law to carry a device on board. Statewide, 51 schools and universities and 28 religious organizations have registered at least one AED. Montgomery County now requires all commercial gyms and fitness centers to have one.

Under the current voluntary program, nursing homes are not required to register their AEDs with the state and follow state guidelines, which has the practical effect of dissuading some nursing home operators from purchasing them.

Matt Neiswanger, who manages a total of 307 beds at Annapolis Nursing Home and Rehabilitation Center and St. Thomas More Nursing and Rehabilitation in Hyattsville, said "any equipment that you bring into a nursing home without regulation is setting yourself up" for liability lawsuits. He added that many nursing homes, including his, have staff trained to handle cardiac arrest situations. "We're pretty much set," he said.

Lapp, who manages the 24-bed Cherry Hill Assisted Living in Accident, opted to buy the device more out of concern for her large number of visitors than her residents, 98 percent of whom do not wish to be resuscitated.

Hopkins' Berger said a nursing home seems to be a "reasonable place" for an AED, but it should be looked at on a case-by-case basis. "If you have a large collection of people who would like to be resuscitated, then that's a setting where one would be warranted," he said.

Detraining: If You Don't Use It, You Will Lose It

If you've been sidelined by an injury, or you're considering taking a break from exercise, you might wonder if you'll lose your hard-earned strength and endurance. Some loss of fitness is inevitable, but there are ways to help minimize it.

Here's what happens to your body when you take a break from exercise:

Heart – The degree to which cardiovascular fitness declines during a period of detraining depends upon what kind of shape you were in to begin with. Individuals who are extremely fit, such as highly trained athletes, experience a rapid drop in fitness during the first three weeks of detraining, which then tapers off.

A significant level of fitness – higher than that of an untrained person – is retained for about 12 weeks. Individuals with low-to-moderate fitness levels show little change in cardiovascular fitness within the first few weeks, but their ability rapidly declines in the weeks immediately following.

Performing in Activities – The ability to perform a given sport or activity, whether it involves swinging a bat in softball or running 10-Ks, invariably declines when the sport is abandoned for any length of time. One study found that marathoners experienced a 25-percent decrease in endurance time during a maximal aerobic treadmill test after just 15 days of inactivity.

Another showed that a swimmer's arm strength declined by more than 13 percent within four weeks of abandoning his regular training regimen.

Numerous variables come into play when analyzing the ability to perform a particular sport-specific skill, making it difficult to analyze the effects of detraining. Some are like riding a bike – you never forget how – while others, such as the ability to deliver an accurate serve in tennis, for example, involve specific timing and well-trained muscles.

Muscles – With the exception of a genetically blessed few, most of us have to work at building strength through formal or informal strength-training workouts. Again, well-trained athletes have the edge, because the positive effects of training remain evident weeks, sometimes even months, after ending training.

Lesser-trained individuals can expect to see their muscle strength and conditioning decline at a slightly faster rate, though not at the levels seen in sedentary individuals.

What can you do to combat detraining?

Experts agree that the best way to avoid losing much of the health and fitness benefits you've worked so hard to achieve is to do something. If you can't find the motivation to run for a few weeks or longer, try walking instead. Cross training became popular because it is a viable means of maintaining, even increasing, your fitness level.

Runners can give their knees a break by switching to cycling, swimmers can work their legs on a stair stepper, and aerobics enthusiasts can take their workout outdoors by hiking through a local park or reserve.

If an injury is keeping you from your favorite activities, take your worries to the pool. Of course, it's always advisable to check with your physician before resuming exercise after an injury. Regardless of which activity you choose, be sure to progress gradually.

If boredom is the problem, now is the time to try that sport you've been considering for so long. In-line skating, tai chi, boot-camp workouts, whatever strikes you. The key is to keep your heart and muscles challenged in order to minimize the detraining effects that come when taking a break from your usual routine.

GCMH FOUNDATION CUTS RIBBON ON DARBY HOUSE The family of the late Dr. John Dade Darby, a prominent Oakland physician in the 1920s, donated his house, which is located on the corner of Memorial Drive and Fourth Street, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The utilization of the house has not been decided at this point, but Don Battista, CEO/president, said it will be used to benefit the hospital in some way. Pictured above, from the left, are Battista, Jacob Gilbert, John Richard McMahon, Stacie Gilbert, Bruce Gilbert, Darby Gilbert (partially hidden), Dade Darby McMahon, Jim Darby, Wendy McMahon, Sophia McMahon, Hunt McMahon, John M. Hospital Accepts Donation From Darby Family

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation recently accepted a generous donation of the Darby House, which is located on the corner of Memorial Drive and Fourth Street in Oakland.

The home once belonged to Dr. John Darby, a prominent physician in Oakland during the 1920s.

Dr. John Dade Darby, son of Gertrude and James W. Darby, was born on Oct. 27, 1888, at Buck Lodge, but spent the greater part of his life in Poolesville, Montgomery County.

Darby was educated at the Maryland Agricultural College, but later attended the University of Maryland, where he received his medical instruction. Upon completing the study of medicine, he came to Oakland in 1914 where "by his courtesy and pleasing personality" he succeeded in establishing a flourishing practice, said a hospital spokesperson.

At the outbreak of World War I, Dr. Darby enlisted in the United States Army and was made first lieutenant in the Medical Transport Service, where he served for 18 months, being honorably discharged at the close of the war. During his term of service he made several voyages overseas with the troop ships.

When the American Legion post was formed in Oakland, Dr. Darby was elected as its first commander. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Garrett-Allegany Medical Association, and a vestryman of St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church.

On May 19, 1919, Dr. Darby married Nell Bosley of Oakland. They had three sons, John, Edwin, and James.

Upon the passing of her father, John Darby Jr., Dade Darby McMahon decided to donate the home her father grew up in to the hospital foundation.

"Hospitals usually buy nearby homes, so I wanted this to be the first one for Garrett County Memorial Hospital to have," said McMahon. "And I simply thought it was a nice thing to do."

The foundation is currently exploring its options for utilization, but Donald Battista, president/CEO of GCMH, said at the ribbon-cutting ceremony, "Whatever the foundation decides, you can be sure that the Darby House will be used to benefit the hospital."

For more information on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, persons may call Kathy Greaser at 301-533-4178.

DCL Lions Club Receives Warren Bledsoe Award

Staff from the Maryland School for the Blind recently recognized the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club for its commitment to the blind skier program with its C. Warren Bledsoe Award. This award has been presented only two times prior in the history of the school for special achievement in recognizing meritorious service in the areas of financial, material, and/or volunteer support.

For 33 years the Deep Creek Lions Club has been teaching children from the Maryland School for the Blind how to ski. This is one of few such programs, in particular the only one in the eastern United States, where a club has taken on such a challenge, according to a club spokesperson. Approximately 24 children each ski season participate in the program. All the students are legally blind; however, some are totally blind. Each session involves 2½ days on the slopes, six students, and many, many volunteers to make everything happen.

John Hart, chairman of the school's board of directors, presented the award, which was received for the club by Tom Wenzel, who directs the blind ski program and is, himself, a "Melvin Jones Lion."

The late C. Warren Bledsoe, although not blind, grew up among the students at the Md. School for the Blind. He dedicated his entire life to service to the blind and once stated, "I hold the art of teaching blind people how to perform without sight among the highest callings a human being may answer in life." After graduating from Princeton University, Bledsoe taught at the MFSB for six years and returned there in 1976 to serve on its board of directors.

"The Lions Club blind skiers program at Wisp Resort is not possible without the work of numerous volunteers and the participation of the Wisp Ski School," said Wenzel.

Those recognized at the awards event for their contributions to the program through the years included Wenzel; Pam Schirmer; Linda Buchannan, Trudy Pickrel, and Nancy Geisler, coordinators of on-slope instructions and training volunteer guides; Mark Halsig of Wisp Ski Patrol; Barbara Law, coordinator of student volunteers from Northern and Southern high schools; LaDonna Stem, Railey Mountain Lake Rentals, arranging lodging; Andrea and Ron Coscia, David and Ann Norton, and William Dombrowski, who donated use of their townhomes for the blind students; Jonathan and Kathy Kessler, Smiley's Pizzeria, for meals; William Thoman (posthumously) and Joseph Kamineck for originating the program 33 years ago; and Wisp Resort and the Heise family, for the ski mountain, equipment, and lift attendants who assisted the children.

"And to the countless other volunteers too numerous to mention who have helped with this program. Special thanks to the volunteer guides from our high schools and to local residents who have graciously given hours of their time to make this program a success," said a club spokesperson.

Another presentation of the C. Warren Bledsoe Award will be made in Baltimore at the Md. School for the Blind on Saturday, Oct. 22. Many DCL Lions members will be attending to enjoy BaltOween, a distinctive outdoor festival held on the 95-acre campus of MDSB where more than 5,000 individuals are expected to attend. Proceeds go to providing essential educational and therapeutic programs to the 700+ students, birth to 21, across Maryland who are blind.

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 6735 in Mt. Storm has been busy and is looking forward to a great year of membership and activity, according to an auxiliary spokesperson.

Of the group's 92 members, 72 have paid their dues.

"Ladies get your memberships in so that we can be 100 percent paid," she said. Dues are $17.50.

Officers for the 2005-206 term have been elected and sworn into office. They are as follows: Denise Sirk, president; Sue Conrad, treasurer; Debbie Harvey, secretary; Delores Cox, senior vice; Charlene Junkins, junior vice; Opal Lewis, conductress; Nancy Kitzmiller, chaplain; Ramona Hanlin, guard and patriotic instructor; Charlene Junkins 3-year trustee; Nancy Kitzmiller, 2-year trustee; and Karen Bailey, 1-year trustee.

President Sirk brought back several awards and certificates from the state convention that was held June 17-19. The auxiliary received third place for its Buddy Poppy memorial display, second place for its Buddy Poppy public promotion display, a certificate for Best Overall Program Division E Rehab, and certificates for youth, membership, and community service.

In July, the auxiliary sent items to the veterans hospital in Barboursville, provided items to be used as door prizes for senior citizens' bingo events, held a Buddy Poppy drive, held a class on skin cancer awareness, and helped with a benefit dinner for a post member. Donations were made to an auxiliary sister's family, the VA center in Martinsburg, Grace Minnick Scholarship Fund, Operation Uplink, and Special Olympics.

In August, the auxiliary worked closely with the Mt. Storm Volunteer Fire Department and cosponsored an ATV safety awareness class at the fire hall.

At the September meeting, the group held POW/MIA ceremonies and a 9/11 remembrance ceremony.

Also during this month, the members decided to support Mtn. Top Girl Scout troops, collect personal care items for the VA hospital in Barboursville and for troops overseas, and make a donation to the Memorial Roll and Parade of Checks at the fall conference.

For its Make a Difference project, the organization will adopt the art department at the Union Educational Complex and one of its auxiliary sisters.

The members are also sponsoring the Voice of Democracy (VOD) and Patriot's Pen essay contests. This year's Patriot's Pen theme is "Who are Today's Patriots?" It is open to students in grades 6, 7, and 8. The theme for the VOD contest is "How I Demonstrate My Freedom," and the contest is open to those in grades 9 through 12. The deadline for both contests is Nov. 1.

The auxiliary's annual Veterans Day Bean Dinner will be held Friday, Nov. 11. A baked steak dinner will also be held for the group's annual Hunters' Special on Nov. 20. Details of these events will be provided at a later date.

The next auxiliary meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 11, at the VFW post.

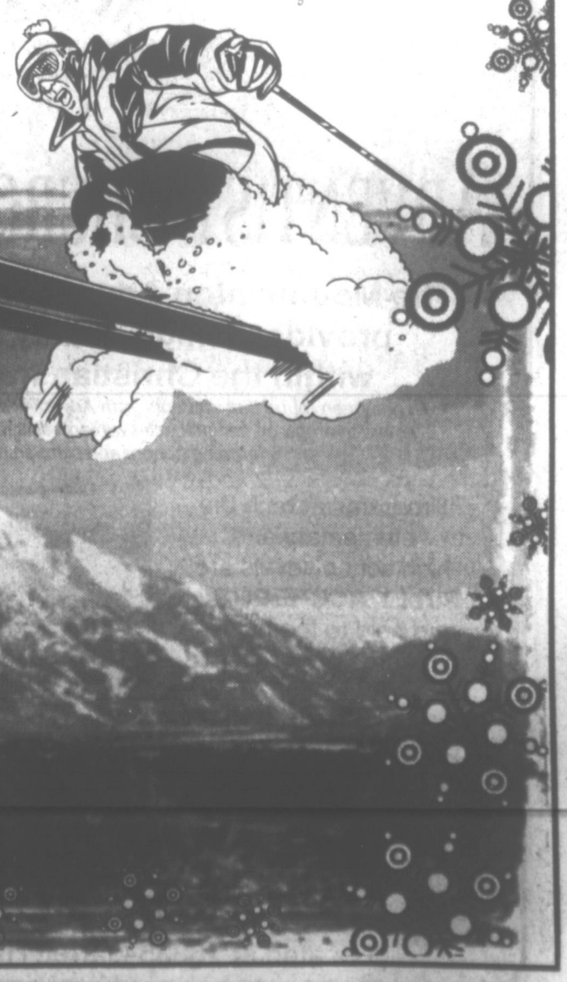
Way to go Josh Spiker & Brian Manecke!

If no one knows why we are saying this, let me quickly tell you. Brian's picture of Josh has been published as a FULL PAGE in the September issue of SKIING magazine. They have given our local resort AWESOME representation. Soon they will be leaving us to chase their dreams and passion of skiing, by moving out west. I know that they will catch this dream and would like to wish them the best of luck. If you see them before October 15 you can do the same!

WE ARE PROUD OF YOU!

Love, Your family & Friends

P.S. Be careful, guys, ski safe! To all of the kids that Josh has taught in the past let this be a lesson to go after your dreams. Josh started skiing Christmas Day almost 20 years ago in our yard. He has lived to ski, and we never understood it, but it has driven him and will always drive him. He has something called passion, and Josh, as long as you have that you can go so far. I look forward to seeing more pictures of you in the magazines. XOXO KAT



Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Once again I am taking a trip into my past, caused by seeing an old movie, Lassie Come Home. When I was just a kid I often walked from my grandparents' home (Charlie and Linnie Buckle) on Sunday afternoon to play with the Brenneman girls, Carolyn, Doris, and Ruthie, daughters of Russell and Mary Brenneman. Sometimes we watched movies on television, and one of my favorites was Lassie Come Home featuring Elizabeth Taylor in her first film role.

A few years later we had a collie like Lassie and she got lost. Every day I hoped and waited for her to come home. But she never did, and every time the TV show Lassie came on, I cried…

The film's Lassie met some very kind people on her way home. I never forget how kind the Brenneman girls were for taking time out from their teenager lives to entertain Carol and me. They can't know what impact they had on my character. But I do know now. I learned about gardening while I helped them with their chores, like weeding their big beautiful garden with all kind of vegetables and flowers in it, and we took long walks in the woods looking for wild flowers.

My earliest experience in horse handling was when they gave me rides on their Percheron work horses. I can still see those huge hooves. The most delicious hot chocolate that I ever tasted was a batch they made with cocoa powder and a fresh egg made on their wood cooking stove. I helped them tear rags for their mother, who made rag rugs. I learned how to draw horses from Ruth. I thought I would never draw horses as well as she did, but I practiced endlessly during school in my notebook's margins.

Speaking of kindness, my fourth grade teacher, Mary Strauss, inspired and motivated me to work hard. She noticed my drawings and made me make a booklet with each page having a picture of horses on it with poems under them. I won a blue ribbon on it at the fair and learned a valuable lesson about teaching too.

Hillary Clinton was so right when she said, "It takes a village to raise a child." No one had better parents than I did, as I learned so much from them and now have many of their characteristics, plus having two sets of wonderful grandparents living close to my home, as well as dozens of aunts and uncles with much to learn from them as well as many other adults who gave me their time and knowledge.

Although I never had a real riding instructor, many people of Garrett County's horse community taught so much to me, including John Beachy, Sandy Savage, and many others, not to mention the host of wonderful teachers I had at Accident Elementary and Northern High School, who are too many to mention their names. I was truly blessed in my teachers because they really cared about their students and wanted them to learn.

I am delighted to say that it was not just in the "good ol' days" when I was a student, but my daughters are almost as lucky as I was. In fact, Claire and Caitlin are thinking about a career in teaching because they know what an important job that is. Caitlin will never forget about the kind, loving care she received from her kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Sharon Platter, when I was critically ill.

Speaking of my daughters, the Northern High junior varsity volleyball team scored its first win, and Meredith contributed a spike!

Some Bittinger parents enjoyed a visit from their college students. My Claire was home, as well as her cousins Matthew Bass and Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty. But their visit was too short.

Almost everyone agrees that we still need more rain. I was glad to see the falling water, but I don't enjoy the cooler temperatures. Several persons expressed concern that our dry summer will affect our autumn leaves. Maybe the last-minute moisture will be enough to save our autumn glory. I already have seen many trees starting to change color, especially a small scarlet swamp maple along Rock Lodge Road. But our sugar maples are still completely green.

I hate going to Oakland during Autumn Glory weekend, as the crowd is worse than New York City during rush hour. It is true that Second Street has some beautiful, golden trees, but if you want to enjoy Garrett County Autumn Glory you have to go out into the country. Let me suggest a drive along Rock Lodge Road. Turn right on the first road after the Deep Creek bridge and you see the lake lined by spectacular colored trees. After you pass the lake, on the right side is a beautiful hemlock woods along the rocky Cherry Creek with many beautiful boulders. Then when you get into open country several nice swamps exhibit multiple colored ferns. Before you get out of the woods, though, on the left is our famous Rock Lodge spring, but unless we get some rain you will be unable to get some delicious, clear spring water.

The five or so miles between the spring and Rt. 495 have some of the most lovely farm land around, and then of course the ultimate autumn site, Brenneman's Grove, with its ancient, big sugar maple trees and one of the finest old-fashioned split-rail fences. If you are hungry you can stop at Brenneman's Store to feast on soft-serve ice cream or hamburgers, hot dogs, etc.

If you go straight north of Rt. 495 you can visit an old-fashioned country store, Buckel's Store, which is stocked with various general merchandise, as well as gas. Directly across from Buckel's Store is Frank Brenneman Road, and if you follow it to New Germany Road and descend the steep portion you are not only under the leaves, but sometimes beside the tree tops. I never let autumn go by without taking that drive. After turning left on New Germany Road it is a very beautiful drive now lined with big trees and fox grape vines. You can pull off at Monroe Vista Overlook, where you can see many miles of rolling mountains.

Then just a few more miles down the road you come to Howe's Country Store, where you can again do some eating and shopping. A little farther down the road is a very pristine state park with a lake like Deep Creek Lake used to be when only lined with trees. You might want to bring your fishing license and your rod, as you might catch your dinner in the lake.

Eventually you will end up in the Grantsville area, where several fine dining opportunities await. It is only a short trip to Amish country around Springs, Pa. If you are lucky you may see old-fashioned, horse-powered harvesting. You will almost certainly meet a horse and buggy. If you arrive in Springs you should visit the Springs museum. It has a fine collection of heritage items, as well as natural science, including rocks and fossils. It is a shame that Oakland lays claim to Autumn Glory, because the rest of Garrett County has lots to offer to the many tourists and even our own local people. No parade can match real Garrett County's natural beauty.

Another fine scenery drive is off Rt. 495, a beautiful road called Dung Hill Road. If you follow it down Bowman Hill Road you will see vistas and fine forests. When you reach the bottom on Fish Hatchery Road there is a beautiful old mill. Following on out Fish Hatchery Road you will turn onto Bear Creek Road to Friendsville, which is one friendly town in America and now our local whitewater center. I do a river run in autumn, and I will never forget how the water turns into a river of liquid gold as it reflects the colored leaves.

If you don't mind heavy traffic, even Rt. 219 is worth the cruise. The Fratz family farm outside Accident will have its usual display of Yesterday I found colored leaves on my deck. It is odd that leaves are very different on some trees. Some are scarlet, some gold, and some yellow with little green spots.

My ex-father-in-law got out of the hospital after several months in bed. He is somewhat weak, but very happy to be home with his wife Ruthe.

Sheila Southerly spotted an unusual bird. Shane Buckel identified it as an American woodcock. Speaking of birds, my line of pine trees is loaded with a huge flock of small black birds. The make quite a rattle.

The Woodmen of The World will work on tables at the fire hall on Oct. 8. This is a "let's make a difference" event.

IS THERE A HELL?

Surprisingly, polls show that over the past few decades, belief in the existence of Hell has increased by a significant margin. However, the number of people who believe they are going to Hell has dropped dramatically. Does this discrepancy provide an insight into the spiritual condition of the world today? How is it that even though more people now claim to believe in Hell, fewer people think they will end up there?

I believe these results reflect the growing popularity of ideas such as, "God is a God of love - He would never send anyone to Hell," and "I've done enough good in my life that even if Hell exists, I'm not worried about going there." These are two very dangerous misconceptions, and are clearly contrary to what the Bible teaches regarding these matters.

IS THERE REALLY A PLACE CALLED HELL? Jesus spoke more of Hell than of Heaven, saying: "Fear Him [God], which ... hath power to cast into hell" (Luke 12:5). Hell is described as a place "where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched" (Mark 9:44).

WILL GOD REALLY CAST PEOPLE INTO HELL? Yes: "Whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire" (Revelation 20:15).

CAN GOOD WORKS KEEP A PERSON FROM HELL? No: "By the deeds of the law [good works] there shall no flesh be justified in His sight.... For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:20,23).

These Scriptures reveal the often-ignored truth regarding God's character and the required judgment of sin. Yes, God is a God of love. However, He is also a perfectly holy and righteous God, which means He cannot simply overlook sin. The penalty which He has pronounced on sin must be paid. "The wages of sin is death" (Romans 6:23). To die in one's sins will mean eternal separation from God in Hell (Revelation 20:14; 21:8), which was not made for man, but for the devil and his angels (Matthew 25:41).

If you think that God loves us too much not to intervene on our behalf, you're right - He has. The Bible says that "God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). God demonstrated His incredible, matchless love for us by sending Jesus, His own Son, to become our substitute, to suffer in our place. The Bible says He "bare our sins in His own body on the tree" and "redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us" (1 Peter 2:24; Galatians 3:13). God then raised Him from the dead, showing His satisfaction with the price that Jesus paid.

Now the wonderful message is: "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16). Salvation from sin and deliverance from hell is offered freely to all who believe in Jesus - to all who trust His finished work on the cross as payment for their debt of sins.

In the day of judgment, the question will not be about the reality of Hell, or about God's righteousness, or about your sinfulness - all of those things will be apparent; the question will be, "Have you trusted Jesus as your Saviour?" It is as plain as this: "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John 3:36).

If you think that you can reject God's free and full salvation offered through Jesus Christ and yet somehow escape His necessary, righteous judgment of sin, you are sadly mistaken. Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me." (John 14:6). "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" (Hebrews 2:3).

The price that God has paid to provide salvation for you proves that sin is no trivial matter with Him, and that it must be dealt with. Accept God's loving provision of pardon - turn to Jesus Christ today, trusting Him as your personal Saviour.

Eternity! Eternity!
Where will you be in eternity?
'Tis Heaven or Hell for you and me,
Now make your choice, which shall it be?

If you want to be assured of receiving God's forgiveness, avoiding Hell and living with God for ever in Heaven, please sincerely pray something similar to the following:

"Dear God, I know that I am a sinner and that I deserve to go to Hell. Please forgive me of my sins and save me. I believe that you died on the cross and rose again from the dead to pay for my sins. The best way I know how, I want to trust in you alone to save me and I ask you now to be my Lord and Savior as you promised in the Bible. Thank you for saving me - Amen!

If you have trusted in Jesus Christ as your Savior or would like more information, please contact us.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Poor Pastures Dry Up Profits For Farmers

by Dorcas Taylor
Capital News Service

Maryland's drought is forcing beef and dairy farmers to feed their herds winter stockpiles of hay now, a situation that could shrink profits and send them out to buy hay this winter.

"That is a sickening feeling," said Ron Holter of the prospect of buying hay. That's "going to cut into the profit picture this year."

Holter, 42, who runs Holterholm Farms in Jefferson, said his 115 dairy cows are producing 20 percent less milk than normal because of the dry, inedible pasture.

Holter became a certified organic dairy farmer in July, meaning he feeds his cows hay grown without synthetic fertilizers or pesticides. Although he expected profits this year because organic milk usually sells for more than non-organic, Holter said he should break about even.

Many farmers began worrying about whether they would have to dip into their winter hay, which usually lasts through the winter and into the following year, around August.

According to the National Weather Service, nearly 3.5 inches of rain fell at its Hagerstown measuring station in August, but September's rainfall was too little to measure. The weather service said rainfall should be about normal for October, which is about 3 inches.

Compared to last year, precipitation in Maryland since January has been especially low in the western half of the state. Hagerstown recorded 6 fewer inches of rainfall than last year, and a Frostburg station recorded 7 fewer inches. The numbers are from the United States Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service.

No rain, combined with a light fall hay harvest, is creating supply problems at Clagett Farm in Upper Marlboro. Michael Heller, who manages the farm, already sold some of his cows for meat and plans to sell others. Other farmers, he said, lose out on the chance to sell extra hay to horse breeders because they will need it for their herds.

Typically, Heller said, his 55 beef cows graze in the pastures at Clagett into November, but that won't be possible unless it rains at least two inches in coming weeks.

"We'd like a good soaking rain," he said.

Showers at the end of April, an inch toward the end of June, and another inch at the end of August were helpful, said Eric Rice, a beef cattle and fruit farmer in Middletown, but not enough.

"The heat simply compounds the drought," Rice said.

Rice, also an organic farmer, said he bought an emergency supply of organic hay to feed his cows, but there are few organic farmers in Maryland that can meet the demand.

Ron Holter said he may have to get organic hay from South Dakota for his herd. Although frustrated and depressed a couple of weeks ago at the sight of his browning pasture, Holter said he is looking ahead to next year.

"I've prayed about it and come to accept it," he said. "And if we have to buy hay, we have to buy hay."

Nutrient Mgmt. Workshops For Farmers Slated

Registration is now being accepted from farmers interested in becoming certified to write nutrient management plans for their own operations. The Maryland Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension, will hold a series of classes tailored to specific farm operations, including pasture-based operations and farms where commercial fertilizer, poultry litter, or manure are used separately or in combination.

"As a farmer, I know that producers understand their own operations and needs better than anyone," said Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley. "These two-day courses make it easier and less costly for farmers to develop nutrient management plans for their own operations. In addition, when farmers develop their own plan they should find it to be an even more useful management tool. Offering farmers a way to write their own plans very inexpensively is a result of farmer recommendations at Governor Ehrlich's nutrient management summit and subsequent reform to the law."

Farmer training and certification classes geared toward specific types of operations will be offered as follows:

•Crop Operations using Manure and Fertilizer: Frederick County, beginning Oct. 17.

•Crop Operations that Use Commercial Fertilizer: Caroline County, beginning Jan. 10, and Montgomery County, beginning Jan. 11, 2006.

•Crop Operations that Use Manure and Fertilizer: Garrett County, beginning Feb. 21, 2006.

Certification requires a two-day commitment. On the first day, participants learn the fundamentals of nutrient management planning by working through a model plan. Take-home study materials are provided. During the second session, which takes place within four weeks, participants meet in small groups to take an open-book certification exam and work with a Cooperative Extension expert to develop their own plans.

Farmers who pass the exam and successfully complete their own nutrient management plans will be certified by MDA. Certified farmers are required to attend six hours of continuing education classes once every three years in order to remain eligible to update and revise their plans. These continuing education classes also will be accepted in lieu of applicator voucher training required for farmers who apply their own nutrients.

Applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. There is a $20 fee for the certification exam, and registration forms must be received at least 10 days before the first class. All participants receive a binder containing comprehensive training information and reference materials, credits for voucher training, and a discount on NuMan-Pro, Maryland's nutrient management planning software. There are no additional fees for retaking the exam or renewing the certificate. Directions and an agenda will be sent with confirmation information to all registrants.

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires all Maryland farmers grossing $2,500 or more annually or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to file a nutrient management plan with MDA. Maryland law further requires these plans to be prepared by a consultant or farmer who is certified by MDA.

To register for the farmer training and certification program, persons may contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture at 410-841-5959 or www.mda.state.md.us. Farm operators may also register for the classes by contacting their county Cooperative Extension office or via the following web site: www.agnr.umd.edu/users/agron/nutrient/.

Nutrition Facts Explained By Honey Board

According to ancient folklore, Greek and Roman athletes used honey to increase strength and stamina. Today, it can be found on training tables before the big game and in energy drinks for use during exercise.

The National Honey Board continues to pursue research that explores honey's role in energy and muscle recuperation, as well as lending support to many diverse health and athletic organizations, including those involving youth.

Honey is composed primarily of carbohydrates and water, and also has an array of vitamins and minerals, including niacin, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, calcium, copper, iron, magnesium, manganese, phosphorus, potassium, and zinc.

Honey contains a variety of flavonoids and phenolic acids, which act as antioxidants. Antioxidants combat the harmful effects of free radicals that result from normal metabolism, pollution, and cigarette smoke, In genefal, darker honeys have higher antioxidant potential than lighter honeys.

Honey is a natural source of carbohydrates, providing 17 grams per tablespoon.

September Is Honey Month

September is National Honey Month. According to the National Honey Board, the month was chosen because it is honey's peak harvest time throughout the country. Many of the country's agricultural crops, some of which are harvested in September, would not exist without the pollination services of the honey bee.

The National Honey Board encourages consumers to read the ingredients label on the honey bottles they purchase to ensure that they are buying 100 percent pure honey with no additional sweeteners.

"Beekeepers for many generations have worked incredibly hard to harvest and produce the pure, high-quality honey that consumers trust and love," said National Honey Board marketing director Bruce Wolk. "We want to make sure consumers know they're buying pure, natural honey."

Based in Longmont, Colo., the National Honey Board provides consumers with honey information and recipes at www.honey.com, and serves U.S. honey producers, packers, and importers through honey research, promotion, and marketing.

FORUM ON '07 FARM BILL TO BE HELD IN ELKINS

The Preston County Farm Service Agency has learned that a public forum for the 2007 Farm Bill has been scheduled for Friday, Oct. 7, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Elkins Middle School. USDA Under Secretary Tom Dorr will host this forum. All producers are encouraged to attend.

The following are questions that will be used to generate discussion at the forum:

1. How should farm policy be designed to maximize U.S. competitiveness and our country's ability to compete effectively in global markets?
2. How should farm policy address the unintended consequences and ensure that such consequences do not discourage new farmers and the next generation of farmers from entering production agriculture?
3. How should farm policy be designed to effectively and fairly distribute assistance to producers?
4. How can farm policy best achieve conservation and environmental goals?
5. How can federal rural and farm programs provide effective assistance in rural areas?
6. How should these agricultural product, marketing, and research-related issues be addressed in the next farm bill?

This public farm bill forum is a unique opportunity for West Virginia agricultural producers of all types, including under-served producers, to have an equal voice in discussions to shape the 2007 Farm Bill.

Producers interested in attending the public forum are asked to telephone Melissa Chase of USDA's Rural Development at 304-284-4890 by Monday, Oct. 3. Producers may contact the Preston County Farm Service Agency at 304-329-1923 for a copy of the map showing the location of Elkins Middle School.

PEAK OIL

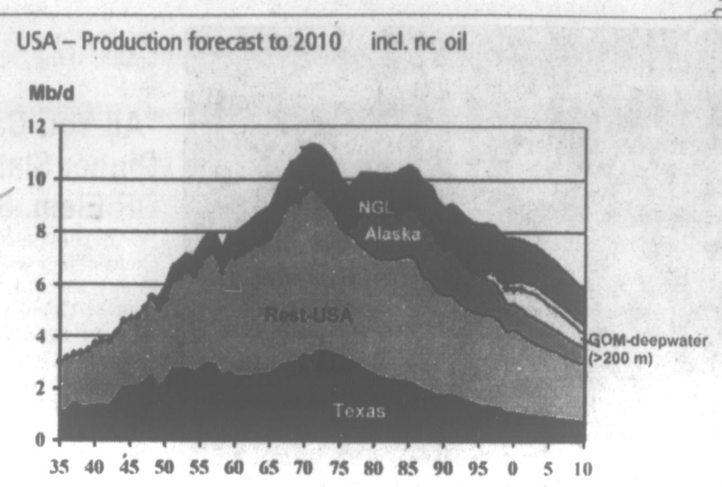
Peak Oil

Q. I've heard people talking a lot recently about "Peak Oil." What does that mean ?

Basically, the peak oil concept says that we are nearing the "peak" of possible oil production in the world. In some vague sense, everybody acknowledges that the supply of oil is finite and therefore we'll run out some day in the distant future, but nobody cares about the distant future. The "peak oil" notion doesn't focus on the day of running out, but looks at the near term. It predicts that the time is pretty close (5 years? 10 years?) when the maximum rate of extraction will be reached; and after that, the amount of oil available to the whole world will decline. See adjacent graph.

There is very good evidence to support this idea. Almost 50 years ago, a man named M. King Hubbert predicted in 1956 that American oil production would peak around 1970 – and he turned out to be right. Nowadays, very similar calculations about the oil available for the entire world have been made, and predictions indicate that the peak in world oil production will happen fairly soon. Big producers like Saudi Arabia are very secretive about what they can or cannot do, but they may well be maxing out. The accuracy of previous predictions warns us that we had better pay attention to today's predictions.



Source: Texas Railroad Commission US Energy Information Administration

Figure 4: The future oil production profile for the declining oil regions of Texas and Rest of the USA is controlled simply by the physics of depletion, allowing a straightforward extrapolation of existing trends.

Meanwhile, demand for oil keeps increasing, especially due to China and India becoming major industrial countries. Separately, the cornerstone principle of economics is that the price of something is determined by the point where the supply and demand curves cross. If demand goes up and supply stays steady, price rises. If supply also falls, then the price goes up a lot faster.

That's what's likely to happen before long – rapidly increasing demand alongside declining supply means a much higher price. Comparing with 2005, "you ain't seen nothin' yet."

It is important not to confuse this with short-term supply interruptions. The recent hurricanes shut down several oil refineries, and that sudden drop in supply made gasoline prices shoot way up, until the refineries came back into action. That's a short-term effect. Similarly, a positive short-term effect would be produced by extracting oil from the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR). That would give us a boost in supply that would keep the wolf from the door for a few more years – exactly as the previous drilling in Alaska did.

An important partial solution would be for Americans to sharply reduce their demand. The rate at which people are lining up to buy hybrid cars indicates that a lot of people are willing to pay more up front in order to get 45 miles per gallon instead of 25. That will reduce the pain of steeply rising prices, and help to stretch out the world supply of oil for a few more years.

It would take about 20 years to adapt the entire automotive and truck sector in order to make a "soft landing." But we don't have 20 years.

It is possible to manufacture liquid motor fuel from substances like coal (the Germans had to do that in World War 2). American engineers are already working to improve and optimize the process that does this. If gasoline prices go high enough, this kind of synthetic fuel will be able to compete on price.

But still, the biggest supply-demand factor for world oil is the increasing demand in large countries elsewhere. So far, efforts to conserve by America and European countries have been a drop in the bucket compared to the rapidly increasing demand of China, India, and many other developing countries.

What's going to happen? There are some who say it will come to a shooting war over oil supplies. Keeping the peace over oil in the long run is going to require some very capable diplomats.

The recent efforts by American engineers to go into China and teach them how to burn coal efficiently (to produce electricity) is a major step in the right direction. If China were to catch on to the "conservation ethic," it would help stretch the supply of coal further.

The key point about peak oil is that it will precipitate an international crisis a lot sooner than people thought. The day when the world runs out of oil entirely may be very far away. But according to the "peak oil" calculations, the start of declining supply is right around the corner.

Treatment Options for Eczema

Eczema is a general term for any type of dermatitis or "inflammation of the skin." Atopic dermatitis is the most severe and long-lasting kind of eczema. Eczema generally causes itching and redness, and some patients will blister, weep, or peel. The best line of defense against eczema is prevention, but flare-ups rarely can be avoided. Cortisone (steroid, prednisone-like) creams applied directly to the affected area are helpful and a mainstay of therapy. Cortisone pills or shots are sometimes used, but they are not safe for long-term use. Tar baths, antihistamines, and antibiotics are often used, but these meet with limited success. Treatments that don't seem to work include vitamins, mineral supplements, enriched diets, or nutritional supplements.

Researchers are seeking new and safer drugs to control the itch and inflammation. Topical immunomodulators (TIMs) are a new family of topical medications that inhibit the skin's inflammatory response (which is what causes the redness and itching.) TIMs are not steroids and do not cause thinning of the skin but they can suppress the immune system in the skin so that the use of sun protection for anyone receiving this therapy is recommended. Talk to your local pharmacist if you have questions about options for eczema treatment.

PAWS Awarded Third Spay/Neuter Grant From SFFA

For the third consecutive year PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety) has been awarded a grant from the Snyder Foundation for Animals (SFFA) to continue its spay/neuter program for area low-income pet owners.

The grant, in the amount of $5,000, will be used to help provide qualifying pet owners with a 2/3 discount in the cost of having their animals altered. This assistance is available to Garrett County residents of households with dependents (spouse and/or children) whose annual total family income is $25,000 or less, or to residents living in a single person households with no dependents and whose total annual income is $15,000 or less.

Those eligible are asked to fill out a simple application in order to receive the discount, a spokesperson said.

The SFFA, a Baltimore-based charitable organization, annually reviews grant programs and proposals from animal welfare organizations across the state of Maryland for funding.

Over the past two years PAWS has received total of $8,000 from the SFFA. With those funds the organization has so far been able to assist 147 low-income pet owners in spaying or neutering 216 animals.

For more information about the program and to apply, those interested can visit the PAWS website at www.garrettpaws.org. Applications may also be requested by calling 301-746-5939. For information by mail, persons may write: PAWS Big Fix, P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541.

"The benefits of having pets spayed or neutered are huge," a PAWS spokesperson said. "Altered cats and dogs cannot contribute to the pet over-population problem. That results in fewer homeless animals roaming the street and being abandoned to animal shelters. Pets that have been spayed or neutered generally experience better health than those that remain unaltered. In addition to eliminating the risks and costs of certain reproductive diseases, these simple procedures can also help resolve many undesirable behaviors in pets such as aggression, spraying, and roaming."

A pet can be spayed or neutered at any age as long as it is in good health.

"Regular veterinary visits are key to maintaining pet health," the spokesperson said.

FUN AND GAMES TO BENEFIT ANIMALS – The Garrett County Humane Society will sell a variety of Monopoly games during the Autumn Glory Festival: Farm-opoly, Horse-opoly, Bird-opoly, Choc-oply, and, of course, Cat-opoly, and Dog-opoly. Fresh Pavilion in the town parking lot in Oakland on Friday and Saturday. Doggie bags and cat/dog wooden ornaments will also be offered for sale. Persons interested in buying a game later on, can order/buy one this Christmas season beginning in mid-November until mid-December. The local Humane Society is a non-profit organization that has helped countless neglected and homeless animals. Members also have helped hundreds of pet owners each year by offering spay/neuter discount certificates, volunteering at the county animal shelter, and assisting with animal rescues when possible. For further information, one may call Lisa Baker at 301-387-4425.

IN WITH THE OLD!

When you're ready to buy a home, do you think you'll prefer new construction or an existing home? A brand new house may sound appealing, but consider what an existing home could offer above and beyond the features you'll find in a newly built (or yet to be built!) house.

Foremost in your mind is price. With comparable amenities, you'll likely find that a resale home lists at a lower price than a new one. The National Association of REALTORS® research predicts the median price of resale homes will rise 5% in 2005, while new construction will rise 6%. One percent can be huge when you're considering such a large purchase.

Location, location, location. Many existing homes are already located in well-established neighborhoods near shopping and entertainment. Frankly, land is more scarce these days than in the past, so newer construction tends to be ever further out from the center of the community, sometimes on smaller, unadorned lots without much landscaping. If you'd like a spacious yard with a fence and beautiful trees, you'll probably start by looking at older homes.

Don't get me wrong – new homes offer a lot of modern amenities. But don't overlook older homes that are often updated and improved with the very features you're looking for. Know what you want before you begin your search, and keep an open mind.

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE.

ROTARY DONATES DICTIONARIES TO ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS – The Garrett County Rotary Clubs, located in Grantsville and Oakland, participated in an international project designed to promote worldwide literacy. Through this program, Rotarians in Garrett County are literally 'spreading the word' as they presented personal dictionaries to all third, fourth, and fifth grade students in county elementary schools and the Salisbury School in Pennsylvania. Students pictured above represent six of over 1,000 local elementary students who have benefited from this project. According to Oakland Rotary president Darryl Walters, local clubs will continue to provide a dictionary to each third grade student throughout the region on an annual basis. The overall goal of the project is to assist elementary teachers as they work with students to understand how to use a dictionary, making it a valuable educational tool both in the classroom and home environment. "It's a great project," said superintendent Wendell Teets. "It demonstrates another way that the local Rotary Clubs support the community." Sue Waggoner, director of elementary education, reported that teachers in the area schools have incorporated the dictionaries into multiple lessons as they work with students to develop vocabulary skills. The top photo was taken at Grantsville Elementary School. In the front, from the left, are fourth grader Amanda Broadwater, Grantsville Rotary president Wayne Kelley, third grader Logan Durst, fifth grader Derek Silbaugh, and principal Barbara Baker. In the back are dictionary project coordinator Lynn Bell member of the Oakland Rotary, Grantsville Rotary treasurer Joe Bender, Grantsville Rotarian Linda Buckle, and Teets, who is also a member of the Oakland club. The bottom photo was taken at Dennett Road Elementary School. In the front are fifth graders Taylor Germain, Walters, fourth grader Bethany Rush, and third grader Kyle Hackett. In the back are principal Gary Galloway, Waggoner, and Teets.

The 67th annual Beitzel reunion of the John George Beitzel family, who with his four sons — Henry, Lewis, George, and Christian — came to America from Germany in the mid-1800s, was held on Sept. 4 at the Bittinger fire hall. The 200 guests were from Ohio, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and West Virginia.

Doug Beitzel, president, presided and welcomed the guests, and Pastor Randy Nairn provided a prayer before the meal was shared. A business meeting followed.

Prizes were awarded to the following: Oldest Lady, Mabel Beitzel Harris, 84; Oldest Man, Marvin Beitzel, 88; Youngest Baby, Lexis Miller; Longest Married, Sherman and Alice (Beitzel) Bittinger, 63 years; Newlyweds, Steve and Jenny Beitzel, 4 years; Largest Family, Andy Fread, eight children; and Traveling the Farthest, Dave Cline from Chicago, Ill. Other prizes were awarded as well.

The candy count jars were won by Russ Beitzel, David Kaser, Jasmine Miner, Bobbi Beitzel, Tristin Habel, and Michele Beitzel. A candy pick-up was held for all the children.

Officers for 2006 are John Beitzel, president; Doug Beitzel, vice president; and Hollie (Beitzel) Fazenbaker, secretary-treasurer.

The next reunion will be held on Sept. 3, 2006, at the Bittinger fire hall at 1 p.m.

"Join The Voices" Set As Theme For Recovery Month

September is being recognized as Recovery Month, and this year's theme is "Join the Voices for Recovery: Healing Lives, Families and Communities." Under the leadership of Brooke Schneider, director of behavioral health, and Patty Sines, clinical coordinator, the Garrett County Health Department's Substance Abuse Program is doing just that, according to a spokesperson.

"New initiatives and expanded services are becoming more available for our county residents," said Schneider. "Depending on the level of care needed, substance abuse treatment options include outpatient services, intensive outpatient services, along with family counseling, adolescent services, and treatment for co-occurring disorders."

So far in 2005, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office has made 90 DUI (driving under the influence) and 61 CDS (controlled dangerous substance) arrests, according to Capt. Larry Gnegy. When asked about the arrest trends, Gnegy reported the agency is seeing more of a variety of drugs being brought into the county, such as heroin, other opiates, oxycontin, and methamphetamines.

Statistics received from the Maryland State Police showed that in Garrett County there have been 97 DUI and 82 CDS arrests this year.

Recovery Month continues to stress the importance of and need for alcohol and drug treatment in local communities.

"This month we also want to share with the community the commitment of those in recovery as well as the dedication of the substance abuse counselors," said Schneider.

For more information on the different substance abuse treatment and prevention programs available in Garrett County, persons may call 301-334-7670.

"This is a great promotion program that allows area businesses to compete in a friendly manner while helping out charities of their choice," said Pam Trickett of KHJ. All teams walk away with at least a $25 donation to a charity and a free team lunch at Uno's. "We are glad Uno's sponsors this every year," said Trickett. "They have a really big heart and really support our community." Pictured above, from the left, are Heather Hanline, executive director of the Dove Center; Deb Holler of the Dove Center; Tim Beckman, Uno manager; Rick Livengood, Team One's captain; Jeff Groves of Team One; and Greg Shockey, owner of Team One. Local businesses interested in participating in this year's contest may call KHJ at 301-334-4272. The contest is set to begin soon, Trickett said.

Many Maryland Schools Extend Junk Food Ban; Not Garrett's

by Mari Perry
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE - Increasingly, Maryland school kids are having to wait until after school to get their fix of cookies, soda, and potato chips.

According to a report presented Tuesday to the Maryland State Board of Education, 17 of Maryland's 24 school districts have extended their ban on junk food sales to the entire school day.

The schools are responding to the board's nutrition policy adopted in February. Schools are not permitted to sell foods of "minimal nutritional value" until the end of the last lunch period. Extending the ban to the end of the day was encouraged, but not required.

The board requires all school districts to establish nutrition policies by Jan. 31, and the policies should be in effect for the 2006-2007 school year.

Each system's nutrition policy will become an integral part of the federally mandated policies on health and fitness to be created by next year. The so-called wellness policies are required by the Child Nutrition and Women, Infants, and Children Reauthorization Act of 2004.

All 24 school systems responded to the board's progress survey, said Robin Ziegler, chief of school and community nutrition programs branch. Nine systems have written policies in place, and of those, two had local board adoption.

Anne Arundel, Garrett, and Somerset counties did not extend the junk food ban to the end of the school day, Ziegler said. Four other counties did not respond to that question on the survey, but Ziegler did not tell the board which they were.

Scott Germain, head of the Garrett County Public Schools nutrition services, said, "We are in the process of writing our policy, but it's still in draft form." However, he said the extension of the junk food ban is in the draft, which will serve to meet the state and federal requirements.

Ziegler said she expects all districts will ultimately comply with the board's suggestions, which would mean kids across the state would no longer be able to slide quarters into a machine in exchange for a Coke or sweet treat, at least not at school.

Erik Peterson, with the School Nutrition Association, said guidelines such as those the board is advocating bring standards to foods sold or eaten on campus other than school meals, which are federally regulated. Those regulations do not extend to vending machines, a la carte options or food at class parties.

Essentially, guidelines "level the playing field," Peterson said. "Standards should apply to all food and beverages available in a school environment."

Otherwise, he said, the schools are "showing a message of inconsistency."

Banned for the entire school day in the 17 school districts are items such as carbonated soft drinks, potato chips, caramel popcorn, cotton candy, and even homemade cupcakes.

During the last Maryland legislative session, Delegate Joan F. Stern, D-Montgomery, introduced a bill to require nutrition policies for all schools. The bill died in the Ways and Means committee.

Stern said her office is preparing a report card on schools' progress regarding nutrition. She said if schools have raised their standards, she will not introduce further school nutrition legislation.

Ziegler said 16 school systems have adopted the board's guidelines that foods sold in elementary and middle schools have no more than 9 grams of fat and no more than 15 grams of sugar. Fifteen have adopted the beverage guidelines that only water, milk and juices be sold.

More than half of the school systems have extended the fat and sugar content rules not only to elementary and middle schools, but also to high schools.

Nineteen school systems have formed teams or panels to develop the wellness policy.

According to a survey conducted at the School Nutrition Association's annual conference, more than 65 percent of school districts nationally are working on nutrition policies.

Peterson said the most popular policy was to limit student access to vending machines.

A PILE O' PUNKINS – Pumpkins have gained in popularity over the past decade or so, much to the delight of those who grow them. Folks like to use them for autumn decorating, as well as for making into pies and other tasty items. The Garrett County weather is generally conducive for growing the orange squash, and the Fratz family in Accident has a bumper crop this year. Also plentiful at the local farm are various gourds, other types of squash, Indian corn, straw, corn stalks, and mums. A feature story about the Fratzes and their farming family is published in today's farm pages.

Friendsville Rec Trail Receives $50,000 Grant

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded two grants affecting Garrett County, Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski announced this week.

"This federal funding is an investment in jobs today and jobs tomorrow in western Maryland," Mikulski said.

The county will use a $50,000 grant to upgrade two miles of recreational trail running from Friendsville to Kendall, along the Youghiogheny Wild and Scenic River Corridor. Specifically, the trails's uneven depressions will be leveled, drainage controls installed, and new signs and trail maps will be established.

The project is expected to create economic benefits for Friendsville by increasing the trail's visitation rate by 1,000 hikers annually and promoting revitalization through the town's position as a river and recreation community.

Other benefits of the trail include encouraging physical fitness and healthy lifestyles, increasing the perceived quality of life in a community, helping to preserve cultural and historical aspects of the area, and making the community a better place to live by creating open spaces, according to the Friendsville Revitalization Task Force Trail Committee.

Garrett County will also benefit from another $192,500 ARC grant. The Maryland Department of Planning will join with local officials in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties to use the funds to create eight mini-grants geared toward enhancing planning, economic development, and growth management initiatives throughout the region. Technical assistance, program planning and development, and project evaluations will also be provided to help increase and promote economic activity.

"The creation of jobs and the strengthening of local economies are crucial to western Maryland's continued growth and development," said Sarbanes. "Whether it is funding to aid local businesses or en-

STANTON'S MILL GIVEN NEW LIFE — Stanton's Mill in Grantsville is a county landmark, but has not been in use for some time. John Childers is the new owner of the historic facility and has been working on its restoration for the past three years. The mill, built in 1797, is back in operation now. The water wheel was purchased in Georgia, cut into pieces, and shipped to Grantsville, where it was reassembled and installed in August, courtesy of Beitzel Corporation. That process is pictured above. A feature story about the mill's revitalization is published in today's issue. Photo courtesy of John Childers.

GC Commissioners Allocate Funds To Provide NHS With Public Water

The Garrett County commissioners this week allocated $392,760 in order to provide public water service to Northern High School as soon as possible. The school's well also serves Northern Middle School and the Hickory Environment Center, but there is not enough water for all three facilities.

"The water table is extremely low," school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets told the commissioners. He said there is enough water to fill the tanks in the morning but not enough to keep them filled throughout the day. To conserve water, the schools have been using paper plates during lunchtime. But that has not helped. Portable restrooms had to be set up recently for fans to use at after-school sporting events.

There is another well that was drilled last year for Northern Middle School, but it cannot be used because of new stricter arsenic level guidelines set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Health Department, stressed that the water from the older well being used by the three facilities is treated and safe.

"Something has to be done," Teets said, adding that he did not want to have to start hauling water to the schools.

"People are really angry that we don't have water up there," Glotfelty said. He noted that phones at the Health Department had been ringing off the hook. "We've got to come up with some kind of solution," the health officer said.

The Garrett County Board of Education and Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) discussed the issue and looked at several short-term options to alleviate the problem. But Teets, Glotfelty, and the commissioners concurred that it would be best in the long run to extend the Keyser's Ridge water line from the Cove overlook to the Northern High School complex.

Teets said the water problem had been declared an emergency by the state. Glotfelty also deemed the situation an emergency.

Because of the declaration, the state will release emergency funding to pay for 70 percent of the cost of hooking up Northern High

County Leaders Provide Monthly Staff Reports

The Garrett County commissioners held their bi-monthly staff meeting last week, hearing reports from 16 departments and agencies. Topics discussed included the Teacher of the Year Award, Garrett College's Learning Resource Center, workforce housing, tourism, farming and library issues, economic development, and the "flush tax."

Board of Education

Superintendent Dr. Wendall Teets, Garrett County Board of Education, reported that Michelle Harman had been nominated for the state's 2004-2005 Teacher of the Year award. She is one of seven finalists vying for the title. The winner will be named tomorrow evening in Baltimore at a gala and will go on to represent the state in the National Teacher of the Year ceremony.

Harman teaches biology and earth science at Northern High School.

Teets also reported that

SHA Officials To Discuss Six-Yr. Plan Tomorrow

The annual "Tour" meeting of the Maryland Department of Transportation and State Highway Administration will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 7, in the courthouse meeting room of the Garrett County commissioners. State transportation officials will be meeting with local elected representatives as they conduct the session, which is open to the public.

The yearly meetings focus on an outline of the local projects contained in DOT's draft of its six-year Consolidated Transportation Program. Copies of the draft CTP plan will be distributed to all those in attendance at the meeting, and citizens' comments will be welcomed at the meeting, which will focus on road construction and improvement projects currently under way or proposed for Garrett County.

Garrett County officials have compiled a list of their own priorities that they will pitch at the meeting, and citizen input expressed at tomorrow's meeting will be considered for incorporation into the final CTP report.

For information on the draft CTP, persons may call the State Highway Administration at 1-800-323-6742,

Stanton's Mill: Offering A Glimpse Of Grantsville's Past

by Brenda Ruggiero

When John Childers took a vacation about four years ago, he didn't realize that it would change the course of his life.

Born and reared in Hazard, Ky., Childers represents the seventh generation of a family of millers, and learned the trade from his grandfather from the time he was a young boy.

"I was raised by my grandparents," he explained. "I was always there. The mill ran up to about 1987, when it was washed out, and at that time, I decided I was going to rebuild a mill of my own somewhere, or redo a mill. I was on vacation, and had gone to Maine to get mill parts, and that's how I found Stanton's Mill. I saw it from the interstate bridge as I passed over."

Childers went through various channels to try to restore the mill and get it back into operation. Since 2002, he has worked through Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville, which owns the mill.

Stanton's Mill, located behind the restaurant, was originally built in 1797 by Thomas and Joseph Stanton. Additional bays were added in 1858 and 1900.

Childers said that the facility served as a feed mill from about 1977 to 1994, when new health regulations in Maryland led to the closing of the flour grinding process.

"The process that we're going back to is 1860 to 1889," he said. "That will cover the different types of stone milling they had, and also the roller mills that they had. We purchased a mill in Canada that we're going to go bring down, and it will run 10 tons of white flour a day — grind it and finish it. Right now we can do about 5,000 pounds a day on our little stone mills."

The mill is open to the public at no charge.

"They can also bring their own grain and get it ground here, just like they did in the olden days," Childers said.

Community Action Receives Grant To Help Home Buyers

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has received a $53,131 grant to help local families with their housing needs, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Secretary Alphonso Jackson announced this week.

The agency was one of nine in Maryland receiving a total of $2.18 million in HUD grants.

The funding will assist families in becoming first-time homeowners or to remain homeowners. Renters and homeless individuals and families will also benefit from the counseling offered by the grants, Jackson noted.

Since 1994, Community Action's homeownership counseling program has helped 164 low-income families purchase their first homes. More than 500 potential homebuyers have also completed the homeownership counseling workshops and are in various stages of the home buying process, according to HUD.

More information about grants to other agencies is available online at hud.org.

DISASTER EXERCISE PLANNED IN GARRETT COUNTY – Numerous local and state agencies will participate in a full-scale disaster exercise on Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Wisp in McHenry. The scenario will revolve around a commercial airplane forced to make an emergency landing, and will utilize an aircraft simulator, pictured above, contracted from the West Virginia University Fire Extension Service. The simulator, one of only four such units available in the United States, can be used to practice various aspects of emergency situations, including fire suppression, aircraft rescue, and law enforcement crime scene entry. The exercise is designed to test several emergency functions, including the federally mandated National Incident Management System/Incident Command, communications and interoperability, field decontamination, and mass casualty triage. Local agencies involved in the exercise include several volunteer fire and rescue companies, Garrett County Emergency Management, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Board of Education, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital. State agencies include Maryland State Police, State Fire Marshal's Office, Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services, Maryland Emergency Management Agency, and Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute. Persons wanting additional information may contact the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management at 301-334-7619.

Salem School Construction On Track, Donations Still Sought

Construction of the new Salem School, off Lower New Germany Road in Garrett County, began in mid-March 2005 and is on track for completion by Dec. 31 of this year, according to contractor Dirk Yoder, owner of Daystar Builders LLC of Grantsville. The centralized educational facility replaces a three-bedroom bungalow and two tiny modular units, one of which children must cross Lower New Germany Road to reach.

The board of directors has announced a capital campaign to raise funds for the new school. According to executive director Louise Richards, the building fund stands currently at over $1.7 million, or about 80% of the total $2.2 million goal.

"Salem serves Maryland children who have been abandoned, neglected and abused," said Richards. "What many people don't realize is that Salem School also partners with local boards of education to provide special education services to Garrett and Allegany County day students. If we weren't here, children who need our services would have to be sent out of county to residential programs where the educational services they need are available."

Local counties save approximately $60,000 per child per year in residential costs alone for each day student enrolled in Salem School by keeping these children at home, according to Richards.

The school project has benefited from the generosity of individuals, businesses, private foundations, and local and state officials, including the Garrett County commissioners, who this year provided a grant of $100,000. In 2004 and 2005, the Maryland General Assembly acted on bond bills co-sponsored by Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards to pledge a total of $550,000 to the building fund.

NEW SALEM SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION

Lead corporate contributor AES Warrior Run, a long-time friend and working partner of Salem, donated $105,000 to the project. Grants from the France-Merrick, Abell and Knott foundations and from private individuals have helped to build a solid base of support for the campaign.

Commissioner David Beard, a former teacher who has toured the Salem school and campus, noted at the groundbreaking in May that while the programs are exemplary, the current facilities are not suitable for the education of children.

"The new school will relieve crowding and safety issues and provide us with some of the facilities that public school students fortunately are able to take for granted: a library, a music and art room, a science lab, and a kitchen as required by the local health department," said Richards. "Salem has had none of these. The current science lab is a lavatory in a 4' x 5' bathroom. The library shares a former living room with the secretary's office and the front entrance. School lunches are transported in containers from the old farmhouse kitchen a mile away each day, and musical programs are given in front of the chalkboard while audiences stand against the wall. Besides all of that, our students must cross Lower New Germany Road for class and for lunch and – in winter when the pipes freeze – the bathroom. We are very grateful to be able to look forward to a facility that is suitable for educating children."

For more information about Salem and its programs or about the capital campaign, persons may call 301-689-8176 ext. 0.

Living History Event Continues Over Weekend

The 1750's-era Living History program at Spruce Forest in Grantsville will continue this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7-8. The program featured a trading post of artifacts, historical characters in period dress and a tasting of colonial cooking. Demonstrations and presentations will be held between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

More than 220 people came to the frontier- and military-style encampment last Saturday. On Friday, 70 students, teachers and parents from Swan Meadow School learned about area events leading to the French and Indian War.

For further information persons may call the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386, or consult the Internet at www.deepcreeklakeinfo.com.

Oakland Juveniles Injured In Two-Vehicle Collision

An Oakland juvenile and his two juvenile passengers were slightly injured in a Monday evening collision on Memorial Drive, according to the Oakland Police Department. No charges were filed in the 5:49 p.m. mishap.

Police said that the 17-year-old male pulled from a stop sign on Fourth Street into the path of an oncoming westbound vehicle operated by Melinda Marie Wadding, 28, Black Lick, Pa.

The juvenile driver and two other juvenile passengers were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. All three were treated and released, and no charges were filed.

Four Injured In DCL Area Crash Tuesday A.M.

A Swanton woman who fell asleep at the wheel caused an accident near Deep Creek Lake which injured four people Tuesday morning, according to the Maryland State Police.

Kristi Jo Tichnell, 27, was southbound on Garrett Highway at 9:22 a.m. when she allegedly fell asleep near Trader's Landing, where her 2005 Dodge Caravan drifted into the northbound lane. The minivan sideswiped an oncoming 1994 Ford F-150 pickup operated by Gerald R. Wilson, 40, town of residence not available.

Although no serious injures occurred, according to the police report Tichnell and her 1-year-old passenger, and Wilson and his 49-year-old female passenger were all transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Medevac Flight Follows New Germany Crash

Two passengers involved in a single-vehicle crash on New Germany Road Tuesday afternoon required helicopter transport to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack. No charges were filed against the driver, a Swanton resident who was transported to the same facility by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Police said that as Steven Baughman, 18, was driving south on New Germany Road, his vehicle entered a curve just south of Otto Lane, where his right tires left the roadway and entered the gravel shoulder. Baughman apparently overcompensated, causing the 1991 Nissan 300ZX to hit a guardrail. The car went over the guardrail and overturned at least twice on its way down a small embankment, coming to rest on its roof in a drainage ditch.

A passenger in the right rear seat, Gina Overstreet, 21, Havre de Grace, was reportedly not wearing a seat belt and was fully ejected from the vehicle. Overstreet and another passenger, Alicia Hoffman, 19, Hagerstown, were both flown to the hospital.

In addition to MSP helicopter Trooper 5 and the Northern Rescue Squad, the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and personnel from the Maryland Natural Resources Police responded to the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating trooper.

In other state police accident probes, a Swanton woman who fell asleep at the wheel caused an accident near Deep Creek Lake which injured four people Tuesday morning.

Kristi Jo Tichnell, 27, was southbound on Garrett Highway at 9:22 a.m. when she allegedly fell asleep near Trader's Landing, where her 2005 Dodge Caravan drifted into the northbound lane. The minivan sideswiped an oncoming 1994 Ford F-150 pickup operated by Gerald R. Wilson, 40, town of residence not available.

Although no serious injures occurred, according to the police report Tichnell and her 1-year-old passenger, and Wilson and his 49-year-old female passenger were all transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Bloodmobile To Be At St. Paul's, Not St. Peter's

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit Oakland next Tuesday, Oct. 11; however, the location for that visit will be St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, rather than St. Peter's Catholic Church, as previously announced.

Donors will be welcomed at St. Paul's from noon to 6 p.m.

Persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health are typically eligible to donate a unit of blood every eight weeks. Local persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Garrett County office at 301-334-3810.

Four Youths Charged With Spotlighting

Four Garrett County youths were charged with multiple hunting violations north of Oakland Saturday night, according to the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP).

At approximately 11:15 p.m., NRP officers observed a vehicle shining a light in a field off Sand Flat Road. As the NRP helicopter hovered above, the suspect vehicle drove away from the area. The vehicle continued along Sand Flat Road in an erratic manner, pulling into driveways, turning the headlights off, then pulling back onto the roadways.

NRP officers on the ground stopped the vehicle at the intersection of Glendale Road and Route 219. The four Garrett County males who occupied the vehicle ranged in age from 13 to 17.

NRP officers found ammunition in the vehicle along with a hand-held spotlight and three hunting knives. The investigation revealed that three rifles were hidden in a yard of one of the houses that the vehicle had stopped at earlier.

The four juveniles were referred to the Department of Juvenile Services for processing on charges of negligent hunting, hunting at nighttime, casting the rays of a spotlight upon the fields and woodlands, hunting without a license, and hunting without written permission. The driver of the vehicle was also charged with negligent driving.

All four youths were released to an adult/guardian. The rifles, knives, ammunition, and spotlight were seized as evidence.

Each charge carries a maximum potential fine of $1,500. In addition, if found guilty, a person may lose the privilege to hunt in the state for a period of 2 to 5 years, and all evidence seized can be forfeited to the state.

Guilty of "NIMBYism"...

NIMBY has become a rather well known acronym of late. For those who are not familiar with it, the letters stand for "not in my back yard." The term is generally negative, as one who is accused of "NIMBYism" is basically thought of as a hypocrite – one who is supportive of some kind of development, as long as the development is nowhere near his property.

Well, this writer pleads absolutely guilty of NIMBYism in this column today in regard to the wind turbines that are to be constructed in Garrett County. While being in full support of the concept of harnessing the wind – a wonderfully clean source of energy, and especially inviting because of the current petroleum energy crisis – let it be done somewhere other than Garrett County. We simply have too much at stake here to risk adding these monster wind machines to our extremely valuable landscapes.

Like it or not, Garrett County's life blood is still tourism. We are a destination location. Why would we – why should we – risk endangering tourism and property values by erecting scores of these towers?

Yes, overdevelopment in the lake area is another big concern, and a legitimate one; but that's another editorial.

Besides the property-value issue, there are a number of other negative effects of wind turbines, such as noise, lights, shadows, and view obstruction/pollution, the levels of which, granted, have been both exaggerated and disputed by some on both sides. Some opponents have even alleged that the towers cause health problems and television/telephone interruption from what they call "stray voltage," which, at least to us, is so far unsubstantiated.

But besides what we believe could be a real risk to tourism and, ultimately, property values, there is without question from these turbines a significant negative impact on birds and bats. Studies were done in nearby Meyersdale, Pa., and Tucker County, W.Va., that showed significant bird/bat kills by the towers there; evidently so significant that the turbine owners banned further studies on their property! It has taken 24 years for opponents to finally get 2,500 turbines in Altamont Pass, Calif., shut down for three months during bird migratory season, as thousands of birds are killed there every year by the towers. These include an estimated 500 raptors such as eagles, red-tailed hawks, and owls.

Wind company biologists and local birders have also found that morning warblers, which are on Maryland's endangered species list, nest in the Garrett County areas that are proposed for wind turbines. So herein is the bottom line for us — whether one is for or against wind turbines, state law is now the issue. State law cannot be ignored, regardless of how far along the process is to erect towers, either by Clipper Wind Power or the more recent applicant, Synergics Energy, and regardless of whether or not the Public Service Commission gives its stamp of approval. At the very least, additional studies should be conducted before any approval is granted.

Next Thursday, Oct. 13, is the deadline for persons to submit written comment on the proposed Synergics wind project to the Public Service Commission, the address for which is: 6 South Paul St., Baltimore, MD 21202. All correspondence on this matter must reference "PSC Case 9008/Synergics Energy." So now is the time to write that letter, or clip out this editorial and send it.

To the Editor:

On August 13 we were involved in an accident near McHenry en route home from a funeral. We would like to thank the Northern Rescue Squad and the Northern Fire Department for their prompt response, kindness, and assistance. We owe so much to the volunteer workers in Garrett County, who are always there when needed.

There were two young ladies who stopped and rendered aid who let us use their cell phone. We did not get your names, but we will not forget your kindness. Special thanks to the Garrett County ER & ICU staff, Dr. Domenick, and Dr. Paolini. God bless you all.

To the Editor:

This summer 19 New York City children found out just how special summer in the Grantsville area really is. Thanks to the dedication of Fresh Air Fund hosts, volunteers and supporters, these inner-city youngsters spent a fun-filled summer vacation in your community.

None of this would be possible without Alice Orendorf, your local Fresh Air Fund volunteer leader, who works throughout the year to make sure summer magic happens with host families and children. Alice's generosity and commitment is an inspiration to us all. I invite you to join Alice next summer in planning fun summer activities, interviewing prospective host families, and/or hosting a child.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to over 1.7 million New York City children from low-income communities since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326 or visit www.freshair.org.

Jenny Morgenthau

To the Editor:

I am writing to address the Oakland bypass fiasco. I am not in agreement with the way the bypass is being handled locally or by the state.

I have been to the library and know 99 percent of the people who are in agreement for the bypass are realtors; some of the same realtors who gripe about the wind turbines. I guess it's O.K. to tear up the land for new homes – that's their income. Since they won't benefit from the turbines they complain.

I have been to the town meetings and the bypass meetings, which are handled so politically they leave the real issue unsolved. Who really wants this where it is located?

Upon research I found corresponding letters to Wal-Mart from the state and town hall. These letters, that are at Planning and Zoning, show that all roads lead to Wal-Mart. If the bypass weren't going to be built, Wal-Mart wasn't going to build here. Wal-Mart even promised land behind the store to SHA (State Highway Admin.) to build the bypass, with exits to the store.

If we have a traffic problem, then why are the traffic lights turned off each night from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.? We have local problems with the traffic, not state problems. If the town police would hand out tickets to those who pass on the right side of a car turning left (with a solid white line) the business traffic could pull out and traffic would flow.

Put the bypass where it belongs–between the lake and Oakland to Rt. 135. That's a bypass. The way it is shown now it will be dissecting the town. Bypass means: Go around, avoid, sidestep, outwit (now there's a good one). The newest map shows it will dissect: cut up, cut apart, divide, slice up. This is what 219 and 135 did to the towns. That's why Mtn. Lake Park is on both sides of the highway.

I have been told that they can't use an existing road like King's Run or Sand Flat Road because it will cost more money. How in the world can it cost much more than $31 million for a quickie from Third Street to Rt. 135 vs. upgrading an existing road?

Give us a break! For more information, visit www.oaklandbypass.com and attend our October meeting that will be announced in The Republican.

the new Junior ROTC program had "gotten off to a good start" at Northern and Southern.

"I got a good report from both high schools," he said.

The superintendent also told the commissioners that new state requirements for bus drivers had been implemented this school year. He noted, however, that all but one of the county's 167 bus drivers had passed the tests. That one driver had not driven a bus in several years, he said.

Garrett College

Enrollment is up at Garrett College, president Dr. Steven Herman told the commissioners. He expects Garrett to have the highest or second highest rate of increase among community colleges in the state.

He also reported that the bidding process was being finalized for the construction of the college's Learning Resource Center and that the project was within budget. Herman said with some luck the college should break ground for the new center this winter.

Planning and Land Development

Work-force housing has become an important issue throughout Maryland and the nation, John Nelson, Planning and Land Development director, told the commissioners. He and Jim Hinebaugh, Economic Development director, were planning to attend a governor's conference about the issue.

Nelson said with more new businesses starting up or moving to the county, housing for their employees was going to be a major issue in the next fiscal year and the long-range future.

The conference will help him and Hinebaugh learn what the state is doing about the issue and to help them plan for the future, Nelson indicated.

Chamber of Commerce

It was a great summer for tourism in Garrett County, Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross reported. He said tourism was up 18 percent in September, compared to the same month last year. September 2004 saw a decrease in tourism in the county.

"We're fortunate to have been able to make up that deficit," Ross said. He noted that other areas of the state, such as Ocean City, were experiencing decreases in tourism, possibly because of gas prices.

He also reported that the Wisp Resort in McHenry will host the Maryland Association of County Health Officers (MACHO) annual conference on Oct. 25 and 26. That event will be followed by the Maryland Rural Health Association's 2005 Summit on Oct. 27 and 28, which will also be at the Wisp.

This will be the first time the summit has been held in Garrett County, those attending will also tour the area during the event.

He said the summit was a good opportunity to showcase Garrett County and to discuss its health care concerns with policy makers from across the state.

Health officer Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Health Department, said the MACHO conference would also be a good opportunity to present local health and economic issues.

"I think it's going to be a great conference," said Glotfelty, who is the chairman of the association. He encouraged the other county department heads to attend.

Extension Office

Acting director Anne Sherrard, Garrett County Extension Office, reported that farmers had had a "pretty good year overall" with adequate rainfall. She added that bear-damage reports were down, perhaps because there was other food available for bears to eat or maybe because farmers were not filing reports.

Sherrard also reported that the University of Maryland had officially named Willie Lantz to the position left vacated two years ago by Jim Simms. Lantz is the university's facility extension assistant for agriculture and natural resource programs in Garrett County

Sherrard's office will host a local Lights on After School event at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger on Oct. 20 at 5 p.m. Similar events will be held throughout the nation to recognize young people who participate in and those who support after-school programs.

Ruth Enlow Library

Director Cathy Ashby said the Ruth Enlow Library board would soon decide what to do about an old house located on property beside the Oakland branch. The library was willed the property and has been trying to decide whether to restore the house or tear it down.

Economic Development

Director Jim Hinebaugh, Economic Development, reported that the county recently purchased the old Phenix Technologies building at the Central Industrial Park in Accident. His department has been looking for new businesses to purchase or rent the building.

Hinebaugh also reported that agriculture marketing specialist Cheryl DeBerry was a member of the site-location committee for a proposed agriculture theme park. This private venture maybe begin as early as next year.

His department is also working on a study to determine the feasibility of building a wood-pellet plant in Garrett County. Hinebaugh noted that with the recent increase in fuel prices, wood pellet plants were working at full capacity to meet consumers' demand. He said those plants were happy to hear that a pellet plant might be built here.

Financial Services

There are 12,228 septic tanks in Garrett County, Financial Services director Wendy Yoder told the commissioners. "Flush fee" bills were mailed out to tank owners on Sept. 30. The new state law mandates that septic tank owners and public sewer/water customers pay $30 a year to help clean up the Chesapeake Bay.

Locally, the tax will generate $366,840 for the bay's restoration fund, Yoder noted.

She said residents who feel they cannot afford to pay the $30 tax may apply for an exemption. A phone number is listed on the bill for further information.

Nicole Bender Honored By AG Salute To Youth

This year the Autumn Glory Salute to Youth will honor Nicole Bender of Accident.

Bender has been a member of the Best Buddies Program for three years at Northern Garrett High, a Maryland's Tomorrow Tutor, and a member of STEAM, a group which tries to eliminate tobacco use among minors. She was a volunteer for the 2005 Winter Olympics held at the Wisp Ski Resort.

She also is active in her community. She is a member of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, certified to fight fires, and a member of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, teaching Sunday and Bible School. She has taken two mission trips to South America.

Bender was a runner-up for the 2005 Farm Queen and is the vice president of the Oak Hill 4-H Club.

Not only is she committed to her school and community, she goes to work at five in the morning on her parents' 450 acre farm and returns to the farm after school, wrote her nominator. She has proven to be a mature and dependable young lady.

"I think each year it has become more and more difficult to limit the number of people recognized for outstanding achievement," said Oakland mayor Asa McCain. "Over the past several years, a brand new category was established to recognize Garrett County young people.

"I feel passionate about this Salute to Youth. When people are critical of our youth, it is very heartening to know how many fine young people are active in our community."

McCain said he was pleased to see that nominations came from family members, teachers, and organization leaders. Young people are active in a wide variety of activities, including sports, academics, arts, and community volunteer service. All these activities are important to the community.

Other nominees for the Salute to Youth included Neil Philip Buckel, 15, of Grantsville. Goal oriented, he plays the drums for Cornerstone Church and was a member of the worship team that won a state competition and went to a national fine arts competition in Houston, Texas. An honor roll student, he is a member of the Student Council and vice president of the Northern High School class of 2008. He plays soccer and also is a youth referee.

James McCrobie, Grantsville, a student assistant, helped develop lesson plans. He helped update his teacher's web site and helped several teachers with computer problems. The Northern High School student accompanied his teacher to make presentations concerning ABC books and takes pictures for various groups including the soccer organization.

He tutors students, helps write grants for money for the classroom, and works with designing curriculum for the Maryland's Tomorrow courses.

Hannah Gnegy of Oakland has volunteered at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum for four years. She completes computer assignments quickly and accurately, said her nominator. She has been part of a Relay for Life Team for five years, helping raise money for the American Cancer Society. The Southern High School junior is an A student in the merit classes and is Student Council treasurer. She has more than 300 hours of community service. She volunteers at Southern Middle School's after-school program and for Pandora's Box, a teen theater program of the Garrett County Health Department.

This year's Autumn Glory King, James Naylor of Oakland, excels academically at Southern High School, said his nominator. He has accumulated many hours of volunteer service. He played soccer and performed in several plays. He also participated in Model United Nations activities and a variety of leadership functions at school.

David Goldsborough Jr. of Mtn. Lake Park is a Life Boy Scout, a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and a volunteer at Dennett Road Nursing Home. He was a student ambassador to Australia in 2002 and works part-time at Taco Bell. A determined, dedicated young mean, the spokesperson noted, Goldsborough also became an All-American Cheerleader after his first year.

Taylor Thomas Gosnell of Oakland is an honor student, a member of Boy Scout Troop 1, and plays soccer. He received a Presidential Award for Physical Fitness, and received a Creative Writing Award.

Natalie Rohrbaugh of Oakland and Ashley Walters of Mtn. Lake Park were members of Southern High School's team that took first place in the Maryland History category of the Statewide History Competition. Both girls are active in school and community.

Walters is an honor roll student, a member of the Mock Trial, cross country, Model United Nations, and Envirothon teams and is on the Student Council. She volunteers with the Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, has been tree chairman at school, and on Wednesdays is an instructor and youth group leader for elementary school-age children.

Rohrbaugh is an honor roll student, a member of the volleyball and softball teams, and a peer group counselor at Southern High School. Active in her church youth group, she also volunteers with the Oakland Rotary Project.

"The energy and enthusiasm of our young people is particularly evident during the Autumn Glory celebration," said Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "From those playing in bands, to those setting up chairs or serving dinners, young people are active throughout the festival. It is only fitting that we honor them at this time."

The Salute to Youth nominees will be invited to ride in the Autumn Glory parade in recognition of their service to the community and will be receiving certificates.

EASTER IN THE FALL? Easter seems to have arrived months too early at the home of Tom and Carol Kenney, Swanton. In the spring, they purchased two potted lilies during their church's Easter memorial event. When the holiday was over, they brought the flowers home, stuck them under some flower bushes, and basically forgot about them during the summer. Carol said she had intended to plant them, but they never made it into the ground. Long after their original blooms had faded, Carol was surprised to discover that one of the plants had two new blooms on it. Photo courtesy of Carol Kenney.

"This is a major accomplishment," said Riley. "Our affiliate has been blessed to be able to help 50 families have a decent affordable place to live." Over the past 22 years, the boards and volunteers have helped 50 families own homes. "Garrett County Habitat for Humanity wishes to thank all those who came and worked in this great ministry," said Riley. Partner families contribute 250 hours of "sweat equity" per adult in the building of their homes, and have a 30-year, 0 interest mortgage. The dedicated homes are located on Route 135 just southwest of the Deer Park VFW on Homewood Dr. in Hopeland Village. Organizations, companies, or churches interested in helping may contact Riley at 301-533-0600 or driely@garrettcac.org. Pictured above, from the left, are Ida Maust, Habitat board member, and Habitat home partners Crystal Parsons, Dalton, Michael, Torey, and James Parsons, and Rebecca Spiker. Habitat for Humanity has announced "Operation Home Delivery," a program that is building homes off-site in New York, Jackson, Mississippi, and Los Angeles. These homes will be moved to the Hurricane affected areas for those in need. "Operation Home Delivery" will include construction on-site very soon.

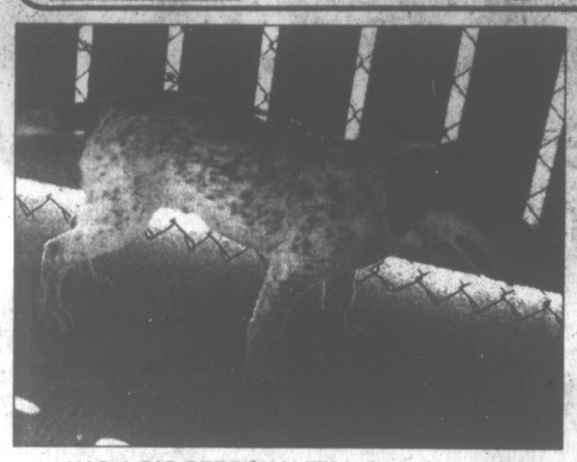
Adorable Adoptables



HAS A BIG PERSONALITY is how the small beagle mix pictured above is described. He was dropped off at the Garrett County Animal Shelter and needs a new home. "He seems so nice, we wonder why someone would give him up," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for homes are a friendly young female tabby that was brought in as a stray and a few younger tabbies. Below is a large friendly female hound dog that was found wandering around in the northwest section of the county. As part of the adoption agreement, she will need to go to the veterinarian's for a check-up, have vaccinations, and be spayed. Also there is a nice Lab mix that was picked up in Pleasant Valley and is anxiously waiting for his owner to pick him up. "He is friendly, so he must have an owner, but he was not wearing tags," said the spokesperson. "And a smaller black/tan long-haired dog was picked up on Lakeshore Drive. We are hoping he is reclaimed before the shelter is overwhelmed with stray dogs. Please remember there is a leash law in Garrett County, meaning you have to 'keep' your pet on your property. It is not unusual for dogs to be hit by cars, shot, or stolen when they are left to run unrestricted." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Many Uses For This Important Vitamin
Thousands of Americans take vitamin B6 to fight stress and increase energy. Not only in tablet form, but vitamin B6 is common in so called "energy drinks". Vitamin B6, also known as pyridoxine hydrochloride, is essential for the metabolism of protein by the body, and the proper functioning of the nervous system and the immune system. It is also involved in the synthesis of hormones and red blood cells. This vitamin occurs naturally in poultry, fish, pork, cereals, eggs, vegetables and fruit. It is also widely available as a dietary supplement. Men should ingest 2 mg daily and women 1.6 mg daily. People on a high protein diet, and those who drink alcohol heavily, need more B6. Women on birth control also tend to have a low level of B6.
Even though it is a vitamin, it can have serious side effects if given at high doses for extended periods of time. One study suggested that long term use of doses of 500 times the recommended daily level may cause damage to the nervous system leading to loss of sensation in the hands and feet and permanent nerve damage. Keep in mind that over-the-counter products can have consequences similar to prescribed medication. Pharmacists are an excellent resource for proper dosing and answering your questions.

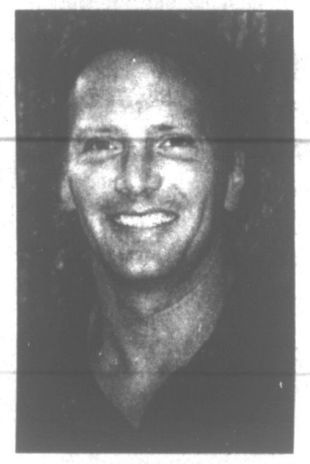
Franc Pair To Offer "Music From The Heart"

MURIEL FRANC



MARK FRANC

Music from the Heart, a casual vocal and piano concert, will be presented on Sunday, Oct. 16, by Muriel Robinson Franc and her son, Mark T. Franc, at 3 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. Muriel is the daughter of the late Rev. Felix and Lucille Robinson, who were known for their musical accomplishments in Garrett County.

Muriel lived for many years in Pittsburgh, rearing a family of six sons and three daughters, all of whom are musical. After the sudden death of her husband in 1983, she resumed her professional career. She was a soprano soloist with the Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Symphony, as well as with the Tiny Tots Concert Series. She participated in the opera workshop at Duquesne University under the direction of Claudia Pinza, daughter of the late Ezio Pinza (best known for his role in South Pacific.) She taught and directed choirs throughout the Pittsburgh area.

Since 1998, she has resided in Oakland, where she is the minister of music at St. Paul's. She plays the piano for different events and is the accompanist for the Garrett Choral Society, which is under the direction of Julie Turrentine.

Mark Franc has appeared in many musical theatre productions staged in areas such as Wheeling, W.Va., Arlington, Va., Pittsburgh, and Washington, D.C. He has performed leading roles in Brigadoon, Godspell, Kismet, and West Side Story.

In regard to Franc's portrayal of Tony in West Side Story, a critic in the Washington Post stated that his singing of "Maria" was "heart-breaking in its beauty."

Last season, he was the understudy for the lead in Evita at the Byham Theatre in Pittsburgh. He lives in Pittsburgh with his two sons, Joseph and Christopher.

A free-will offering will be collected at the concert. A reception with refreshments, hosted by the Methodist Women, will follow the concert. All are invited to attend.

Annual Tall Tale Festival To Be Held At St. Paul's

Old time tales and "true" stories that are stranger than fiction will be told at the annual Tall Tale Storytelling and Book Festival on Saturday, Oct. 15, in the Fellowship Hall at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, during the Autumn Glory festivities.

"Stories can be from a book, your imagination, or even from your life; after all, 'truth can be stranger than fiction,' " said Dr. Gail Herman, organizer of the event. All proceeds from the festival go toward the AAUW Garrett Scholarship and Educational Fund.

"It's a great way to start the day," said Herman. "It's an event for the whole family."

Herman has been coaching students in several classes to tell stories from 9 to 10:15 a.m., followed by adult tellers from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Judges select the best storytellers in various categories.

Prizes will be awarded to all tellers from area businesses.

Herman gives some tips on finding a story:

•Retell a favorite traditional tall tale.

•Take a traditional tall tale and retell it and place it in the local area with local people.

•Expand old jokes into tall tales.

To register as a teller, persons should call Herman at 301-387-9199.

Admission donations are $2 for students over 5 years old, $3 for senior citizens, and $4 for adults.

Dearest Dorothy, Who Would Have Ever Thought?!

by Charlene Ann Baumbich

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Penguin, c. 2005, $13 paperback, 340 pages

Next time you drive down a quiet country road near almost any sleepy little town, pay attention to what you see on the outskirts.

Yep, subdivisions popping up like timers on a turkey.

Call it urban sprawl; call it progress, but – good or bad – it's been happening for decades. Think about it: Chicago, New York City, Baltimore... they all started out as sleepy little towns, once upon a time.

Now someone is buying up all the land surrounding Partonville, and in the new novel Dearest Dorothy, Who Would Have Ever Thought?! by Charlene Ann Baumbich, it could mean the ruin of Crooked Creek Farm.

Everybody knows everybody in Pardon-Me-Ville, as some of the locals call this little Illinois town. If you want something done, you need to go through Mayor Gladys first, although she's been known to squash any idea she hasn't thought of first. Lester opens his restaurant at 6 a.m. sharp, and woe be to the person who sits in someone else's "regular" spot. Wednesday night is bunco night, and most of the town's women avidly play.

When Katie Durbin moved to Partonville, she bought Crooked Creek Farm as a sort of investment, since developers were busily building in nearby Hethrow. The farm's owner, 87-year-old Dorothy, had decided that a house in town would suit her just fine now that she stopped driving, so Katie signed the papers and moved into the farmhouse with her son Josh.

Josh has happily embraced Partonville and its residents, but Katie thinks that no place is better than the city, and she longs to move back. First, though, she needs to figure out what to do with her million-dollar property. She does know one thing: It won't fall into the hands of Colton Craig, Katie's most-hated nemesis.

When Dorothy cooks up an idea for a community Thanksgiving dinner, she knows she needs to win over Mayor Gladys and gain support from the women in Partonville. But Jessica Joy has just discovered that her nausea isn't the flu. Nellie Ruth is more interested in Edward Showalter. Herm and Vera Landers are just visiting, and Arthur Landers believes his wife of 50-some years is in love with an old flame. Who would have ever thought?

Want to get nostalgic for the days when people knew what "neighborly" meant, and folks could rely on the family next door when the chips were down? Then pick up a copy of Dearest Dorothy, Who Would Have Ever Thought?! In this fourth book in the Welcome to Partonville series, author Charlene Ann Baumbich writes of the further gentle adventures of Dorothy and friends, with no scandalous scenes, no four-letter-words, and no violence, which means that you can safely hand this book (or any others in the series) to almost anyone.

I had to laugh when one of the characters says that the people in Partonville are "living in a time warp." Yes, Dearest Dorothy, Who Would Have Ever Thought?! is that kind of book, which I thought was sweetly charming. Indeed... who would have ever thought?

Garrett County youth," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism & marketing. "Each year the selection process becomes more difficult because of the excellent skills of the candidates."

A senior at Northern Garrett High School, Wampler is involved in many activities, including the school's music department, the Husky marching band drum line, pep band, and concert band. She also is on the Husky cheerleading squad, is captain of the drum line, plays for the school's varsity softball team, and is a member of the Best Buddies program at Northern. The queen also plays on a girls' summer softball league and attends Asher Glade Church of the Brethren.

"In my spare time I enjoy camping and swimming with my family, snowboarding, and spending time with my friends," said Wampler, daughter of Vernon and Diane Wampler. "After I graduate, I plan to attend college and pursue a career in nuclear radiology. My main focus will be to help early detection of cancer and other diseases.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank my parents, family, and friends for all the support they have shown me," she said. "I am proud to be a lifetime resident of Garrett County. I have had the opportunity to watch our county grow while still preserving its natural beauty. I am looking forward to a great Autumn Glory experience and spending time with the other members of the Autumn Glory Court. I feel honored, and would like to thank the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for choosing me to represent Garrett County as this year's Autumn Glory queen."

James Naylor, who will reign as king, is the son of Adele and Paul Naylor. During his career at Southern High School, he has been a dedicated student athlete, a chamber spokesperson said. He has been honored as a Distinguished Honor Roll student every semester beginning in his freshman year and, as a junior, was selected into the National Honor Roll and the National Honor Society.

Because of his achievements in school, Naylor also received the Who's Who Among American High School Students Award for his freshman, sophomore, and junior years. Recently he earned an honorable mention in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program.

A member of Southern High School's boys' varsity soccer team the past four years, Naylor has been named a captain of the team the last three years. In 10th grade, he was honored with the Coach's Award, and in 11th grade was chosen for second team in the WMIL soccer region.

"It's been a great experience working with the players and coaches during the past four years," Naylor said. "The coaches have not only taught the game but have also been great role models."

During his junior year, Naylor took the stage as Seymour, a lead in Southern High School's production of Little Shop of Horrors. Later, he got chosen to play the part of Michael in The Butler Did It.

"I never thought, as a freshman, I would play a lead in a school play. But, I'm so thankful that I got involved in theatre because I love acting and I've had the opportunity to work with good friends and a great director," Naylor said.

A member of Southern High School's Student Council beginning as a sophomore, the king is chaplain (school announcer) of student council as a senior. Last year, Naylor was voted to serve as vice president of Garrett County Association of Student Councils for this school year.

"It's an honor to represent Garrett County through this annual celebration of fall color and community spirit," Naylor said of his honor.

Although he is currently undecided on a major and which college he will attend next fall, Naylor plans to attend a four-year college and possibly graduate school.

Princess Corey Lewis lives with her parents, Frank and Jeri Lewis, in Oakland. Living close by are her grandparents, Frank and Larue Lewis of Oakland, and Mary Storey of Swanton.

Lewis has been active in varsity soccer for four years and was named Midfield Player of the Year. She participated in track two years and was Rookie of the Year, and also played varsity softball for two years. She was on the Envirothon team for four years and Model United Nations for three years, in which she was named Most Outstanding Delegate, representing Great Britain.

Lewis also served as a peer counselor for two years, was the student member on the Garrett County Board of Education for a year, and a member of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils for five years, for which she served as president. She was a student member on the Athletic Handbook Advisory Committee for three years, National Honor Society for two years, was girls' varsity basketball statistician for one year, and was elected alternate senator for Girls' State, attending in 2005.

Awards she received included the HOBY Ambassador, High School Heisman Nominee, and the Greater Oakland Business Association's 2004 Snowflake Queen.

Lewis plans to attend Cornell University's School of Arts and Sciences in Ithaca, N.Y. Her major is still undecided.

"I am happy to be chosen," she said. "Being the Autumn Glory princess is a great honor and will be a very memorable experience. I am excited to finally be in the parade and represent my school and my county."

Paul Wesley Logan, the son of Rose Laurann Logan, has lived in McHenry for six years.

"I think the activity that is most responsible for my maturation over the past few years is basketball," said Logan. "Coach Paul Edwards has been an excellent coach and role model. Through him and basketball I have learned the quality of teamwork and dedication.

"While I am not studying, I also run track, snowboard, and work. I'm currently employed at Perkins Restaurant and Bakery in McHenry. I have cleaned tables there for a little more than a year. I would like to personally thank all of the Perkins staff for helping me to where I am now."

Logan has a GPA of 3.2 and is ranked 19th in his class of 129. He plans to attend Grove City (Pa.) College.

"I intend to major in biochemistry to complement a pre-professional program in pre-veterinary medicine," he said. "I wish to become a veterinarian and run my own practice. Though my interest has always been horses, I plan to concentrate on small animals.

"Even though my grades have always been exceptional and I have gotten along with the majority of people, I have never had such an honor or an opportunity such as the one I have now received," Logan said. "I am both honored and pleased to be Garrett County's Autumn Glory prince."

Railey Realty Inc., the official sponsor of the Autumn Glory Festival Royal Court, will provide a scholarship to each member of the court and gowns for the queen and princess, plus other "courtly accoutrements," a chamber spokesperson said. Tuxedo rentals for the king and prince will be donated by Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland.

WVU STUDENTS HAVE SUMMER SEND-OFF – The Mountaineer Parents Club of Garrett County threw a "summer send-off" picnic for the students heading back to Morgantown, W.Va., for the fall semester at West Virginia University. Rams Fall To Mountaineers, Record Win Over Sentinels

Continuing to show improvement on the soccer pitch this season is the Southern High School boys' varsity, as the Rams were topped 2-0 by a strong Beall squad at home last Wednesday night in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash, but then recorded a 1-0 WMIL upset of visiting Fort Hill Tuesday evening.

The Rams held the Mountaineers of Beall scoreless until 11½ minutes into the second half, when Brian Russ scored off an assist by Sean Farrell.

It appeared the match would end that way, but with just 1:26 remaining, Beall's Adam Eshleman scored off a feed by Shawn Guyer.

The Mountaineers finished with a lopsided 31-13 lead in shots, with Mike Edwards turning away 16 of those in goal for the Rams. Josh Bittner had seven saves for Beall. The Rams trailed in corner kicks, 7-5.

The win improved Beall's overall record to 5-4 and WMIL mark to 4-2.

The shutout by the Rams Tuesday evening snapped a six-match win streak for the Fort Hill Sentinels, who came into the contest with a 6-1 overall record and a 3-1 mark in WMIL matches.

The game was ultimately won by the Rams when James Naylor scored off an assist by Tanner Polce with 26:44 left in the second half.

Edwards stopped 17 of Fort Hill's 20 shots in earning the shutout win, as the Rams were out-shot by a 20-9 margin. John Means had seven saves for the Sentinels.

Fort Hill also finished with a 5-3 lead in corner kicks.

The SHS junior varsity fell in the preliminary match, 4-1.

The Southern varsity is now 2-7 overall and 1-5 in WMIL standings. The Rams will play at Bishop Walsh this Friday afternoon and host Westmar next Thursday.

Ram Golfers Claim GC Title Over Huskies

The Southern High School golf team capped its 2005 campaign yesterday by cruising to a 22-stroke win over Northern in the annual Garrett County Championship match. The Rams carded a 163 to NHS's 185.

Two SHS duffers tied for low-medalist honors, as senior Ivan Stutzman and junior Seth Fike both recorded 39s. Junior Joe Albert had a 40, and Ram teammate Ryan Martin carded a 45.

The Huskies' quartet finished in a pack, with Zak Brosnihan, Andrew Joslin and David Vagnetti each carding 46s, and teammate Taylor Cave coming in one stroke off at 47.

Southern finishes the campaign with a 34-12-1 record, and sends Fike to the Maryland 2A/1A State Tournament in College Park at the end of this month. NHS closes out at 6-20-1.

Husky Booters Top Spartans To Up Perfect Record To 8-0

Three different members of the undefeated Northern High School varsity boys soccer team each scored a goal, and three others each had an assist, as the Huskies defeated visiting Bishop Walsh Tuesday evening, 3-1. The victory upped the overall record of Coach Tom Ables' squad to a perfect 8-0.

Northern wasted no time taking the lead for good, as Zack Beitzel needed only the first 30 seconds of the first half to score a goal off an assist by Chris Speicher.

About 10 minutes later, Northern's Elijah Lais made it 2-0 with a goal off a feed by Taylor Jones, scored at the 30:18 mark.

After another 10 minutes of play, the Huskies took a 3-0 advantage when Derek Cutter scored off a pass from Zack Lipscomb.

The Spartans, who came to Accident with an 8-4 record, avoided a shutout when Jimmy Benjamin scored at the 7:20 mark of the second half off an assist by Daniel Peterson.

The Huskies finished with a 17-15 edge in shots on goal, while BW had a 10-3 advantage in corner kicks.

Northern keeper Eric Wood turned away seven shots, and Cameron Sell recorded four saves for the Spartans.

The Huskies will go after their ninth win this evening at home against Allegany. The junior varsity match will kick off at 6 p.m., and the varsity will get under way at 7:30.

Northern will travel to Beall on Saturday for an afternoon clash (1 and 2:30 p.m.), play at Salisbury next Tuesday, and travel to Oakland to face Southern next Thursday.

Huskies Nipped By Alco In Showstopping 21-20 Battle

A battle of the titans took place on the Northern High School gridiron Friday night, where the unbeaten Huskies just missed handing visiting Allegany its first loss in a 21-20 NHS defeat. The showdown was everything a battle of undefeated squads should be, as the two squads went down to the wire before a victor was finally decided.

"It was about as even a game as you'll ever see," Northern coach Phil Carr commented afterward. "It almost seemed as if whoever got the ball last was going to win. Statistically we beat them on paper, but not on the scoreboard, and our fans were treated to a great game even though we lost."

The Huskies appeared to be ready to assert control early in the contest when, on their second possession, a fumble killed an 11-play NHS drive inside Alco's red zone. The Camper offense took over on its own 18-yard line and proceeded to march 82 yards on a dozen running plays. The march ended when junior fullback Jeff Link scored from four yards out at the 9:20 mark of the second quarter.

"That fumble really hurt, not only because we lost the ball in scoring position but they were able to capitalize by turning around and scoring a touchdown," Carr remarked.

Bruised but broken, Northern responded with an opportunistic touchdown of its own late in the stanza. After taking the ball away on an Allegany fumble at the NHS 42-yard line, the Huskies needed just three plays to cover the 58 yards to the goal line. When the first two plays of the possession went basically nowhere, NHS called on speedy halfback Tyler Warn on a big third-and-eight. With powerful fullback Corey Carr helping the offensive line blast open a hole in Alco's defense, Warn shot through the middle and won a footrace with the Camper's secondary for a 56-yard touchdown scamper. The Huskies appeared ready to tie the contest when kicker Corey Yoder uncharacteristically missed the extra-point attempt, leaving NHS down by one at 7-6.

"It was just one of those things, and we all felt terrible for Corey," Coach Carr commented. "He may have taken his eye off the ball a little because Allegany brought a heavy rush on that attempt. He's one of the best kickers we've had in years, and brought a 10-for-11 mark on extra-point tries into the game, so you know it was a fluke that he missed."

On the ensuing kickoff Camper return man Donavin Vinson couldn't get a handle on the ball, and the Huskies recovered his fumble on the Allegany 38 with one minute left in the half. "We really wanted to move the ball a little bit for Corey Yoder to have a shot at a field goal," Carr said. "He can make some long ones, and we were confident that he'd bounce back from the extra-point miss if we could give him a chance."

Those hopes failed to be realized, however, as Northern fizzled away the remainder of the half, which ended with a fourth-and-five play as time expired.

Allegany came out strong in the second half by putting together a three-minute scoring drive that covered 70 yards. Link sparked his offense by reeling off a 33-yard run to put the ball on the NHS 17, and junior fullback Tyler Wharton turned in a touchdown run on the very next play. After a successful PAT kick the guests held a 14-6 advantage.

The Huskies turned the tables right away by taking up a 12-play, 58-yard scoring drive after the ensuing kickoff. The highlight of the march was a fourth-and-three from Allegany's 16-yard line, when Corey Carr turned in a clutch run that didn't end until after he had crossed the goal line with NHS's second touchdown.

With the score 14-12 and just three minutes remaining in the third quarter, Northern elected to go for a two-point conversion that would have pulled the Huskies into a tie; however, a breakdown in the blocking effort doomed Warn's rushing attempt and left the hosts down by two.

"We had our offense set perfectly to score against the defense they put up," Coach Carr said of the play. "We ran an isolation with Corey Carr leading the way for Tyler, but the overall blocking just wasn't there and Tyler barely got back to the line of scrimmage."

The seesaw momentum went back the Campers' way after that sequence, as the guests put together an 11-play, 55-yard scoring drive. Alco's passing game, which had been totally silenced up to that point, got its only completion of the night when quarterback Logan Reiter hit ace receiver Vinson for a 21-yard gain on third-and-15. Link capped the driver with his second touchdown on a five-yard run.

"We were able to keep Vinson out of the game, which was our plan, on everything but that one play," observed Coach Carr. "We put Tyler Warn on him one-on-one, and Tyler's speed and aggressive bump-and-run defense kept him off balance all night. Even that big pass Vinson caught came on perfect coverage by Tyler; the ball was actually underthrown a little. If it had been on the money Tyler would have stopped it."

The touchdown only seemed to enrage the Huskies' offense, which went right back to work to put together a 7½ minute, 17-play drive that covered 76 yards before ending in a touchdown. NHS showed its grit by converting a huge fourth down in the march's early steps, and quarterback Casey Kamp connected on a clutch 15-yard pass later in the drive to garner another key first down.

Kamp finished off the drive with an 11-yard touchdown keeper around the left side with 3:30 showing on the clock. The Husky fireplug also put the two-point conversion on the board by scrambling around right end after Alco's defense clamped down on his passing targets.

Allegany's offense controlled the ball on its possession, and managed to get a crucial first down that allowed the Campers to run

NHS POUNDS IT OUT WITH ALCO – Like two heavyweights hammering it out for 15 rounds, the unbeaten Northern and Allegany High varsity football squads pummeled each other Friday night at the Cove for four full quarters. At the end both teams were still on their feet, but the Campers walked off with a 21-20 win. NHS halfback Tyler Warn (#35) is shown above working hard for some of his game-high 171 yards, behind some good Husky blocking (note the white jerseys sprawled on the ground). The Husky defenders hounded the ball all night long, and four Huskies are pictured below descending upon Alco's top runner, Jeff Link. Clockwise from the left are cornerback Mitch Fost (#32), linebackers Corey Carr (#30) and Matt Mason (#5), and defensive end Jason Doerr (#58). Jayvee Huskies Downed By Alco Campers

The Allegany Camper football program pulled off a sweep of Northern this week, as the Alco junior varsity defeated NHS 34-21 after the varsity teams played to a similar result.

The Huskies opened with a four-yard, first-quarter touchdown pass from Josh Duckworth to Kyle Gillum, but Allegany responded in the same stanza with a six-yard scoring run by Kevin Dunn.

Dunn scored the game's next two touchdowns on runs of three and five yards, but before the half ended Gillum gathered in a 30-yard scoring strike from Garrett Gulledge to pull NHS within seven at 20-13.

In the third quarter, Allegany's Jeff Babich caught a 28-yard touchdown pass, then in the fourth stanza the Huskies' Josh Duckworth reeled off an eight-yard touchdown run to put Northern's final points on the board. Dunn scored the last of his four TDs with a 16-yard carry for Allegany (4-1).

Gillum had two interceptions, while Corey Kamp and Zach Fratz both recovered fumbles for Northern (2-3). The Huskies are slated to host Berkeley Springs Monday in a 7 p.m. contest.

Rams Even Record With Convincing Win Over TC

Superior size and speed by one football team over another usually result in a victory for the former, but such was not the case when the Southern High Rams took on visiting Tucker County last Friday night and proceeded to hand the Mountain Lions a convincing 38-12 defeat.

It was the second straight win for the Rams after a pair of losses, and an effort that Coach Fred Gregg hopes took his team "to a higher level."

"We have obviously played much better the past two weeks, and are hopeful that we can stay on the right track for the rest of the season," Gregg said.

The previous week against visiting Westmar the Rams were expected by most area fans to win, and despite a lopsided Southern victory (46-0), Gregg believed that the game against the Wildcats helped his team prepare for a considerably stronger Tucker County squad.

"Much like Westmar, Tucker County tries so many different things offensively," he explained. "So our defensive preparation for Westmar was also good preparation for Tucker."

The Rams took control of the contest in the first half and never looked back, building a 22-0 advantage by halftime, and a 38-6 lead by the end of the third quarter.

Offensively, the Rams kept the ball on the ground all evening, as their punishing attack yielded a total of nearly 400 yards, with two backs gaining over 100 each.

One of those runner's was Jeremy Gregory, who put the first points on the board with a seven-yard touchdown run with 3:49 left in the first quarter. Quarterback Andrew VanBogelen ran for the two conversion points.

The other back to break the 100-yard barrier was Bret DeWitt, who scored at the 8:59 mark of the second quarter on an 11-yard carry. The conversion run was stopped short, leaving the score at 14-0.

A six-yard TD run by Gregory with 4:59 remaining in the first half, followed by his own successful conversion carry, gave the Rams their 22-0 halftime advantage.

The Mountain Lions drew the first blood of the second half, as Cody Pifer scored a touchdown on a one-yard dive. The run for the extra two points was stopped by the Ram defense.

Gregory recorded his third touchdown of the night, this time on a nine-yard run, and once again ran for the two-point conversion to put Southern up 30-6 with six minutes left in the third period.

DeWitt followed with a 75-yard touchdown run late in the quarter, and VanBogelen ran for the two extra points to conclude Southern's scoring for the night.

The Lions reached double figures with just 2:45 to play when Travis Vanroy capped a drive with a six-yard scoring carry. The pass for the conversion was incomplete.

DeWitt finished with 152 yards on a dozen carries, about half of which came on his 75-yard scoring jaunt. Gregory rushed for 105 yards, also on 12 attempts.

VanBogelen spearheaded the Rams' defensive effort, recording 12 tackles. The Southern defense held the Lions to 106 yards on 33 carries and gave up 86 yards through the air.

"We were very happy with our defensive effort," Coach Gregg said. "The kids played assignment football for the entire game, which is exactly what we keep telling them they must do, every game, if we are to be successful, especially against teams that may be bigger and faster, and against offenses that throw so many different things at you."

Tucker County's offensive tackles stood 6-4 and 6-5, and both weighed over 300 pounds, far bigger than anyone on the Ram line. But Gregg said that technique will win out over size every time.

"We stressed to our kids that by staying low and using leverage, they could be successful against those guys, and fortunately they took that to heart," he said.

Gregg was equally pleased with the work of his offensive unit.

"Offensively, any time you have two backs each gain over 100 yards you know that your up-front guys are doing their job," he continued. "Jeremy [Gregory] and Bret [DeWitt] were both commenting on the sidelines that they had all kinds of running room in front of them. Not only was our line doing its job of blocking, but so were our tight end and fullback."

Once again this week the Rams will be up against a team that generally has more size and speed.

While Preston High School has an unimpressive record of 1-4, Coach Gregg was quick to point out that, because of the size of the school (equivalent to 4-A) the Knights play an "awesome" schedule.

"Certainly a team's record is not always indicative of ability level, and we know we are going to have to execute every bit as well as we did last week in order to have a chance to win," he said.

"Last year they had a similar record when we played them, and they simply ran over us," he added.

The Knights have also been in some turmoil lately because of the recent, unexpected resignation of their head coach for health reasons.

"That also made scouting them a little difficult for us, since they have changed quite a few things in the last week or so," Gregg said.

The Knights' offense is primarily the wishbone, similar to those of Beall and Northern, but they also use multiple-I sets.

"They really like to put the ball in the hands of Seth Wheeler, a 5-9, 170-pound senior halfback who can flat-out fly," Gregg said.

Other standouts on the offensive side of the ball are sophomore fullback Cory Luzier (5-11, 210), massive senior tackle Justin Groves at 6-6, 320, and junior tackle Scott Fields (5-11, 210).

"Luzier does a very good job for them at fullback, Groves is obviously an imposing figure, and Fields is without a doubt their best lineman," Gregg said.

The primarily 5-2 defensive unit is led by Groves at nose guard and senior linebacker Matthew Shepherd (6-0, 200).

"The keys to our success will be for our offense to execute even better than they did last week, and for our defense to continue to play assignment football and to keep Wheeler from getting started," Gregg said. "He's one of those guys that you might defend well 98% of the time, but make one mistake and he's gone. We literally don't have anyone on our team who can catch him if he gets loose."

Gregg said that his team is in good health generally and should therefore be at full strength for Friday's game, which will be the Rams' Homecoming contest. The kickoff at the SHS athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

Southern Jayvees Whipped 29-6 By Mountaineers

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School was defeated by the visiting Beall High jayvees Tuesday evening, 29-6.

The Mountaineers were led offensively by quarterback Matt Farris and Dustin Shaw, who combined for a pair of touchdowns through the air.

Beall's Steve Whetstone opened the scoring with an 18-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. He also ran for the extra two points to make the score 8-0.

Farris then hit Shaw with a 50-yard touchdown aerial later in the quarter, and Whetstone ran again successfully for the conversion to give the Mountaineers a 16-0 halftime lead.

The rest of the scoring was all in the third quarter. Jared Stakem put Beall on top 22-0 with a three-yard touchdown run.

The Shaw-Farris duo struck again, this time on a 55-yard TD pass, followed by a conversion kick by Stakem, to conclude Beall's scoring.

The Rams averted a shutout when William Six hauled in a 25-yard touchdown pass from Nick Tressler. The run for the conversion was stopped short.

It was the fourth win in five starts for the Mountaineers.

The Rams are scheduled to play at Preston Monday.

Huskies Nipped

out the clock with a 21-20 lead.

"We're knocking at the door [to beating Allegany], but haven't quite made it in yet," Carr said. "We played a great game, and so did they. Our kids have nothing to be ashamed of, and they were very appreciative of the crowd's reaction after the game. The fans could tell both teams played their hearts out."

As the NHS skipper said, the Huskies won the battle of the numbers everywhere but the scoreboard. Northern amassed 349 yards of total offense to Alco's 265, with the hosts putting up 315 rushing yards to the visitors' 244, and taking a 15-12 advantage in first downs.

Warn's game-high 171 rushing yards came on 21 carries, a pace of just over eight yards per attempt. The Campers' Link had 121 yards on 16 carries.

Corey Carr turned in a big night for Northern's defense by rolling up 15 tackles, eight of them solo. Junior defensive end Jason Doerr made a name for himself with nine tackles, a sack, and a fumble recovery.

"Corey is one of the best linebackers in the area, and he proved it with a big game against an Allegany squad that is loaded with good linebackers itself," said Coach Carr. "And Jason, who has worked hard to improve tremendously from his stint with the junior varsity last year, kept making big stops on the line, and put lots of pressure on the quarterback whenever they tried to throw the ball. They're both just juniors, so we expect big things from them this year and next."

Northern will try to return to the win column on Saturday afternoon at Bishop Walsh, where the Huskies and Spartans square off at 2:30 p.m. (moved back one hour from the previously published starting time). BW fields a markedly different unit from 2004, given that it has lost a number of key players from last year. The biggest departure was that of All-Area quarterback Chris Hendershot, a phenomenal passer who is now plying his trade for the Division III Catholic University Cardinals.

As expected, the Spartans are struggling this season, and rely on their defense to keep them in games. The unit runs a 6-2 scheme, which will likely benefit the Huskies because that's the same formation Allegany used, giving NHS two straight weeks of practicing against the scheme. A big weapon for BW's defense is senior linebacker Kyle Gonzalez (5-10, 225), a four-year starter who has been giving Northern headaches since his fres'man days. "Gonzalez puts up double-digit tackle numbers every game, and was credited with 27 tackles against Clay-Battelle last week," Carr stated. "He's very aggressive and is always looking to make the big play, and he's extremely quick and can run you down. We're going to try to neutralize his quickness by taking the game right to him, and we think he knows we're coming. It will be a good test for our blocking game."

Another quick defender on the BW side of the line is senior defensive back Jeremy Snevathen (5-11, 185).

Par for the course, the Huskies will give away a few pounds across the front line, as the stout Spartans average 260 pounds on their line.

Bishop Walsh's offense takes a page from the book of college coach Steve Spurrier by spreading five receivers across the field and throwing the ball a good 90 to 95 percent of the time. While the Spartans' shotgun offense gives sophomore quarterback Andrew Hare (6-0, 150) a few extra beats to throw, he lacks the running mobility that could fully capitalize on the scheme. Look for the Husky "grave diggers" to work extra hard on planting Hare in his own backfield.

The top receiver of the five-man corps is Snevathen, who led the area in receiving last season. Northern will likely mix their zone and man-to-man coverages to try to throw Hare off, and Warn will draw the lion's share of the assignment to contain Snevathen.

"We've got to get back on track before a huge Beall game next week," said Carr. "We can't take anything for granted."

Kickoff is slated for 2:30 p.m. on the Bishop Walsh field.

Southern Girls Topped By Falcons, Campers, Spartans

It was another tough week on the soccer field for the Southern High School girls' varsity, with the Rams having to face two undefeated teams back to back before taking on Bishop Walsh yesterday.

Coach Susan Clark's squad fell to host Frankfort last Friday, 4-1, was crushed 6-0 by unbeaten Allegany in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest played Monday in Cumberland, and dropped a 3-2 match to host BW yesterday.

The losses dropped the Rams' record to 3-7 overall and 2-4 in league matches.

The Rams needed only 15 seconds to take a 1-0 lead, as Lauren Neville raced down field and scored off a feed by Brittney Scheffel at the 39:45 mark.

The Falcons knotted the score at 1-1 on Alkire's first goal of the evening, scored off an assist by Amanda Macklen with 33:17 remaining in the first half.

The score remained 1-1 until about four minutes into the second half, but the Falcons took the lead for good via an unassisted goal by Wray at the 36:15 mark.

Alkire struck again at the 23:00 mark with a goal off another feed by Macklen, and Dayton tacked on an insurance goal, unassisted, with 9:30 to play in the match.

The Falcons finished with an 18-10 lead in shots, while the Rams had a 4-3 edge in corner kicks. Jessica Petrella recorded 10 saves in goal for Southern, and Rachel Alkire had nine for Frankfort.

The win upped the Falcons' record to 10-0-1.

The Rams were no match for 9-0-1 Allegany on Monday, as the Campers scored four goals in the first half and two in the second. Jaclyn Braithwaite recorded two goals and an assist, while Megan Langan had one goal and two assists.

Braithwaite's first goal came off an assist by Jackie Boor at the 32:00 mark.

Heather Carpenter followed with a goal off a feed by Braithwaite about five minutes later to make it 2-0.

Braithwaite struck again at about the 13:00 mark, this time off an assist by Langan, and Becky Mathew put an unassisted goal on the board just two minutes later to give Alco a commanding 4-0 lead at intermission.

Langan assisted on the first goal of the second half, sending a feed to Tamra Hott to make it 5-0, and Langan hit a goal of her own with about six minutes to play off a pass by Boor.

Southern was out-shot by a 19-4 margin and trailed in corner kicks, 5-1.

Petrella recorded 10 saves for the Rams, and Lindsey Twigg only had to stop two Southern shots to secure her sixth shutout of the season.

Yesterday against Bishop Walsh the Rams spotted the Spartans three goals before nearly pulling off a successful rally.

Midway through the first half, BW's Kara Miller recorded an unassisted goal.

Megan Finan made it 2-0 at the 9:46 mark of the first half with a goal off an assist by Miller.

Miller put her team up 3-0 about eight minutes into the second half with another unassisted goal.

The Ram comeback began with just 7:01 left in the match when Brittney Scheffel scored an unassisted goal.

Teammate Corey Lewis followed with an unassisted goal with 2:44 remaining, but that would be the final goal of the match.

The Spartans finished with a 20-7 advantage in shots, and the Rams led in corner kicks, 5-3.

The Rams are scheduled to play this Saturday at Westmar and will travel to Beall next Wednesday.

NHS Downs BW, Beall; Falls To Red Raiders

The Northern High School volleyball team took two out of three matches this week to even its record at 4-4. The Huskies opened by defeating host Bishop Walsh in a 3-0 sweep last Thursday, Sept. 29, before being swept in turn Monday by visiting Meyersdale. NHS rebounded by recording a 3-1 win over Beall.

The Huskies downed the Spartans 25-14, 25-15 and 26-24, as senior Jessica Fratz put up 11 points, classmate Tara Devine netted three kills, and junior Jackie Rodeheaver contributed a pair of kills. Kara Miller led Bishop Walsh with seven kills.

Northern swept to 25-17, 25-18 wins in junior varsity play, but individual statistics were not made available.

The Huskies couldn't get off the ground Monday night at Meyersdale, where the hosts put together a 25-19, 25-4, and 25-7 sweep.

Rodeheaver led NHS with five attacks and three points, while Fratz contributed five points.

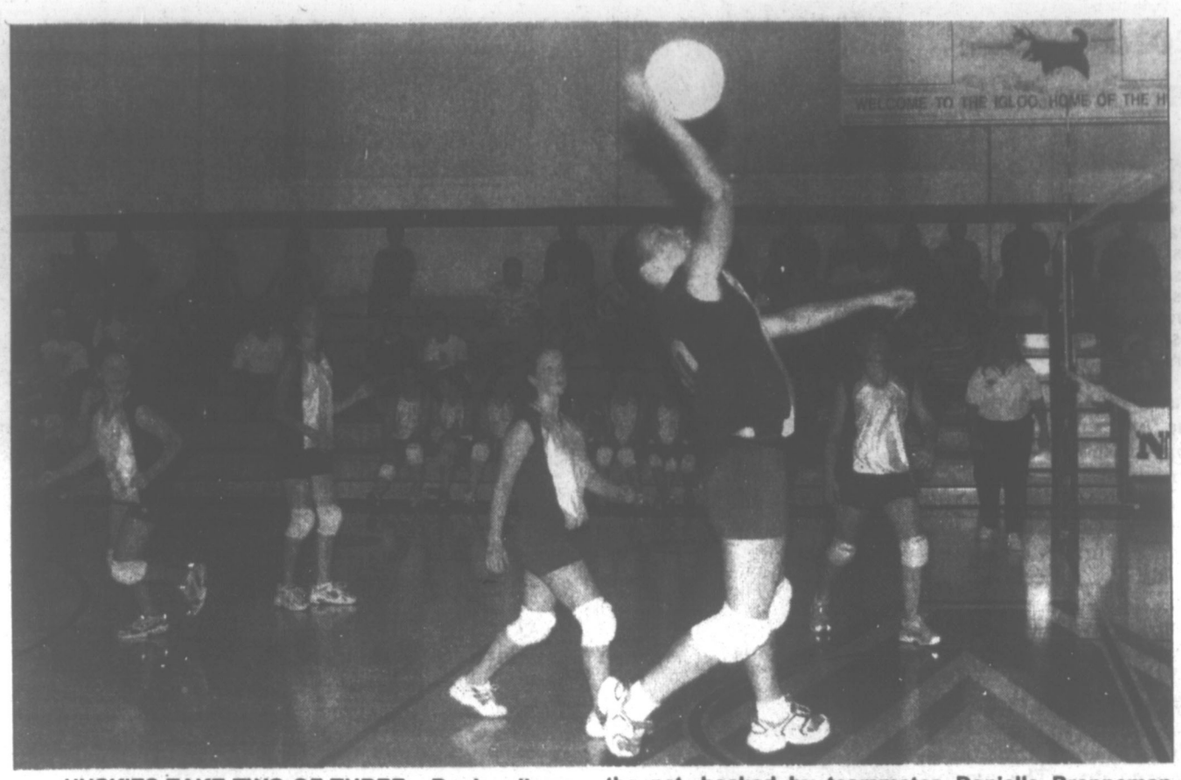
Northern's jayvees opened with a 25-20 loss, but took a hard-found second contest in a 26-24 thriller. The Huskies went on to claim the tiebreaker by a 15-10 margin. Johanna Winter paced the victors with 11 points and three attacks, Katy Umbel added nine points, and Nicole Opel put up six attacks, six points, and four kills.

NHS took the opening game from Beall Tuesday by a 25-19 margin, dropped the second in a 25-23 heartbreaker, then roared back to clinch the match with 25-19, 25-10 victories.

Rodeheaver paced the home court Huskies with 18 attacks and six kills, while sophomore Danielle Brenneman recorded 13 service points. Senior Angie Umbel contributed nine attacks four kills, and seven points, and Fratz netted nine attacks, two kills and nine points. Beall's Sarah Nightengale had nine points.

Northern and Beall put on a clinic in a hard-fought JV match, with each game going down to the wire. The Huskies took the first meeting 26-24, but the Mounties came back to take the next two 26-24, 17-15. Freshman Katie Umbel led NHS with a dozen points, while Beall's Holly Knieriem and Megan Rice recorded 10 points apiece.

The Huskies are slated to visit powerhouse Fort Hill this evening, then return to the Cove for a pair of home matches against Salisbury Monday and Allegany on Tuesday. Each meeting opens with JV play at 6 p.m., with varsity action to follow immediately.



HUSKIES TAKE TWO OF THREE – Bookending a loss with two wins this week, the Northern High School volleyball squad beat Bishop Walsh, lost to Meyersdale, and downed Beall. Lander, Etown Tennis Squad Roll To Sweeps

Former Northern High School tennis standout Heather Lander and her Elizabethtown College tennis squad continued their excellent campaign this season by recording back-to-back shutouts this week in a pair of 9-0 wins over Commonwealth Conference rivals Lebanon Valley and Albright.

Saturday's road match at Lebanon Valley included Lander's 6-2, 6-1 victory at No. 5 singles, and an 8-5 third-seed doubles victory recorded with the help of partner Kristy Trimbey of Doylestown, Pa.

The Etown Blue Jays upped their mark to 7-2 (5-1 conference) with Tuesday's home court triumph over Albright. Lander turned in a perfect day, recording a 6-0, 6-0 sweep in singles play and an 8-0 win in doubles competition, again with Trimbey as her partner.

Elizabethtown is slated to return to action on Saturday in a road match against Washington College in Chestertown.

Ram Netters Rampage Past Beall, Bishop Walsh, Preston

Woe to the volleyball opponents who came before the chopping block at Southern High School this week, as SHS showed no mercy in recording three straight home court sweeps over Beall, Bishop Walsh, and Preston. The Rams, still stinging from their first loss of the season to Fort Hill on Sept. 27, ran roughshod this week to boost their record to 7-1.

The action opened with a home court match last Thursday, Sept. 29, that Southern took by huge game margins of 25-7, 25-16 and 25-13.

Senior Chelsea Wassell paced the Rams with 24 points, five aces, and four kills, while junior Adrienne Yoder netted 10 points, six assists, and three aces. Junior Sarah Stephens had six kills and two blocks, and classmate Natalie Rohrbaugh contributed seven assists.

Becca Phillips led Beall with 10 points.

SHS's junior varsity unit took a 2-1 victory over its Mountie counterpart, behind a 16-point, eight-ace, two-kill performance by Melody Stolbom, while Sierra Wassell added six points.

Southern was slated to play in the 15-team Thomas Johnson Tournament on Saturday in Frederick, but results were not made available.

The Rams rolled to 25-9, 25-10, and 25-9 game wins over Bishop Walsh Monday in Oakland.

Stephens tallied 14 points, three aces, nine kills, and nine digs, while Chelsea Wasselll contributed 10 points and four kills. Senior Randi Bennett had five kills, and Rohrbaugh netted 13 assists, three blocks, and four digs.

Amy Farris had four assists, four digs, and three aces for Bishop Walsh.

The Ram jayvees recorded a lopsided win of its own, blasting BW 25-12 and 25-8. Sierra Wassell recorded nine points, three assists, and two assists, while Barnard had three points and one ace.

Preston was the next victim, and Southern's Knight neighbors put up a good fight midway through a 25-15, 25-23, and 25-15 loss to the Rams.

Rohrbaugh led SHS with 14 service points, eight assists, and two blocks, and Stephens had 11 points, eight kills, six digs, and two points. Chelsea Wassell recorded 11 points, three aces, and seven digs, and Bennett had five kills.

Kera Mitchell had 10 kills to lead Preston, while Haley Wilson had five kills and four blocks, and Abby Peddicord handed out 12 assists.

Southern's JVs continued their perfect run of eight wins in eight outings by netting a 25-16, 25-17 win. Barnard tallied 13 points, 10 aces and executed three kills, and Stolbom recorded 10 points and two aces.

The Rams (7-1) are idle until Wednesday, when they try to avenge their only loss to Fort Hill. Jayvee action begins at 6 p.m. in Oakland, with varsity play to follow immediately.

We are so blessed to have Garrett County Memorial Hospital and our Rescue Squad; our doctors and our nurses. We wish to especially thank Drs. Domenick, Johnson and Perry; Karen Rexrode and Pastor Mel Menker; and our family and friends. Thanks to Oak Park Church of the Brethren for the meals, cards and flowers. A special thank-you to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Dr. Beto and staff.

Above all we give Jesus the honor and praise for life.

Much love,

NHS Girls Battle Unbeaten Frankfort To 1-1 Stalemate

A tie in an athletic contest is a result not typically celebrated by either side, but when a 2-5 team achieves a tie with a team that is 11-0-1, the former has reason to celebrate.

Such was the case last night when the Northern High School girls' varsity soccer team battled to a 1-1 tie with undefeated Frankfort at the Cove.

After a scoreless defensive battle in the first half, Amanda Macklen finally put the Falcons on top with an unassisted goal eight minutes into the second half.

A penalty kick by Northern's Victoria Moser with 18 minutes to play evened the score and proved to be the final goal of the match, as two 10-minute overtime periods ended without a sudden-death goal.

Frankfort led in shots by a 19-14 margin, and each team finished with four corner kicks.

Goal keepers Kasie Fratz of Northern and Rachel Alkire of Frankfort each recorded six saves.

"I was very pleased with the overall level of play from our team," NHS coach John Milbourne said. "We battled for every ball and significantly increased our level of intensity."

The Huskies will play again this Friday at Bishop Walsh and will host Westmar next Thursday.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

LABOR DAY WEEKEND AND THE COMMODORE'S CUP

by Dan Muss

Editor's note: The following column was written immediately after the Labor Day sailing races, but was inadvertently missed for publication at that time.

The Labor Day holiday weekend featured a few records. It was the only time I can remember that we had three days of great sailing weather and having the weatherman call it on the nose for all three days – Saturday 5-15, N; Sunday 5-10, N; Monday 5-10, E – and sunny right straight through. Then, on Saturday it took me four (count 'em), four tries to pick up our mooring after the race.

Now picking up the mooring is tricky. The skipper has to bring the sailboat head-to-wind, ideally stopped, right at that mooring ball, in varying conditions of wind and chop, so the crew can hook the bowline to the eye on the mooring ball. But we've been doing this a long time! For some reason or other we kept going to the wrong mooring; we could not find ours. Let me tell you, I've gotten some teasing about that debacle.

We had a good start on Saturday and led for most of the first beat, but then we sail into a hole and dropped way back. It was like that again on Sunday when we got a great start and led for three legs, but again found ourselves in the wrong place. On the last run we had a shot at fourth when two lines got fouled in our centerboard rollers as we tried to drop the board for the final beat. Since we could not get the board down, we could not sail upwind. It took us several minutes to clear the tangle; by that time the fleet was gone.

Frank and Geri Meehan won our fleet with one first and two seconds, but Barbara Elster, with my wife Carol crewing, came in first on both Sunday and Monday. That was great sailing, Elster.

In the racing results below there are a number of end-of-season awards; there is one that deserves special note. Ray Gauthier was voted Sportsman of the Year, and there was a standing ovation recognizing Ray's contributions to the Turkey Neck sailing club and to the sport of yacht racing.

Next Saturday (Sept. 10) is the final disorganized sailboat-racing event of the season. It is the Magellan race, which is sponsored by the Flat Earth Society of Lower Swanton. Since our sponsor believes that Deep Creek Lake below the Glendale Bridge is the only navigable water on earth, this is a race around the entire known world. That is, the competitors sail around all nine marks scattered around the lower end of the lake. My bride and I are off on vacation, so we won't be there. This is therefore my final column for this season. See you all next spring!

LEMLEY GOLF EVENT BENEFITS COMMUNITY – The eighth annual Al Lemley Memorial Golf Tournament, held recently at the Oakland Golf Club, raised $18,300 for local non-profit community organizations. Over the past eight years, this event has raised $93,300 for local charities. These five photos show tournament organizer Jeanne Lemley, widow of Al Lemley, distributing the proceeds to representatives of the organizations of her choice. The above left photo shows Lemley presenting a check in the amount of $6,100 to Kathy Greaser of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. In the above middle photo, Lemley presents a check in the amount of $3,050 to Jamie Rodeheaver, chief of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company. In the below left photo, Rick Harding, chief of Southern Rescue Squad, receives a check in the amount of $3,050. John Feather, chief of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, accepts a check in the amount of $3,050 from Lemley in the below right photo. Stanton's Mill wheat to be ground.

"The roasted corn is the main thing that they get ground here," Childers said. "I love to grind it because it smells so good!"

Currently, the only thing that is bought locally and in bulk is buckwheat, which is then taken upstairs to move through a blower system and cleaners before being re-bagged. Because of health regulations, the grain cannot be stored in the grain bins inside the building as it used to be.

Today, production at Stanton's Mill includes grinding white and yellow corn meal, white and yellow grits, buckwheat flour, brown flour, whole wheat flour, rye flour, seven-grain flour, and nine-grain flour.

"We also make a buckwheat pancake mix which is the best there is in this part of the country," Childers said. "We also make Amish funnel cake mix, corn muffin mix, and hush puppy mix. We use the whole grain flours at Penn Alps to make all of the whole grain breads that are served up there. Later on, when we get the big mill going, hopefully all the flour we use up there will be processed here."

Plans are to complete the restoration by next spring. Childers explained that Mark Folk of Keystone Lime plans to travel to Canada when the paving season is over to haul back the new mill with a semi and a flatbed.

"It weighs 7 tons," Childers said, "so a little trailer behind a truck is not big enough to haul it that far."

Childers also purchased a water wheel in Georgia, which was cut into pieces, hauled, and then reassembled. Beitzel Corporation lifted the wheel in place in August.

"The only thing we're waiting for now is rain," Childers noted. "We still have to put the wooden flume in, but when that goes in, the water wheel will turn one set of stones, a sifter, and a blower system. The rest of it will stay electric because of the water situation. It's been electric since 1944, and at that time they were having trouble with the water. They actually started having trouble with the water in the late 1890s, because they put a steam engine in to supplement the water pump."

Additional equipment was purchased from the former Cranesville Milling Company, which began operation in 1860.

"We were really lucky to find the equipment that close," Childers said. "All of the other equipment in here came from Maine, New York, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, and West Virginia. We don't have anything else that came from a Maryland mill, and nobody seems to want to sell anything."

Future plans for the mill include the addition of a woodshop, broom mill, and a blacksmith shop.

"If we get the flume built and we get water, we're going to have a free buckwheat pancake supper for whoever wants to show up," Childers said.

In 2008, Stanton's Mill will be the site of a convention for the Society for the Preservation of Old Mills (SPOOM).

"It's tentatively planned for the last weekend in September in 2008," Childers noted. "About 500 mill owners from throughout the world will descend upon Grantsville, so we want to have everything done by then."

HONI GOLF OPEN BENEFITS RED CROSS – All proceeds from the recent Honi Golf Open, which included a cookout and a silent auction, were donated to the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross. Sixty golfers participated in the one-day open, which was held at the Oakland Golf Club, and first place gross went to the team of Dan Davis, Mark Grimm, Rolo Heilig, and Jeff Kurilla. Net first place went to the team of Tom Broadwater, Dean Durst, Charlie Riley, and Don Savage. Pictured above are Biff Thompson, left, and Bill Ingram as they present the $2,707 donation to Red Cross representative Debbie Bishop.

School to the public system this fall. The total connection cost is estimated at $76,665.

Teets said, however, that the state would not pay for any work that was not done on school property. As the line coming to the school might be used be others, state officials did not want to set a precedent by paying for something that would not entirely benefit the school. The county will pay 100 percent of the cost of bringing the line to the school and 30 percent of the hook-up cost.

The county will seek bids for the project as soon as possible. Because the situation has been declared an emergency, the county can forego certain aspects of its procurement process. Jim Thomas, director of maintenance and operations for the Board of Education, offered his assistance in the process. He said he hoped to get the line to the school within a month, weather permitting.

With Northern High School connected to the public system, Northern Middle and the Hickory Environmental Center should have enough water for the short term, Teets indicated.

Next year, the state will also pay 70 percent of the cost of connecting Northern Middle and the Hickory center to the public system. The county will pay the remaining 30 percent. The total cost of that phase of the project is more than $192,000.

The total estimated cost to provide public water to the three facilities is more than $695,000.

Following the allocation of the funds for the water line, the commissioners approved the Board of Education's seven-year Capital Improvement Program. The program must now be submitted to and approved by the MSDE.

Future projects include renovations at Grantsville Elementary and Northern Middle schools, roof replacements at Crellin Elementary and Southern High schools, and boiler replacements at Southern Middle and Kitzmiller schools.

Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Ctr. Slates Banquet

The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center will host its eighth annual fundraising banquet beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 17, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. The theme for this year's banquet is "Gathering the Harvest."

The keynote speaker will be Rev. Andy Merritt, pastor of the Edgewood Baptist Church in Columbus, Ga. The church opened a crisis pregnancy center in March 1981 and the New Beginnings Adoption Agency in 1984. Since then Merritt has traveled across the nation to provide assistance to groups starting CPCs and train over 500 CPC volunteers.

The Mtn. Top Crisis Pregnancy Center operates entirely on donations and is staffed with trained volunteers. Since its inception 17 years ago, the MTCPC has opened two satellite locations, a Keyser, W.Va., center 14 years ago, and a Kingwood, W.Va., center that will mark its tenth year of operation next month.

Services offered by the MTCPC include pregnancy testing, counseling, diapers, formula, maternity clothes, and baby furniture. Counseling is provided for adoption, abstinence, post-abortion, parenting, anger, and marriage. The clients are expected to work in exchange for coupons used to obtain items they need for themselves and their children.

"Since the first center was opened, thousands of people have received help," a center spokesperson stated. "MTCPC is serving a needed service to the community.

"If interested in attending you may host a table for $200 and then invite others to attend with you. You would be paying for your guest meals with the remainder going to MTCPC for a donation, or you may attend the banquet by paying $10 per meal," the spokesperson explained.

For further information, or to register, persons may call the MTCPC at 1-800-866-2400.

Oakland Update

by Asa McCain

With the close of summer, we wanted to update you on happenings in the town of Oakland. The following is a list of things to keep in mind.

Leaf Collection – The Oakland Street Department will start the annual leaf collection process the week following Autumn Glory. Please rake your leaves out to the curb.

Bulk Pick-Up – The Street Department is still doing bulk pick-up for our residents on Fridays. This will end soon because of inclement weather. Remember, a small charge applies for certain large items. Call City Hall for more information.

Recycling – Recycling continues in Oakland. On the first and third Fridays, cans and newspapers are collected curbside. Stop by City Hall to purchase your blue recycling bags. We are investigating the idea of cardboard recycling with the help of the Garrett County Solid Waste representatives.

Increase In Fuel Costs – With the increase in the cost of gasoline, we are reviewing our snowplowing procedures. Considering the fact that just one of our trucks takes approximately $500 in gas for a 24-hour period, we are looking for the best way to maximize our resources without compromising public safety. In an effort to maintain the most cost efficient road maintenance, we will concentrate our plowing/cindering activities during the hours of 5 a.m. and 11 p.m. This should help alleviate the financial burden on the budget.

Little Yough Summer Music Festival – The Little Yough Music Festival has ended another successful season. I would like to thank each of those who participated for their support. A special thanks goes out to those unsung volunteers who helped behind the scenes. Let us know if you have suggestions for next year.

Web Site – Our web site, www.oaklandmd.com, has been updated. We have information on our GOBA member businesses, some of which is limited. Local businesses should check the site and submit updates in writing to Oakland City Hall.

Third Street Bridge – The Third Street Bridge is moving along, slowly. Please be patient. We have finally removed the mobile home which was involved in the right-of-way purchases. And of course, there have been other snags and delays in the right-of-way purchases. The next step is to get Columbia Gas Company to move its live gas line from the bridge. We are hoping to start construction in the spring of 2006.

Broadford Park Recreation Area – Things are winding down at Broadford. Shortly after Autumn Glory, we will begin winterizing the park. As a reminder, we do not allow hunting in the park, and we do not allow ice fishing in the winter.

Hunting Not Permitted – Please remember there is no hunting permitted in the corporate limits of Oakland at any time.

Oakland Cemetery – We have had various comments regarding the Oakland Cemetery throughout this summer. We are considering establishing a Friends of the Oakland Cemetery Committee (perhaps include a representative of the local churches) to assist the town with ideas for improving operations. And of course, we willingly accept any donations. If you are interested or have any suggestions, please contact City Hall.

Snowmobiles Prohibited On Roadways – With winter approaching, we would like to remind snowmobilers that state law prohibits the use of snowmobiles on public streets and rights-of-way. Certain state parks have designated snowmobile trails for your convenience.

4-H Club News

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES
by Keaton Thomas

The September meeting of the Friendsville Fireflies was held on Sept. 20 at our leader Alice Long's house. Teresa Friend opened the meeting. Roll call was telling our favorite school subject.

Ryan Jacques led the American pledge, and Keaton Thomas led the 4-H pledge.

We have a new member, Wyatt Hinkle. Our club wants to thank Wal-Mart for buying Keaton Thomas's market swine, Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop for buying Bradley Friend's market steer, Mighty Distributing for buying Teresa Friend's market swine, and Jennifer Bernard for buying Teresa Friend's market lamb at the 2005 Garrett County Fair. We appreciate your support.

On Oct. 8 we will go to the Bowler and then for pizza. Other activities will be a picnic and a hay ride. Thank you to Alan Guard for taking the time to take our club on a hay ride.

Our next meeting will be on Oct. 18 at 6:30 p.m.

Partners After School Program To Hold Rally

Students and staff members of the Garrett County Partners After School Program will join more than 7,500 communities and 1 million Americans throughout the nation in celebrating the 6th annual "Lights On After School" rally on Oct. 20. A local celebration is planned for the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Bittinger, with all six centers of the Partners After School Program participating.

The program, scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., will include many activities. Following the presentation by each center, a K-9 demonstration will be presented by Chris Helbig, a deputy with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. A cookout is planned for the evening, with live entertainment provided by a local band. The celebration will conclude with lighting of luminaries, which will be set afloat on the lake by each of the centers, followed by a bonfire and drumming circle.

Pam Nelson, vice-president for community services and family development at Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC), will be recognized at the statewide celebration of "Lights On After School," which is slated for the morning of Oct. 20 at the newly opened Reginald F. Lewis Museum of Maryland African American History and Culture in Baltimore. Nelson has been instrumental in obtaining funding and for the overall successful operations of the before- and after-school programs currently operated by GCCAC.

The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. provides oversight for six Partners After School programs in Garrett County. Partners After School: Bridges to Learning (PAS) provides community-based after-school programs at elementary schools in Accident, Friendsville, and Kitzmiller, and at three additional community sites in Grantsville, Loch Lynn, and the Overlook Judy Center in Oakland.

Programs at all six centers emphasize goals related to academic achievement, positive youth development, family literacy, and parental involvement utilizing exemplary, research-based strategies. There is also a partnership with all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County to provide reading enrichment activities for students and their families.

The PAS programs offer safe, structured, and enriching after-school programs for students in Garrett County. Each center provides academic tutoring to assist students with homework and specific academic issues. Another important emphasis of PAS is to provide cultural enrichment activities for students enrolled in the program. These activities include academic and cultural field trips, computer classes, library enrichment and book clubs, athletic clinics, karate classes, theatre, arts and crafts, and swimming lessons.

Partners After School programs begin at the six centers immediately following dismissal from school, and operate until approximately 6 p.m. In addition to providing academic and social support for the students, they provide economic and family support for working parents, especially for those parents whose work schedules do not permit them to be home at the time the schools are dismissed.

For more information on the Partners After School: Bridges to Learning program in Garrett County, persons may contact the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families at 301-334-1189.

Antiques Database Now Available At Library Branches

Residents of and visitors to Garrett County can now access real market-based information about their antiques, artwork, and family treasures, without waiting for the Antiques Roadshow to come to town. The Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County has subscribed to the p4A Antiques Reference database and is making it available free of charge at the Oakland Library and all branches, and through the library web site (relib.net) for all library cardholders.

"The p4A Antiques Reference database is used by most leading personal property appraisers throughout the United States (including many Antiques Roadshow appraisers), antiques dealers, museums, and agencies, such as the Internal Revenue Service, to evaluate almost every kind of antique in today's collections," said a Ruth Enlow spokesperson.

Unlike other reference tools, the p4A database is focused on the American regional marketplace and does not include the top-scale New York and London art and antiques markets. Thus, library patrons using the database have a better opportunity to find the types of material seen locally and regionally at auction and retail outlets. These antiques are organized into 1,280 different classifications on subjects including furniture, glass, pottery and porcelain, paintings, prints, clocks, toys, dolls, advertising collectibles, books, autographs, lamps, silver, firearms, and historical documents. Each record includes information on when and where the item was sold as well as the price realized. Pricing information ranges from $10 into the millions.

The p4A Antiques Reference database also is unique in having at least one color picture for every record – over 250,000 at the present time (and more are added every day). Library patrons actually can see if the item they are researching closely matches the one described in the database. In addition, each record carries a text description, and many have extensive reference notes attached with background and context information.

Persons may use the p4A Antiques Reference database by inquiring at the information desk at the Oakland Library or the circulation desk at the branches.

Library cardholders also may use the database remotely from their home or office by accessing the library's web site, selecting "Online Databases," and then clicking on the link for p4A Antiques Reference. A screen will appear asking for the patron's card number before access to the database is granted.

Other databases available from the library or remotely for patrons include: the Baltimore Sun Archive, EbscoHost, Facts on File, Thomas-Gale, GPO Access, HeritageQuest Online, LitFinder.com, LearningExpress, Project Gutenburg, Reference USA, and Sailor.

For more information, one may stop by any Ruth Enlow Library or visit its web site.

October Named As Adult Abuse Awareness Month

October has been designated as Adult Abuse Awareness Month, the Garrett County Department of Social Services announced this week.

"Abuse and neglect of vulnerable adults has become a major concern for our society," said a department spokesperson. "This concern increases as the adult population increases."

Last year the department received and investigated over 78 reports alleging abuse, neglect, exploitation, and self-neglect of vulnerable adults last year, she noted.

The Garrett County Department of Social Services (DSS) helps the adult population through its Adult Protective Services (APS), providing mandated and voluntary programs. The services are part of the agency's mission to aggressively pursue opportunities to assist Garrett County residents in economic need, increase prevention efforts, and help vulnerable adults who have been mistreated, exploited, or placed themselves at risk.

DSS is the agency responsible for investigating reports of abuse and neglect of vulnerable adults. All APS reports are screened by the department's assistant director and the lead APS worker, prior to assignment for investigation.

"If allegations of abuse are proven valid, services are provided to prevent further harm or institutionalization," said the spokesperson.

DSS staff members are available to provide training and workshops to organizations and civic groups. For more information, groups may call the department at the below number.

Persons may also call to obtain information about adult abuse or neglect, and to report instances of abuse or neglect at 301-533-3040 or 301-533-3044 between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

To make a report after 4 p.m. or on weekends, one may call 9-1-1 and ask for the social worker on call. Suspected adult abuse or neglect may also be reported to the National Adult Abuse Hot Line at 1-800-917-7383.

Nature Connection

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

Hot, dry summer days in Garrett County have given way to hot, dry autumn days. Fall has finally arrived, but without any significant rain. Even native herbs in the landscape feel the effect of the drought, their foliage shriveling up and dying back. Moisture-starved leaves on shrubs and trees are quickly torn from their perch by high winds associated with promised rain that never comes. Walking along the lane, oak and maple leaves crunch beneath your feet. But the newly opened landscape unveils a variety of tiny creatures long hidden from view by summer's green leaves. You notice monarch butterfly larvae munching on poke milkweed, dangerously delaying their departure flight for Mexico. Caterpillars of all shapes, sizes, and colors appear to be everywhere. But two standouts warrant further inspection – the caterpillars of the brown-hooded owlet and io moths.

Owlets are members of Noctuidae, the largest family of moths and butterflies (lepidopterans) in the world. In fact, one researcher estimates that 25% of the lepidopterans in North America are noctuids. The brown-hooded owlet, Cucullia convexipennis, is a caterpillar with such striking orange, black, yellow, and red markings that it looks like a piece of hand-painted porcelain. Mature caterpillars reach almost two inches in length and can be seen in old fields and woods edge from late August through September. This is perfect timing since their main larval host plants are goldenrods and asters. The brown-hooded owlet over-winters in a cocoon below ground, emerging in spring as a dull-colored moth that certainly wouldn't be described as eye-catching.

The io moth, Automeris io, on the other hand, is quite distinctive as both larva and adult. It's a member of the Saturniidae family that includes the giant silkworm and royal moths, considered the showiest moths in North America. The green caterpillar is easily identified by the red and white stripes along its sides and clusters of spines scattered over its body. Perhaps the stripes are a type of warning coloration, since the spines cause a painful sting if touched that some researchers compare to stinging nettle. The io caterpillar is a generalist in terms of feeding, eating leaves of blackberry, wild black cherry, sassafras, oak, corn, and a variety of other plants. The io moth over-winters in a thin, papery cocoon on the ground in woods and meadows. The showy hind wing of the adult io moth is yellow and red with a bold eyespot, a type of warning coloration that tricks potential predators into looking for easier prey.

So as you venture into field and forest this fall, remember that wildlife is all around you, if you just look for it. Small critters are as remarkable and just as important in the scheme of things as the large animals that typically garner all of our attention. They are vital components of our regional biodiversity and should be cherished as part of our natural heritage. For help in identifying moth and butterfly caterpillars. Check out the 2005 Princeton field guide by David L. Wagner, Caterpillars of Eastern North America, at your local bookstore or library.

Reports from the Field:

Bob and Carol Stansbury of McHenry were incredibly fortunate to observe an adult female bobcat and its kitten crossing Rock Lodge Road in mid-September.

Caroline Blizzard of the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center reported a viceroy butterfly at Piney Reservoir last weekend; Fran Pope of Mountain Lake Park reported one earlier this month in the southern end of the county, so keep an eye out for these monarch butterfly look-alikes.

If you'd like to share your Garrett County nature sightings or if you have questions about the plants &andanimals that you've observed, e-mail Liz & Ron at info@elkridgenatureworks.com.

MSP Troopers To Present Program During AG Fest

The Maryland State Police will present their Trooper Tour during this year's Autumn Glory Festival. Troopers will have a voice-activated patrol car, helicopter, microwave communications truck, vehicle theft prevention "Hot Car," bomb squad equipment, and other items on display at Wal-Mart in Oakland from 6 to 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 14.

The troopers also will have information on forensics, shooting scene photo reproduction, crash team investigation, child safety information, safety seat information, and much more.

The purpose of the tour is to provide elected officials, community leaders, and citizens an overview of the roles and responsibilities of the Maryland State Police, according to Lt. Rick Narron. Emphasis is on law enforcement services.

"I think this is a terrific addition to our Autumn Glory activities," said Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "We rely on assistance from our law enforcement services more than ever during a large event such as Autumn Glory.

"I am pleased they are using this opportunity to help citizens learn a little more about what they do and the type of equipment available," he said. "I urge everyone to try to take time to visit the Trooper Tour."

Offering fun and information for the whole family, the 2005 Trooper Tour began Aug. 23 in Salisbury and has moved through 16 locations across the state.

TALLADEGA REVIEW

NASCAR

Dale Jarrett savors Sunday's dramatic victory, which snapped a 98-race winless streak.

Jarrett ends winless skid

48-year-old fifth-oldest to celebrate Cup victory

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Talladega, Ala.

Veteran driver Dale Jarrett, winless in his last 98 tries and facing the possibility that he might never again taste victory in Nextel Cup racing, used a dramatic last-lap move to drive past a pack of championship contenders and score a surprising victory in Sunday's UAW-Ford 500 at Talladega Superspeedway.

The 1999 series champion, who hadn't won since February 2003 at Rockingham, was all but ignored by most of the Talladega audience when he lined up fourth for a green-white-checkered-flag dash to the finish line.

But as the leaders came up to speed, Jarrett, a three-time Daytona 500 winner, used drafting boosts, first from Tony Stewart and then Matt Kenseth, to take the top spot off Turn 2 on the final lap. It was just in the nick of time, because a spin by Kyle Petty brought out the caution flag, effectively ending the race by the time the leaders entered Turn 3.

Jarrett's voice quivered as he talked about how much it meant to score career win No. 32 at the age of 48 years, 10 months and six days, which makes him the fifth-oldest driver to win a Cup race, behind Harry Gant, Morgan Shepherd, Bobby Allison and the late Dale Earnhardt.

"When you get to this point of your career, you're not exactly sure when that last victory is going to be, so you learn to cherish each one," he said. "At this point in time, I'm not sure there's anything more important than getting that push down the backstretch from Matt Kenseth and getting the checkered flag."

But Sunday's real winners might have been the next four drivers in the finishing order — Stewart, Kenseth, Ryan Newman and Carl Edwards — who dodged the bump-drafting bullets that scored direct hits on four of their competitors in the Chase for the Nextel Cup.

Stewart moved from fifth to first in the standings, which he says more than makes up for any frustration he might have from five runner-up finishes and no victories at Talladega.

"Considering the circumstances and what the big goal is at the end of the year, second place was fine," he said.

Newman moved up one spot to second, four points out of the lead, while Edwards and Kenseth gained two spots apiece.

But pre-race fears of the "Big Wreck" became reality for Jimmie Johnson, the former points leader, and veterans Rusty Wallace and Mark Martin, who came to Talladega second and fourth, respectively, in the standings.

They were unable to dodge the disaster that all drivers dread at Talladega and Daytona, the two giant tracks where restrictor plates are used to slow speeds but also bunch the field and provide fertile ground for crashes.

Johnson started the wreck that eventually cost him three spots in the standings when he ran into Elliott Sadler on Lap 20, triggering a melee that led to a 31st-place finish.

Martin, who had his No. 6 Ford destroyed in the Lap 20 wreck, finished 41st and was the day's biggest loser, falling to ninth in points, 138 out of the lead.

He said it seems like he's just not destined to have a good Talladega finish — or a NASCAR championship.

"You can't fight God's will," he said. "I guess his will today was for me to finish last or close to it."

Greg Biffle and Rusty Wallace also lost laps because of crashes and finished 25th and 27th, respectively.

Biffle held on to fifth in points, but saw his deficit swell from 23 to 98 points behind the leader, while Wallace lost one spot, and instead of being seven points out of the lead, he's now 76.

But for Jarrett, who missed the cut for the Chase for the second straight year and is in the twilight of his career, the points race was of little consequence.

For him, it's all about grabbing as many checkered flags as he can before his driving days end.

"I think in the next two years that we can visit Victory Lane a number of times," he said. "But in case that doesn't happen, we're going to make sure we enjoy this one."

TALLADEGA NOTEBOOK

Earnhardt, Gordon eliminated early

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Talladega, Ala.

Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Jeff Gordon, two of the most successful drivers in restrictor-plate racing, didn't get much of a chance to showcase their skills. Both were eliminated in the Lap 20 wreck that scrambled the points standings.

Earnhardt said their early exit shouldn't be blamed on the risky tactics drivers employ in restrictor-plate races.

"That was an accident, and accidents happen," he said. "That wasn't a case of bump-drafting. It was just hard racing right there. We're all together, so it's hard to miss something when we're going so fast."

McMurray escapes turmoil

Jamie McMurray got by with his car being too low in a post-race inspection, but the decision didn't cause the controversy that Jimmie Johnson's and Kyle Busch's initial failure did at Dover a week ago.

McMURRAY

"The No. 42, when it went through inspection, was low," NASCAR Vice President Jim Hunter said. "But it was in a wreck, and the reason it was low was the result of the wreck. We deemed that was not a competitive advantage for that car."

McMurray finished 12th after leading as late as Lap 180 of the 190-lap event.

End of the road for Pikes Peak

Pikes Peak International Raceway has become the second track in two seasons to be shut down by International Speedway Corp. ISC closed Nazareth Speedway last year.

Drivers angry amid the carnage

NASCAR officials say restrictor plates are not cause of multi-car wrecks

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Talladega, Ala.

There was plenty of finger pointing following Sunday's UAW-Ford 500, which produced three multi-car pileups and sent two cars airborne and into violent flips.

Just moments after the Nextel Cup season's final restrictor-plate race, NASCAR officials said there are no plans to remove the plates, mandatory at Daytona and Talladega since 1988.

And NASCAR Vice President Jim Hunter went on the offensive, saying the danger of close-quarters racing on the circuit's two largest tracks actually is created by the competitors.

"I think the races here at Talladega are some of the greatest in NASCAR," Hunter said. "And every wreck out there today was not caused by a restrictor plate. The wrecks out there today were caused by drivers bump-drafting and not giving each other room."

GORDON

Cup Chase contender Mark Martin was an innocent victim of the controversial form of racing when his Ford was destroyed beyond repair on the first of 10 cautions, triggered by Jimmie Johnson bumping Elliott Sadler entering Turn 1 on Lap 20.

Martin, a two-time Talladega winner who finished 41st and fell to ninth in the Chase standings, said the time has come for NASCAR to rethink restrictor-plate racing.

"I know it's exciting racing to watch, but I didn't even get a sweat worked up."

Jeff Gordon, who wound up 37th after being collected in the day's third multi-car wreck when Ryan Newman nudged Casey Mears' Dodge near the start-finish line, admitted that the act of bumping a fellow competitor's rear bumper to give an extra boost has become excessive.

"It's in our hands, the drivers' hands, to control," Gordon said.

"I think the bump-drafting is ridiculous. I hope we can learn a lesson from a thing like this, but it doesn't seem like we do. And a lot of blocking goes on in a race like this. If you block a guy too late or too aggressively, you're going to see a big wreck."

NASCAR President Mike Helton said after Sunday's 500-mile race that he's willing to consider alternate methods of slowing cars at Daytona and Talladega.

"We've said time and time again if there's an answer to keep the racing safe other than restrictor plates, we'd be glad to look at it," Helton said. "But nobody's come up with something to replace them with, not us and not any of the teams."

That revelation seemed to matter little to Greg Biffle, as he sat in his crumpled Ford and waited for his crew to complete repairs to his No. 16 following the afternoon's third melee.

"This is what people pay their money to come see, big crashes here at Talladega," said Biffle, in a sarcastic tone. "Everybody loves it."

HOW THEY FARED

A look at how Chase competitors performed Sunday

1.) Tony Stewart: Finished second. Recaptured the points lead with his fifth runner-up finish. Clinched five bonus points for leading the most laps (65), despite nursing an overheating engine.

2.) Ryan Newman: Finished fourth. Was originally scored third, but NASCAR announced after the race the driver was .001 second behind Matt Kenseth when the caution flag waved on the final lap.

3.) Rusty Wallace: Finished 25th. Lost five laps after spinning to avoid Casey Mears on Lap 66. "I don't think I'm in much of a hole compared to some of the guys behind me," Wallace said of his championship hopes.

4.) Jimmie Johnson: Finished 31st. Lost the Nextel Cup points lead after being involved in both of the day's multi-car pileups. "Before you know it, you're in a wreck," Johnson said. "It's restrictor-plate racing."

5.) Greg Biffle: Finished 27th. His crew spent 18 laps repairing damage from the Lap 66 crash involving Mears. "It's not where we want to be, but I don't think it's going to take us out of it," Biffle said.

6.) Carl Edwards: Finished fifth. The second-year driver posted his best finish thus far in this year's Chase. "Matt [Kenseth] and I worked really well together all day," Edwards said. "I just stayed glued to his back bumper."

7.) Matt Kenseth: Finished third. Posted his career-best finish at Talladega, led 23 laps and ran in the lead draft throughout the day. "It's disappointing when you restart in the lead on the last [restart] and finish third," Kenseth said.

8.) Jeremy Mayfield: Finished 14th. Led one lap but stayed outside the top 10 much of the afternoon. "I'm a little disappointed in the way we ran," Mayfield said. "The car just wasn't really fast all weekend."

9.) Mark Martin: Finished 41st. Failed to finish for just the second time this season after his team was unable to repair the extensive damage sustained on Lap 20. "I got hit from behind," Martin said.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

Fall is one of my favorite times for gathering – whether it's the proverbial "wool gathering" or gathering together with family, friends, and colleagues. In recent weeks, I've been able to do plenty of the latter, whether in Garrett County or in nearby sites, just as I anticipate being able to do more gathering in the days to come.

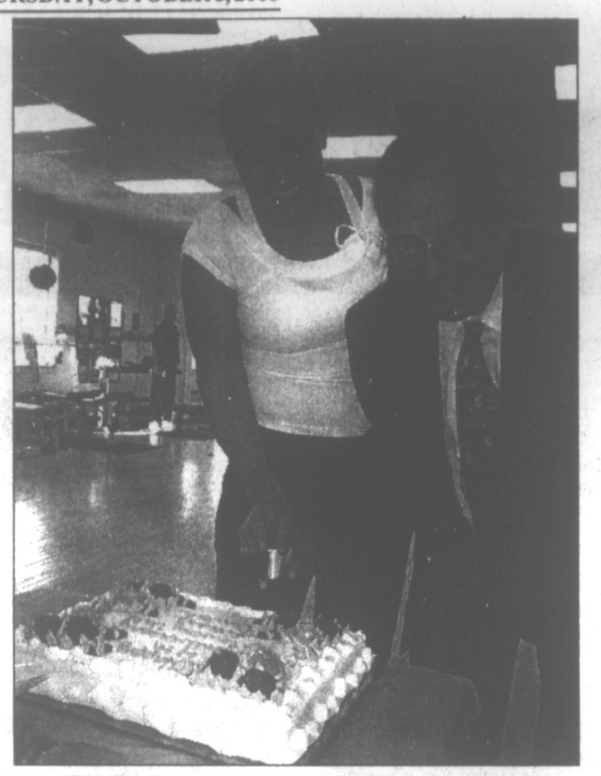
For instance, recently I met with Frostburg State University's Engineering Advisory Council, on which I serve as a representative of Garrett College. I was delighted to be with participants from other academic institutions as well as those from local industry, but I was most thrilled to walk in and see FSU's student representative, D.R. Parsons, who was one of my students during his time at Southern High School. D.R. took English as a dual-enrolled senior, and he shared his gratitude that his courses had smoothly transferred to Frostburg, where clearly he's doing very well. His contributions to the meeting were notable, reflecting his maturity and his intelligence, and I was proud to see how well he's done and how well, I know, he will continue to do as he nears graduation and his upcoming marriage to Jackie McKenzie, another SHS graduate.

D.R.'s decision to enroll at Frostburg undoubtedly came with care: He's the type of student who deliberates wisely, after all. I wouldn't be surprised if he spent a good amount of time researching and chatting with admissions officers from various institutions, just as many of our Garrett County students will do this Monday evening, when they gather at the college for the Mountain Top College Expo. This annual event, co-sponsored by Garrett College and the Garrett County Board of Education, brings representatives from far and wide to explain their colleges' offerings and to work with students. Additionally, Garrett sponsors a financial aid workshop, to begin at 7 p.m., that helps students identify options for financing their education. Our financial aid team of Alan Batchelor, Chris Walters, and Pam Warnick is always ready to work with students and guide them towards resources, and the College Expo offers a perfect opportunity to gather information. Not incidentally, the event also offers the chance to gather money in a different way, since three of the evening's participants will each be awarded a $500 scholarship.

I know that among the participants will be counselors from our Garrett County schools, and it will be, as always, a pleasure to see them, particularly given their dedicated help in organizing the expo. In fact, Nancy Priselac and I were glad to see some of these counselors last week, as we met with the Western Maryland Counselors for their annual breakfast, this year held at the Wisp Resort. We were pleased to sponsor the breakfast and then to speak briefly with the group about GC's offerings, including our new online General Studies degree. Several of the counselors expressed an interest in this option, whether for students or for friends and colleagues who are interested in earning a degree without needing to leave home, and Nancy and I were glad to be able to provide information for them.

Speaking of gathering at Wisp, I couldn't be more excited about Garrett College's upcoming all-college retreat, to be held this Friday at Wisp. With over 80 participants, the event is designed to inform our college family about ongoing and upcoming initiatives. Each of our administrators will provide an update about our individual area's happenings, and the retreat will then feature presentations about the Learning Community concept, which involves enhancing student learning by linking concepts and showing students how what they learn in a classroom applies directly to the "real world." Indeed, learning communities have long played a role at Garrett. This summer, however, their place at the college became even more dynamic thanks to a team who, with the assistance of a grant written by Jim Allen, traveled to Olympia, Wash., and gathered more information about how to make this concept even more vital at GC. The retreat will close with some examples of how the learning community concept is already at work at Garrett, featuring presentations by some of Lonnie Brewster's students as well as illustrations from Adventure Sports, Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology, and our women's volleyball team. Undoubtedly, this gathering will be one not soon forgotten by our college community.

Anytime we at Garrett gather together, in fact, we find ourselves realizing the benefits of working as a team at a small college that truly strives to provide big results, whether for our students, our faculty, our staff, or our administration – in essence, our community. As we continue falling into autumn and all its glory, I'm sure there'll be more opportunities for gathering and realizing just how lucky we are at Garrett College.



FOUR YEARS AND GOING STRONG – The Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center in Accident marked its fourth year of operation recently with a celebration, and among those present for the festivities was Sen. John Hafer, shown above helping center director Christy Hoalcraft cut the low-calorie cake. A spread of healthy refreshments was served to visitors during the daylong open house event. Operated by Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging, the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center serves members age 50 and older with individually tailored fitness programs, and an array of classes at the center are also open to residents of all ages for a nominal fee. For further information persons may call the center at 301-746-8050.

Quilling Course Slated At Garrett

Garrett College will host a class in quilling, the art of rolling thin strips of paper into different shapes and using the shapes to form designs, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. over three Tuesdays, beginning Oct. 18 and concluding Nov. 1.

Also known as paper filigree, quilling dates back to the Renaissance. Practitioners describe it as fun, easy, and relaxing, and course participants will learn to create items such as ornaments, picture frames, cards, and jewelry.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu. The class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

Torch Club Meeting Noted

The October dinner meeting of the Tri-State chapter of Torch Clubs International will be on Tuesday, Oct. 11, at the Holiday Inn in Cumberland at 6:30 p.m. The evening's paper is titled "The Planets," an examination of planetary symbolism in ancient literature.

The club's goal is to enable people with special interests, talents, and expertise to share their opinions and research on many different topics via a formal presentation paper. Discussions follow presentations.

Anyone interested in attending a torch meeting or in becoming a member should call Patrick Brady, president, at 301-722-1719.

TV PIPELINE

Actress is 'Committed' to a different show

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Jennifer Finnigan

Q: I love the show "Committed." What happened to it? Is it coming back for a second season? –Bobby Leyba, Tampa, Fla.

A: Even the NBC sitcom's lead actress "saw the writing on the wall," as she puts it. Jennifer Finnigan acknowledged the show's ratings were going steadily down, so while "Committed" was still on the air, she auditioned for another job ... and got it. Finnigan now plays a prosecutor on CBS' new Tuesday-night drama "Close to Home." And "Committed" was canceled after its run last season.

Q: I've been very curious to know if Annette O'Toole of "Smallville" is related to Peter O'Toole. –Marc Goodman, Lakewood Ranch, Fla.

A: We get this one every so often, and no, they're not related. However, her husband is well-known; he's Michael McKean (alias Lenny on "Laverne & Shirley"), with whom she was Oscar-nominated last year for a song they wrote for the movie "A Mighty Wind." McKean guest-starred on "Smallville" during the show's third season as Perry White, of Daily Planet newspaper fame.

Q: A while back, I saw an ad for a new "Little House on the Prairie" series. I saw the first episode and really enjoyed it, but the show disappeared. Was it just a pilot that flopped? –Courtney Rusoff, Columbus, Ohio.

A: The ABC program was a miniseries that ran over five Saturday nights in March and April, after it had been scheduled and pulled several times. All the episodes that were made were shown; there's been no talk of a sequel.

Q: I thought the recently aired ABC show "Empire" was one of the best programs of the year. Will it be available on DVD, and if so, when? –Bob Alexander, Wilmington, N.C.

A: The drama about ancient Rome – the one that isn't HBO's "Rome," we should say – is scheduled to be released on disc on Nov. 29.

Q: Can you tell us what Angie Harmon, who worked for quite a while on "Law & Order," is up to now? –Milton Zapata, Rifle, Colo.

A: She was a late addition to the regular cast of "Inconceivable," NBC's new Friday-night drama series about the staff and clients of a fertility clinic.

Policosanol Lowers LDL Cholesterol

Policosanol is a waxy substance produced from sugar cane. Sixty percent of this substance is composed of a compound called octacosanol. This compound can also be found in wheat germ oil, vegetable oils, and alfalfa. Policosanol is used to lower cholesterol levels and sometimes to aid in the treatment of a blood vessel problem called intermittent claudication. Several well-designed research studies have shown that policosanol can lower LDL ("bad") cholesterol levels by up to 29% and raise HDL ("good") cholesterol levels by as much as 15%.

Two studies have shown policosanol to be as effective as the prescription drug lovastatin in lowering total and LDL cholesterol. The most common side effects reported were headache, nervousness, diarrhea, and insomnia. These were generally mild and short-term. Policosanol should not be used with medications that "thin" the blood due to an increased risk of bleeding. Blood thinning medications and supplements include the following: warfarin, heparin, enoxaparin, aspirin, clopidogrel, ticlopidine, garlic, ginko, and vitamin E.

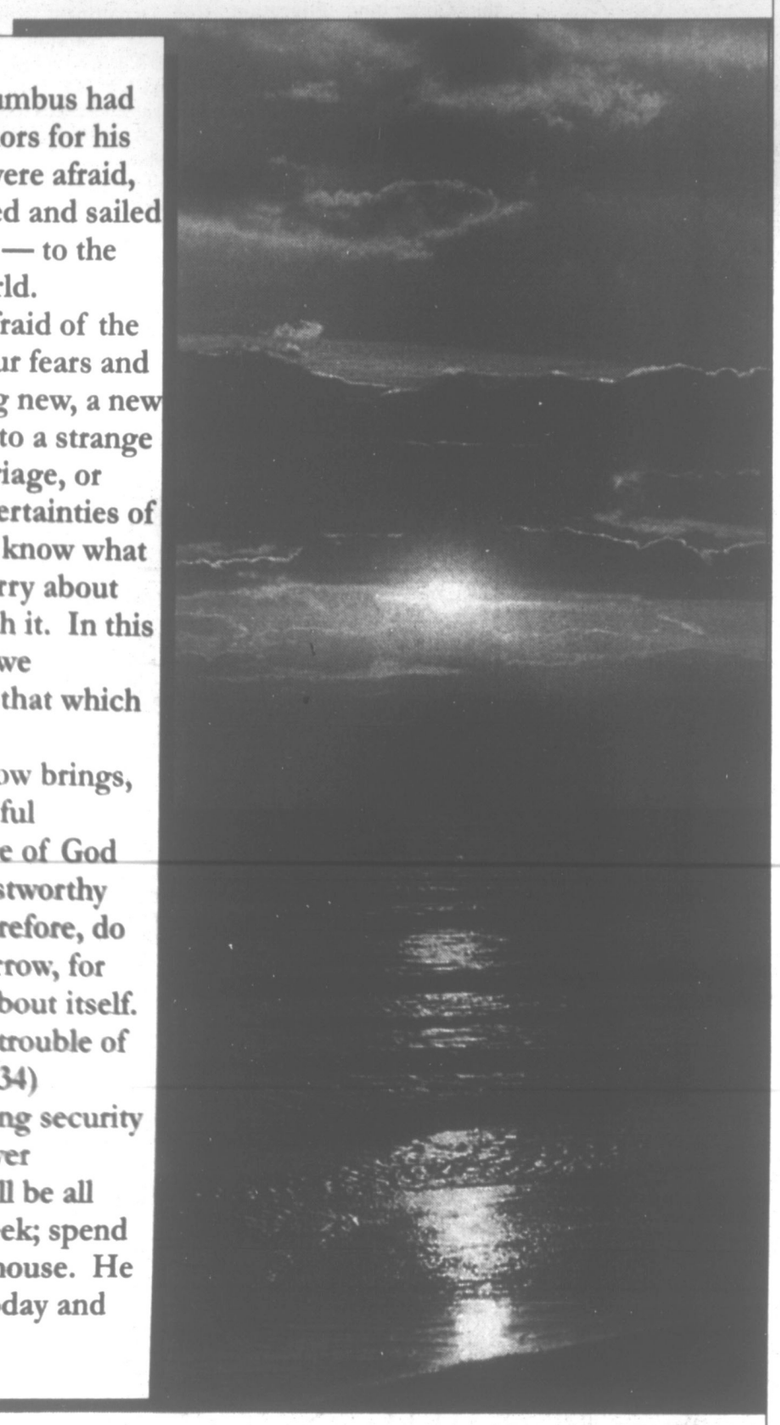
Whatever Tomorrow Brings



Christopher Columbus had trouble recruiting sailors for his early voyages. Men were afraid, but the bravest enlisted and sailed off into the unknown — to the wonders of a new world.

Most of us are afraid of the unknown. We have our fears and doubts about anything new, a new job or school, a move to a strange city, beginning a marriage, or simply facing the uncertainties of tomorrow. We do not know what lies ahead, and we worry about being able to cope with it. In this ever-changing world, we instinctively yearn for that which does not change.

Whatever tomorrow brings, we can have the peaceful conviction that the love of God for His children is trustworthy and everlasting. "Therefore, do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own." (Matthew 6:34)

Discover an abiding security and a faith that whatever tomorrow brings, it will be all right. Worship this week; spend time with God in His house. He will take care of you today and tomorrow.

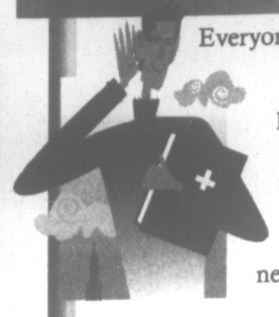
Listening and Acting On God's Word



Everyone should be aware of how God wants us to live our lives. Our places of worship and our reading of holy scripture should remind us that loving both God and our neighbors is necessary to have peace and harmony in this world. And although the stress and rigor of daily living makes this a difficult task, we should always try to act in a way that reflects God's love and righteousness.

The easy way of dealing with demanding situations may not always be the right or ethical way; however, the right and ethical way is always the best way. The Bible tells us " For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul?" Trying to do what is right in God's eyes and listening to our conscience can become a worthwhile and honorable charac-teristic. I can think of no greater quality than to be looked on by others as a fair-minded and honest person who loves God and their fellowman. Life in this world is relatively short compared with eternity, and being honest, trustworthy, and having a good relationship with God will insure happiness in this world, and also in the next.

Let integrity and uprightness preserve me, for I wait for You.
New K.J.V. Psalm 25:21

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The first electric blanket, made in the 1920s, would cost more than $4,500 when calculated in today's dollars.

• A dating service called "It's Just Lunch" recently conducted a survey of 7,809 singles, and some of the findings might surprise you. Everyone has heard the saying, "Gentlemen prefer blondes," but it seems that's really only true in Southern California, where 67 percent of men prefer women with lighter hair; everywhere else, 76 percent of respondents actually liked brunettes better. With three-quarters of the vote, long straight hair beat out curls, which only 8 percent of men prefer.

• It's been reported that President Theodore Roosevelt boxed regularly in the White House gym.

• Sir Alexander Fleming is famed as the discoverer of penicillin. He also once remarked, "A good gulp of hot whiskey at bedtime — it's not very scientific, but it helps."

• Every schoolchild knows that the Mayflower brought the Pilgrims to the New World. But many people don't realize how crowded the 90-foot-long ship was — all 102 passengers had to spend the voyage in the cargo hold. The passengers did get a lucky break, though: On a previous voyage the Mayflower had carried a cargo of wine, so their quarters at least smelled good. Imagine if the ship had previously been used to transport livestock.

• When the space shuttle is launched, it takes only eight minutes for it to reach a speed of 17,000 miles per hour.

• We owe a lot to the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis. That was where cotton candy was introduced, and so was the ice-cream cone, hot dog rolls and hamburger buns. I wonder what people put their wieners and patties on before that?

• On Oct. 13, 1792, the cornerstone is laid for a presidential residence in the newly designated capital city of Washington. The executive mansion soon became known as the "White House" because its white-gray Virginia freestone contrasted strikingly with the red brick of nearby buildings.

• On Oct. 12, 1810, Bavarian Crown Prince Louis marries and invites the citizens of Munich to attend the festivities. The decision to repeat the festivities in the subsequent year gave rise to the tradition of the annual Oktoberfest.

• On Oct. 14, 1912, in Milwaukee, Theodore Roosevelt is shot at close range by saloonkeeper John Schrank. The .32-caliber bullet failed to mortally wound the former president because its force was slowed by a speech manuscript in Roosevelt's breast pocket.

• On Oct. 11, 1929, "They Had to See Paris" opens in New York, the first sound film starring Will Rogers. Until the development of cinema sound, his ingenious verbal wit kept him more popular onstage than on-screen. Rogers later served as mayor of Beverly Hills.

• On Oct. 16, 1946, in a move that pleases millions of Americans, President Harry Truman lifts price controls on meat. With World War II quickly receding into memory, Truman saw fit to wean the nation from the austere economic diet that the government had devised to fight wartime inflation.

• On Oct. 15, 1966, in McKinney, Texas, a 75-year-old male driver reportedly received 10 traffic tickets, drove on the wrong side of the road four times, committed four hit-and-run offenses, and caused six accidents, all within 20 minutes.

• On Oct. 10, 1973, Spiro Agnew becomes the first U.S. vice president to resign in disgrace. Later the same day, he pleaded no contest to a charge of federal income tax evasion in exchange for the dropping of charges of political corruption.

Paw's corner

by Sam Mazzotta

As the weather changes, it's fun to take our furry companions out for a romp in the autumn leaves and enjoy the cooler weather. And while temperatures are probably a lot more bearable now for you and your dog or cat, there are still a few things to keep in mind.

Fleas and ticks can still be a problem in October, especially in warmer areas of the country where the leaves have only just begun to change. Check pets (and yourself) for ticks after every outdoor walk, and continue to treat pets with flea repellents until cold weather sets in.

Pay attention to older pets as the weather changes. Senior dogs and cats can suffer from arthritis just as humans do, and the sudden dips and rises in fall temperatures can cause painful, stiff joints. On cool days, a gentle rubdown — especially around your pet's larger joints — may be appreciated, as will a pet sweater or blanket. If your pet seems really uncomfortable, visit the veterinarian to explore treatment options.

In areas of the country that get especially cold, October is an ideal time to head to the pet store and look for items that will help your pet get through winter — booties to protect a dog's paws on icy sidewalks, blankets that fasten snugly around your pet, extra toys for "inside" days. Pick up what you need now, make sure it fits and that it "works" for your pet, and make any returns or exchanges before the snow flies.

Finally, make sure your pets stay healthy through the change of seasons. Take them in for an annual checkup if it's getting near that time, and stock up on supplements and nutritious treats to give them lots of strength and energy.

Q. I have quite a few things I'd like to sell. Is there a place I can get them individually appraised? — Mary, Salem, Mo.

A. Since you aren't really near a large city, I suggest you contact Edwin W. Baker, executive vice president of the American Society of Appraisers. He might be able to give you the name of an appraiser near you. The ASA offers a free referral service. Its address and toll-free telephone number are P.O. Box 17265, Washington, DC 20071, and 1-800-272-8258.

You should expect to pay a nominal fee for the services of a certified appraiser. Put another way, a free appraisal is generally worth about what it costs.

Q. I have a blank 5-cent piece that I received in change at the bank. Any value? — Marietta, Gibson City, Ill.

A. You can find the answer in the sixth edition of the Official Price Guide to Mint Errors by Alan Herbert (House of Collectibles, $15). In addition to blanks, this guide has values for other such oddities as coins with split dies, cracked planchets and double strikes.

Rev. C. Villemaire Is Installed At Shepherd Church

The service of commissioning and installation for Reverend Claude Villemaire was held on Sept. 25. The pastor accepted a call from the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) to serve as the mission developer for Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church at Deep Creek Lake. The call began in August.

Several pastors of the area synod were present for the ceremony, as was the bishop for the synod, Rev. Ralph W. Dunkin.

Pastor Villemaire and his wife Cyndi currently reside in Accident, having recently moved from the Florida /Bahamas Synod, where he served as pastor of King of Glory Lutheran Church, New Port Richey, Fla.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in history from Florida State University, and a master of divinity degree from Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, Columbia, S.C. He was ordained on July 13, 1997.

The pastor received mission developers training in Chicago in 2000, and recently returned from further training, which he took part in with Shepherd of the Hills members Sue Green and Judy McCaughey.

Seniors Warned About Marketing Of New Federal Prescription Drug Benefit

With the launch Oct. 1 of what promises to be a fever-pitch marketing campaign of the new federal prescription drug benefit, Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. has called for an all-out warning to seniors and others on Medicare. They need to be extremely careful about scam artists bent on identity theft and a barrage of sales pitches that could result in them making bad decisions about this important new program.

While the new drug benefit, known as "Medicare Part D," will be of considerable help to some seniors struggling to pay for high-priced prescription drugs, Curran cautions that the marketing campaign by the 18 companies offering 67 different plans here in Maryland is also full of potential pitfalls.

On his web site and in booklets to be distributed to Medicare participants, Curran alerts people to two primary dangers: making the wrong decision about Medicare Part D and becoming a victim of scam artists. First, the barrage of mailings, phone calls, e-mails, and other sales pitches will create an environment ripe for exploitation by scam artists seeking personal identification or financial information for identity theft and other fraud.

Second, the marketing avalanche and staggering complexity of sorting out 67 different plans will make people feel overwhelmed and susceptible to making bad decisions which could have enormous consequences.

"Be extremely careful to protect yourself," Curran said. "When those mailings and phone calls start coming in, remember two things: Some of those callers may be scam artists trying to steal from you, and even the sales people representing plans are being paid to persuade you to sign up for their plan."

First, everyone should take every precaution possible against identity theft and other scams by people pretending to be from a legitimate plan. "Before you do anything," Curran advised, "make sure you are dealing with a Medicare-approved plan. Check the company's name, address, phone number and web site by calling 1-800-MEDICARE."

Second, people must safeguard their sensitive personal information. "When telemarketers or sales representatives call or contact you, do not give out your Social Security or Medicare number, and don't give out credit card or bank account numbers," Curran warned.

When actually enrolling in a plan, Medicare participants will have to provide Social Security and Medicare numbers. But Curran stressed that precautions are still very important. "When you're ready to sign up, you call the plan – don't have them call you," he said. "And even then don't give out credit card or bank account numbers. Make the plan send you a bill."

As for dealing with legitimate Medicare Part D plan marketers, Curran emphasized how important it is for people to educate themselves. People need to decide first whether they should enroll in a Part D plan in the first place. Second, they need to learn about the differences in the drugs covered, pharmacies used, and costs imposed by the 67 plans. Plans will charge different premiums, deductibles and co-payments.

Marketing information from plans may be informative, but Curran strongly advised getting unbiased assistance from experts who are not being paid to enroll people. Curran's own web site provides basic information about how to navigate this confusing process, but also directs people to agencies, phone numbers and web sites where they can get expert, unbiased help.

"Don't be rushed or pressured," Curran urged. "Don't necessarily enroll in the first or second plan you hear about. Take your time, and get the help you need to make the best decision for you."

He also urged people to call his Consumer Protection Division at 410-528-1840 if they think they have been a victim of fraud or improper sales practices. In addition, if people want to avoid telemarketing, they may register their phone number by calling 1-888-382-1222 or going online at www.donotcall.gov.

More information about Medicare Part D and how to protect against scams is available at the attorney general's web site: www.oag.state.md.us/consumer/partd.htm.

A Winning Game Plan

Football season is here! Don't let this season sabotage your health and fitness goals. Use the game plan below to score yourself a touchdown. Remember, one day will not make or break your eating program, but several days of celebrations can have an effect on your healthy eating plan. Keep in mind – it is not about depriving yourself, but eating in moderation.

Follow these tailgating tips to victory:

•Don't arrive hungry; have a small snack ahead of time to curb your appetite (fruit, light nonfat yogurt, or ¼ cup nuts).

•Focus on the people and the game, not the food.

•Alternate non-caloric beverages such as water with caloric beverages. Calories add up quickly with alcohol and regular soda.

•Scan the food choices and decide what you want before filling your plate.

•For appetizers, go for the vegetable tray or boiled shrimp. Limit the cheese, crackers, chips, and heavy dips.

•Remember – portion size matters. Go stingy on the starches – potatoes, rice, pasta, and rolls (¼ of plate) – go modest with meat portions (¼ of plate), and load up on fruits and vegetables (½ of plate).

•Drizzle sauces and dressings instead of pouring.

•Limit yourself to one small piece of dessert.

•Fill your plate once instead of grazing all day long without a plate. That way you see how much you are eating.

•Take your time, eat slowly, and chew your food – you will eat less.

•Set a time to stop eating (i.e., nothing after the end of the game).

•Don't forget to work in some exercise time before or after the game. It not only burns calories, but also relieves stress.

THANKS AGAIN,

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I realized that there was not much of a chance to catch a glimpse of Claire on television among the huge crowd at Mountaineer Stadium on Saturday, but it was good to know that she was among the blur of gold and dark blue. I am an alumni of University of Maryland, but almost have the same status at West Virginia University, as I started my grad school in Morgantown while I was pregnant with Claire. However, I got my master's degree at Frostburg University and found out that I was expecting again with Meredith.

Anyone who doubts that a woman would have to choose between her career or motherhood should look at me. I never allowed my career to get in the way of my duty as a mother, and neither did I allow my role as a mother stop me from doing my duty as a professor. I taught many classes with my infant in my classroom. My students adored my babies.

One of the most touching comments was one I got from a student who was one of Garrett's basketball players, who thanked me for allowing him to hold my babies when I opened my home to them.

I was a better professor because I was a mother too, and my work environment enriched my daughters' lives. Perhaps teaching is the most friendly profession for mothers, as you can spend your summers full time with your children. Even though most of the female professors at college didn't have little children, most of them had already raised their little ones. One highly distinguished professor with a PhD, who was the primary excavator at a very important archeological site (Pompeii, the Greek city buried in volcanic ash), said she probably had her kids along at the dig 40 years before she was my teacher.

A famous line from a great play, A Streetcar Named Desire, is "I have always depended on the kindness of strangers." The kindness of strangers is something I have to learn to accept these days, as I have no choice, as I don't want to ask too much from my family or friends who already do lots for me. Ernest Beitzel Jr. is busy unloading a pickup of fire wood into my basement. In this area, you had better have an emergency source of heat and not always depend on electric power. I don't think I ever met Ernie Jr., but his family has connections with ours since his older brother Bobbie lived with us for a while when we had a big dairy operation. Bobby was almost like a big brother to me.

One thing I have to face is trying to find a good used car, since my old car died. The only kind that I can afford is a cheap used car. Some time ago I spotted a perfect car at Kauffman's Repair Shop. Even though I don't know James Kauffman personally, I do know I can trust him. Without a car I can't even get my mail. One thing Bittinger does not have is public transportation. It was wonderful in New York, as you could go anywhere without a car and you could choose from a bus, subway, or taxi. When I could afford it, I hailed a cab; not that the bus wasn't wonderful.

Speaking of kindness of a stranger, I got on a bus and discovered that I didn't have any money on me. The bus driver just waved me past him.

But back to Bittinger–we had our first hard frost last week so we can look forward to Indian summer. I am afraid our fall foliage will not be as good as usual because there are too many leaves already down due to the dry summer. We have our traditional colbalt blue sky and brilliant sunshine that we expect in October.

This coming Friday is my late father's birthday. If he had lived he would turn 83 years old. He died on Mother's Day in 1978. The last Mother's Day gift from him to my mother is still blooming. Their happy marriage made my childhood wonderful. I wish I was able to find a man like the man who married my mother–hardworking, honest, honorable, responsible, intelligent, and able to see past his own self interest.

During World War II he was stationed on Iwo Jima and probably shot at by Japanese soldiers, yet he wrote home what a terrible thing America did when we dropped a nuclear bomb in Japan. He was a born leader and he worked to end world hunger. In spite of his busy life, he always had time for his children.

I hope he knows how much I appreciated the time and effort he gave to my riding career. I remember how his face shined with pride when Joey and I did well. When my little brothers were young he put together a historical lesson for my brothers, which was a Conestoga wagon to take Barry and Scott on the wagon train. He discovered some wonderful books, which I loved as much as he did. My life now would be better if he were still around.

I always tried so hard to make my parents proud of me. I still do, and I hope his face is shining in heaven when he looks down and loves me. Pastor James Mitchell said at Daddy's funeral that he never met a stranger. I wish I lived up to his character, but I am afraid his shoes were too big to fill. I wish I had told him how much I loved him. His sudden death did not give me that chance, but he didn't have a long, dragged-out death. It is tragic that he did not live long enough to know his 10 wonderful grandchildren, because he loved kids more than anything. He would be so proud of them and their accomplishments.

Another notable birthday this week, on the 5th, is that of Marci Glotfelty. Although she looks like a young 39, she actually is the same age as I.

Kevin Bass is still in Anderson, S.C. He has been there since his father suffered a heart attack and underwent bypass surgery. His parents will be moving to Cumberland within the next month. Hopefully he will be home this weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harvey of State College, Pa., were Monday visitors of Ferne Beachy.

Brent and Kelly Beachy were weekend visitors of his parents, Dave and Nancy Beachy.

Lea and Mike Pochet and Ryan Crawley of Dayton, Ohio, Ben Adams of Crofton, and Matt Anderson of Alexandria, Va., attended the Virginia Tech/WVU game on Saturday and were weekend guests of Sam and Cindy Stanton and Ferne Beachy. Other dinner guests were Aaron and Patty Stanton and Alayna and McKenna.

As of Tuesday Margaret Hershberger Wagner is still a patient at Monongalia Hospital in Morgantown. She and her family appreciate all the love, concern, and prayers.

Been There

OCTOBER – A TIME TO REFLECT – A TIME TO LET GO

Signs of fall signal October as I walk out on to the deck – leaves scurrying into little piles, docks stacked along the shoreline, canoes and kayaks turned bottoms up, and in the southwest corner of the deck, my maple tree that is dying. No ordinary tree, it is a 60-year-old Norway maple that has grown there for 32 of those years, giving us shade from the August sun and shelter from the winter winds.

It was a young tree about 16 inches in girth when my husband built our first deck around it. Every year he would cut away several inches of decking to give it room to grow. We have had picnic suppers and birthday parties in its shade. It has been struck by lightning, broken by ice storms, and climbed by grandchildren. When I had a new deck built four years ago, a neighbor asked if I planned to take the tree down. My answer was, "No, I can't let it go. Only God can make a tree." Yet this summer its foliage has been sparse – a few brown tinged leaves that should be green, bare branches that let pools of sunlight sift through to the deck. I know the time has come to let it go.

As I look at it I think about how much of our lives as we grow older involves a process of letting go. It begins when we realize that we can no longer do the physical things we want to do, and we put away the ice skates, the cross country skis, and the tennis racquets. There's always the desire to "hang in there" for one more ride or one more game, but in the end we know we must let go. Yet as we give up an activity, we find something to take its place, like walking or yoga or a new pet.

On this golden October day when the toys of summer have been put away and the lake is still, the natural world seems to beckon us to come out, to see, and to reflect. Around me the impatiens have faded in the flower boxes, and the last leaves of the maple tree have fallen. The lake is a mirror, framed by reflections of mountains and trees on a blue sky. A few ducks near the shore send soft ripples across its surface. On the far shore the trees are showing tints of red and gold. I sit in the quiet beauty of a fall day to let the memories come of 51 summers on Deep Creek Lake.

Before me our daughters and their friends, nieces and nephews, girl scouts, jumping off the dock, swamping the canoe, learning to water ski. And there is my husband, patiently driving the boat, hour after hour, until all the kids have had a turn. I look again, and the girls have grown. They are driving the boat, pulling one another and their friends, learning to slalom. The scene changes after we get the sailboat, and I see them leaving the mooring, tacking into the wind. It changes again when the granddaughters come and we have toddlers splashing in float rings. Then they grow up and replace their mothers in the scene, tubing and riding the wave runner. I look at our empty, over-sized picnic table and see it crowded with relatives and friends as it was every summer weekend. We let those years go, knowing how precious were the days. Yet a moment of reflection like this can bring them back, like the people we've loved and had to let go. We lose the hand to hold and the warm embrace, but we can still hear the laugh and see the familiar smile.

Early in our lives we had to let go as our children started school or went off to college, and we had to find our way through the empty nest. When we moved to new locations, we had to let go familiar neighborhoods, but kept old friendships as we found new friends and neighbors.

Those of us who live here where the cycle of seasons creates a year-long process of letting go learn to adapt to change. We see the falling leaves and know that summer has gone. When the snow begins to fall we let go another season, then hang on until we see the colt's foot and hear the peepers in the spring. I look again at my maple tree that I must let go. We can never replace it, but beside it is a young service tree I had planted six years ago. It will grow through many seasons and be a harbinger of another spring.

4-H Club News

RYAN'S GLADE
by Gary Pritts, reporter

The monthly meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club was held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at the Ryan's Glade Community Building.

Laura Pritts gave a demonstration and a report about the fair, where she won a Dairy Showman award and Pee Wee Hog Showman award. She displayed her trophies, which mark a fine accomplishment for a Clover member.

Barry Upole also gave a demonstration and report about the fair, and displayed the trophy he won in the costume animal show.

Andrew Pritts gave a talk and demonstration about the Maryland State Fair large tractor operators contest, where he won the first place trophy. He followed that accomplishment with a third-place finish in the national contest in Indiana.

Beef raffle tickets were distributed for members to sell for the Garrett County 4-H program. The proceeds will fund the annual County 4-H Achievement Night. Anyone wishing to purchase a ticket may contact any Garrett County 4-H member.

Members discussed the upcoming Hunter's Night Out event at the Oakland Southern States Cooperative, set to begin at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday Oct. 6. Ryan's Glade members will be selling ham sandwiches, drinks, and other items.

To celebrate National 4-H Week, which is Oct. 2-8, we are selling 4-H candy bars. They are $1 each. Anyone wishing to purchase a candy bar can contact any of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club members.

On Sunday, Oct. 23, our club will be going to the Cove Run Farms Corn Maze. Kay reminded us to read the Partyline newsletter that was just sent out; there is a lot of important information in it. We were asked to return our photo ID fair passes back to Kay as soon as possible.

We wish to thank Mettiki Coal for purchasing Andrew Lucas's hog at the Garrett County Fair and donating it to our 4-H club. We will be using it for a fundraiser and for our awards dinner.

The Clover members (ages 5-7) worked 'at the meeting on leaf rubbings after reading a book about fall leaves.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the Ryan's Glade Community Building. Our meeting time is 7 p.m.

OAK HILL
by Tyler Bowman

The Oak Hill 4-H Club has had a very busy year. In August, the members participated in the Garrett County Fair. The club was proud that member Becky Berkebile was crowned fair queen.

Club members won the cow patty bingo held during the fair. Tyler Bowman, Collin Fratz, Jordan Fratz, Kendra Georg, Chelsie Custer, and Michael Rodeheaver rode on a truck donated by Accident Garage during the parade. They also had several members participate in the Maryland State Fair.

In September, the monthly meeting was held at the Yoder farm. Brooke and Devan Yoder have demonstrations on their new steers.

Leader Nancy Berkebile asked members to sell baby beef raffle tickets. We welcomed new members Jacob Savage, Kaylie Green, and Lacey Green. The meeting was followed by a covered dish dinner.

The club sold refreshments at the Nature's Own fall festival last Saturday.

The next meeting will be Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Van-Sickle farm.

Common Honey Varieties Noted

The color and flavor of honeys differs depending on the type of flower visited by the bees. In fact, there are more than 300 different types of honey available in the United States, each originating from a different floral source.

Honey color ranges from nearly colorless to dark brown, and flavor from mild to bold. As a general rule, lighter honey has a mild taste, while darker honey tastes stronger.

The most common honey varieties in the United States are listed below.

Alfalfa honey, produced extensively throughout Canada and the United States, is light in color with a pleasingly mild flavor and aroma.

Avocado honey comes from honey bee visits to California avocado blossoms. It is dark in color, and has a rich, buttery taste.

Blueberry honey is produced in New England and Michigan, and results from nectar taken from the tiny white flowers of the blueberry bush. It is typically light amber in color with a full, well-rounded flavor.

Buckwheat honey is dark and full-bodied. It is produced in Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin, as well as eastern Canada. Buckwheat honey contains more antioxidant compounds than some lighter honeys.

Clover honey is more widely produced in the United States than any other single floral source. Red clover, alsike clover, and the white and yellow sweet clovers are the most important clovers for honey production. Depending on the location and type of clover, the honey can vary in color from "water white" to medium amber.

Eucalyptus honey comes from the nectar of blossoms of one of the larger plant genera — a genus containing more than 500 distinct species and many hybrids. Eucalyptus honey varies greatly in color and flavor, but tends to be stronger-flavored honey with a slight menthol scent. It is produced primarily in California.

Fireweed honey is light in color and comes from the blossoms of a perennial herb that grows in the Northern and Pacific states and Canada. Fireweed grows in open woods, reaching a height of three to five feet, and produces pinkish flowers.

Orange blossom honey, or other honeys from a combination of citrus sources, is usually light in color and mild in flavor, with a fresh scent and light citrus taste. Orange blossom honey is produced in Florida, California, and parts of Texas.

Sage honey, primarily produced in California, is light in color and heavy-bodied with an elegant floral aftertaste. It is extremely slow to granulate, making it a favorite among consumers and honey packers alike.

Tupelo honey is somewhat rare, produced in northwest Florida. It is heavy-bodied, usually light golden amber with a greenish cast, and has a mild, distinctive taste. Because of its high fructose content, Tupelo honey granulates very slowly.

Wildflower honey is often used to describe honey produced from a mixture of floral sources indigenous to a certain area. It can vary in color and taste.

Honey blends are created by mixing different honeys, and are often distributed by major brands.

4-H Days Slated This Month; Area Youth Invited

The Garrett County 4-H program will hold its second annual 4-H Days on Saturday, Oct. 22. The event is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Western Maryland 4-H Education Center, which is located along Route 495 near Bittinger. 4-H Days is open to youth ages 5 to 18.

The day will involve a series of activity sessions, including canoeing, archery, bottle rockets, several craft projects, scrap-booking, outdoor cooking, constructing bat houses, livestock judging, marksmanship, and a challenge course. Participants will be able to select and attend four of 16 available sessions. Special events are planned for youth ages 5 to 7.

"This event is just one of many to be held during the month of October to celebrate National 4-H Week," said Ann Sherrard, 4-H educator. "4-H Days is open to all current 4-H members, and also to any young people interested in learning more about what 4-H can offer.

"Although new members are welcome at any time, this is a great time of year to join 4-H because the project year runs from January to December. If a new family is considering 4-H membership, they can select a 4-H club now, attend two monthly meetings, and be ready to enroll for 2006. In January, all members will choose a new slate of projects for the coming year," Sherrard said.

Pre-registration for the Oct. 22 event is required. To register, persons may call the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960 by Oct. 14. There is no registration fee.

Looking For The Great Pumpkin? It Could Be At The Fratz Family Farm

by Brenda Ruggiero

It's harvest time again. At the Fratz Family Farm along Route 219 near Accident, that means pumpkins. Lots of them. Usually about 5 acres' worth, to be exact. They come in many shapes, sizes, and colors, and they require a lot of hard work.

Of course, hard work is a way of life for most farmers, and this family is no exception. Both Gary Fratz and his wife Kate grew up on small farms — he in Accident and she near Bittinger.

The couple married in 1958, and spent me in Germany while Gar was in the service. When he was finished, they moved back to the area with two young children, Kendra and Greg.

"Gary said we just had to have a farm," Kate said. "Carl Haenftling was a mail carrier, and he approached him one day and said he wanted to buy his farm. I was a little hesitant. When I left the farm in Bittinger, I'd had enough farming. I really didn't want to be a farmer's wife, but here I am."

The Fratzes purchased the 124-acre farm in 1963, and soon had two more children, Christy and Brent. Throughout the years, all four children helped out on the farm and were active in 4-H and the Garrett County Fair.

"The kids sold sweet corn under the big maple tree in the front yard, and that was where their money came from for school clothes and the fair," Kate noted.

Today, the family includes sons- and daughters-in-law and 10 grandchildren. Kendra's family lives in Winchester, Va., and Christy's family is in Glenwood. Greg's family lives on land adjoining the farm, and Brent's family lives nearby in Accident.

Brent started working on the farm on a full-time basis about three years ago when the Harbison-Walker brick plant near Jennings changed hands, resulting in the loss of his job. Gary retired from the same company about 12 years ago, and became more active in farming at that time.

The family tried various farming venues over the years.

"We tried the cattle business, but we didn't have a large enough set-up," Brent said. "They'd buy cattle, and dad was working on the road at that time. Mom would bundle us up and put me down in a barrel in the barn so she could climb the silo and I wouldn't follow her. Then they'd feed cattle and go to the sale in the spring and have enough money to pay the loan off."

Today, the farm's main business is hay.

"We raise the product to ship to the horse industry," Brent said. "Most of our clients are hobby horse people. We truck hay from here to the customer — it's the thing we work the whole farm around, really. We raise corn and oats to rotate the crops to get back into hay."

Brent explained that they deliver into southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore, and their customer base grew mainly by word of mouth.

Gary said that they started growing pumpkins years ago, and that part of the farm built up gradually.

"It's only been in the last years that this market for pumpkins and corn stalks and straw has grown," Kate said. "There's a market for it now. When we first bought the farm in '63, there was no such thing as selling pumpkins along the road. No one would have stopped."

But today, people do stop for pumpkins, as well as Indian corn, squash, straw, and corn stalks. Many of the visitors are repeat customers, and the Fratzes often sell out before the end of October. Besides roadside business, they have some wholesale clients as well.

Produce at the farm includes standard jack-o-lantern pumpkins, various squash types in different colors, pie pumpkins, various types of gourds, and different varieties of miniature pumpkins, such as white, smooth, and ribbed. Another interesting variety of pumpkin resembles a bloodshot eye and is known as "One Too Many."

The Fratzes' golden hubbard squash comes from an "heirloom seed" from the Mosser family of Mosser Road.

"We ordered a golden hubbard from a seed catalog, and it turned out that the one from the old seed is still a better one," Kate said.

But for the most part, Brent asserts that the best produce comes from certified seeds, which they buy each year. The seeds are usually planted around the end of May, and have about a 90- to 110-day maturity.

"We like to have them by the first part of September," Kate explained. "The market's getting earlier. It used to be that they were just toward the end of October, but they aren't really for Halloween anymore. People are using them with the mums and all the fall things — for fall color. When the geraniums and all the other summer flowers start to go bad, then people start to think about pumpkins and mums."

A SEA OF ORANGE — The process of harvesting pumpkins is not an easy one, and the Fratz family enlists the help of teenagers each fall to help gather the orange squashes from the sprawling fields. In an effort to keep the deer from eating the pumpkins, the family craftily plants alfalfa around the field to distract the animals. They are happy to eat the alfalfa and leave the pumpkins alone, for the most part.

For harvesting, the pumpkins are first cut by hand with a long-handled lopper. Then they all must be picked up and placed on the wagon. For this, Brent gets help from local teens.

"We spent one Saturday and three other nights after school to pick them," he said.

Brent noted that they had to try a bit of innovation to keep the deer out of the fields.

"Deer will really mess up the pumpkin patch," he said. "That's why I usually try to plant them somewhere visible of Route 219 to keep them out. Then we try to plant some pretty good alfalfa hay in an area to keep the deer happy with that. We try to plant other crops to keep them distracted."

Brent enjoys dealing with his customers.

"The nice thing about having the pumpkin stand," he said, "is to see the different kids come and get out of the vehicle, and to see the looks on their faces when they see all this different stuff that's been grown. They think the Indian corn's been painted."

Even though things didn't work out the way Kate originally planned, she doesn't regret their decision to farm.

"When I got out of school, I went to D.C. like everyone did, and thought that was the end of farm life for me," she said. "But somehow, here we are. It's been a good life. It is a good place to raise your children.

"I think farming has changed. I think farmers feel more proud of what they do today."

The Fratz Family Farm will continue selling pumpkins through Halloween, if the supply holds out that long.

JOHANNS ANNOUNCES PROPOSAL TO MODERNIZE THE FARM SERVICE AGENCY

Agriculture Secretary Mike Johanns announced this past week that he is opening a dialogue with state and congressional leaders to discuss how best to modernize the Farm Service Agency (FSA) to ensure it meets the needs of farmers and ranchers in the 21st Century.

"FSA is an agency with a strong record of service to farmers and ranchers," said Johanns. "To continue that tradition we must examine our future course with vision and an understanding that producers' needs are changing.

"Our FSA state directors are engaging stakeholders, local, and state congressional leaders to develop proposals that will help us chart the course for the agency's future. My hope is that we can agree on a plan that will make it possible to invest in equipment, technology, and our employees. We want to ensure that top-notch service is provided to our farmers and ranchers long into the future," he said.

The FSA dates back to the 1930s when one in four Americans lived on a farm and it was necessary to maintain a presence in virtually every rural county to administer farm payments. Agriculture and rural America have changed dramatically since that time, as have farm programs, while the structure of FSA has undergone fewer dramatic changes.

While many farmers are equipped to conduct business via the Internet, FSA technologies do not fully support web-based services. Nationally, the agency has 2,351 county offices across the country. More than 400 of these offices now have two or fewer full-time staff. Nearly 500 offices are within 20 miles of the next nearest office. And, the cost of delivering services varies widely, ranging from less than 1 cent for the delivery of a dollar of program benefits to more than $2 in expenses for every dollar of benefits delivered.

FSA state executive directors are currently reviewing analytical information for their respective states. This data includes workload assessments for each office, location of offices in proximity to one another, farm lending volume, and density of agricultural activity. The state executive directors will work with stakeholders, local, state, and congressional leaders to consider local needs that might not be reflected in the data and submit consolidation proposals by November 15.

The ultimate goal of the modernization proposal is to create a network of state-of the-art FSA offices by upgrading equipment, investing in technology, and providing personnel with additional training. Minimal, if any, net reductions in personnel are anticipated.

More information about FSA programs is available at www.fsa.usda.gov.

GC Health Dept. Salutes Personal Care Providers

CARING TOUCHES RECOGNIZED – The Garrett County Health Department saluted its Personal Care Program team for its dedicated service to elderly and disabled county residents during a recent awards event in Oakland. Among the recognitions bestowed were awards of Wal-Mart gift certificates to the current personal care providers pictured above, who each recruited new providers to join the program. Standing from the left are Tammie Joseph, Vicky Kelley, Maxine Elsey, Jane Rice, and Debbie Warnick. Honors were also presented noting a decade or more of personal care service to Pat Foley, below left, and Esther Wilt.

Personal care providers employed by the Garrett County Health Department were recognized for their service during an awards ceremony that took place during a recent in-service program and luncheon at the Cornish Manor Restaurant. The providers care for Garrett County's elderly, chronically ill, and disabled citizens, and Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty praised their efforts in "assisting their clients, enabling the clients to stay in their homes longer, and thus also reducing the overall cost of medical care."

Recognition was bestowed for years of service, and noted for over a decade of work were Pat Foley and Esther Wilt. Others recognized were Jane Rice for 5 to 10 years of service; Vicky Kelley and Maxine Elsey for 2 to 5 five years of service; and Dora Hunter, Karen Broadwater, Henrietta Lyons, Debbie Warnick, Donna Bowser, Tammie Joseph, and Vicky Nice, each for up to 2 years of service.

A special Spirit Award was also presented to former employee Rita Oakley for going "above and beyond" the requirements of her job in caring for her patients.

"Without the efforts of these providers, many residents would be unable to continue living in their own homes," remarked Donna Fost, director of the Health Department's Personal Care Program. Fost also acknowledged the service of personal care case monitor nurse Kim Powell, R.N, and office staffer Kathy Skipper.

Also speaking at the meeting were yoga instructor Peggy Santamaria, who described the benefits of simple stretching and breathing exercises to relieve the effects of fatigue and stress, and Oak Park Church of the Brethren pastor Rev. Mel Menker, who discussed grieving and the necessary tools for healthy grief recovery.

The in-service training and awards program were made possible through a Real Choices grant to the Personal Care Program.

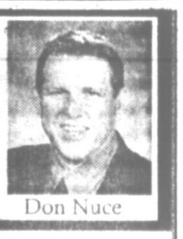
Real Estate Facts by...



Don Nuce
CAUSE AND EFFECT!
Traditionally, real estate agents have emphasized their "selling" prowess as a reason for listing homes with them. Naturally, sellers want their home sold, and an agent who is a successful "salesperson" would appear to be the likely listing candidate.
Today, agents can play a more important role by organizing and attracting the attention of other agents. You don't necessarily need an agent to "sell" your property – you need an agent to "cause" it to sell, and there's a big difference.
Consider the odds. There are over 170 agents working in Garrett County. Would you rather have just one or all of them working to sell your home? When interviewing agents to list your home, ask how they intend to mobilize the entire realty community to show your home to their ready-and-waiting pool of buyers.
Choose the right agent, and you will enjoy the best possible marketing efforts available, focusing on exposing your home to all buyers, not just a few. The more buyers who see your home, the sooner it will sell. The more buyers are competing for your home, the higher it will sell.
In today's fiercely competitive market, it is imperative that your agent "markets" your home and not just "sells" it. Once you understand the difference and find an agent who follows that philosophy, you can just about begin packing!
If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

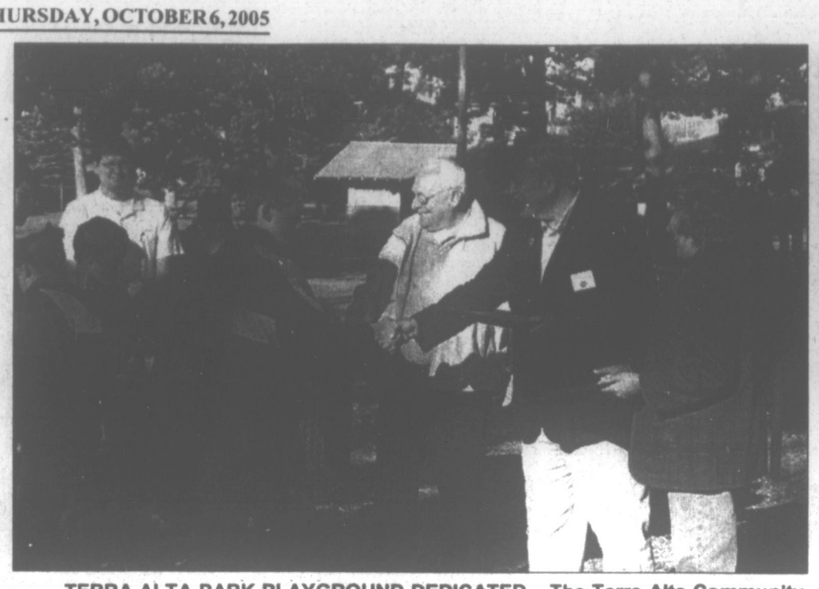
News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

"A RICH HARVEST OF PRIDE," the theme of the 64th Annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival in Kingwood, was enhanced with the presence of Jessica Lynch, the Palestine, W.Va., native who was captured by enemy forces in Iraq on April 1, 2003, and later rescued by American troops. She served as Friday's coronation official as she crowned Queen Ceres VXIIII Katie Ramsey, right, and King Buckwheat Christopher Forman VXIII. PFC Lynch, shown center, was introduced as the youngest coronation official in the festival's history. She spoke briefly to those in attendance and thanked everyone for their "support and prayers," and urged all to "continue to pray for the troops in Afghanistan and Iraq." (Photo by Patti Grose)



TERRA ALTA PARK PLAYGROUND DEDICATED – The Terra Alta Community Park was the scene of a ribbon cutting recently for the park's new playground. Among the special guests were Lotta Neer, who represented the Vandalia Foundation, U.S. congressman Allen Mollohan, who was instrumental in obtaining the majority of park funding from the federal level, and Preston County commissioner Dave Price. The ceremony was opened with thanks from Terra Alta Betterment Inc. (TABI) president Joyce Cotter, who was followed by TABI founder and current vice president Penny Kelly, who delivered an outline of TABI's past, present, and future projects. Pictured, from the left, accepting thanks from some potential park users, are Terra Alta mayor Charles Feather; W.Va. state senator Jon Hunter, who helped obtain Budget Digest funding; and new state delegate Debbie Stevens.

DAR LEARNS "WHAT'S IN STORE IN AURORA" – The Youghlogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its September meeting in the restored General Store in Aurora, W.Va. The late Alice Penzo, a DAR member, was one of the original organizers of the restoration of the early 20th century store building. The first-floor shelves are stocked with the many household items of the period, and historical books and research items of the Aurora Area Historical Society are located on the first floor. A room on the second floor houses darkroom equipment donated by renowned National Geographic photographer Volkmar Wentzel, while some of his prints are on display in another room. After the business meeting Yough Glades Chapter chaplain Virginia Martin, above, presented a program on her large collection of bells.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

Many people came to the community park for the recent playground ribbon-cutting, and many organizations were represented. Congressman Mollohan's representative Lotta Neer of the Vandalia Foundation, who was instrumental in Terra Alta Betterment Inc.'s getting the majority of park funding from the federal level, attended, along with Senator Jon Hunter, who was able to help with Budget Digest funding. Also present were Rep. Debbie Stevens and county commissioner Dave Price.

The ceremony was opened by TABI president Joyce Cotter, who thanked everyone for their help either with funding the project, planning, and/or the actual construction. Penny Kelly, founder of TABI and now vice president, presented an outline of TABI's projects, past and future. The mayor then presented the youth construction helpers and ribbon cutter with certificates in appreciation.

Allegheny Wood Products donated all the mulch. Dean and Nancy Reger spent much time researching, writing the grants, and co-coordinating the project.

On Sept. 30, Thelma Wilt Whetsell of Centenary Community died at her home. She was a daughter of the late Lester and Mildred Harsh Wilt. Also on Sept. 30, Lois Wiles Kight died at the home of her daughter in Florence, Mont.

Russel Beckman of Eglon was scheduled for bypass surgery on Monday of this week and remains a patient in Monongalia General Hospital at Morgantown.

AGF Parade Pass Details, Street Closures Noted

A parade pass is necessary to get into downtown Oakland this Saturday, Oct. 15, according to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, which has also specified the local road closure schedule before and during the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. The parade begins at 1 p.m.

"People who work in downtown Oakland, but do not go in to work until after 10:30 a.m. must have a pass to get past the barricaded roads," said Regina Sweitzer, the chamber's director of office administration. "Anyone who must be able to get to those closed routes that day needs a pass, including those using the handicapped parking area."

Business owners or employees should contact town officials or the chamber in advance for a pass. Parade passes are available from the Oakland City Hall, at the Visitors Center at McHenry and at the Shoppe at Heritage Square in the 1884 B&O Train Station.

STREET CLOSURES

Second Street will be closed to traffic from Liberty Street to Center Street at 9:30 a.m. Saturday for the Garrett College Pipes and Drums concert and the Pleasant View Baptist Church presentations of music, puppetry, and drama, as well as for the food vendors setting up along Green Street. Omar and Green also will be closed during the Autumn Glory festivities.

Both Third and Second streets, from Omar Street to Alder Street, will be closed to all vehicles starting at 10:30 a.m. Traffic needing to bypass Oakland will be directed to detour along Fourth Street.

Center Street will remain open until 12:45 p.m.

Memorial Drive also will be closed to through traffic from Eighth to Fourth streets.

No traffic will be allowed to turn onto Fourth Street from Memorial Drive. No left turns will be allowed from Fourth Street onto Memorial Drive. Barricades will prevent access to Fourth Street.

Emergency vehicles should use Kings Run or Eighth Street to Memorial Drive.

"Many people come to town early," said Oakland Police Chief John Sines. "We want them to be able to walk about safely, with-

"A FRIEND TO BUSINESS AND TOURISM" in Garrett County is how this year's Autumn Glory Festival Golden Ambassador Bill Grant was described at last night's AGF kick-off celebration, held at Wisp. Grant was presented with the honor by Elaine McDonald, a former honoree, and last year's ambassador, Evelyn Heise. "I'm overwhelmed," Grant said as he accepted the plaque and medal. "It is an honor to be your ambassador, and I will do my best to represent all the hard-working and deserving people who make this festival such a success." Grant will be the guest of honor throughout Autumn Glory, and will be a special guest in the AGF Grand Feature Parade on Saturday. See story. Pictured in the background is this year's Autumn Glory Royal Court. From left are Princess Corey Lewis, King James Naylor, Queen Holly Wampler, and Prince Paul Logan. The former golden ambassadors are in the foreground as they help to present Grant, front right, with his award. Woman Rescued From Sinking Car By Swallow Falls Resident

A local man who saw a vehicle go off a roadway and into a pond Saturday night is credited with jumping into the water and rescuing the driver of the sinking car, according to the Maryland State Police.

At approximately 9:35 p.m., Swallow Falls resident Donald DeWitt and his wife Karen were on their way home from the grocery store, driving westbound on Sang Run Road just west of Marsh Hill Road, when they saw a vehicle attempt to make a turn onto Barbara's Way. The 1995 Cadillac two-door coupe overshot the turn and went into the water.

"We saw the car make the turn, and all of the sudden its taillights were going up in the air then disappeared over the bank," Don DeWitt recalled. "I know that pond is pretty deep, so I stopped our truck and ran to the bank. There was a car with its lights on floating in the water, making a slow turn, and a woman was inside yelling for help.

"I called to my wife to pull our truck up to the bank to shine our headlights into the water, and I waded in. By the time I got to the car the water was chest deep. I pulled the woman out through the window, and by the time we got back to shore the lights had shorted out on her car and it had sunk to the bottom."

The car's driver, Darlene Theodora Decapite, 51, Severna Park, was not injured, and she later told police that she had been confused by the heavy fog and darkness, and thought she was turning onto Marsh Hill Road rather than Barbara's Way.

Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle, however, arrested Decapite on charges including driving while intoxicated and negligent driving. She was later released on her own recognizance.

"The car was completely submerged in the water," stated DeWitt, "and it was such a dark and foggy night that I doubt anyone would have known about it unless we had happened to be lucky enough to be there when it happened. We were sitting at home earlier in the

"JUST DOING WHAT NEEDED TO BE DONE" is how Donald and Karen DeWitt described their efforts in rescuing a woman from a car sinking in a McHenry area pond Saturday night. The couple were the only eyewitnesses to see a car drive off the corner of Sang Run Road and Barbara's Way into the pond, and Don jumped into the water to pull the woman free from her car before it sank to the bottom. "We were just lucky to be there when it happened," said Don. See story.

William B. Grant Named 2005 Honorary Golden Ambassador

William B. Grant, CEO of First United Bank & Trust, was named the 2005 Honorary Golden Ambassador at the 38th Autumn Glory Festival during the festival kickoff reception and dinner last night held at the Wisp in McHenry.

"Bill is a long-time supporter of the Autumn Glory Festival," said Honorary Golden Ambassador Elaine McDonald, as she and last year's Golden Ambassador Evelyn Heise made the announcement.

"This individual's care and concern for the festival has its roots in past involvement as a member of the Garrett County Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council," she said. Grant served as treasurer, secretary, and vice president of that organization and was involved in the site selection for the new Visitors Center at McHenry.

He served on the committee to locate festival vendors and provide the services they would require in the downtown area, helped set up the gym at the high school for the headline concert events, and personally sold tickets for the banjo and fiddle contests.

"Bill is not only a great example of leadership in Garrett County, but also throughout the state and region," said Chamber president Charlie Ross. "He joins the ranks of one of our most exclusive Garrett County clubs. He really deserves this honor."

Grant has been a member of the board of trustees of Garrett Community College, the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, and the Southern Mat (youth wrestling) Club. He served as president of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association.

He is also a member of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, Garrett Choral Society, Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, Southern High School Improvement Team, and vice president of Southern High School's Alumni Association.

A graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College with a BA degree in history, Grant is also a graduate of Duquesne University School of Law with a juris doctorate, and a graduate of Northwestern University Graduate Trust School and the Stonier Graduate School of Banking.

He started as a trust officer with First United Bank & Trust in 1978. He contin-

Officials Review Performing Arts Center Design

The preliminary design for the proposed Garrett County Performing Arts Center (PAC) is about double the original plan envisioned by its supporters two years ago. Lucinda Williams, the center's executive director, showed the Garrett County commissioners the design and updated them on the project this week.

The PAC is an initiative of a nonprofit group, Garrett Performing Arts Center Inc., which is responsible for securing all construction funding. That cost is now estimated at more than $18 million.

Earlier this year, the commissioners allocated more than $44,000 for the project's design phase and discussed the feasibility of the county funding a portion of the construction. In May, the architectural firm EwingCole was awarded the bid to design the center.

The PAC is slated to be built on the same site as the proposed Garrett County exhibit hall, off Rt. 219, south of Deep Creek Lake near Thayerville. Plans are also under way by a private company, Keystone Lime, for a resort center with high-end retail shops to be located near the site.

Williams indicated that the site was a good one for the PAC, adding that the center would become the hub for activity there.

EwingCole's preliminary design shows a 48,593-square-foot center (including storage spaces) with three levels, one of which is below ground, and an auditorium with 809 seats. The stage would be 45 feet by 100 feet with catwalks above it for aerial performances. Also planned are piano and workshop storage spaces, a multipurpose room, costume and prop shops, a kitchenette, a green room, control rooms for sound and lighting, four offices, and four dressing rooms.

Williams said the design allows the center to have flexibility, multiple usage, and growth potential. She noted that the board's original plan called for between 500 and 800 seats and did not include such items as the catwalk, two "star" dressing rooms, the kitchenette, and offices.

Ticket prices for PAC performances would range from $15 for rear mezzanine seats on the third level to $45 for orchestra box seats in near the stage on the first level.

"What we want to attract drives these numbers," Williams said. The large number of seats would generate enough income to book a wide variety of performances. Additionally, the ticket price range would help make the center "ac-

Bypass Proposal Draws Most Discussion At SHA Tour Meeting

What is typically a cut-and-dried affair when Maryland State Highway officials visit Garrett County each year to present their draft spending plan and garner local input sparked more attention than usual Friday morning, when several citizens spoke out against the proposed Oakland bypass.

The $41.6 million, 2.4-mile, two-lane roadway (with right of way purchase to encompass room for a future four-lane upgrade) has been at the top of the "wish list" of local officials for a number of years, but recent funding allocations have put the project on the verge of beginning the move from paper to pavement. The road would cut a swath between the towns of Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park as it connects Rt. 219 from just north of Wal-Mart to the intersection of Rt. 219 and Rt. 135 at its southern end.

Oakland surgeon Dr. Dona Alvarez, representing Garrett Countians for Smart Growth, a fledgling citizens' group opposed to the bypass proposal, told the officials and the standing-room-only assembly that over 509 signatures had already been collected in opposition to the project. "This road will cut right through the heart of Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park, splitting the community in two," she said.

"We also don't feel the project is even necessary in the first place; SHA studies themselves show that downtown Oakland traffic is only periodically heavy, that although 29 percent of the vehicles are trucks, and almost 2/3 of those trucks are coming into town to make local deliveries or pick-ups. Those trucks are using Oakland as a destination, and a bypass would do them no good anyway. SHA studies from the mid-1990s gave downtown Oakland a 'B+' grade for traffic management and an 'A' for wait times and number of vehicles processed. Since then the agency says we've increased our traffic by only 2,000 vehicles, or just 10 percent over 10 years; furthermore, the latest census shows that Oakland, Mtn. Lake Park, and Deer Park are actually decreasing in population.

"We feel that many of the 'problems' claimed to be justifications for a bypass will only create more problems once it's built." said Alvarez. "There are other ways to manage traffic than a new $41 million road that cuts an existing community in two, rather than going around it.

"We're also concerned that an Oakland bypass could represent a first step toward a north-south interstate highway through the county," the doctor continued. "Meyersdale, Pa., has a bypass, and Rt. 219 is being made into a four-lane roadway from Buffalo, N.Y., all the way through Pennsylvania to Interstate 68 in Garrett County. If you look at the map, it seems only natural that the interstate continue south along Rt. 219, which up until a few years ago was being sold as an economic bonanza for the county. But just look at Meyersdale, Pa.'s, bypass. You won't see much economic development resulting in that town from its bypass," said Alvarez.

"We recognize that there are a number of people with strong opinions about the bypass," SHA administrator Neil Pedersen stated, "but Garrett County officials at all levels have supported this project for over a decade. We don't make the decision to build a bypass, or any roadway, without being asked by local officials first, and the Oakland bypass project is no different."

Pedersen's boss, Department of Transportation Secretary Robert Flanagan, echoed that those remarks after the meeting when he said, "The Department has to key off requests made by elected officials. In the case of the bypass local elected officials are unanimously for it – the town council, the county commissioners, the state delegate, and the state senator – each of those officials have asked us for a bypass, and that is a very forceful statement about what is their judgment of what are the wishes and what is in the best interests of their constituents and the community.

"We listen to everyone," Flanagan continued, "but the process is that citizens ask local elected officials for projects, elected officials ask us, and we work with them to make things happen. We never came to Oakland and said, 'We want to put a bypass here'; instead, your officials came to us asking for one.

"Should the elected officials ask for a change, or even a denial of the project, we will revisit the matter to see what they want," the DOT secretary said.

A local elected official who spoke out for the bypass at the Friday meeting was Oakland councilman Jay Moyer, who said he was representing the views of both the town council and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "Both the town and the chamber want a bypass because of their concerns over increasing traffic and congestion, which can only get worse," Moyer said.

Oakland businessman David Moe, representing the Garrett County Development Corporation, said that group "strongly supports a bypass, and is glad to see unanimity among INITIAL PAC DESIGN UNVEILED – A preliminary design for the Garrett County Performing Arts Center (PAC) was presented to the county commissioners this week. Created by EwingCole, the design shows a three-level auditorium with 809 seats, a green room, dressing rooms, offices, and storage space. The $18 million project is slated to be built near Deep Creek Lake. See story. Pictured is an architect's rendering of the PAC by EwingCole.

NEW ACCESS TRAIL OPENED AT JRL – Outdoor enthusiasts have a new 1.75 mile Maryland trail available to access the pristine scenery and fishing opportunities provided by the North Branch of the Potomac River and Jennings Randolph Lake. The Senator Paul S. Sarbanes River Access Trail was dedicated yesterday afternoon in a ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by the senator, pictured at the far left, and, from the left, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Col. Robert J. Davis, Allegany County commissioner Barbara Rouge, Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday, Mineral County commissioner Cynthia Piles, JRL operations manager Jan Gonzales, Garrett County Recreation Task Force (GCRTF) chairman Steve Green, and Kitzmiller mayor Jim Browning. Sarbanes was instrumental in securing the $50,000 funding for the trail, which was built in just a two-week time span last month. GCRTF volunteers will maintain the trail, of which Green observed "the scenery alone is worth taking a hike on a nice day." Green and other planners are working toward the day when a network of trails criss-cross the county, connecting a number of towns via hiking and biking trails. Sarbanes commented, "This trail will enable hikers, mountain bikers and naturalists to enjoy one of the most pristine areas in the state, and its world-class trout fishery." Photo by Jo Donaldson.

Stanton's Mill Story Clarification

A story appeared in last week's issue of The Republican about Stanton's Mill in Grantsville, and some of the information about the ownership of the mill should be clarified.

It was inaccurately noted that John Childers is the owner. The mill was actually originally purchased by Penn Alps, and was then donated to Spruce Forest, a 501-C3 historical and art organization. It is currently under development in conjunction with Penn Alps, local members of the community, and John Childers.

Friendsville Rd. Crash Slightly Injures Driver

A single-car crash on Friendsville Road slightly injured a Friendsville woman who refused medical treatment, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack.

Brandi Sharp, 22, was traveling north when she lost control on the wet roadway coming out of a turn near Kisner Road. Her 2004 Mazda sedan traveled across the southbound lane and off the roadway, where it struck several trees.

State troopers, who determined that the accident was caused by speed and unsafe front tires, charged Sharp with driving too fast for the road and weather conditions.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

CORRECTION NOTED

A report published last week incorrectly identified the occupants of the respective vehicles involved in an Oct. 4 mishap near Deep Creek Lake. Kristi Jo Tichnell was driving a Dodge Caravan also occupied by her 1-year-old child and Tichnell's 49-year-old mother. Their vehicle struck an oncoming Ford pickup which was occupied solely by its driver, Gerald Wilson.

Wilkens Couple Forced To Take Crash Course In Baby Delivering

by Brenda Ruggiero

As Loretta Wilkens of Grantsville neared her due date at the end of September, she and her husband Brandon were like most first-time parents. They had never personally witnessed a birth, but had prepared as best as they could. Because they were busy moving into a new home the month before, they hadn't had time to take childbirth classes. They had no idea that a crash course was on the way, but they passed with flying colors when their daughter, Skylar Cheyenne, arrived at home on Sept. 29.

The couple had been to Somerset (Pa.) Hospital the morning before, where Loretta had planned to have the baby. However, they were sent home because her contractions were erratic. They planned to head back to the hospital when the contractions became regular and were five minutes apart. However, early in the morning of Sept. 29, Loretta realized that she was about to give birth.

"We never really had time to be scared," she said. "We just knew what needed to be done."

Brandon called 911 and reached Drew Sheally, an emergency medical dispatcher at the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management.

"At 4:55 a.m. the phone rang, and the person told me his wife was having a baby," Sheally said. "I went through the steps with him, and thankfully the baby was not breech. When she first came out, he said she was not breathing, so I told him what to do. Then I heard crying in the background, which was a good sound to me."

A HAPPY ENDING – Although little Skylar Cheyenne Wilkens's arrival did not follow the original birth plan, she is currently doing well at home in Grantsville with her parents, Loretta and Brandon Wilkens. Skylar's daddy delivered her with the assistance of Drew Sheally, a dispatcher at the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management. "I have what's important: my wife and my daughter," Brandon said. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Sheally said that the baby was born about 15 minutes after the call originally came in.

"It really went very smooth," he said. "The husband did a really good job, and Mommy did an even better job."

As part of his emergency medical dispatcher training, Sheally learned how to talk people through situations such as childbirth, and is periodically recertified. In his 21 years on the job, he has assisted in one other birth — Commissioner Ernie Gregg's grandson in January of 1988.

A crew from Northern Rescue Squad arrived about three minutes after Skylar's birth, and transported mother and baby to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. The family was back home together on Oct. 1.

"I really appreciated the 911 dispatcher, because he told me what to expect," Brandon said. "I don't really think about anything else now, like what could have happened. I have what's important — my wife and my daughter."

Number Of Marylanders On Welfare Reaches 42-Year Low

by Kim Hart
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The number of Marylanders on welfare has reached a 42-year low, but a larger portion than ever before are children, and the state may need to offer more services if it wants the rolls to keep shrinking.

The total number of welfare recipients is now down to 60,177 – a 74-percent drop since enrollment peaked in 1995. Children now make up about a third of the state's total remaining cash assistance caseload and, in 17 of the state's 24 counties, account for 40 percent or more of all cases.

"We've been so successful with keeping adults employed that there's a higher percentage of children-only cases. It's the new frontier . . . and we need to figure out how we can help who remains," said Kevin McGuire, executive director of Maryland's Family Investment Administration. The state agency offers cash assistance, food stamps, and job-placement for families enrolled in the Temporary Cash Assistance program, which is Maryland's version of the federal welfare program.

McGuire said the caseload reduction is a testament to Maryland's success in helping adult recipients find jobs, increase their incomes, and get off the welfare rolls quickly and permanently. While counties across the state have seen their enrollments drop substantially over the past decade, social services departments must now turn their attention to helping the children as well as the adults who still depend on public financial support, he said.

"If they live most of their childhood on public assistance they are more likely to repeat their codependence on the system," he said, adding that he would like to see the family investment program work more closely with child welfare services to address the special needs of children and their caretakers, such as counseling, child care, and educational help.

The majority of the cases involving children are those in which no adult receives cash assistance. These cases often arise when neither mother nor father is present in the household and the child is raised by a relative caretaker, usually a grandparent, aunt, or uncle. The caretakers are exempt from the work requirements and the 5-year time limit that other welfare recipients must meet.

"The traditional families on temporary cash assistance – single mothers with one or two children – have left welfare in droves," said Catherine E. Born of the Family Welfare Research and Training Group at the University of Maryland School of Social Work. "That's the primary reason why the child-only caseload is now a bigger share."

Smaller, more rural counties are more likely to see a larger proportion of child-only cases. Half of all such children have prior incidents of abuse or neglect, which means they may need long-term attention from child protective services or family counseling, Born said.

Talbot County has the highest state caseload, involving children at about 80 percent. Cathy F. Mols, who directs the county's social services department, says that's largely due to the low unemployment rates, which moves adults off the caseloads at a faster rate. The department offers children's support services and parenting support groups to assist the caretakers.

"We're really trying to provide them with supportive services so they can continue to take care of these children," she said. "If these relatives aren't taking care of them, then the children could be taken care of by the state, and we prefer the family involvement."

In Worcester County the cash assistance caseload has dropped by 85 percent in the past five years, and more than half of the remaining recipients are children. Ellen Payne, the county's family investment assistant director, said she expects that population to remain fairly stable as the relative caretakers raise the children.

"Technically, they could be getting cash assistance for that child for 18 years," she said. The monthly payment to the caretaker is $220 per child. The county has limited programs in place to handle the cases involving children, but it's something Payne plans to look into.

Allegany has reduced its caseload by 92 percent in the past decade, the sharpest decline in the state. Richard Paulman, director of the county's social services department, said the key is to tailor each county's programs to fit the needs of the jurisdiction.

The county has had some success tracking down child support from the biological parents, which sometimes amounts to more money than the cash assistance program offers. But in most cases, the children must be looked at individually to determine if they should stay on the rolls, he said.

"In some instances, these children are receiving care with family and the state is supporting them," Paulman said. "But that may be the best thing for the child and a good thing for the state to do."

Delegate Samuel I. Rosenberg, D-Baltimore, who serves on the joint committee that deals with welfare reform, said he would like to see a pilot program modeled after the state's substance abuse program. The program places addictions specialists in local departments to help screen applicants who may need treatment in order to find a job. A similar program geared toward assessing the needs of children and their caretakers could help provide crucial services.

Because these children have a longer history of receiving cash assistance, they are at higher risk for remaining on welfare for longer periods of time in the future, Born said.

"We focus on welfare and what happens to the grown-up," she said. "But these kids are in that murky zone between welfare and child welfare. It's a population we need to learn more about and what additional services they might need other than cash money."

Christianity is Fair Game...

"Political correctness" is all the rage these days, as each of us is expected to be sensitive, tolerant, and considerate whenever we speak about each and every other human being. Many descriptive words that were totally acceptable and freely used just a decade or two ago are no longer "politically correct."

For some examples, we should not call a person "diabetic," but should refer to that person as "one who has diabetes"; it is not a "disabled" person, but a person "with a disability." (The word "handicapped" has become a real no-no.) We should certainly not use the word "colored" in reference to non-whites, but use the term "people of color." The word "Negro" is generally not acceptable anymore. The words dwarf and midget are no longer acceptable, having been replaced by the term "little people."

Then there are all of the "challenged" terms, many of which are downright hilarious (not "short," but "vertically challenged"; not "bald," but "follicle-ly challenged"). The list goes on and on.

Since the terrorist attacks of 9/11, and during all of the warfare in the Middle East since then, the idea of "political correctness" in regard to one's religion has really come to the forefront. Within the confines of our nation's borders, those of non-Muslim faiths are asked to be extremely sensitive to those citizens who are Muslims, and rightfully so. However, it seems that those of the Christian faith in this country are basically fair game to whatever kind of mud someone wants to sling at them. And it's not generally American Muslims who are doing the slinging. Christians are being vilified from nearly every direction, and for some reason, political correctness just doesn't seem to apply to them.

When now-Supreme Court Chief Justice John Roberts was in the confirmation process several weeks ago, he was grilled repeatedly on his faith, which happens to be Roman Catholic. It seemed as though the Senate panel was terrified that he might dare allow his faith to play a role in his decision making on the bench, and that doing so would somehow breach the separation of church and state. Roberts' response was that his personal faith would not play a role in his decision making.

To that, we say two things: 1. What a shame, and 2. While Roberts' response was "politically correct" and what the Senators wanted to hear, there is no way he was being entirely truthful.

Christianity and most of the world's major religions are based pretty much on the same tenets, which include fairness, justice, equality, and caring deeply for our neighbors. What better criteria could there be when it comes to making good decisions as a member of the Supreme Court? And, of course, Roberts' faith is indeed going to at least "play a role" in his decision making. How in the world could he prevent that? It is hoped by this writer that his faith does at least play a role.

Of course, out-spoken, radical-conservative Christians have brought much of this on themselves. But radical conservative Christians are not the majority of those who choose to be Christian. It's past time that Christians are afforded some of the "political correctness" that just about every other group now enjoys.

LIKE IT OR NOT, A NEW ROLE

by Beth L. Bowers

I'm sure this isn't a realization that is new to anyone, but I had one of those "how did that happen" moments this weekend. Tyler, my oldest, turned 7, and his friend Connor, 8, who is also his second cousin, spent the night. This was our first sleepover at the Bowers' house. They got along great with little brother Carter, who is now 4, and they all had a great time. It was a John Deere-filled fun time. Luckily, they all have the exact same passions... John Deere tractors and heavy equipment machinery.

It was while I was making dinner and listening to the farm talk in the other room that I envisioned myself as one of my friend's moms. Growing up we had a lot of sleepovers full of Barbies, which later grew into scary movies. But all at once I realized I wasn't a part of the sleepover. I was the mom. The one who kept in the other room and didn't interrupt. I started thinking of the roles of the moms during my sleepovers, but I don't remember seeing them much. Except maybe when the pizza arrived or our own moms came. I can picture every sleepover I ever had, and that time doesn't really seem that long ago. Isn't that weird? When did I grow up and switch roles? Did I want to interact and change the way the moms were in my sleepovers or was that my role now and I must accept that position?

I figured being in the background was best for everyone, although I did try to impress them with my fort-making abilities. Recently, we changed the boys' beds into bunk beds, much to Carter's chagrin and Tyler's joy. Tyler loves being on the top all alone without his brother literally breathing on the back of his neck. The same can't be said about the latter. He sorely misses someone sleeping right next to him. So guess who is tapped on the shoulder, oh say, 10 or 12 times a night?!? Yep, yours truly. Anyway, I digress.

I put the mattresses on the floor so the three could sleep together and thought, "How could I make this unique?" A fort. It didn't seem that long ago that I used to make forts for the little kids I babysat. I used to build them forts, crawl in with them, and have a blast. I remember thinking this is what I want to do when I have kids. As I was thinking about how to make a fort, I realized I don't do this nearly enough. I need to get down on their level, literally, and enjoy. But there are always "things" that get in the way: laundry, homework, sleep.... But this was my chance to redeem myself, if just a little.

I guess it had been longer than I thought since I built a fort, because, quite frankly, it was awful. Sometimes it feels like just last year I babysat Jacqie and Mary, but every Christmas I realize it has been a lot of years since they are now both in college.

Maybe had I done a little more prep work it would have worked better. But the bus was scheduled to arrive home and I wanted to present the fort to them the minute they got off the bus. Carter helped me by running up and down the steps in search of chip clips and hair twisties. We managed to drape a few sheets from the bunk bed across the room. Not quite enough room for an adult to join in, but enough for three little boys. Carter seemed quite amazed, and thrilled to show the other boys. Once they blew through the door I realized I was to stay in the background. Instead of the play by play of the day, I barely got a "Hi, Mom." And they were off. After maybe 10 minutes upstairs in the fort, Carter came down. I realized his new role was the tattler – the younger sibling that tells mom everything.

"Mom, those boys tore down the fort!" he yelled. Instantly I heard the other footsteps, "Carter, I hope you didn't tell on us, or you'll be in trouble," Tyler bellowed.

And so the weekend began, all of us in our new roles, whether or not we thought we were ready for them. And maybe that's not such a bad thing after all.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Wednesday the 28th of September 2005, someone backed into my Harley Davidson Road King motorcycle and dented the front fender. This incident happened right in front of the library in Oakland, after the reading hour from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. I believe it must have happened between 11:30 a.m. and noon. They did not leave a name or address.

Would the person responsible for this please contact Dale or Susan Perando at 301-334-3058?

Sincerely,

Do you want to die at a young age for no good reason? If you don't, do not smoke! Smoking can cause lung cancer. If you have lung cancer, you could die. You could also get emphysema. It is a disease where your air sacs get permanently damaged. Trust me, you don't want it. Also, if you have atherosclerosis and you smoke, you could have a heart attack or stroke. If you smoke, you could develop a dependence. That means you would need this drug. So, whatever you do, do not, I repeat, do not smoke!

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Governor Robert Ehrlich requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Governor Ehrlich,

The septic system tax of $30 per year on the residents of Garrett County who have septic systems on their property is likened to Frank and Jesse robbin' trains, only they used guns, where the state of Maryland uses a tax bill.

Any topical map will show that two-thirds of Garrett County lies west of the Continental Divide, and that the water discharge underground runs to the Youghiogheny and Cassleman rivers and ultimately to the Ohio River; not to the Chesapeake Bay.

In any man's reasoning this is an unfair tax, and the administration and the Maryland legislature ought to re-think this one. I'm positive the West Virginia and Virginia properties adjacent to the Potomac River that use septic systems are not subject to this unreasonable tax.

Very truly yours,
DeCorsey E. Bolden

To the Editor:

I recently received my "Bay Restoration Fee" bill. I was very unsettled by the offhand presentation of this "bill."

First of all, it looked like a junk mail postcard and nearly got thrown away. There was no letter of explanation or official seal or signature. It didn't even come in an envelope. Having not heard of this fee, my neighbor had to reassure me that this was a legitimate bill and not fraudulent.

Second, I am not accustomed to paying fees or bills directly to the government. I usually pay money to the government in the form of taxes. I sincerely hope the Garrett County Sanitary District plans to restore some legitimacy by finding this cause through the proper channels from now on. I certainly pay enough taxes, but sending a bill in the mail strikes me as a shady way of avoiding a tax raise.

I hope not to see this inappropriate bill in my mailbox next year, but if I do, I expect it to be in an envelope at the very least!

To the Editor:

How can things change and remain the same?

When the Yough River north of the Sang Run bridge was named a wild and scenic river, some people thought that leaving the corridor in private ownership, eventually, through development, would take away from the wildness and beauty of the area; even though some this property has been in the same family ownership, and cared for for generations. So, the government bought the Yough River corridor, and now, the same government is providing money to exploit this property by building hiking trails, putting up signs, and maintaining a "recreational trail," so we can attract 1,000 more hikers per year; that's 2.73 people per day.

What next? Porta potties, trash cans, and picnic tables!? Seems to me wild and scenic is wild and scenic! If I want to see a Porta potty and signs I can go to Deep Creek Lake or the state park. And, if you think porta potties and trash cans aren't coming, hide and watch!

Oh, yeah! Don't forget the no-hunting signs and a possible user's fee.

This is just the beginning of the end for another one of Garrett County's natural beauty spots.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Robert Flanagan, Secretary, State Highway Administration, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Secretary Flanagan,

The Oakland Rt. 219 bypass has captured the local newspaper headlines recently with your visit to Garrett County. Thank you for visiting and listening.

Oakland is a busy little town, and as a result there is an increase in traffic during rush hours in the morning and evening. This is created by people going to work at the schools, students going to school, some going to work in the banks, insurance offices, business at the Court House, shopping at retail stores, etc. By the SHA survey, 62% of the truck traffic is making deliveries. After 10 p.m. there is little or no traffic.

To construct a two-mile, 50-mile-per-hour dual lane highway through three farms and divide the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Oakland is not smart growth, at a cost of $42,000,000. That breaks down to $400,000 a lineal foot.

There is only one traffic signal light with a monitor to monitor the traffic flow, and that is located at Second and Oak streets at the overhead bridge. I do believe that better monitoring of the traffic flow and synchronizing the traffic signals would alleviate much of the congestion, and this costly bypass would not be necessary.

Very truly yours,
DeCorsey E. Bolden
Oakland

To the Editor:

In your editorial of Oct. 6 (Guilty of "NIMBYism") you listed a variety of reasons to oppose wind power in Garrett County. Foremost among those was preserving the tourism on which the county thrives. I think nearly everyone in Garrett County would agree that tourism is our greatest economic strength, and preserving Deep Creek Lake is an essential goal of both government and the private sector.

However, let's think a couple of decades ahead. America is going to need a lot more electric power, and that will have to come mostly from coal-fired or nuclear power plants. Either way, it will take a lot of cooling water. Somewhat to our south, at Mt. Storm, W.Va., a medium-sized lake provides the cooling water for a major coal-burning power plant. (People go scuba diving there in December, because all that warmed-up water doesn't freeze.)

Deep Creek Lake contains a lot of water, and it would cool a power plant very nicely. In the future when they have to figure out where to site a new power plant, that fact will not escape the attention of designers and planners. But folks who enjoy fishing don't want our lake to become warmer.

As we have just seen with the new $30 tax for Chesapeake Bay restoration, Garrett County has too small a population to successfully thwart an imposition by the state. In 10 or 20 years, how will we be able to resist the placement of a power plant alongside Deep Creek Lake? We will have to have some mighty good reasons.

By putting up wind turbines now, Garrett County gains the right to say, "We're contributing our fair share" – somewhat like "We gave at the office." It's something to think about.

Cordially yours,
Tom Sheahen

To the Editor:

In response to my latest missive of two weeks ago, another letter writer took offense at my use of the term "Christian Taliban." The word "Taliban" was used to draw a rough parallel to any fundamentalist organization which, by definition, defines itself as a strict interpreter of their beliefs. There is very little leeway allowed, and strict adherence to their beliefs is often enforced. As Americans, we tremble at the sound of the term Muslim fundamentalists, yet see nothing wrong with the wording Christian fundamentalists.

Tell me this, my friend: If a Muslim, Buddist, Jew, and Christian were gathered together, would only one of them be right in their beliefs? If so, which one? That would mean that 75% of the group is wrong. The idea of only one right answer has led to more wars and deaths, and it is far beyond me that any God would condone such action. Surely there must be more than one path to the top of the mountain.

What would Jesus say about our bombing of innocent Iraqi people? Would Jesus give tax breaks to the wealthy at the expense of those less fortunate? Would Jesus approve of our spending billions in military things and yet not provide the average person with health care?

This current administration, to me, talks Christian and acts totally, opposite. Compassionate conservative compares to military intelligence. They have played the "hard-core" Christians like a cheap guitar. We must look at their actions and not their rhetoric, and compare that to the "truth" that Jesus spoke.

What this country needs is a third party! Another choice. The Democrats are wimps and the Republicans are thugs. A truly independent party beholding to no one. These people work for us – for the good of all and not the wealthiest 5%. Anyone who backs this president does so at their own expense as well as their children and grandchildren.

Let's leave this current group of corporate-owned, neo-conservative rich boys in the ditch they drove us into. The only drive they should be on is the one out of town.

Bill Thomas
Oakland

To the Editor:

I have to agree with your stance on the wind turbines, and I say this with a deep appreciation of what technology has brought to the table in modern times. The need for cheap power continues to grow. The turbines need wind, and Backbone Mountain is perfect, from an engineering standpoint at least.

But if we look at the big picture, the power generated by these turbines won't measurably benefit the average citizen of Garrett County any more than those in the rest of the country. So, not only is the primal beauty of "their" mountain completely trashed, the locals don't get anything but a radical, effectively permanent change in their scenery, and maybe a minuscule drop in their property taxes and electric bills.

I own 82 acres in Hampshire County (W.Va.), and I have pictures from the late '90s showing Fairview Mountain just to the north of my piece rising over 2,400 feet into a frequently magnificent sky. In those days, the mountain was unadorned. Today, seven years later, there are four houses staring down from the side of that mountain, and it's so annoying, I just don't look at it anymore. And that's what every man, woman, and child who has ever gazed upon Backbone and unavoidably, if subtly, appreciated its majesty will be doing – looking away from a mountain with towers.

Strangers will likely still find the scene majestic and interesting, and newcomers will adapt easily, but a fundamental and critical part of the innate charm of Garrett County, known deeply by the people who live there and the thousands of others who have visited, will be gone. If the prosperity of the county depends on its tourism, it is patently crazy to fracture the skyline of Backbone Mountain. It's the wrong place!

Certainly the landscape in Garrett has changed radically since we were kids (40 years ago). Around the lake the visual changes are stunning, but it's a natural result of the rising population and the relative prosperity of American citizens.

But the towers go too far. The benefit of the power that will be generated by the turbines is vastly outweighed by the need to keep Garrett County's vistas as unmarked by human hands as possible.

I don't know if there's any systematic and legal way to stop this project, but it's a bad idea and it shouldn't happen. It'll take a piece out of everyone's soul.

PARKING

There will be no parking along the parade route, which includes sections of Second and Third streets, and parts of Fourth, Center, and Omar streets.

Sines encourages anyone coming to the parade to arrive early and enjoy the many other activities. "If you come early, you can find a good parking space and enjoy the entertainment," he said. "If you come at 8 or 9 a.m. that would be great. Autumn Glory is a perfect time to show visitors what Oakland and Garrett County have to offer."

Free parking will be available in the town parking lot off Second Street. Parking for handicapped persons will be provided in the lot of the Masonic Hall located at the intersection of First and Liberty streets. Parking will also be available along the southern and eastern parts of town, along Fifth, Sixth, or Seventh streets, and in special lots where organizations or individuals will be selling parking spaces.

Some roads also are closed this evening, Thursday, Oct. 13, for the Oktoberfest dinner and celebration and the Firemen's Parade. Some roads will close at 6:30 p.m. and others at 6:45 p.m. "Everyone should be in place to see the parade by then," said Sines.

After the parade, Third Street from Center to Green will be closed for the Oompah Band and other Oktoberfest activities.

For further information concerning parking and road closures during the Autumn Glory Festival, persons may call the Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100 or Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691.

cessible to all," the executive director said. She showed the commissioners a list of potential guest artists and their confidential fees.

"Obviously, this endeavor will attract all walks of life," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg as he looked over the list. "We have to make this appeal to all segments of the population." Gregg is secretary of the PAC board of directors.

Now that an initial design has been drawn, the PAC board will begin a three-year fundraising campaign, which will rely on major, mid-range, and small donations from both the private and public sectors.

The board hopes to secure $7.5 million from the state, $1.5 million from the county, and the remainder from private donations.

Williams said Del. George Edwards was "very supportive" of the project and would introduce legislation requesting $1 million for an architecture and engineering study.

"This building will supply a lot things that our kids would have never gotten to see," said Wayne Johnson, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, about performances at the PAC. He added it would also give young people a place to perform concerts and plays.

Williams said a recent survey showed that Garrett was the only county in Maryland without a public auditorium.

Southern Band Scoring Well, Earning Trophies

The Southern High School Marching Band has competed in two competitions over the past two weeks, coming in second at the first show and taking the top spot in the second. The band will hosts its own annual competition this Saturday, Oct. 15, at the school's athletic field, beginning at 6 p.m.

At the Allegany High School's Preview of Champions, held on Oct. 1 at the Greenway Stadium in Cumberland, Southern was in competition in Group I against five other bands. There were 20 bands in the entire program.

Southern scored a 74.65 to place second. First place was earned by Walkersville High School (78.6), and the third place band was Huntingdon Area High School with a 74.4. The overall winner of the competition was Lancaster Catholic High School (85.5).

Southern won the specialty award for Best Auxiliary.

"Our young people had to deal with a lot of adverse conditions and coincidental problems this week," said band director Richard Clever. "We learned a great deal, and hopefully that will help us perform better down the line. We have a very young band that is growing with each week's performance."

Last Saturday, Southern participated in the South Hagerstown Tournament of Bands held at South Hagerstown High School. Out of six bands in Group I, Southern took first place with a score of 77.99. Brunswick High School was second with a 77.32, and Westmar High School was third with a 75.32.

Southern won the specialty awards for Best Percussion and Best Music.

"Inclement weather forced this show into the South Hagerstown gymnasium, which made a full performance impossible," Clever said. "Couple that with the cancellation of our planned trip to the Scranton, Pa., area, where the two shows we were to compete in were canceled because of the weather, and this weekend had the makings of a poor performance.

"However, that is not the Southern way. Our students accepted all this as a challenge and went out and really put on a show," Clever continued. "The staff and I are very proud of the way they performed. Several of our students had their best individual performances of the year so far, and that led the band to its best performance of this season. Now we just have to continue to build on all the positives taken from this weekend."

Clever said he hopes the community will come out to Southern's own competition this weekend, which is part of the Autumn Glory Festival.

ATVs Collide, One Driver Sent To GCMH

One driver was injured when two ATVs collided on White Church Road near Audley Riley Road Sunday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Zachory Scott Savage, 20, Oakland, was operating a 2005 Suzuki, and Joshua Grant Custer, 21, Oakland, was operating a 2005 Yamaha when they collided. Savage was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for his injuries. Custer was not injured.

Charges are pending on both, police said. Gorman firefighters also assisted at the scene.

In a separate accident, three were transported to GCMH after their vehicle struck a tree on Wotrings Lane near Oakland Sang Run Road Saturday night, police said.

Phillip Reams of Oakland was operating a 1999 Toyota SUV when he lost control and struck a tree. Geoffrey Reams and Brian Holmes, both of Oakland, were passengers in the vehicle.

Geoffrey Reams and Brian Holmes were later transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va.

The accident is still under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. McHenry firefighters and Southern Rescue Squad also assisted at the 7:48 p.m. scene.

In another accident, three people were injured in a two-vehicle accident on Sand Flat Road Sunday afternoon.

Jamie Dee Stanton of Oakland was operating a 2002 Chevy passenger vehicle and collided with a 1998 Dodge passenger vehicle, operated by Jason Schillinburg of Elk Garden, W.Va.

Robert Streets Jr. also of Elk Garden, a passenger in the Schillinburg vehicle, along with Stanton and Schillinburg were all transported to GCMH.

Stanton was later charged with driving on a suspended out-of-state license and unsafe lane change. Deer Park firefighters and Southern Rescue Squad assisted at the 3 p.m. scene.

Unrestrained Driver Severely Injured In Mishap

The unrestrained driver in a single-vehicle accident was ejected and sustained severe injuries Friday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jordan Feather, 18, Aurora, W.Va., was operating a 2000 Chevrolet Impala in the 7000 block area of Garrett Highway when he lost control of the vehicle. It traveled off the road, struck fence posts, a power pole cable, and a large ditch, police said. The vehicle overturned several times before stopping.

Feather was ejected and sustained severe injuries; he was not wearing a seat belt, police said. A juvenile passenger, who was wearing a seat belt, received minor injuries. The incident caused extensive private property damage, and the vehicle was destroyed.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad transported both to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Oakland firefighters also responded to the 8 p.m. scene.

The collision remains under investigation, and charges are pending.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to the railroad tracks behind the Oakland Train Station for a vehicle stuck on the tracks early Saturday morning. According to police, Curtis Granger of Oakland was driving his vehicle on the tracks in the area of Second Street and traveled approximately 300 yards westbound before the vehicle became stuck on the tracks.

Granger was arrested and charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, and driving while impaired (DWI).

In other police news, Gary Carl Moore, 48, Gormania, W.Va., was arrested after failing field sobriety tests. Police made a traffic stop of his vehicle on Maryland Highway near Paul Street in Loch Lynn. Moore was charged with DUI, DWI, and a court-ordered alcohol restriction.

Happy 60th Birthday
Spud C. Resh

Well it's that time of year again and even though our birthdays are three days apart, we can celebrate them together just like we used to. I know you will have a happy birthday in Heaven now that Mom has come to be with you. Mom will bake a heavenly cake and all the beautiful angels will sing "Happy Birthday" to you, and it will be a joyous day.

I get lonesome now that Mom has come to be with you, but I am also happy that Dad, Mom and your dog Max are all together to be at your party. And I know my birthday will be good; my children always see to that.

I love you and miss all of you.

New JROTC Program Focuses On Leadership, Discipline, Motivation

by Beth L. Bowers

To motivate young people to become better citizens is the mission of the Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC) program, which has been implemented at both Garrett County high schools this year.

This program is "definitely not for recruiting," actually it is more of a civics and citizenship class than a military class. "We are not permitted to recruit anyone," said LTC Jack Riley (retired), senior instructor at Southern High School. "Our focus is on leadership and discipline."

The JROTC program was established in 1916 by the National Defense Act. In 1964, the Vitalization Act allowed retirees as well as active duty instructors to open the program to other services. Females were authorized to participate because of Title 10 in 1973. Today, the JROTC is the largest program within the Army.

"This program prepares high school students for leadership roles while making them aware of their rights, responsibilities, and privileges as American citizens," notes the web site jrotc.org. "It is a stimulus for promoting graduation from high school, and it provides instruction and rewarding opportunities which will benefit the student, community, and nation."

According to Riley, thousands of school systems apply for the JROTC program each year, and only 50 are picked across the nation. This past year, Southern was number 22 and Northern was 23, he said. He commented that he thought it was amazing that one school system in a county would get the program for both schools. He added that from now on only 15 schools will be picked on a yearly basis.

According to LTC Eric Sheetz (retired), senior instructor at Northern High School, he wants to help prepare the cadets for life.

"We sit down with them right at the beginning and help them map out their life, whether it be a job, college, or the military," said Sheetz. "Every day we want to ask, 'What are you going to do today to make you better than yesterday?'"

During the week, the cadets attend lectures, discuss current events, practice marching and drill ceremonies, and participate in physical training. Once a week they wear their uniform. Cadets also participate in after-school activities. This week cadets will travel to Camp Dawson in Preston County.

The cadets at SHS have already received their uniforms and participated in the promotion ceremony. Students at NHS will attend their ceremony in November. At this ceremony, the cadets receive their rank, just as in the military. The top rank is cadet lieutenant colonel (C/LTC) and the entry rank is cadet private (C/PVT). Family members pinned the new rank to the cadets' uniforms. More than 100 people attended the event at SHS.

There are four levels of the program. All cadets are currently in Leadership Education Training (LET) I. The mission of LET I is to motivate first year JROTC cadets to be better citizens.

LET II is for cadets who successfully graduated from LET I and are at least 14 years old. This level of the program is split into units including techniques of communication, leadership, cadet challenge, leadership lab, first aid, map reading, career opportunities, and the role of the U.S. Army.

For this year at NHS there are 36 cadets. They will be in the program for the entire year. At SHS, there are 30 cadets in the first semester, and 34 are signed up for the second semester.

The students have a variety of reasons for participating in the JROTC program.

Southern High sophomores Andrea Hedrick and Steven Fike, who were recently promoted to cadet first sergeant and cadet captain, respectively, said they hoped JROTC would make them more confident in themselves.

Southern High senior Mike Kave, who is a cadet major, said he enjoys being a part of a program because he feels good about being part of a group. He said she also likes the discipline he learns and enjoys the challenges the class brings him.

Jon Walton, a senior at Northern High, said his mom forced him to join, but now he thoroughly enjoys it. He said he is hoping it will better prepare him to enter the Marine Corps.

Most cadets in the program do not plan on joining the military after graduation. Northern freshman Andrea Upole said a family member of hers was in the ROTC during college and she said it sounded like fun. Zack Fratz, another Northern student, said he hoped to learn leadership, but wasn't necessarily planning on joining the military.

"We want to help students in every aspect of their life," said Sheetz. "And with this program, we can. Respect and discipline are the cornerstones of professionalism. Without these two cornerstones everything else will fall down."

SFC Mike Kulscar (retired), instructor at Southern, added that this program cuts through a lot of the high school cliques.

"This program forces them to deal directly with others," he said. "Upperclassmen and underclassmen alike. Overall, we try to get students to work as a team. We want them to accomplish whatever goals they set for themselves."

One unique aspect of this program is that the core of cadets will begin running the class, and the instructors will serve as mentors. For example, five cadets at Southern were taught how to correctly perform color guard, which they did at the recent homecoming game at SHS.

These five cadets will now be responsible to teach the next five, said Riley. "When they were preparing for the game they asked where we (Riley and Kulscar) would be during the presentation. I told them they were on there own. We would be there taking pictures and dressed as civilians," said Riley. "So now it is up to them to teach the others. This will teach them responsibility and leadership."

Southern's color guard and entire battalion will march in the Firemen's Parade and the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade.

Sheetz retired after 24 years in the military. He was deputy chief of staff for plans, operations, and security for the 804 medical brigade in Kuwait.

At Northern, the other instructor is SFC James Warnock (retired), who retired from the army after 21 years of service. His last assignment was as a battalion level service trainer.

As Southern's senior instructor, Riley is a 1977 graduate of Southern High School. He retired after 22 years in the U.S. Army. He is a veteran of Desert Storm and was the former director of the George C. Marshall Center for the U.S. military in Germany.

SFC Mike Kulscar (retired) taught for three years in a U.S. Army military academy, and instructed in numerous countries overseas. He also served with the special forces in Bosnia and Iraq.

All four instructors noted the tremendous support they have received from the school staff and board of education.

"The entire staff have been very supportive of this program, and we hope that what they learn here will help in other classes," said Sheetz.

All of the instructors agreed that they hoped all the cadets would be better citizens and graduate high school.

"Above all, we want them to learn life skills, be dependable, responsible, learn time management, improve self-esteem, and understand their rights," said Riley. "We want all of them to reach for the stars, not the ceiling tiles," said Riley.

Editor's note: Destiny Kitzmiller, SHS student, contributed to this story.

NORTH GLADE
by Samantha Gibson, reporter

The North Glade 4-H Club held its September meeting on Sept. 21. Members in attendance were Rachel Winegardner, Rebecca Winegardner, Lee Custer, Todd Custer, Derek Gilpin, Tyler Gilpin, Samantha Gibson, Nicole McClosky, Kirstie Fetterman, and Michael McConnell.

The club discussed its second annual pig roast, which raised more than $900. Thank-you notes need to sent out to businesses and individuals who donated items to the pig roast.

The countywide 4-H beef raffle tickets will need to be turned in with the money at the next meeting. The drawing will be held on Nov. 8. The club is still selling raffle tickets for the hog that was donated to it, and that drawing will be held at the November meeting on the 16th.

The club's meeting time has been changed from 6 to 7 p.m. Meetings will still be held every third Wednesday of the month.

It was decided that the next club activity would be skeet shooting at Wings of Challenge in Accident. This activity will be held in place of the Oct. 19 meeting. Members are to meet either at the 4-H building at 4:30 p.m. or at Wings of Challenge at 5. Shooting will begin at 5 p.m. A cookout and meeting will follow. Anyone who plans to attend will need to let June know by Oct. 14.

The Custer and Ashby families attended the state fair with their steers.

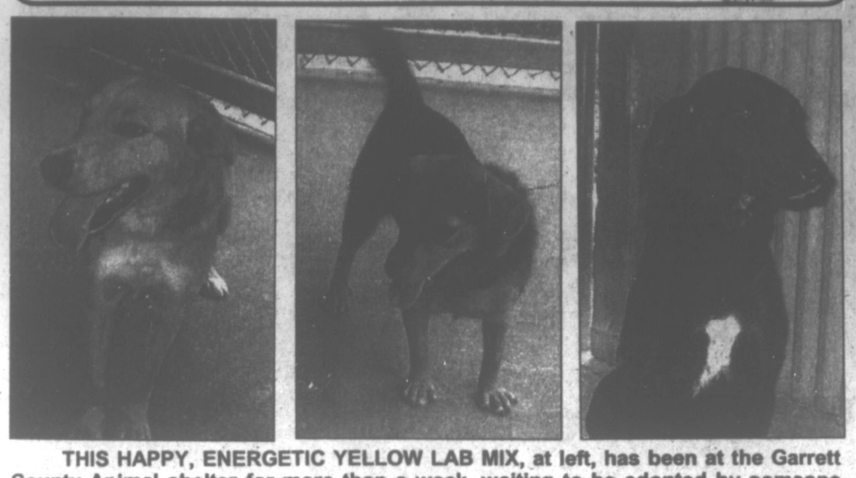
A fall social was planned for Saturday, Nov. 5, to try to raise the rest of the money needed to replace the 4-H building roof. The social will be from 6 to 9 p.m. There will be food, games for the kids, and bingo.

June told the members about the Maryland 4-H Teen and Adult Volunteer Forum at the Carousel Hotel in Ocean City in November. Members were to talk to their families to see if anyone was interested in going.

Members were asked to start thinking about where they wanted to hold the club's annual holiday party, and were also reminded to start on their record books.

In October and November the club will be making ornaments for its community service Christmas tree. The tree will again be set up in Curt's Corner/Anchor Mart to collect canned goods and warm clothing for local needy families.

Adorable Adoptables



THIS HAPPY, ENERGETIC YELLOW LAB MIX, at left, has been at the Garrett County Animal shelter for more than a week, waiting to be adopted by someone who will take care of him and love him. "It is a mystery why no one has reclaimed him since he is healthy and playful," said Humane Society spokesperson. The Lab's new owner must agree to have him neutered and vaccinated. Pictured in the center is a friendly, small beagle mix that was picked up along Potomac Camp Road. Lastly, a female black Lab was also picked up along Cove Road in Accident last week. She is not very large and has some white on her neck. None of these three dogs or the other four at the shelter (not pictured) had on collars or tags. "It is such a simple, inexpensive thing to buy to ensure your dog can be returned to you, but yet most pet owners chose not to do it," said the spokesperson. "None of last week's dogs were adopted either. This is why we remind people to consider the responsibilities that come with having a pet. All of these dogs had homes, but their owners chose not to search for them and reclaim them, and that is sad. Now all of them are up for adoption, and I'm not sure if there are enough homes for them. It takes time and money to have a pet, so it is a serious decision to make." For more information about adopting these dogs, persons may the shelter at 301-334-3553.

FINGERWEAVING CRAZE AT GRANTSVILLE – Students in Carolyn Collen-DuBose's art classes at Grantsville Elementary School have been learning to "finger weave" with yarn recently, and interest levels are high. DuBose noted that the craze began when she started to teach paper weaving and fourth-grader Alex Durst asked if she knew about finger weaving. When she said she'd never heard of it, he said he had learned it at camp, and showed her how it worked. Soon other classes were asking to learn, as well. "I had a huge box of yarn that I was trying to get rid of, and they've wiped it out," DuBose said. "It was student-led, and it was amazing. It was one of those moments where you just love teaching." Pictured above, front row, left to right, are Cindy Griffin, Kelly Mast, Rhiannon Dodge, and Kayla Porter. Second row, same order: Courtney Maust, Courtney Lowery, Ashley Brenneman, Amanda Paape, and Brianna Opel. Third row: Dallas Hetrick, Courtney Wassell, Jeremy Moon, Brooke Fink, Alex Durst, and Veronica Platter. In the back row are Sarah Myers, Thomas Harvey, Erica Kipp, Alyssa Savage, Lucas McKenzie, Shannon Bittinger, and Amanda Broadwater. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

"Dear Mr. Rogers" To Be Presented In Springs, Pa.

Heather Arnet will present "Dear Mister Rogers," a program containing some of her favorite letters and stories from the well-known children's television show Mister Rogers at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa., on Monday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m. This free event is sponsored by the Springs Historical Society.

Arnet assisted in the text development and public relations of two books by Fred Rogers, Dear Mister Rogers and You are Special. When Mister Rogers was in production, Arnet served as production and script assistant to Rogers and other producers for five seasons. Rogers died in 2003.

"Through the extraordinary journey, she (Arnet) learned first hand the incredible ways that Fred Rogers inspired children to question and explore the world around them," said a society spokesperson.

Arnet is now the executive director of the Women and Girls Foundation of Southwest Pennsylvania, theatre director for the Three Rivers Arts Festival in Pittsburgh, and a Pennsylvania commonwealth speaker.

Her Springs presentation is a program of the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, which is supported in part by a grant from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

The Folk Meeting House is located along Springs Road. Further information may be obtained by calling 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366 or logging on to springspa.org.

Learning to Swim

You once thought the grass was greener,
For your world was torn apart.
So you walked across the river
To seek wholeness in your heart.

Then you find yourself in darkness
Where NO ONE hears you cry.
Your soul longs for the comfort
You had on the other side.

The bridge that brought you over
Is no longer in its place.
You kneel down at the river
And gaze upon your face.

That is when you see the stranger
You thought you knew so well.
Yet it is this same reflection
That has led you to this hell.

So you look a little deeper
To find answers from within,
And as you fall into the waters
You realize it's time to swim.

MSAC Seeks Applicants For ARTvantage Prog.

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC) is seeking applicants for its ARTvantage grants program. Launched in 2005, the program fosters and supports the creativity of Maryland's artists and organizations to engage with communities, explores ways to innovatively serve the citizens of Maryland, and expands arts participation to citizens who have limited opportunities to experience the arts, an MSAC spokesperson said.

ARTvantage is funded through the National Endowment for the Arts Challenge America Program. The program will provide awards from $5,000 to $10,000 for projects that will take place between July 1, 2006, and June 30, 2007. Applications are due no later than Jan. 12, 2006.

An ARTvantage workshop will be held on Nov. 10 for applicants needing assistance with the application or for those who want more information about the program. The workshop will take place at the Maryland Historical Society building in Baltimore (www.mdhs.org) from 4 to 6 p.m. To register, persons should contact the Maryland State Arts Council at 410-767-6555 or msac-@msac.org.

Projects eligible for ARTvantage funding include, but are not limited to, community arts/cultural planning or implementation projects, intergenerational community arts projects, arts projects serving at-risk youth, collaborative arts marketing projects, arts projects in institutional settings such as hospitals, detention centers, nursing facilities and assisted living centers, preservation/presentation projects of underserved art forms, multicultural and/or traditional arts infrastructure development projects, community after-school arts programs, and services for artists to extend participation opportunities for new audiences.

Projects can either be new or existing and will be reviewed for the artistic merit of the project, ability of the applicant to carry out and evaluate the project, project impact and significance, financial feasibility, and program purpose.

Eligible applicants include not-for-profit organizations, including arts organizations and non-arts organizations, colleges and universities, units of government, and organizations that are not-for-profit and received tax exempt status from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service by March 31, 2004.

All organizations must be in operation for one full fiscal year at the date of application. Applications that reflect collaborations between two or more organizations are required; however, only one application per fiscal year per organization is permitted.

Completed applications must be submitted via eGRANT, MSAC's online application system at www.msac.org on or before the deadline date. EGRANT and Guidelines will be available on the council's web site after Nov. 1 of this year. For additional inquiries, persons may contact Shirley Howard, program coordinator, at 410-767-6542 or showard@msac.org.

For more information about the Maryland State Arts Council, persons may call 410-767-6555 or TDD/TTY (410) 333-4519 or visit the web site at www.msac.org.

RAMS SPIKE SENTINELS – Southern senior Chelsea Wassell (#24) is shown about to bring the hammer down on a big time kill against Fort Hill last night in Oakland. Wassell's spike was another nail in the coffin for the previously unbeaten Sentinels, who were swept by a Southern squad intent on avenging a FH sweep earlier in the season. Rams visible working the floor around their airborne teammate are Randi Bennett (#23), Natalie Rohrbaugh (#12), Sarah Rexroad (partially obstructed), and Sarah Stevens (#25). Southern (9-1) hosts a powerful Allegany squad Monday. Photo by John McEwen.

It's Sweet Revenge For Ram Netters In Downing Fort Hill

There was no place like home last night for the Southern Rams, who flattened Fort Hill in a huge rematch of the two best volleyball squads in the area. SHS left no questions remaining in answering the Sentinels' sweep over the Rams earlier this year, as Southern cruised to game victories by 25-21, 25-14, and 25-17 margins. It was Fort Hill's first loss of the campaign, and the two squads are now neck-and-neck with identical 9-1 records.

"We've been prepping for this match since Fort Hill beat us two weeks ago," Southern coach Sue Newton said afterward. "The girls did a great job, and it's mission accomplished – that mission, at least. Senior Randi Bennett paced the victors with eight kills and six digs, while junior Natalie Rohrbaugh recorded a dozen assists, two blocks, and six digs, and senior Jenna Wagner contributed 11 points, two aces, and five digs.

Fort Hill got 20 assists from Lauren Mouse and eight kills and nine digs from Natalie Athey.

"It was a huge win for us, in that it ensured the Sentinels would not be the lone unbeaten team in the region," commented Newton. "At this moment there is a four-way tie at the top of the region standings between us, Fort Hill, Boonesboro, and Williamsport. Now we have to focus on taking the WMIL title, and on trying to take the region lead so we can get the top seed spot in the playoffs."

Southern's unbeaten junior varsity squad ran its streak to 10 straight in a 2-1 victory by taking the first game 25-10, dropping the second 25-12, and rebounding to win game three 15-6. Freshman Shayna Sweitzer led SHS with 13 points, two aces, and two kills, and sophomore Alex Barnard netted 13 points and two aces. Sheri Beavers led the Sentinels with eight points.

The Rams are slated to host Allegany on Monday, with JV play getting under way at 6 p.m. and varsity action to follow immediately. Southern travels to Frankfort Wednesday.

Northern Netters Fall To Fort Hill, Salisbury, Alco

The Northern High School volleyball team ran into some rough sailing this week in dropping three straight to Fort Hill, Salisbury, and Allegany as the Huskies' record dipped to 4-9. There was a silver lining, however, in that NHS fought extremely hard and came very close to winning the latter two matches.

Northern was outgunned against Fort Hill, as could be expected against an unbeaten area powerhouse, in a 3-0 loss last Thursday, Oct. 6. The Huskies were downed by game scores of 25-17, 25-16, and 25-13.

NHS senior Angie Umbel had seven attacks and two kills, and junior Jackie Rodeheaver had five service points for Northern. The Sentinels' Natalie Athey had 12 points and six kills.

The junior varsity match also ended in a Fort Hill sweep, 25-12 and 25-11. Northern's Johanna Winter contributed three attacks, and Tanya Devine recorded two points and two attacks. Becky Miller had a dozen service points and seven aces for the victors.

Monday's match with the Salisbury Elks went down in the books as a Northern loss, but the Huskies put up a rabid fight in a 3-1 loss.

NHS was edged in the first two games, 25-23, 25-18, but bounced back to take the third meeting 25-19. The Elks clinched the match in a 25-21 finale.

Northern was paced by Rodeheaver's 15 attacks, two kills, and six points, and Umbel put up 10 attacks, two kills, and seven points. Junior Jessica Harvey recorded 15 attacks and three kills, and Cara Bowser contributed 13 service points. Lyndsi Otto had three aces, 17 kills, and six blocks to lead Salisbury.

Salisbury swept to a JV win by game scores of 25-18 and 25-10. Katie Umbel's four service points led Northern.

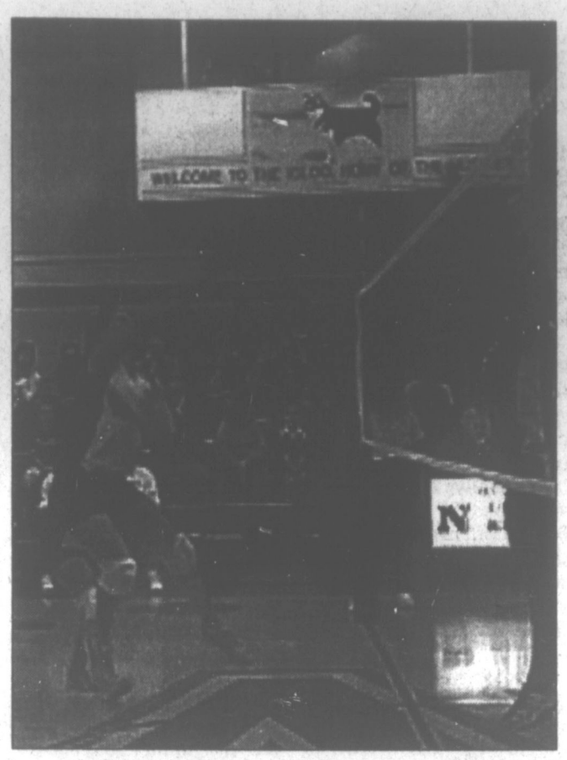
"We're struggling," NHS coach Linda Wengerd commented after the loss to the Elks. "It's a matter of putting together the fundamentals consistently in order to mount an aggressive attack. We're beating teams we should beat (with the exception of the Salisbury game), but we haven't beaten any teams we're not supposed to beat. We'll have to be able to do that to succeed in the playoffs."

NHS put up an even stronger fight last night against a tough Allegany squad, as the Huskies won the first game 25-19, narrowly missed taking the next pair in 29-27, 25-18 losses, and then triumphed 25-20 to send the match to a tiebreaker. The Campers edged a valiant but tiring Husky squad in that concluding game, 15-12.

Fratz netted 14 points for Northern, while Umbel contributed a dozen points and two kills, Tara Devine put up 12 pints, and Rodeheaver tallied four points and three kills. Kelsey Smith's 21 service points, five aces, and three kills paced the Campers.

Earlier, the Husky jayvees set the tone for the bruising night by battling Alco in a 2-1 NHS loss. Northern cruised to a 25-9 win in the opener, stumbled through a 25-20 loss in game two, and just missed taking the tiebreaker in a 15-13 defeat. Kate Umbel recorded eight points for NHS, and teammate Winter contributed five points.

The Huskies have one match on the schedule for this week, a home court meeting with Bishop Walsh that opens at 6 p.m. Monday. Varsity play will follow immediately afterward.



HUSKIES BATTLE CAMPERS – Northern's volleyball squad nearly pulled off a huge upset last night over visiting Allegany. The match went to a tiebreaker, with all five games closely contested before NHS fell in a narrow 3-2 defeat. Husky senior Jessica Fratz (#12) is shown in action on the left side of the net. Southern Girls Place Second In Area, First In Home Meet

The girls' cross country team of Southern High School had a successful week, finishing second among a dozen teams in the Area Meet, hosted last Thursday by Keyser High School, and then taking first place in a four-team meet held Tuesday in Canaan Valley.

The Southern boys' squad placed sixth in the Area Meet, and were third in Tuesday's race.

Only Frankfort placed higher than the Southern girls at the Area event, recording 31 team points, while the Rams finished with 40. Tucker County placed third with 77 points, followed by Keyser with 95, Fort Hill with 124, and Allegany, Hampshire, Westmar, East Hardy, Beall, Calvary Christian, and Pendleton High all having incomplete scores.

Leading the SHS girls, as she has all season, was Sarah Cosner, who finished fifth individually with a time of 22 minutes, 27 seconds. Her sister Jennifer earned a time of 22:54, which was good for eighth place.

Allegany's Lauryn MacFawn, who has dominated every meet in which she has competed this season, cruised to first place with a time of 20:15, which was 43 seconds faster than runner-up Rana Conneway of Hampshire. Maggie McCort of Frankfort and Keyser's Shendy Green were third and fourth, with respective times of 21:01 and 22:16.

The SHS boys recorded a team score of 133. Beall won with 68 points, followed by Hampshire with 75, Tucker with 89, Keyser with 98, Southern, Allegany with 147, Fort Hill with 162, Frankfort with 183, Pendleton with 197, and Westmar and East Hardy each getting incomplete scores.

Derek Upperman was the Runnin' Rams' top finisher, as he placed seventh with a time of 18:09.

The fastest runner of the day was Fort Hill's Mohammed Khelafa, who crossed the finish line in 17:14, more than 20 seconds ahead of Tucker County's Lucas Warner, who placed second with a time of 17:37. Westmar's Eric Morris was third in 17:40, and James Carney of Beall finished fourth with a time of 17:49.

Southern's Trisha Kestner was the fastest finisher in the girls' junior varsity race, recording a time of 26:55, while Beall's Gavin Caupp won the boys' jayvee run in 19:45.

In Tuesday's four-team competition hosted by Tucker County in Canaan Valley, the Southern girls finished with 26 points to take first place. Tucker was second with 44, followed by Keyser with 60, and East Hardy with an incomplete score.

Southern's Melinda Smith ran one of her best races of the season and placed second only to Shendy Green of Keyser. Green's winning time was 24:42, while Smith crossed the line in 24:54. Ram Jennifer Cosner was third with a time of 25:08.

Sarah Cosner had a large lead in the girls' race until she made a wrong turn near the finish line. Despite running an additional 150 yards, she still finished fourth, recording a time of 25:18.

Courtney DiSimone of Southern placed sixth with a time of 25:26. Other finishes for Southern were by Elizabeth Thayer in 12th place; Leah Warnick, 14th; Rachel Skipper, 17th; Demora Smith, 19th; Kelly Taylor, 24th; and Sandy Browning, 30th.

The Southern boys' team placed third with 57 points. Host Tucker County won with 30 points, edging the Keyser Golden Tornadoes, who placed second with 33. The East Hardy boys had an incomplete score.

Top finishers for the SHS boys were Derek Upperman, placing eighth in 20:28, and Mike McConnell, ninth, in 20:35.

Other Ram finishers were: Joe Bever, 16th; Patrick Sisler, 20th; Andrew Sauder, 21st; and Cory Reckart, 23rd.

The winner of the boys' race was Lucas Warner of Tucker, who crossed the finish line in 18:53.

The Runnin' Rams will return to action this afternoon when they host the Western Maryland Interscholastic League Championships at their Broadford Park course. The girls' race will get under way at approximately 4:15 p.m.

Lakers Downed By 'Mounts In Home Tri-Match

The Garrett College volleyball squad dropped a match to the Potomac State College Catamounts Saturday, part of a home court tri-match in McHenry.

The Lakers narrowly missed taking the first game before falling by a 30-27 margin, then came back to take the second meeting 30-25. PSC claimed the third meeting, and the match, with a 15-10 triumph.

Although individual statistics for Garrett were not available, PSC was paced by Jeana Barnes and Felicia Sharff, who netted nine kills each. Barnes also had four blocks and three digs, and Sharff had a pair of aces. Former Southern High standout Sarah Bittinger was 9-for-19 from the service line with three aces, three digs, and six assists.

The Lakers (9-10) host Southern Maryland this evening in a 6 p.m. match, then hit the road to take part in the Hagerstown Tournament tomorrow and Saturday. GC hosts Prince George's on Tuesday at 6 p.m.

NHS Skewers Spartans By 69; Visits Beall At FSU Tomorrow

The Northern High Huskies took Bishop Walsh to the woodshed earlier this week for a 69-0 spanking that upped NHS's season mark to 4-1. The Monday afternoon contest, which had been moved from Saturday because of torrential rains in the area, was the seventh straight loss for the hapless Spartans so far in their 2005 campaign.

"Our guys went down to Bishop Walsh and maintained their focus on an odd play date, which can be a distraction," NHS skipper Phil Carr said after the BW massacre. "They kept their intensity up throughout the game, which was good to see."

Northern will have its hands full tomorrow night at Frostburg State University, where the Huskies will square off with region powerhouse Beall at 7 p.m.

Northern brought their win over the Spartans into focus fairly early, as the Huskies reeled off 46 points in the first quarter and 60 for the first half. On the game's opening kickoff, BW attempted an onside kick that the Huskies pounced on at the Spartans' 48. Halfback Tyler Warn sallied forth for a 17-yard run on Northern's initial foray, then fullback Corey Carr exploded through the Bishop Walsh defense for a 31-yard rushing touchdown. Only 14 seconds had elapsed when the explosive squad put those first points on the board.

Just three minutes later (a relative eternity compared with the flurry that was to follow), Carr scored again on a 17-yard run.

A huge defensive play set up NHS's next scoring opportunity, as standup noseguard Matt Mason picked off a pass and returned it 35 yards to BW's 5-yard line. Almost immediately, quarterback Casey Kamp connected with tight end Nick Payne for a four-yard scoring pass with 5:04 on the clock. Sophomore second string running back Blair Silbaugh got in the act 2½ minutes later when he sprinted 38 yards for a rushing touchdown. Finally, with just 45 seconds remaining in the stanza, Warn scored his second touchdown on a 15-yard run, and NHS led by a 46-0 margin with three full quarters left to play.

Kamp accounted for two second-quarter touchdown runs, one a 10-yard keeper at the 8:22 mark and the other a 27-yard keeper with 4:25 to play in the half. At the half the score was NHS 60 - BW 0.

Northern kicker Corey Yoder booted a 22-yard field goal in the third stanza, and reserve running back Matt Mason had a one-yard run midway through the fourth quarter to close out NHS's scoring.

The Huskies' flagship defense turned in a banner day by holding the Spartans to just 20 yards of total offense for the day (minus 14 over the first half), a tally that includes a negative 43 rushing yards. Payne intercepted three passes for the Northern secondary, while Kamp, Yoder, and Mason added pickoffs of their own. Defensive ends Silbaugh and Jason Doerr were noted by the coaching staff for putting pressure on BW's quarterback.

NHS's offense amassed 368 yards of total offense, with all but four of that tally coming on the ground. Warn garnered 114 yards on just seven first-half carries. Northern's line dominated both sides of the ball, according to Coach Carr.

With only four days of rest under their belts before taking the field tomorrow evening against Beall, the Huskies did a little fine tuning in a hurry. Starting halfback Mitch Fost injured his knee in the BW game, and Coach Carr indicated he is doubtful Fost will be ready for the Beall contest.

"Silbaugh and Andy Ganoe will be competing for Mitch's spot in the game," said Carr. "They both have a good bit of junior varsity experience, and Blair has better speed while Andy is the better blocker. We're fortunate to have two quality backs coming off the bench when needed."

Tomorrow's contest is shaping up as a "smash-mouth game," said Carr. "Both teams like to run, and run hard. I doubt there will be five passes thrown all night. The team that controls the line of scrimmage will control the outcome, as usual, but this game is different in that the Mounties' line is every bit as quick as we are, while. outsizing us by an average of nearly 40 pounds. We really have our work cut out for us."

Much like Northern's, the Mounties' offense operates a four-man backfield, with a fullback and two running backs lining up behind senior quarterback Logan Thomas (6-0, 175). "Thomas is a great athlete and a fine quarterback," Carr observed. "He's a fast, great runner, knows how to handle the ball to fool the defense, and has a good arm although it's not used much."

Three returning starters make up the running corps: junior fullback Pat Winebrenner (5-9, 200), and senior halfbacks Jimmy Kline (6-0, 185) and Josh Harper (5-11, 180).

Beall's defense lines up in a blitz-happy 4-4. The linebacking corps of Winebrenner in the middle, flanked by Kline and Harper, anchors the Mountie defense. Kline, a four-year starter at outside linebacker, led the squad in tackles last season.

"This will be the best team we'll face all year," Carr noted. "Beall lost to Allegany earlier in the season, 19-13, but just like in our loss to Alco they shot themselves in the foot on several occasions by making mistakes. It will be a mid-season playoff game for us, because the winner could easily end up being second seeded to Allegany while the loser might be sitting at home.

"It's tough getting a short week when you are going to play a team of Beall's caliber," Carr continued. "We had the same situation after the Turkeyfoot game, when we came out and played Allegany tough, so it's not like it can't be done."

Northern is riding a huge wave of momentum into the upcoming showdown, as over their 4-1 campaign to date the Huskies have averaged over 46 points per game while holding opponents to an average of 9½ points per outing.

Preston's Wheeler Runs Past Rams, Who Suffer Third Loss

Southern High football coach Fred Gregg's biggest concern going into last Friday evening's game against visiting Preston was that the Ram defensive unit might not be able to stop the Knights' speedster running back Seth Wheeler, and that concern proved to be more than legitimate. The 5-9, 170-pound senior ripped the Southern defenders for 286 yards rushing on 21 carries, plus four touchdowns, leading the Knights to a 45-22 victory.

The other major problem for the Rams was their inability to hang onto the football, at least partially because of the wet conditions. The Southern backs dropped the ball seven times, losing possession of it twice and stalling potential drives with the other five miscues.

The loss dropped the Rams to 2-3, while it improved Preston's record to 2-4.

Wheeler put the first points on the board when he scored a touchdown on a three-yard carry with 5:12 remaining in the first quarter. Kevin Fike booted the extra point.

On the Knights' next possession, the Rams kept them out of the end zone, but Fike nailed a 26-yard field goal with 1:41 remaining in the quarter to give Preston a 10-0 lead.

After an ensuing Southern drive was stopped by a fumble, Wheeler got the call, broke through the Ram secondary, and raced 59 yards for a touchdown with 9:18 left in the first half. Fike again tacked on the conversion point.

Fike followed with a 24-yard field goal at the 3:42 mark of the second quarter to put the Knights up 20-0.

The Rams finally got on the scoreboard when Ryan DeWitt pulled in a 43-yard touchdown pass from Andrew VanBogelen with 1:21 remaining in the half. The conversion run was stopped short.

However, the Knights promptly countered with yet another touchdown in the first half, with Sean Blaney running the ensuring kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown. Fike's PAT gave the visitors a commanding 27-6 halftime lead.

Wheeler went to work again in the second half, capping a drive with a 16-yard touchdown run at the 7:05 mark. Fike's conversion kick was no good.

Jonathan Johnson ended the next Preston drive with a 25-yard touchdown run, scored with 4:38 remaining in the third quarter, to make the score 39-6, as the pass for the conversion was incomplete.

Southern's Jeremy Gregory scored on a three-yard carry, and ran successfully for the conversion, to cut Preston's lead to 39-14 with 17 seconds left on the clock in the third period.

Wheeler answered early in the fourth stanza with another rushing touchdown, this time on a 63-yard carry, and Fike kicked the extra point to conclude the Knights' scoring for the evening.

Southern put eight final points on the board when Gregory scored on a two-yard carry with 4:23 left in the game, and Jason Ashby ran for the two-point conversion.

Gregory led the Rams' rushing effort with 125 yards on 22 carries.

The Knights amassed a total of 445 yards of offense, despite being penalized 13 times for 105 yards. The Rams finished with 251 yards, and drew only three flags for the game, setting them back a total of 25 yards.

"Seth Wheeler is the real deal," stated Ram coach Fred Gregg. "It was just too much speed for us to handle."

Gregg said that, overall, his team "didn't play very well, but we played very hard."

In fact, despite the rather lopsided score, Gregg said that he and his staff were generally pleased with the play of the Rams' up-front people on offense.

"Actually, as a unit, this was probably the best effort by our offensive line so far this season," he said. "They were opening holes and providing places to run all evening, but our backs just couldn't hold onto the ball.

"Defensively, besides not being able to match Wheeler's speed, we were really hurt by the loss of two of our starting linebackers early in the game," he said.

Senior linebacker and starting fullback Nick Gregg sustained a dislocated shoulder for the second time this season, and another starting linebacker, whom Gregg elected not to name, was benched for disciplinary reasons.

The Rams will face another opponent this week that, like Preston, will come into the game with just one victory (1-5), and also like Preston, will depend heavily upon one particular athlete for the generation of yardage and points.

The Rams will travel to Petersburg for a 7 p.m. contest with the Vikings, whose lone win was over Berkeley Springs.

Offensively, the Vikes are led by junior tailback Casey Vance (5-11, 208), who is, according to Gregg, an outstanding player.

"This young man would be a starter and a star on any team in the area," he said. "He is that good, and just as with Wheeler [of Preston], they will try to get the ball to him all evening, and we are going to have to contain him in order to be successful."

Gregg said that Vance not only takes many handoffs, but he is often the target through the air, particularly on screen-pass plays.

Petersburg also has a very good fullback in junior Jimmy Zimmerer (6-2, 205). "He's strong, a good blocker, and for his size, has very good speed," Gregg said.

The Viking 3-5 defensive unit is anchored in the middle by junior nose guard Tyson Berg (5-11, 215).

"This young man is the kind of nose guard every program wants," said Gregg. "He is strong, quick, and disruptive to offenses, seemingly always getting into the backfield. Gage Welch, our center, is going to have his hands full. But Gage did a very good job last week against a 6-6, 320-pound nose guard."

Other standouts on the Viking defense are Vance at middle linebacker and Zimmerer, also in a linebacker spot.

Gregg believes that both teams are "fairly comparable" in overall size and speed.

As for injuries, he said that his team is generally healthy, and that even Nick Gregg, who suffered the dislocated shoulder Friday, is listed as "probable" for Friday's game.

The coach said his team's attitude remains positive, and that his players continue to "work hard every day."

"As long as we continue to work hard and do everything we can to give our best effort in a game, we consider that making progress, even if we lose," Gregg said. "It's when you do not give your best effort and lose that you take steps backward. What we need to do is combine a great effort with great execution; to make fundamentally sound play a habit. That's how we played against Tucker County, and that's why we won that game."

Huskies Blank Alco, Whip Elks To Up Record To 10-0

Continuing to enjoy success on the soccer field this week was the Northern High School boys' varsity, as Coach Tom Ables' undefeated squad handed visiting Allegany a 3-0 defeat last Thursday and rolled over host Salisbury on Tuesday afternoon, 6-2.

The pair of victories advanced the Huskies' unbeaten record to 10-0, and the win over Allegany upped their Western Maryland Interscholastic League mark to 6-0.

The Campers of Alco played well defensively against the heavily favored Huskies, as nearly three quarters of the match was a scoreless tie. Finally, with 24:23 remaining in the contest, Northern's Chris Speicher scored a goal off a pass from Matt Sisler to give the Huskies the lead for good.

Derek Cutter followed with an unassisted goal for the Huskies 16 minutes later, and Zack Cupler tacked on an insurance goal with six minutes left off a feed by Brian Schlosnagle.

The Huskies dominated the match in shots on goal, finishing with a 32-6 margin. They also had a 6-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Northern keeper Eric Wood recorded five saves in gaining the shutout, while Alco's Justin Zimmerman was credited with nine saves.

The Campers fell to 3-6 overall and 2-4 in WMIL matches.

Chris Speicher led the Husky offense in Tuesday's match at Salisbury, finishing with a pair of goals and an assist.

Zack Lipscomb put the Huskies on top for good with a goal just 4½ minutes into the match off an assist by Brian Schlosnagle.

Speicher followed with a goal off a feed by Derek Cutter at the 11:24 mark, and Cutter made it 3-0 just over two minutes later with a goal off a direct kick.

The Elks finally got on the board in the opening minutes of the second half, with Mike Podlesnik scoring unassisted at the 37:45 mark.

Just over a minute later the Huskies struck again, with Zack Beitzel scoring off a pass from Lipscomb, making the score 4-1.

Brent Maust cut the Huskies' lead in half with a goal at the 33:06 mark off an assist by Podlesnik, but that would be as close as the Elks would get.

Speicher scored a goal off a pass from Jeffery Smith with 19:48 remaining in the match, and Michael Clise recorded one off a feed by Speicher with 4:32 remaining.

Wood earned a dozen saves in the net for Northern, while Jared Green turned away 16 of the Huskies' shots for Salisbury.

The Huskies are scheduled to travel to Oakland this evening to face county rival Southern. The junior varsity match will begin at 6 p.m., and the varsity clash is to kick off at 7:30.

Northern will host Westmar next Wednesday.

Southern Girls Endure Worst Soccer Loss In School History

The most lopsided defeat in the history of girls' soccer at Southern High School was absorbed by the Rams last night, who were crushed by Beall, 10-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match played on Westmar High School's field in Lonaconing.

The Mountaineers, who are 8-1-1 overall and 6-1-1 in WMIL matches, ripped the Ram defense for eight goals just in the first half of action.

Tasha Wilhelm finished with a hat trick and an assist, while Shonna Ferree, Kierstin Stevenson, and Jordin Mazer each scored a pair of goals.

Beall scored three goals in a span of 1:18 in the first half.

Ferree put the first two goals on the board, hitting one off a pass from Mazer at the 35:00 mark and another, unassisted, with 28:04 left in the half.

Mazer followed with an unassisted goal less than a minute later, and Wilhelm hit an unassisted goal just 56 seconds after that to put Beall up 4-0.

Corrie Ferree scored, unassisted, with 20:16 remaining, and Stevenson followed with her two goals, one at the 12:20 mark off a feed by Mazer, and the second with 5:05 left in the half, unassisted.

Mazer's second goal of the match came off an assist by Wilhelm with 3:54 remaining in the half to give the Mountaineers their 8-0 lead at intermission.

Midway through the second half, Wilhelm struck again off a pass from Stevenson, and she completed her hat trick with a goal off an assists by Brooke Africa with just 1:15 to play.

The Rams simply could not generate any offense and were out-shot by a 26-3 margin. Beall finished with an 8-1 lead in corner kicks.

The Southern junior varsity played the Beall jayvees to a 1-1 tie in the first match with Kerry Conroy scoring for the Rams and Rachel Scarelli recording Beall's goal.

The Rams are scheduled to host Northern next Tuesday, with matches to kick off at 5:30 (junior varsity) and 7 p.m. (varsity). They will travel to Fort Hill next Thursday.

PALMER TAKES NATIONAL WOMEN'S CROWN, THE ADAMS CUP... AGAIN!

by Dan Muss

They won it at Lake Norman, N.C., in 2003, they came close in 2004 in Hawaii, and this year the team of Joni Palmer, skipper; Carrie Carpenter and Meredith Dodd, crews, took it all again.

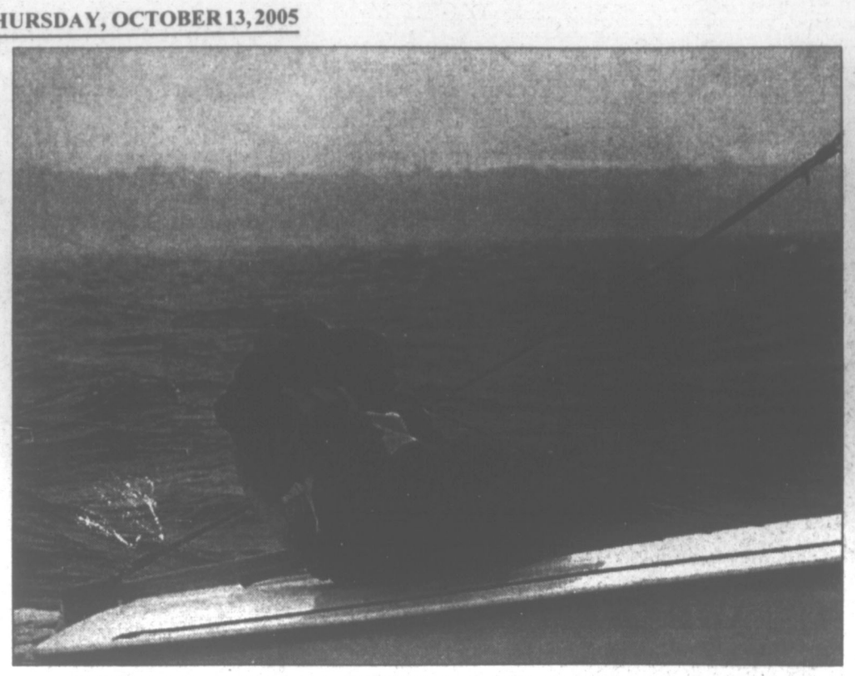
Last year the finals in Hawaii were in J24s, boats that Carpenter and Dodd were unfamiliar with. They had only a few hours to shake their jet lag and familiarize themselves with the J24, a much larger keelboat than our local Flying Scot. And they still did a creditable job.

In 2005, after winning the U. S. Sailing qualifier for our district, Palmer, Carpenter, and Dodd went on to the finals on Long Island Sound off Rye, N.Y. This year the finals were in Flying Scots, and they absolutely dominated the regatta. They won four out of the 10 races in a field of 11 boats and never placed below fourth. In a low-point scoring system they finished with 22 points, compared to the second place team's 31. That is really quite impressive.

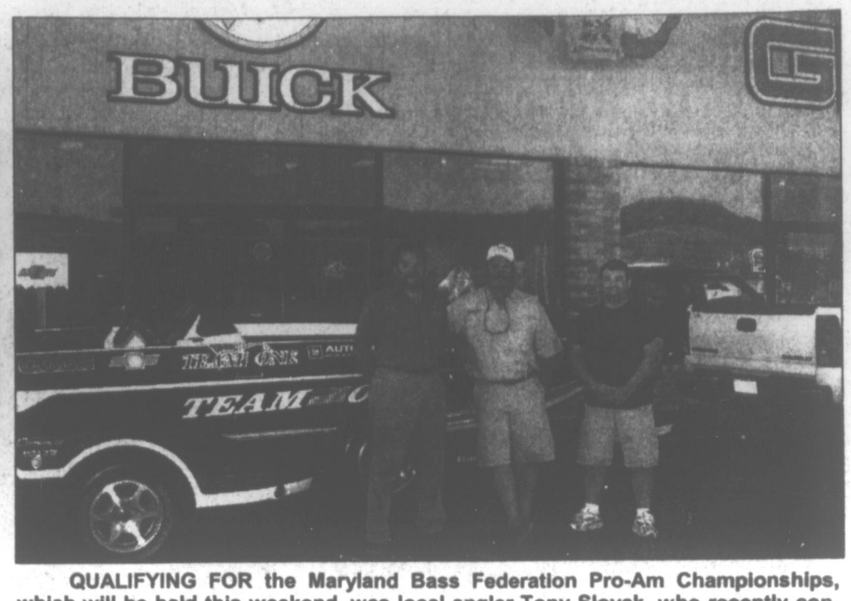
All the 'Scots sailed in this championship regatta were equipped with Harry Carpenter's super racing package and were supplied new by Flying Scot Inc. here in Deer Park. The participating teams sailed different boats for each race in a round-robin scheme.

The winds for the five-day regatta were light for the first four days, but on the fifth day they howled. It was gusting to 22 knots with 4-6 foot waves on the open waters of the Long Island Sound. As they rounded the first windward mark, skipper Palmer called for the spinnaker; forward crew Dodd looked at Palmer incredulously, as if to say, "Are we really going to fly the 'chute in this blow?" But up went the spinnaker and off they flew, on a mind-blowing plane. The photo at right shows the team all crowded aft to get the nose of the sailboat up as they tore down the course.

There have been only a handful of women who have won the Adams Cup three times, but Joni Palmer has already decided not to pursue another victory. "I'm turning the tiller over to Meredith Dodd for next year," she said.



SAILING TO A SECOND NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP recently and being awarded the Adams Cup were local sailors Joni Palmer, Carrie Carpenter, and Meredith Dodd. See column for details.



QUALIFYING FOR the Maryland Bass Federation Pro-Am Championships, which will be held this weekend, was local angler Tony Slovak, who recently concluded a successful area season with partner Jim Iden. The pair recorded their second tournament victory of the year by bringing in a 10-fish limit of bass in a tournament at Deep Creek Lake on October 2. The catch weighed a total of 21½ pounds. Besides their two victories during the season, the two came within a few ounces of first place on several occasions. Local sponsors for Slovak and Iden are Team One Auto Mall and Hardesty Reflex Truck Liners. Pictured above, from left, are Rick Livengood, sales manager for Team One; Slovak, and Gary Hardesty of Reflex Bed Liners.

elected officials for it."

Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg commented after the meeting that while he publicly opposed the bypass in an earlier stint as county commissioner over 20 years ago, he did so despite personally favoring the concept. "At the time I owned two businesses on Third Street, and could see that even then there was a lot of traffic that was just trying to get through town while making it difficult for others who wanted to get to my businesses. However, 17 other Oakland business owners came to me and pleaded for me to vote against it, so I did.

"I'm still in favor of the bypass, although I have serious concerns about its location and design as it stands. I'd rather it was farther east, but I was the dissenting vote on that, and have more access points. Its current proposed location makes me wonder if 20 years from now people will look at it and ask if we had a lack of foresight. It seems very constricted to me as it stands."

Local business owner Don Sincell told officials that he was "stunned that the plan calls for dead-ending High Street and Oakland Drive (Old Rt. 135). These are major travel routes for that handle students, staff, and school buses from four schools.

"Also, is it not true that the proposal to make Rt. 220 an interstate through Allegany County will greatly diminish the north-south through truck traffic in Garrett County, thereby negating the need for an Oakland bypass?"

In presenting the bypass proposal, the SHA's Pedersen said "From 1996 to 2001 a fairly extensive planning process was under way for the Oakland bypass, and lately we've been able to move again, which is what your officials have been asking us to do. The project is now in the detailed engineering phase, which is 1/3 complete, and some right of way has been purchased, with the bulk of purchasing to come in 2006 and 2007," Pedersen said.

Actual construction on the bypass is tentatively slated to begin in 2010, and if so the roadway would be completed in 2013.

The evening before the Tour Meeting, the Garrett Countians for Smart Growth group held an initial meeting that drew 40 citizens to the Community Center at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. There Alvarez, Fred Gregg, and several others made their points against the bypass project, many of which Alvarez underscored in her presentation to the transportation officials.

The group's next meeting is slated for 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 27, in the GCMH Community Center's conference room. The group is scheduled to meet with the Garrett County commissioners for 30 minutes during the commissioners' 10 a.m. meeting of Tuesday, Nov. 8.

"What we did was nothing heroic," the State Highways Administration employee said. "It was just what needed to be done to help someone in trouble."

Area forest biologist Dan Boone will guide a hike into the Crabtree Old Growth Forest from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 29. The hike is sponsored by the Maryland Alliance for Greenway Improvement and Conservation.

"This trip provides an opportunity for everyone to see and compare the biodiversity of the largest old growth forest remaining in Maryland with newly logged forests, and forests logged 15 to 30 years ago," said alliance spokesperson Bob DeGroot.

The hike will take place on a fire road, making for easy travel. Participants should bring lunch and water, and raingear is suggested. "Children who can walk several miles are welcome," DeGroot said. "We walk in on the same road we return on, so if anyone tires, he or she can wait on the fire road until the others return."

To register for the trip, persons are asked to contact DeGroot at 301-340-8348 or via e-mail at Bobdegroot@comcast.net.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Breast cancer is the second-leading cause of death from cancer among women in the United States, following lung cancer. In 2005, an estimated 211,000 new cases of breast cancer will be diagnosed and more than 40,000 women will die of the disease.

However, great strides in early detection and improved treatment have decreased breast cancer deaths. Mammography plays a key role in early detection. Through mammography, your doctor can detect breast cancer nearly one to three years before you might actually feel a lump in your breast.

What age should you start getting a mammogram?

•If you are 20-39 years old and have an average risk of cancer, mammograms are not needed and clinical exams should be conducted by your health care professional.

•If you are 20-39 years old and have a high risk of cancer, you may need to start getting mammograms along with your annual clinical exam with your health care professional.

•If you are age 40 or older and have an average to high risk of cancer, you need to have a mammogram every 1-2 years and an annual clinical exam by your health care professional.

Women of all ages should perform monthly self breast exams to increase their awareness of their breast health, which will make it easy for them to detect any changes.

Tips for Preventing Cancer

Eat a Variety of Healthy Foods

Though making healthy selections at the grocery store and at mealtime can't guarantee you won't get cancer, it can help reduce your risk. Research suggests that about 30 percent of cancers are related to issues of nutrition, including obesity.

The American Cancer Society recommends that you:

•Eat an abundance of foods from plant-based sources. Eat five or more servings of fruits and vegetables each day. Also eat other foods from plant sources, such as whole grains and beans, several times a day. Green and dark yellow vegetables, beans, soybean products, and cruciferous vegetables – such as broccoli, brussels sprouts, and cabbage – may help reduce your risk of colon and stomach cancers.

•Limit fat. Eat lighter and leaner by choosing fewer high-fat foods, particularly those from animal sources. High-fat diets may increase your risk of cancer of the prostate, colon, rectum, and uterus.

•Drink alcohol in moderation, if at all. Your risk of cancers, including oral, esophageal, and other cancers, increases with the amount of alcohol you drink and the length of time you've been drinking regularly. Even a moderate amount of drinking – two drinks a day if you're a man or one drink a day if you're a woman – may increase your risk.

Stay active and maintain a healthy weight

Maintaining a healthy weight and exercising regularly also may play a role in preventing cancer. Obesity may be a risk factor for cancer of the prostate, colon, rectum, uterus, ovaries, and breast. Physical activity can help you avoid obesity by controlling your weight. Physical activity on its own may also lower your risk of other types of cancer, including breast cancer and colon cancer.

Try to be physically active for 30 minutes or more on most days of the week. Your exercise sessions can include such low-key activities as brisk walking, raking the yard, or even dancing. Safe exercise programs exist for just about everyone. Your doctor or exercise physiologist can help design one for you.

Commended Students placed among the top 5 percent of more than 1 million students who entered the 2006 competition by taking the 2004 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). "It is important to acknowledge the attainments of academically talented students and to credit schools for the key role they play in their development," said a National Merit Program spokesperson. "We hope the recognition received by these able young men and women who are commended in this rigorous, nationwide competition will encourage them to take advantage of opportunities for higher education and to diligently pursue their professional goals." BANQUET 400 REVIEW

Mark Martin holds off Greg Biffle to win Sunday's Banquet 400 at Kansas Speedway.

Martin ends skid at Kansas

Roush drivers sweep four of top five spots in fourth Chase event

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Kansas City, Kan.

It was all Roush Racing all day at Kansas Speedway as Mark Martin ran away with Sunday's Banquet 400 and joined his teammates in sweeping four of the top five spots. Martin's victory, his first win in a points-paying Nextel Cup race since June 2004 at Dover, capped off a day in which Roush drivers led all but nine of 267 laps, with the rest of the field leading only during pit stops.

Team owner Jack Roush stopped short of proclaiming the race a sweep because while Martin, Greg Biffle, Carl Edwards and Matt Kenseth were in the top five, Kurt Busch finished 14th after an unscheduled pit stop.

"We didn't have all five [drivers] in the top five," Roush said. "But certainly we had a good spread."

Tony Stewart, the points leader in the Chase for the Nextel Cup, was the only non-Roush driver in the top five on Sunday, and he's developing a nice spread of his own. His fourth-place finish was almost as good as a win because it gave him a 75-point cushion over second-place Ryan Newman and clearly established him as the driver to beat during the stretch run to the title.

Stewart made the gains in spite of a broken alternator belt on his car and because Newman, who entered the 400 just four points behind, lost ground due to a 23rd-place finish, worst of the 10 Chase contenders.

Stewart said that while it's still relatively early in the Chase — only four of the 10 events are in the books — his strategy is becoming more conservative. He said he simply wants to run in the top five for the remaining races.

"That's what we need to do," he said.

Newman has dropped back amidst a group of drivers so close in the standings that only 41 points separate him from eighth-place Matt Kenseth.

Martin's victory boosted him from ninth to seventh in the standings, but because of his wreck during the previous race at Talladega Superspeedway, he's still 113 points out of the lead.

"That's too far back, but we're going to go out and get some more victories," Martin said.

The often pessimistic Martin — he says he's just realistic — said he wondered Sunday what might go wrong as he sped away from the pack for the second half of the race, leading all but seven of the last 146 laps, including the final 48.

"That's the formula for heartbreak in my world, because more often that not, something goes wrong to spoil that," he said. Like fellow veteran Dale Jarrett, who won at Talladega, Martin, who is 46 and in what is supposed to be the final year of his Cup career, especially cherished the victory.

"I was relieved after the race," he said. "It wasn't the most exciting win of my career. It was one that is well deserved by my team, and as long as I live I will remember what it feels like to give to my team."

Sunday's dominance by Roush signals a daunting stretch of racing for the rest of the Chase contenders.

Four of the next six events are on 1.5-mile tracks like Kansas Speedway, and the horsepower and aerodynamic combination that worked so well for Roush at Kansas also should bring big results at Charlotte, Atlanta, Texas and Miami.

Even the pessimistic — or realistic — Martin is giddy about that.

"Charlotte is next," he said. "Woohoo!"

KANSAS NOTEBOOK

Roush teammates not in a giving mood

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Kansas City, Kan.

The on-track cooperation between the five drivers at Roush Racing seems to be a bit strained as a tight race in the Chase for the Nextel Cup approaches its midpoint.

Kurt Busch seemed upset Sunday that Roush teammate Matt Kenseth didn't pull aside and let him lead a lap and pick up five bonus points — something Roush drivers have done routinely all season.

BUSCH

"When you get in the Chase, you've got to get all the points you can," Kenseth said. "It would be pretty stupid to give somebody a free five points and lose the championship by four at the end of the year.

"There comes a time when you've got to race, and that's all there is to it."

Greg Biffle agreed that the time for giving teammates free points has passed.

"It's probably not the thing we need to be doing," he said.

Talladega memories still fresh

The repercussions from the wrecks at Talladega the previous week were still being felt after Sunday's Banquet 400 at Kansas Speedway.

Kansas winner Mark Martin believes the crashes brought on by wreck-prone restrictor-plate racing at Talladega cost him a chance to close his Cup career with a championship. He'd hoped to retire from Cup this year but may stay on for one more season if his replacement, Jamie McMurray, can't get a release from his current team.

"We made the Chase, and unfortunately, we had some trouble — big trouble — at Talladega," Martin said.

Rusty Wallace, who is retiring for sure next month, said he too lost too many points at Talladega.

"If we hadn't got in that wreck at Talladega, we'd probably be 20 points down right now," he said. "Those restrictor-plate races are great for the fans, but too many things can happen in a plate race, and I don't think we need one in the Chase."

Kahne wins Busch race on cautions, tire strategy

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Kansas City, Kan.

Greg Biffle had the fastest car and the freshest tires, but Kasey Kahne overcame both to win Saturday's United Way 300 Busch Series race at Kansas Speedway by the nose of his No. 6 Dodge.

Biffle, driving the No. 66 Ford, dominated the second half of the race, leading laps 125-182, but a late-race caution scrambled the running order and gave Kahne an opportunity he capitalized on in a big way.

When the yellow flag flew for T.J. Bell's spin on Lap 182, Biffle and most of the leaders headed to the pits. Kahne, running fourth at the time, stayed on the track while Biffle took four tires but dropped to eighth in line.

When the green flag dropped to start a 17-lap sprint to the finish, Kahne trailed only Johnny Sauter, who also skipped the last pit stop.

Kahne passed Sauter after three laps to take the lead while Biffle sped through the field into second, only to see the caution flag fly again on Lap 195, setting up a three-lap dash to the finish. Kahne was able to block every advance from Biffle. The official margin of victory was .003 seconds.

Sauter, who finished third ahead of Kevin Harvick, Jon Wood and Reed Sorenson, suggested upon entering the press room that he'd have used a different tactic on the final lap.

"You should have turned [Kahne]," Sauter told Biffle, who agreed that if he had that lap to run again he might have been more aggressive.

But Biffle is fifth in the Chase for the Nextel Cup, and he doesn't want to be racing Kahne bent on revenge.

"There's $60,000 on the line [Saturday] and there's $5.5 million [Sunday]," Biffle said. "I'm looking at that big picture."

Points leader Martin Truex Jr. led 36 of the first 74 laps before fading to ninth at the finish, but he saw his points lead over Clint Bowyer increase from 26 to 49 after Bowyer fell from second at Lap 182 to 16th at the finish because of loose lug nuts.

HOW THEY FARED

A look at how Chase competitors performed Sunday

1.) Tony Stewart: He pushed his points lead from four to 75 points over second-place Ryan Newman with a fourth-place finish, which he accomplished despite a broken alternator belt on his No. 20 Chevrolet.

2.) Ryan Newman: Having to start at the rear of the field because of a transmission change after qualifying led to his undoing. He was involved in a wreck and struggled to remain on the lead lap. He finished 23rd.

3.) Greg Biffle: A second-place finish boosted him two spots in the standings, but his 10-point gain was minimal because Stewart also finished well. He said his title hopes "just depend on what [Stewart] does."

4.) Rusty Wallace: Under most circumstances, a seventh-place finish would be a plus, but Wallace lost ground because six contenders finished ahead of him. He overcame time lost when his car slipped off the jack on a pit stop.

5.) Jimmie Johnson: He finished a respectable sixth, but lost a spot in the standings and 10 points to the leader. "Every point counts at this point, and everybody in front of me, really, was in the Chase, so it's going to be a dogfight all the way to Homestead," he said.

6.) Carl Edwards: He finished third at his home track and said rookie mistakes cost him a chance to win. "I tried some stuff on the top, and if I would have stuck to the bottom, we might have had something for them," he said.

7.) Mark Martin: His 35th career win might not be enough to overcome his points loss at Talladega, where he was 41st and lost five spots in the standings. He said the title "probably slipped out of my hands last week."

8.) Matt Kenseth: Starting on the pole, leading 71 laps and finishing fifth didn't improve his prospects for a second Cup championship. He lost one spot in the standings and dropped five points further behind.

9.) Jeremy Mayfield: He ran in the top five for the first half of the race, but his 16th-place finish puts him at a great disadvantage as the seasons nears its end. He said his car was sluggish on restarts.

10.) Kurt Busch: The defending Cup champion overcame an unscheduled pit stop for a flat tire to finish 14th, but because other Chase contenders were ahead of him in the finishing order, he's on the brink of elimination.

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO HELP...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the ninth year, The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland are asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is the WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington is the head coordinator, assisted by several other club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue in her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful. Dora Hanlin has again volunteered to help handle the applications, as she has from the beginning of the program. Her help is invaluable.

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Donations should be postmarked by December 3, 2005. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

TV PIPELINE

Sedgwick gets 'Closer' to a second season

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Kyra Sedgwick

Q: We have really enjoyed the TNT series "The Closer." After the season finale, I didn't hear anything about another season for the show. Please tell me they didn't cancel it! –Susan Zaglauer, North Port, Fla.

A: OK, they didn't cancel it. In fact, the network was so pleased with the initial ratings for the Kyra Sedgwick police drama, it was renewed after only the first couple of episodes had been shown. Fifteen more installments have been ordered for the show's second year; no premiere date had been specified yet at this writing, but we'd expect the new stories to start showing up next spring or early summer.

Q: Is Tracy Smith of the Saturday edition of "The Early Show" related to Harry Smith? –Sheila Barron, Brockton, Mass.

A: Although they both work for CBS News, and basically on the same program – since Harry is one of the weekday "Early Show" anchors – they aren't relatives. However, Harry's wife also is in the broadcasting business; he met sportscaster Andrea Joyce when they worked together at a Denver station in the early 1980s. They have two sons.

Q: I saw the History Channel special "Rome: Engineering an Empire," which featured actor Peter Weller. Did he leave acting to become a university professor? –Mark-Anthony Torres, Long Beach, Calif.

A: No, at least not full time. He's still acting and doing some directing as well, and frankly, we also were surprised to learn he is such an expert on Roman art and architecture. In fact, the "RoboCop" star has a master's degree in Renaissance art history from Syracuse University, and when he isn't working in entertainment, he often returns to the school to conduct seminars and field trips. Reportedly, Weller has applied to several prestigious universities, including Columbia and Princeton, to pursue his doctorate.

Q: Can you tell me if the show "Leave It to Beaver" is, or ever will be, on DVD? My daughter sure does get a kick out of watching it. –Wendy Schmidt, Milwaukee.

A: You have some good news coming. Universal Studios Home Video recently announced that the complete first season of the classic sitcom – with Jerry Mathers as Theodore "Beaver" Cleaver and Tony Dow as his brother, Wally – will be released on disc on Nov. 29.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Cosner, reporter

The September meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held at Yough Glades Elementary School. Old business was the Garrett County Fair. All members reported on their week there, and we discussed our fair booth, which was the champion at the fair.

We also discussed National 4-H Week, which was Oct. 2-8. Until the end of this week, our fair booth will be displayed in the window of Mark IV Office Supply in downtown Oakland.

Members were reminded that fall weigh-in for market steers will be held on Nov. 5 from 8 a.m. until noon and on Nov. 12 from noon until 4 p.m. There will also be a Horse Conference on Nov. 19 at Carroll Community College.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the Cosner family.

Our next meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 730 p.m. We will meet at the new Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad building for a tour and the meeting.

COUNTRY EXPLORERS
by Katelyn Gnegy

The October meeting was recently held at Swan Meadow School. The program for the night was gun safety by Eric Savage.

We had one report, which was about Eric Tichnell's trip to Lafayette, Ill., for the National Lawn and Garden Contest. Eric placed fourth in the competition. The club decided to make a donation to all members who participated in national contests.

The club is collecting money to donate to the Hurricane Katrina relief effort. Members are asked to bring their donations to next month's meeting.

The club is also planning a trip to Washington, D.C.

Trash pick-up was held on Oct. 1, and a Livestock Association meeting and picnic was on Oct. 2.

National 4-H Week was Oct. 2-8. Members who wished to participate in radio announcements met at the radio station.

The Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade is this Saturday, Oct. 15. Anyone who would like to carry a sign should call the Extension Office.

4-H Day is Oct. 22 from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. at the 4-H camp. Those who plan to attend must register by Oct. 15.

The club is selling Joe Corbi pizza and cookie dough.

Club members interested in running for an office need to get a form from Arlene.

Our next meeting is at Swan Meadow School at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 4. The program will be on election, enrollment, and a Christmas craft.

Mt. Top Assembly Slates Viewing Of Left Behind Movie

A viewing of the premiere DVD release of the film Left Behind – World At War is set for 7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 22, and 6 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 23, at the Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God Church, located at 2655 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park.

The film is based on and is a continuation of the first two books in the best-selling Left Behind series of authors Tim LaHaye and Jerry Jenkins, Left Behind and Tribulation Force. World at War is based on the last part of the book Tribulation Force, which tells the story of a world controlled by a self-proclaimed messiah and his One World government, and the coming of World War III.

The 12-book Left Behind series explores a scenario for possible events in the near future, using the New Testament's Book of Revelation as a guide.

The first Left Behind movie release was named "Best Selling Title of the Year by an Independent Studio," and the next film debuted in DVD sales/rentals second only to Spiderman.

There is no admission charge for the screening of World at War, and a free-will offering will be collected. For more information, persons may call the Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God Church at 301-334-8422.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Jamie M. Spano and her fellow shipmates recently returned from a scheduled deployment while assigned to the guided-missile destroyer USS Gonzalez, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

She is the daughter of Melody L. Calderon, Oakland, and Nicholas A. Spano, Cumberland, and a 1998 graduate of Allegany High School. Spano joined the Navy in August 1999.

The USS Gonzalez conducted maritime security operations (MSO) for the 5th Fleet and theater security cooperation for the 6th Fleet while assigned to the Kearsarge Expeditionary Strike Group.

MSO sets the conditions for security and stability in the maritime environment and complements the counter-terrorism and security efforts for regional nations. It further denies international terrorists use of the maritime environment as venue for attack or to transport personnel, weapons, or other material. These operations pressurize the maritime environment by using coalition ships to detect, deter, and deny illegal use of high seas, according to the Navy.

The primary mission of Spano's ship is to provide multi-mission offensive and defensive capabilities. The USS Gonzalez is capable of operating independently or as part of a strike group. Its flexibility provides presence with a purpose and strike power to support joint and allied forces afloat and ashore.

Some homes have a lamppost set away from the house at the place where the front sidewalk meets the road. The lamppost is decorative, but it also serves a purpose. When the sun goes down and it's too dark to see, the light from the lamppost illuminates the path and guides us into our home.

At times, we enter dark periods in our lives and we don't know where to go — we can't see the way ahead of us. We have nothing to guide us. In times like these, we need a light for our path. In Psalm 119:105 we read that God's Word "is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path."

How can we walk in the light of God's Word? Visit God's house of worship and learn about His Word. Find His light to guide you through the darkness; your path will glow!

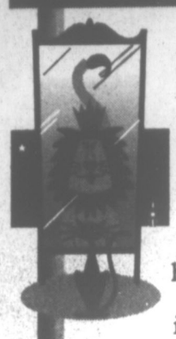
Positive Illusions



A realistic conception of oneself is sometimes considered a hallmark of the mentally healthy person. A person with low self-esteem is someone who devalues themself, or who has a deflated sense of self. Likewise, it is possible to have an inflated sense of self, and we all know how insufferable it is to be around those who think they are better, wiser, funnier, or more likable than they really are. Some people's view of themselves is thus inflated, while others have a deflated sense of self. Most of us have areas of our lives where we are seemingly oblivious to our faults. Current psychological research suggests that there may be some benefit to positive illusions, both about ourselves and others. These positive illusions become self-fulfilling prophecies. That is, we become the people we think we are, and others live up to or down to, the expectations we have of them. So, we should think positively about ourselves and others, and strive to live up to our own expectations.

We are bound to give thanks to God always for you, brethren, as is fitting, because your faith is growing abundantly, and the love of every one of you for one another is increasing.

Natural Supplements For Migraines

Migraine headaches are a common disorder, affecting greater than 10% of the US adult population. Several natural supple-ments are useful in the prevention of migraines. Feverfew, riboflavin, and mag-nesium are recognized as possible pre-ventative treatments by the American Academy of Neurology.

The use of Feverfew (tanacetum parthenium) in doses of 50mg to 100mg for up to four months has been shown to be safe. However, chewing feverfew leaves can cause mouth ulcers, inflammation of the tongue, oral mucosa, and lips, and loss of taste. For this reason, feverfew should be ingested in capsule form. Riboflavin (vitamin B2) in doses of 400mg daily has been shown to reduce the frequency but not the severity or duration of migraines. High doses of riboflavin can cause diarrhea and frequent urination; however, usual doses are typically well-tolerated. Magnesium levels are low in some who suffer with migraines. Magnes-ium supplementation may decrease the fre-quency and severity of migraine attacks in those who have low magnesium levels.

Fleas, Fleas, Fleas!

DEAR PAWS CORNER: Thank you for the information on getting rid of fleas around the house. I, too, have had a terrible time clearing up the flea infestation we had after adopting our Springer mix, "Lucky." Hopefully with the suggestions from you and your readers, we'll be flea-free once and for all! — Emily L., Valdosta, Ga.

DEAR EMILY: You're welcome! And remember, as the weather cools down, the peak season for fleas will cool down, too. Still, pet owners should continue to regularly vacuum rugs and furniture — at least once a week if not more — to pick up flea eggs, as well as dander and other allergy triggers that can become worse in a house that's been closed up and insulated against winter's chill.

Kimberly D. e-mailed this note about a flea powder mentioned in a recent column: "The 'Flea Stoppers' that Janis in South Carolina was referring to is called 'Flea Busters.' My old vet used to sell it, and he explained that it was a powder of super-finely ground glass and borax, so there are no chemicals. The super-finely ground glass cuts the fleas' bodies, and then the borax irritates them to death. The glass powder is so finely ground that it looks like baby powder, and it does not irritate the skin of humans, cats or dogs.

"The stuff works great! I put it down once a year, and I never put chemicals, flea collars or drops on my cats or dog. Some stores do sell it (but not Petsmart), or you can also buy it online at www.fleabuster.com. I agree with Janis — it is the best! You'll never see them again."

Maryland's Mining Legacy From "Pre-Law" Days Leaves Its Scars

by Chris Landers
Capital News Service

The mountains of Western Maryland are honeycombed with mine tunnels, remnants of a coal industry that once thrived here. The companies that dug the mines have long since made their fortune and moved on, but the tunnels remain, creating problems that could haunt the area for centuries to come.

A clear line divides the "bad old days" of mining from the new, heavily regulated mines of today.

John E. Carey, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, calls the old mines "pre-law" – a reference to the 1977 federal act that forced companies to reseed and reforest the areas they have mined as they move along a mountain. That act, along with state laws, put a big stick in the hands of Carey and his inspectors. They can revoke a permit, even put a company out of business, if they don't comply with regulations.

Today's companies have to clean up their messes. As Carey put it, "they're on the hook forever."

That still leaves the miles of tunnels, abandoned in some cases, for decades. Water running through the mines picks up minerals from the "gob," or unusable rock, the miners left behind. When the water merges into local streams and creeks, its orange-red water is acidic and poisonous to fish and wildlife.

Carey can treat the discharge, but he can't stop it. Mechanical "dosers" discharge lime into the water, balancing the pH levels, but the balance is a delicate one, and sometimes, something in the mountain moves and changes everything.

That's what happened in August near Barton, where the McDonald Mine discharges into George's Creek.

Abandoned since the 1940s, the mine has steadily discharged a stream of acidic water, which was treated at the outfall with lime for the past four years. Carey said they had seen dramatic successes, including a lively fishery downstream.

Then on Aug. 23 the stream suddenly and inexplicably increased its flow and its acidity, overwhelming the lime doser and killing everything for four miles downstream, poisoning the water up to the point where the stream is diluted by the Potomac River.

Carey is an avid outdoorsman – a hunter who would just as soon watch the deer as shoot them, if he didn't like venison so much. Looking at the dark water joining the idyllic creek, he called it "heartbreaking."

"Everything goes fine for a few years, and you think you've got it," he said. "Then Mother Nature just laughs."

Carey said the bureau is still investigating the cause of the increased flow, but he thinks they may never know for sure. Something shifted deep in the old mine – a roof falling in maybe, or a makeshift dam giving way. There was an increased flow here in 1991, he said, and eventually it subsided. There are already signs the current overflow may do the same, but the problem is made worse by drought — there just isn't enough water in the creek to dilute the acid discharge.

Eventually he says, the minerals will all leech out, but "not in my lifetime." Acidic discharge from a tunnel nearby has been monitored for a hundred years, and there has been a decrease in acidity. It could be 100, even 200, years before the water runs clean.

At a nearby site, family-owned Tri-Star Mining digs into a stump of Pittsburgh coal. Different veins of coal – the layers that stretch through the mountains – have distinctive names, so old that no one seems to know their origin. If coal brought miners to Maryland, the Pittsburgh vein was, and remains, the holy grail.

Pittsburgh coal is such a high grade that it exceeds what power plants need to run their generators. Tri-Star will mix a lower grade of coal with it before shipping it, according to Tri-Star engineer Ralph Mongold. The vein ran 15 feet deep in some places. It is so valu-

SWANTON

MAKE DOUGHNUTS, APPLE BUTTER

Swanton residents assisted with doughnut making at the Springs Folk Festival this past weekend.

Usually about 10 batches of doughnuts, with each batch yielding 38 dozen doughnuts, are sold each day of the festival; however, because of bad weather conditions the number sold was about six batches each day. It takes from 15 to 20 people to make the doughnuts each day. Swanton residents have been assisting with this for nearly 30 years.

Some 2,000 gallons of apple butter were made and sold at the recent Burlington Apple Harvest Festival, where Swanton residents also assisted.

Help For Those Who Suffer From Lupus

People with lupus produce abnormal antibodies in their blood which target tissues within their own body. This chronic inflammatory condition can affect the skin, heart, lungs, kidneys, joints, and nervous system. No treatment completely cures systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE), but many therapies can suppress symptoms and relieve discomfort. Treatment depends on the severity of the disease.

Drugs known as immunosuppressants are often used, either alone or with steroids for very active lupus. Azathioprine has the lowest toxicity but is also less effective than others. Methotrexate is helpful for patients with moderate lupus. Cyclophosphamide was considered the gold standard of treatment until recently. Mycophenolate mofetil is now becoming the new gold standard. This immunosuppressant shows particular effectiveness for complications in the kidney and causes less infection and diarrhea than other agents. Studies in 2003 and 2004 have shown that in patients with severe kidney involvement, CellCept is as effective as daily cyclophosphamide and superior to monthly cyclophosphamide therapy. Patients may receive CellCept as an initial treatment, or may be given it once remission has been achieved first by another drug.
